It's common sense to be thrifty. If you save you are thrifty. War Bonds help you to save and help to save America. Buy your ten per cent every pay day.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Winter flying jackets for both the Army and Navy Air Corps are regular equipment for our aviators. They cost from $12 to $18 and are made of horsehide leather lined with sheep shearling.

Purchase of one $18.75 War Bond, for which you receive $25 in 10 years, will pay for one of these jackets so necessary for our airmen flying at high altitudes and in northern climes. So you and your neighbors can do your bit by investing at least 10 percent of your salary every pay day in War Bonds to help pay the cost of this equipment for intrepid American flyers. Join the parade, and help top the War Bond Quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department

A scout car is a low-slung motor car armored with heavy steel plate, used to transport troops from one point to another. It is of low silhouette and gives protection against machine gun and other ground fire. A scout car costs $5,000.

You and your neighbors joining together can buy one of these vehicles for the Ordnance Department of our army with your purchase of War Bonds. We need hundreds of them and need them quickly. Put at least ten percent of your wages or income into War Bonds every pay day and help your fellow Americans top the War Bond quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $800. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick. *U. S. REPUBLICAN PICNIC AND RALLY PLANNED

Republicans of Northern Indiana will stage a great picnic and rally at the Limberlost Music Camp on Oliver Lake, LaGrange County, Thursday afternoon and evening, August 13, according to plans announced this week by District Chairman Roy J. Jorg.

A large number of Republicans from this county are planning to attend the big outdoor meeting, which is being sponsored by the Fourth District Republican organization in co-operation with the State Central Committee.

Light refreshments will be served throughout the day at the camp cafeteria, but guests are advised to bring picnic lunches. The Limberlost Camp is located between Wolcotville and LaGrange, just off State Road Nine.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The person who borrowed my step ladder and long ladder from my barn, will please return them at once as I am needing same. Ed Leighty. 32t1p.

JACKSON—TIMMERMAN REUNION

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rickett, west of St. Joe, Sunday was the scene of an unusually pleasant gathering of relatives and friends. The event being the annual home coming. Clearing skies of the morning rain helped to make the day an ideal one, and 55 attended, the oldest guest being 82 years of age and the youngest three months old.

The carry-in dinner was delicious and enjoyed by the merry crowd, and despite the sugar shortage there was plenty of Angel food and other varieties of cake.

In the afternoon the young men enjoyed a game of horse shoe, the girls went joy-riding and the older folk enjoyed a good old fashioned visit. Later thanking their host and hostess for their hospitality, goodbyes were said and the guests departed for their homes.

The meeting next year will be with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cameron at Fort Wayne.

AUTO USE TAX STAMP

There has been some misunderstanding concerning the sale of the auto use tax stamps. The $5.00 stamp for the year ending June 30, 1943 will no longer be on sale in the post offices. They will be on sale only at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, Indianapolis. Purchase may be made by mail and remittance must be by cash, certified check, or Post Office money order. The various post offices will, however, continue to sell the current stamps, that is, they will sell the stamps for the month of August on a pro-rated basis for each month during the balance of the fiscal year.

The law requires that a stamp be purchased before an auto is used on the public highway. Failure to do this renders the violator subject to a fine of $25.00 or 30 days imprisonment, or both.

LOST LIFE IN SPENCERVILLE GRAVEL PIT

Unable to swim, Ted Wolf, 18-year-old farm youth of Rt. 1, Auburn, drowned shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when he stepped off a ledge into 35 feet of water at a Spencerville gravel pit owned by Dr. B. O. Shook of Spencerville.

The youth entered the water with Morris Woodring of Spencerville, who can swim. Woodring attempted in vain to rescue his companion. He summoned aid, but it was not until almost three hours later that State Policeman William Hunter, of Auburn, located the body with a grappling hook.

An inquest was held by Deputy Frank R. Bowman, of St. Joe. The body was taken to the Walter funeral home and later to the Dilgard funeral home in Auburn. It was returned to the residence two miles east of Auburn late Monday afternoon.

Services were held at 2 P. M. Tuesday at the Dilgard funeral home. Rev. George Brannon, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Auburn, officiated and burial was made in Circle Cemetery at Hudson.

The Wolf youth was graduated from the Auburn high school only last spring. He was active in the Future Farmers organization and a junior leader in the county 4-H work.

He resided with his mother, Mrs. Lucile Metcalf, and his stepfather, Cliff Metcalf, on a farm east of Auburn. Other survivors include the father, Wayne E. Wolf, of Ft. Wayne; two sisters, Betty and Gwendolyn, both at home two half-brothers, Norman and Marvin Wolf, of Fort Wayne, and a half sister, Sharon Wolf, also of Fort Wayne.

WILLIAMS COUNTY FAIR SEPTEMBER 15-19

With the signing of Paul Spor, and Hogan Hancock, noted theatrical producer, who will bring some sensational attractions to the Williams County Fair this year, for the fair are complete, G. V. Lockhart, secretary, announced this week. This year's celebration will be held Sept. 15-19.

In addition to the entertainment features the program will contain the finest exhibits in agriculture, dairying, cattle, sheep and other livestock displays, 4-H Club accomplishments, domestic exhibits and a full quota of ideal fair amusements.

The largest racing card ever to be presented on the local track will include 42 heats, for which will be offered a $4,000 purse and trophies for the winners.

A day-by-day prevue of the fair reveals that:

On Sunday afternoon the county ministerial association wil sponsor the usual church service, with the Montpelier accordion group providing the music; the service will be held in the evening.

Wednesday, Sept. 16, Children's Day, the school program will be held both afternoon and evening. A nationally known clown from Mr. Spor's office will be on hand and the famous 20th Century Canine Revue has also been scheduled.

To cap the show, both afternoon and evening, the Los Aeros troupe, renowned high act thrill artists, will appear. They will be featured for the entire week.

Sixteen racing heats will lead the program at the Thursday and Friday exhibitions. Entertainment will be crowded between the heats. Two of the best knock-out commedienes are slated to be here; Smith's Tenneseeans, a radio name band from WSPD will supply diverting music. Music Corporation of America's fine horse act will provide a full quota of amusement.

Thursday and Friday evening Bernie Cummins' orchestra and M. C. A.'s stage show will be on the platform presenting eight first class acts.

Fun and thrills will climax the Saturday show. Races are again featured in the afternoon as are several comedy acrobatic and stage novelties.

For Saturday evening the management has contracted for the Lewis Brothers 3-ring circus which will appeal to all kids from 6 to 60.

At the close of the circus Miss Williams County will be selected from among the young ladies of the community who have entered the beauty contest, arranged by Mr. Spor, in connection with the fair promotion. The contest, a new departure in entertainment at fairs, is open to all girls of Williams County, and girls themselves, or their friends, may make the entries.

Men in the service will be given special consideration this year. They will be admitted to the fair and the grandstand free of charge every day of the fair, Mr. Lockhart said. And the coast guard will have a recruiting station for all young men interested in learning more about that branch of the service.

Mansfield—Smith Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mansfield of near Newville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Bea, to Kenneth B. Smith, of northwest of Auburn, June 29, at Albion, Ind. The young couple will engage in farming and they have the best wishes of their many friends in their communities.

A card has been received from Mrs. Ruth E. Key stating that they are moving to 627 Ferguson Ave., Wood River, Ill., where Dick is serving a church as its pastor. She stated also that she would be in this vicinity the last of the week visiting Louis Washler's and other friends.

FISHERMEN, ADVICE

Some of the bushy streamer flies which you have found useful for trout fishing, can also be good for bass lures. Fish them for bass just as for trout. You can use the streamers larger than trout size for bass if you want to try them. Remember that where three or four large rocks are bunched in the water of medium depth, you might find as a hiding place for small-mouth bass. Drop your bait here and sit tight it may be better here than in deeper holes.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for August

Washington, D. C., August 5.—While maintaining a tentative annual level of twelve billion dollars as its goal, the Treasury Department today fixed the August quota for the sale of War Bonds at $815,000,000 as shown by the accompanying map by states.

In lowering the quota from a billion dollars in July to $815,000,000 in August, the Treasury has given recognition to certain factors which may be expected to result in variations in sales over the 12-month period, such as the seasonal character of farm income.

These factors have been taken into account in determining each state's share for the national quota for August and will be given consideration in fixing quotas for subsequent months.

In addition to the state quotas as set out in the map there is a federal payroll allotment quota of $9,750,000 and territorial quotas as follows: Alaska, $700,000; Canal Zone, $213,000; Hawaii, $4,300,000; Puerto Rico, $440,000 and the Virgin Islands, $17,000.

CALL OF THE WILDERNESS

Cast: Featuring that famous dog star, Caesar.

Call of the Wilderness presents an amazing adventure story of animal life in the primitive unconquered regions of America's great Northwest. It shows the depredations of the ferocious American mountain lion, which is also sometimes known as the puma or cougar, is fast being exterminated and at the present rate of destruction cannot possibly survive. The reason for this destruction is mostly through the avenging hand of cattlemen and sheepherders, whose flocks and herds are constantly in danger from this beast, in certain parts of the United States and Canada. This is acclaimed the best film since "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

Mrs. Lloyd Miller, of Hudson, Mich., M. H. Andress, Mrs. Neva Hursh, Margaret Wisler and daughter, were dinner guests in the Pluma Hamilton home Tuesday evening.

AUGUST

An adventure we take into August, a poem of days, a flight in fancy and fledglings and finches, cat-tails and milkweed, pollen and waving grain, chattering of song-birds and singing of children, babbling of brooks and shadows on pines and porches. Comes the busy grubs into the garden, the rain on the roof to cool off the air and make of a hot summer day a song. The dew in the morning is wet and sweet to the feet, the sound of lawn mower is a melody of labor turned into a stretch of soft, clipped greenery that beckons the lazy to stretch and rest. Color rampant with birds, flowers and sunset to accompany the wake of dusk that steals into the night. All is aglow to bring riches of nature into the life of everyone who will see and revel in the glory of an August summer day.

PANAMA CANAL

We celebrate the birthday of many famous men, of noted incidents and dates, and in doing so mark for posterity the anniversarys of memorable dates of our nation's history. The date, August 15, 1914, is to be remembered this year as it marks the opening of the Panama Canal, that important link between Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, the important commercial waterway that is of vital meaning to every American today. For 400 years they dreamed of such a project but many years ensued before the dream was a reality. Conditions make it necessary to heavily guard and protect the canal against our enemy. It is a link in our national defense since our ships no longer must round Cape Horn to go from one ocean to another. Cargoes go to Europe through this channel, in peace time we carry manufactured goods, petroleum, canned goods, fresh and dried fruits from coast to coast for the purpose of trade and transportation. We salute the Panama Canal, we offer a toast on its anniversary. May it live long and prosper this country.

A WARNING

It is timely to warn parents that the months of August and September find infantile paralysis at its highest peak of communication. Known as poliomyelitis to some, it stands for all as a horrible disease, most commonly occurring in children and injuring the nervous system too often beyond human repair. At one time we were sure that the germ came from the nose or throat, though so small it couldn't be seen without the most powerful microscope, its power so potent that it spread from body to body. However, science has discovered that it can be spread through sewage and even by insects. Parents are warned to watch for symptoms that are often difficult to find, but watch a fever, an irritable or drowsy patient and one who complains of a stiff neck. It may be nothing severe, but St. Joe parents aren't going to carelessly overlook the symptoms until too late, and if in doubt consult our local physician.

'TAINT RIGHT!

There was a boon to our civilization when the phonograph was produced and recorded music became the enjoyment of countless millions of people everywhere. They could have it in their homes and when radio came along the transcribed programs increased the field of music appreciation. It has been a great pleasure and we are all grateful that such entertainment has been made possible. With the increased development of recorded music there has been, consequently, an increase in employment for thousands of musicians.

Just recently, through union interference, a disaster faces the field of transcribed and recorded music. Seems that a labor leader, through a ruling, outlaws transcribed music, threatens the broadcasting industry's production and in effect, brings on the heads of musicians a law forbidding them to do any thing but produce what they call 'live shows,' that is, outlawing labor-saving machinery and denying much good music to radio listeners. It follows that instead of increasing labor for musicians it reduces it, since radio programs rarely use 'live shows' except on coast to coast hook-ups. Of course if you happen to live in a large city you are still going to enjoy good concerts but if you have enjoyed your music through transcriptions this new decree will be felt severely. Too bad to stand in the way of the pleasure of millions for the selfish interest of a few.

FRIENDSHIP

Friendship presents a nice, neat little story in life, despite the fact that the subject has been over discussed in society and the press. It is known to be the finest accomplishment of all fine arts, especially, the social fine arts of personal contact.

Its variations and spice is due to the broadness made possible by the great variations found in the unique array of personalities, that swings wide its endless scope.

Those who come by the art, naturally, are lucky. Those who have wisely developed the art, are rightly called plucky.

Poets and prosaics find no difficulty in uniting all minds, enthusiastically and reverently, in the bonds of discussion and mediation.

He who said, "a friend in need, is a friend indeed," did so in the spontaneous exaltation of friendship's gold and silver lining called attributes.

Friendship generates reliable public sentiment and minimizes critical public sentiment creating displeasure and idle suspicion.

Friendship is the art that has put the new, true and the blue in the Stars and Stripes, punctuated by all the virtues that are symbolized by the remaining colors of the red and the white.

Friendship ushers in the living wisdom of right and light, giving away to none of the powers of fright and night.

Friendship travels the road of the second mile, turning the other cheek as a down payment for a returned smile. Friendship creats its own demand. Those who practice it never starve, socially, from the lack of it.

Friendship neither gives in or even gives out, wears a smile and not a pout. Friendship is a ship that never springs a leak, of the many things that others speak.

Friendship is never short but always sweet. Friendship, thou are like thy twin brother, Consistency. Thou art also a jewel!—Contributed.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

About two million miles were saved in June this year over June last year by Indiana delivery carriers. That means approximately 250 new tires. That means a contribution to the war effort by retailers and customers alike, because the deliveries were rationed by the Office of Defense Transportation. It means also that the war is rapidly catching up with the civilian in many ways. There'll be more.

The war is catching up with business, too, in many ways. The War Production Board now asks Indiana businesses and industries to surrender about one fifth of their typewriters. The armed forces need 600,000 typewriters, built in 1935 or later, for combat service. That means Indiana's share is about 33,000.

Business executives are asked to survey their typewriter supplies, and to find ways and means of producing as much work on 20 per cent fewer. The machines thus freed should be sold to regular dealers and agencies to be turned over to the armed forces.

There are many uses for typewriters in the armed forces, not the least of which is to make battle reports, requisition supplies, and carry on the other military business. It will be patriotic of businesses to some how double up and sell surplus typewriters to the government.

By way of warning: The State Police have turned in reports of speeders and other drivers who were unnecessarily injuring tires to the Office of Price Administration. These reports have gone to the local War Price and Rationing Boards. They have been informed that they may take such reports into consideration when drivers come up for new tires or recaps.

In June, almost a million Americans — men, women, youth—joined the army of production in factories, shipyards, offices and on the farm. In June, the War Production Board said, our output of ships and tanks and planes and guns, of ammunition and campaign equipment was almost three times that of last November.

These reports are good news and we have need of good news just now when Nazi tanks pitch and lumber thru the ripe wheat fields of the Ukraine in a drive which threatens the great city of Stalingrad on the Volga, a city which means to the Russians what Kansas City means to us.

None of us, at such a time, would be foolish enough to under estimate the strength and the ferocity and determination of our enemies. And none would deny that the times call for whatever measure of sacrifice may be necessary to defeat these enemies. And yet today the outlook in the long view is more encouraging than ever before. Our enemies may gain victory after victory and yet we are building the instruments of their destruction, we shall overwhelm them by sheer weight of weapons and of manpower in the end.

That statement about our output of war material in June was drawn from a report on war production made to the American people last week by the War Production Board. It was a cautious report. WPB chairman, Donald M. Nelson said "boasting" about our progress would be "premature" and that there was no excuse for "undue optimism."

It is true that the biggest part of our job is still ahead of us and yet it is heartening to realize that we made more war planes in the first six months of this year than during all of 1941 and three and a half times as many anti-aircraft guns. That we built more tanks in that period than in the whole of last year and that our output of machine tools and other types of machinery which makes the machines of war was 98 per cent above the figure for the first six months of last year.

Even more encouraging, in view of our losses in the Battle of the Atlantic, is the fact that our production of merchant ships—the ships which must carry our weapons to the fighting fronts—was 135 per cent greater than for the whole of 1941.

And still we have to do better than that, we have not only to maintain production on this scale, we must increase it to yet greater heights. This means that we must continue to funnel every available bit of manpower and womanpower into essential war production work that is not needed for the armed services. The number of jobs filled by public employment offices in June was double that of two years ago and yet it must go higher if we are to have the production army we need.

On our own food front foods not under OPA control have risen sharply in price during the past few months. Lamb, for instance, the price of which is not controlled, went up more than 10 per cent between mid-May and mid-June and roasting chickens went up nearly 9 per cent in the same period. Apples, which aren't controlled, went up 25 per cent in that period and this fruit now sells at prices 50 per cent above those of last March. On the other hand, the price of controlled beef, veal and pork, fell off and prices or other foods which are under the price ceilings either remained steady or dropped. Price Administrator Leon Henderson says that government control of price and rents where they are in effect are doing a good job of holding down the cost of living, but that uncontrolled prices show a definite tendency toward dangerously high levels. Nevertheless, Henderson said, "The President's program will prevail and the battle against inflation will be won."

The township trustees of DeKalb County, the county commissioners, county assessor and county agent and their families held their annual picnic at Circle Park, Hamilton Lake, Wednesday. Dode Houlton, trustee of Franklin township, made the arrangements. A basket dinner was served at noon and the trustees held their monthly meeting.

Mrs. Franc Wiers reports that her granddaughter, Carol Sue, swallowed a white headed pin last Friday. She was rushed to Dr. DeMuth at Hicksville where an X-ray was taken and found that it passed into the stomach. A second picture showed the pin had passed into the bowels. The little one frets at times and when she has forgotten about the incident plays quite happily.

The August meeting of the Farm Bureau was held at the gym on Tuesday evening, with a small group present. Mrs. Horace Meek was the acting chairman. After a song service Rev. L. B. Sharp had the devotions, stressing the fact that all things of God are revealed through the spirit. Miss Sylvia Washler played several selections on the guitar and sang. The roll call response was "What I am thankful for." Refreshments of fruit salad and cookies were served.

Among the men to make up the August quota for the Army from DeKalb County will be four from this community as follows: Wayne D. Nicholls, Norman D. Ayers, St. Joe, and Harold H. Hudson and George W. Dancer, of Spencerville.

War Department figures show that today's average soldier is nearly an inch taller and ten pounds heavier than in 1917.

That's a great gain for one generation. We're glad our industry helped build Bill's husky frame.

While food experts were discovering new vitamins and better diets for Bill, electric research was working out ways to refrigerate his food so it would be fresher, safer, cheaper.

While doctors were developing new serums and new drugs, electric laboratories were improving X-rays, diathermy lamps, etc.

Even before Bill was born, electric servants freed his mother from much of the work of washing, cleaning, cooking—so she and her children could be healthier, happier.

Actually, these advances can be credited to the American Way of work—free men producing the things that other men want and need—for everybody's benefit.

The electric industry grew this way. A few men organized a company. Many men invested their savings. Good business management multiplied jobs, extended service, lowered rates.

Today, the average American home pays only 10c a day for all electric service—and gets about twice as much electricity for that dime as it did 10 to 15 years ago. And America's booming war industries have the world's greatest electric power supply on tap!

FT. WAYNE JAIL BREAKER CAUGHT EAST OF ST. JOE

Harold Yeiser and Robert Ridgway Recognize Pedestrian as one of Gang and Call Officers Resulting in Apprehension of McCoy.

Schondelmayer and Coyle Make Prompt Arrest

Walter J. McCoy, 40, an escaped prisoner from the Allen County jail, armed with a .45 calibre automatic revolver, was captured Friday night about 7 o'clock by Sheriff Artus Coyle, aided by Marshal Reign Schondelmayer, of St. Joe.

Later McCoy slashed his throat in the DeKalb County jail in an attempt at suicide, but he was not seriously hurt and was taken to the Fort Wayne jail Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Harold Yeiser, 17, and Robert Ridgway, 16, had been east in the Yeiser car and were crossing the B. & O. railroad at the Hadsell crossing when a man appeared on the tracks headed east. In crossing the boys both thought they had recognized the fellow from pictures published, as one of the five men who made their escape from the county jail at Fort Wayne.

Though McCoy's face was covered by a several days' beard and his disheveled clothing made him look unlike the natty appearance he made in the photograph and which he made when he escaped this instantly aroused their suspicions.

"That fellow looks something like one of those guys that broke out of the Allen County Jail whose picture was in The News-Sentinel," said Harold.

"He sure does," agreed Robert.

"Let's hurry and tell dad," said Harold.

Driving a little faster than usual, they hurried to the St. Joe Filling Station where Harold told his father, W. D. Yeiser of their suspicions. He called the sheriff at Auburn and Marshal Schondelmayer at once, and within a few minutes the two officers were together and then started east to take their victim into custody, where he was seen walking on the B. & O. tracks about two miles east of St. Joe. The officers parked their car and waited for the stranger to get to a suitable place before walking onto him.

"Hello, Mac," Sheriff Coyle said. McCoy was surprised at being greeted with his nickname and he replied, "You don't know me." At the same time he reached for his right hand front trousers pocket. The sheriff cautioned him not to use a gun, adding "I've got the jump on you."

WALTER J. McCOY
Courtesy News-Sentinel

The officers were ready to shoot if necessary. He identified himself and assured McCoy that he knew who he was. Just then the east bound Capitol Limited approached at high speed and the men had to jump from the tracks. The sheriff held his revolver in readiness and stood between McCoy and the train. After the train passed, the officers searched McCoy and took his gun, which had been stolen from the Allen County jail arsenal. McCoy was handcuffed and admitted his identity.

This was Marshal Schondelmayer's first arrest since being sworn into office a few weeks ago at St. Joe, and it proved to be a real thrill when he snapped the handcuffs onto McCoy, who has a notorious record.

After McCoy had been placed in the county jail at Auburn, the sheriff searched him, even examining the soles of his shoes, and found nothing that the prisoner could use to advantage. Then Mr. Coyle telephoned to Sheriff Walter Felger at Fort Wayne and Felger made a trip to Auburn, accompanied by four deputies. McCoy told the officers that he and Raymond W. Beebe, 22, who McCoy claimed was the leader of the jail break, had walked up the G. R. & I. tracks towards Avilla and that he had left Beebe in a woods west of that town. In the meantime Sheriff Coyle gave McCoy a meal, which he seemed to greatly appreciate, as he had eaten little since he left Fort Wayne Tuesday. He then went to bed, being confined to an individual cell.

McCoy had stopped at Concord on his way east and had asked Mrs. Hattie Draggoo for money. Going on east until he came to the B. & O. tower, he took the left road and stopped at the Walter Reinhart home, where he was given a big supper. He passed on through St. Joe without much notice, although we did learn that he was seen at the mill crossing but without being recognized.

Sheriff Coyle and the Allen County officers made a trip to Avilla and searced the vicinity, but could find no trace of Beebe. They were aided by Avilla Marshal Michaels. Returning to Auburn, Sheriff Felger intended to take McCoy back to Fort Wayne. Sheriff McCoy awakened McCoy and told him to get ready. McCoy remarked that he would do so and Mr. Coyle left him. However, McCoy did not make his appearance and Mr. Coyle went back to his cell. He found him leaning over the toilet, bleeding from a gash in his throat, and with a piece of a safety razor blade lying on the cell cot.

Added significance was noted in a piece of paper which had been found in his coat pocket on which was written "In case of death notify my brother" giving a Cincinnati, O., address.

Dr. D. M. Hines was summoned and McCoy was taken to the Dr. Bonnell Souder Hospital in the Gerig ambulance. It was found that the wound was not deep and was about two inches long, on the right side of the throat. It is not known where McCoy got the razor blade.

No anaesthesia was used and none was needed for McCoy was unconscious from loss of blood. Sheriff Felger held him while the surgeons worked quickly to sew up the shashed vein and stanch the spurting blood.

Upon his companion with whom he had been hiding out and eluding capture for four days McCoy heaped all the blame for conceiving the jail break plot and directing every phase of it.

"Beebe engineered the whole thing from beginning to end," said McCoy, who declared that Beebe unlocked the jail arsenal and got the automatic pistol after obtaining a ring of keys from the jailer's desk in the jail office.

He would not explain why he and not Beebe had the weapon when they parted Friday afternoon. He declared that they were near Avilla when the parting took place.

"Beebe was getting too tough for me," said McCoy, hinting that Beebe suggested holdups and more desperate criminal escapades which he said he was not in favor of.

He declared that he feared capture would inevitably result if they departed from the cautious game of hideout and furtive sporadic flight which they played successfully for 4 days after the break.

He said that Beebe was getting more desperate all the time.

McCoy said that he and Beebe paired off immediately after the break and denied knowing anything of the plans of the other three involved in the jailbreak.

The prisoner said they carefully avoided the public highways and traveled on foot along the railroad right-of-way, usually at night.

They also refrained from trying to steal rides on trains, knowing that railroad detectives would be on the lookout for them. When they would see anybody approaching along the railroad tracks they would hide in the woods, he said.

He said they had been traveling back and forth in the Northern Indiana territory, hiding out much of the time waiting for the intensive search for them near here to be abandoned.

McCoy told the officers that he and Beebe had spent both Wednesday and Thursday night in a shed along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad right-of-way.

Authorities state that McCoy has the longest criminal record of any prisoner arrested in Fort Wayne in recent years. Dating back to 1914 he has been in constant touch with the law, and his record shows numerous listings for "wanted" in various cities.

Sheriff Felger highly complimented the two St. Joe boys who brought about McCoy's capture and wrote them letters commending them.

"You know we get most of our best tips from boys," said the sheriff in commenting on the detective ability of the boys. "Boys always catch license numbers, note in detail how persons are clothed and can always tell you how many there are in a car."

FIGHTING PILOT

Cast: Richard Talmadge, Gertrude Messinger, Robert Frazer, Eddie Davis, Victor Mace, Wm. Humphrey, Rafael Storm, Jack Cheatham.

FIGHTING PILOT is a high-power, roaring-action melodrama, crammed with adventure, romance and comedy, with a hero fighting against great odds in order to achieve his objects—the winning of a girl's love and defeat of plotting foreigners to obtain United States Government secrets. Fighting in the air is a mighty risky business any way you look at it. But when it has to be done, the least the average aviator might expect would be to have a plane under him, in the stability of which he could trust.

Toward the close of Fighting Pilot, the star and his pal, Berty, scour the desert in pursuit of certain criminals and locate their quarry at a lonely airport. But before they can descend, two of the thugs come up in an airship and battle ensues, which for suspense and nerve-racking moments is as spectacular as anything of this kind ever filmed.

The crux of the affair is that the Talmadge plane is a crazy old boat, which may crack up at any moment, whereas their adversaries' craft is of the latest design, perfectly equipped. Anybody can see the difference between the fighting machines, and this fact adds to the thrilling intensity of the situation. The termination of the combat is as dramatic as it is unexpected, and never fails to bring the cheering applause it deserves from the audience.

LARGE BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Kenneth E. Miller, an Allen County farmer, living 3½ miles southeast of Spencerville, suffered a severe loss on Thursday night of last week, when his large barn, 60x80 feet, was completely destroyed by fire, including 70 bushels of oats, 2 year crop of hay, shed, hog house and practically all his farm machinery.

A corn crib standing 10 feet from the barn which was about 8x16 feet, and two-thirds filled with old corn, was saved by the excellent work of the St. Joe fire department. The Grabill department also arrived later and assisted in fighting the flames.

The son and daughter of the Millers had gone to the barn to do the milking. One of them thought they could smell smoke. The electric light in the mow was switched on and the son went up the ladder to see what was wrong. When he neared the light, sparks fell to the hay mow, where newly threshed straw had been blown that afternoon. The flames spread rapidly, burning the arms of the son badly.

The alarm was spread but in only a few minutes the entire barn was in flames. The barn doors below were open on both sides of the drive-in, giving the flames a draft. The property was covered with insurance and a $2,500 settlement was made for the loss. Plans for rebuilding are being made for this fall.

Mr. Miller was confined to his bed until Monday of this week, as a result of a nervous shock due to the seriousness of his loss.

A like fire occurred 40 years ago on this same farm, when a grass fire got beyond control and destroyed the barn here.

Mrs. Miller is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Soule, of St. Joe, and they spent a few days at the farm helping to shape things up so they can take care of their live stock.

FRED HART TAKEN TO ANN ARBOR HOSPITAL

Fred Hart was taken to Ann Arbor, Friday, where he was given several examinations for injuries. You will remember The News stating two weeks ago that Fred was accosted by a buck sheep, while milking one evening, and was thrown over against the manger so hard that he passed out for a time. Mrs. Hart helped him to the house later, but they did not think seriously of the affair at the time.

Severe pains began to develop later in the back of his head, and for days he was treated with ice packs. No relief was received so the family decided to go to the hospital. Glen Hart, who lives at Goshen, came and he with his mother, took Fred to Ann Arbor.

We learned this week that they operated on Fred Sunday evening at 9 o'clock removing the blood clot just back of his left ear, and that he was resting much easier than any time before. The family and friends feel that Fred will soon be able to be brought home.

MORTUARY

KOSHT

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Krabill-Kosht, was born in Ashland County, Ohio, on January 24, 1861, and departed this life on August 6, 1942 at the age of 81 years, 6 months and 12 days. She moved to DeKalb County at the age of three years, living here the remainder of her life.

She was united in marriage to Simon Peter Kosht on May 4, 1844. To this union were born one son, David R., and one daughter Anna, both of whom survive their parents, together with four grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Death came as the result of a broken hip some three weeks prior, and because of her age and physical weakness, was unable to withstand the shock. She was a member of the Church of Christ at Newville where funeral services were held last Sunday at 2:30, with a short service at the home at 1:45, conducted by Rev. Joseph Ferguson, of east of Auburn. Interment was made on the family lot in the Newville Cemetery.

But though the road was steep and long
And through a strange and lonely land
God set upon her lips a song
And put a lantern in her hand.

Card of Thanks

We express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown in the illness and death of our mother.—David R. Kosht, Anna Mae Hindman.

Mrs. Harriett Oberlin and daughter are home from Fort Wayne preparing for school. They spent several weeks in Fort Wayne with Miles, who is working at Patterson & Fletcher store.

Mrs. Josie Shilling celebrated her 83rd birthday anniversary Sunday. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Lela Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. Curtice Northrup and son, of Fort Wayne, were dinner gutsts. Mrs. Shilling is enjoying remarkable health for one of her years. She is active and faithful to her home and church duties. May she live to enjoy more years.

WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR AUG

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, today announced the August War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation totalling $815,000,000.

The August quota for the State of Indiana is $19,000,000.

In arriving at the county quotas for August the Treasury Department took into consideration major factors affecting incomes which in turn cause significant variations in sales during the twelve-month period.

Hereafter actual Bond sales in the various states will be compared with quotas on a cumulative basis. The amount by which sales fall short of or exceed quotas in any month will be added to or subtracted from quotas for future months.

Quotas by counties are:

Adams, $86,300; Allen, $1,100,000. Bartholomew, $118,500; Benton, $44,400; Blackford, $64,500; Boone, $77,500; Brown, $9,300. LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Mrs. Etta Hull spent over the week-end with Auburn relatives.

Wilbur Yeiser and family left Saturday night for a week, to be spent at Hamilton Lake.

Mrs. Barbara Schuster of Fort Wayne, is here spending the week in the G. E. Lamle home, 3½ miles west of town.

Robert Ridgway dropped a 30 pound cake of ice on his right foot last week with severe injuries. He is about but not working.

Wendell Messimer, 5, son of Erby and Mrs. Messimer, of St. Joe, was admitted to the Sanders hospital in Auburn Tuesday afternoon for minor surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr, sons, Larry and Dicky Mrs. Luella Wyatt of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr, spent Sunday at Trier's Park Fort Wayne.

Saturday night picture shows are drawing extra large crowds and last week was no exception. This week "Fighting Pilot" will be screened and it is a high power, roaring-action melodrama, crammed with adventure, romance and comedy.

Mrs. Gladys Cox and three children, of Cincinnati, Ohio, spent a few hours Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Leighty. Mrs. Cox has spent the past two months with her parents near Howe Ind., and in the Cox home at Helmer. They were joined Friday by Mr. Cox and returned to their home. Dean Cox has spent the summer with his grandparents.

In order to co-operate with the Civil Defense Program whose instruction nights are on each Tuesday evening, Post 283 voted at the last meeting to change their meeting night to the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month until the Civil Defense classes are over. This action was taken to allow members of the Post the privilege of attending classes and still not miss the Post meetings.

Miss Ethel Smith will address the Women's Missionary Society, 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Church.

Olen Weicht and family, of Fort Wayne, moved to St. Joe, Friday and are living in the Frank Curie property.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Haver are taking their week's vacation and are located at Randall Lake in Michigan just a few miles northwest of Coldwater.

Michael Hebel, veteran grocer of Auburn, died suddenly Tuesday evening of last week at his home at the age of 77 years. Mr. Hebel had been in the grocery business in Auburn for 62 years.

Mark Morr, of Fort Wayne, was in town Monday noon for a short time, as he was on a hunting trip out west for fox squirrel in some of his familiar haunts. Mark is employed with the Eskay Dairy. Mrs. Morr has been poorly for some time but is now on the mend.

Sam Kees, of near Garrett, was in town Saturday night and he reported that he had a birthday last month, and that he was 85. Of course he doesn't work only at the table, and he gets about splendidly. Mr. and Mrs. Kees live with their son George and family on the Van Fleit farm.

Chas Koch, of Butler Center, was in town several days last week taking his lunches at Keeler's. Chas. didn't say, but we think he gets homesick for St. Joe friends, the loafer's bench down town and things in general here, so this is one way to overcome this dreaded malady. Charles is always tickled to get back to St. Joe where he lived for over 40 years and most naturally it takes time to acclimate ones self to a new place.

Send that soldier boy a new Victory card on sale at News office.

Congressman Forest A. Harness, of Kokomo, fifth district representative in congress, will deliver the major address at a picnic andl rally of Northern Indiana Republicans at Oliver Lake in LaGrange County on Thursday, August 13.

A card was received at News office a few days ago from Mrs. Ruth Davis, a former citizen, who is now at Mt. Vernon, O., for a short time where she is with her daughter Minta, who is nursing in the hospital. Mrs. Davis states that she is doing sewing for the present and taking a much needed rest. Her address is 9 W. Sugar St.

While hunting squirrel last Monday, Milo Frane, of Orangeville, shot what was thot to be a horned owl. The owl was eating a pheasant and when it started to fly, dropped its prey. The wing spread was four feet. Mr. Frane was bitten on his left knuckle by the bird when he started to pick it up. In making an examination of its claws it was decided that nothing that the bird could reach could escape with its life.

The new barn being built by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, one-half mile east of Widney orchard, is nearing completion. The work is being done by Jack Sechler and Roy Koch. The barn is of a new type construction, is three floors, and is 36x48 feet in ground space. The building is being constructed and equipped for poultry raising and has many features not found in any other building in this community. Aaron Holman lives on this farm and is engaged in the poultry business in addition to running the feed mill in St. Joe.

Our old friend, Reuben Koch, who lived on his farm north of Concord continues quite poorly. After his wife became nearly exhausted from his care, he was taken to Garrett for a few weeks, where he was given care in a private home. This week we learn that he has been taken to the county home near Auburn. While he is not confined to his bed, he is mentally ill and likes to get out and walk away. Mr. Koch has been a splendid citizen and hard working man and his many friends here would be glad if he might recover so as to spend his remaining days on his farm. With the exception of a few years spent at Churubusco, he has lived in Concord township since his birth.

One classified ad last week sold 130 pullets for Thad Brown on Road 8, and he was more than pleased. The News was also pleased that one ad was all that was required.

Gerald Russell, of Auburn, was nominated for county auditor on the Democratic ticket by the DeKalb County central committee in a meeting in the court house Wednesday night. No one filed for auditor before the primary held in May, altho there were candidates for all other major county offices. Mr. Russell has operated a confectionery store in Auburn many years and before that had a store in Garrett. He is a member of the board of jury commissioners and has been secretary of the Auburn Lions Club for several years. He also is zone chairman of Lions clubs. Leighton F. Tompow, of Butler, the new county chairman, presided at the meeting.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. YEISER, Publicity

The Lions Club held their regular meeting at the Akins Tea Room Monday evening, with president F. B. Leighty presiding. This was designated as convention night and Lions who had attended the state and international meetings were present to report and pass along the enthusiasm they had acquired.

Lion Wicoff attended the state convention at Anderson and his report was greatly appreciated. The meeting extended over a period of three days, packed with interesting incidents.

Lion Gerig is transferring his membership to Fort Wayne, where he is taking up his residence.

Lion Dr. Graham, of Auburn, was present and reported on the Toronto convention. Our county seat friend, who follows dentistry as a profession and his hobbies are hunting, fishing and being a good Lion. He is justly rated the father of the conservation movement in DeKalb County, out of which grew our several conservation clubs.

His trip to Toronto took him through a wonderful wheat country. He was profuse in his appreciation of the Indiana Lions band, which was present at the convention and gave a good account of themselves with their inspirational music. The presentation of the colors at the opening session of each day was a very spectacular affair and eleven countries were represented.

The Toronto Lions proved great entertainers, and the pageant they gave, showing the progress of Canada from the time they settled to the present was exceptionally entertaining and educational.

Dr. Graham was a delegate to the international convention at Toronto eleven years ago, when the membership was 78,000 and this year upon his return to the same city in the same capacity the membership has grown to 150,000 Lions, all striving to do their best in service to their fellowmen.

It is the wish of the St. Joe membership that Lion Graham may be privileged to attend another international eleven years hence.

Lion Fred Quance, of Auburn, was a guest at the meeting and gave a talk. Fred spent quite a bit of his boyhood in St. Joe and will always be a welcome guest at our gatherings.

ASKS INCREASE IN CO. WELFARE BUDGET

The 1943 budget of the DeKalb County welfare department, which has been approved by the state board and filed with County Auditor Burley Ensley for action by the county council in September, provides for expenditures of $170,685, which is in increase of $2,534 over the appropriations for this year, but the levy will likely be reduced because of the increased personal property valuation. The 1942 rate is 14 cents on the $100 valuation.

Of the total estimated outlay, the county will be reimbursed $126,342 from federal and state funds, according to budget figures. Only about one-fourth of the disbursements actually is derived directly from the county.

The amount set up for old age assistance in 1943 is $126,000. The number on the rolls now is 484, which is a new high and an increase of 64 over August, 1941. The increase is due to liberalizing laws passed by the legislature last year. The average monthly payment at this time is $17.94, as against $15.85 a year ago. Higher living costs have had a part in the increase. Another factor is the law providing for county welfare departments to pay medical and hospital expenses of public welfare recipients.

The budget includes an item of $2,600 for burial of old age assistance recipients; $300 for burial of recipients of blind assistance; $2,500 for assistance of crippled children; $25,400 for assistance of dependent children in the custody of relatives; $180 for assistance to crippled children in the custody of relatives; $2,760 for dependent children in institutions, and $800 for assistance of sick children committed to hospitals.

The board now has on its rolls 117 dependent children, a reduction of 11 from a year ago, but the average monthly assistance has been increased from $13.74 to $15.16. The number of children in institutions is 9, and the number of crippled children is 16. The cost to the county for patients in Riley Hospital, Indianapolis, is $4.98 a day and clinic visits for treatment are $2 each. Other crippled children are sent to the Lutheran and St. Joseph Hospitals in Fort Wayne, where the charges are slightly less. Selection of the institution to which a child is committed depends upon the nature of the affliction. The number of blind persons in the county rolls at this time is 16.

The county and state welfare boards voted slight increases in the salaries of members of the staff. The director is to have an increase from $1,800 a year to $1,920. Salaries for official visitors are $1,320 and $1,140. The item for clerical assistance is $2,400.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

You, as a consumer, have been asked by the Office of Price Administration to report any evasion of the price ceilings law. The law itself has come of age, and the provision whereby retailers' and wholesalers' licenses may be revoked in cases of violations or evasions is in force. Suspension may be for as long as a year. Until now violators were subject only to criminal prosecution. Everyone is asked to co-operate to see that this part of the law designed to prevent inflation works.

There seems to be some confusion about whether there is a price ceiling on second hand auto tires, and as a result there are reported gross violations. The OPA points out that second hand tires and tubes have rigid price ceilings and that they are computed on the depth of the tread design. Your local War Price and Rationing Board can furnish you with a formula for computing maximum prices. Any used tube for a passenger automobile has a ceiling price of $1.50.

Labor Day isn't very far off and now it will mean more this year than ever it has meant in the past because we are all of us working to win the war and doing a job of it, too. There is another respect in which Labor Day will differ from similar days in the past—it will strike a distinctly feminine note. Women are playing an increasing part in the production upon which we depend for victory.

Here is the way it is. There are now 13 million employed women in the U. S. A., 600,000 more than there were last January 1st. And 1,750,000 of these are working in war industry. By the end of next year, total civilian employment is expected to reach 53,000,000 and of these 18,000,000 will be women. In other words, we must add between four and five million women to the roster of workers if we are to reach the estimated peak figure for 1943 employment.

The War Manpower Commission said recently that 12,500,000 people were employed in direct war work July 1. Direct war employment has increased tremendously in the first half of 1942—for the first quarter the increase was 2,100,000, for the second, 3,500,000. The absorption of 5,600,000 workers by war industry in six months, in addition to the manpower taken by the armed forces, has practically emptied the barrel. We must turn to our reserve and that is where the women come in.

This is going to bring real changes to almost every community in the country. It will mean, for instance, that one out of every three or four housewives between the ages of 18 and 44 years will have to accept employment. Or, to put it another way, that one out of every six women 18 years of age or over must go to work.

Even this isn't the whole story. We can't expect equal distribution of work from coast to coast and border to border and as a result, in some areas, every woman who can work will be needed. Already, in Oregon and Connecticut, volunteer registration of women has been held and in Akron, O., plans are on foot for a house to house canvass of women willing to accept jobs. At Detroit, where labor needs of war production plants far exceed the supply, it is hoped that 35,000 women will accept employment.

Total war requires every thing we can scrape up to feed its endless needs. Just as we reach into the home for deft hands and alert minds to serve the machines which make our weapons, so we must reach into heretofore untapped repositortories of materials. This week brings word of a virtually new source of aluminum—that metal without which we cannot hope to produce the air strength necessary to beat our enemies. The advisory committee on metals and minerals of the National Academy of Sciences has recommended to the War Production Board processes for making aluminum—the basic material of aluminum—direct from clay. Aluminum, in its primary state is the most plentiful of the metals. It is almost everywhere. Before the war there wasn't enough demand to justify exploitation of low grade sources. But now all this has been changed. Now we are overlooking nothing which may give us metals.

Last year Americans were buying more household gadgets and appliances than they had ever bought before, even in the boom years before the 1929 crash. But since Pearl Harbor, although our incomes have grown larger, we have been saving money.

The war did not bring a time of free and easy spending to the average American city family. The gadgets we used to spend our money on are lacking. But it did bring a big increase in war bonds bought and taxes paid — something which will help all of us when the war is over and we begin to rebuild our lives. The savings of city people, according to the U. S. Department of Labor, have been about 70 per cent higher in 1942 than last year. Families whose 1942 incomes did not change saved half again as much in an average 1942 quarter as during a similar period in 1941, while those whose incomes had grown saved an average 57 per cent of the enlarged income.

The U. S. A. has pretty well ended all output of things not needed for war but, now and then, WPB still finds places where we can tighten up. September 1 will see an end to manufacture of mattresses containing iron and steel and after November 1, no more studio couches, sofas or lounges containing these metals may be made. WPB also has practically stopped civilian use of shellac, an action which will mean fewer phonograph records. (Record makers up till now have been able to get 30 per cent of the shellac they normally use.) The shellac is needed to protect munitions.

RECEIPTS WERE LIGHT AT AUCTION SALE

A rush of harvest work kept farmers in the field and made receipts light for the last Thursday's auction. One consignment of lambs averaging 91 pounds sold for $13.25 without being sorted. Slaughter ewes, $6.35.

Hogs 180 to 225, $14.75. Light shoats averaging near 100 pounds, $15.60 with a few sales up to $16.50. Slaughter boars, $8.70 down.

Select veals, $15.00 to $15.10. Common grades, $12.00 to $14.00 Medium quality dairy type cows weighing around 900 pounds, $8.20 to $8.50. Light, thin yellow cows, $6.75. 600 pound dairy heifers, $9,15. Light bulls mostly around $9.00.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Glen Freeburn, wife and son, Charles, were Sunday guests in the John Haverstock home at Troy, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway were over Sunday guests of his sisters, Mrs. Eva Chandler and Mrs. Olive Frye and their families at Hobart.

M. F. Engle, of Auburn, is given credit as having caught the largest bluegill of the season. The fish weighed 13 ounces, meaesured 11 inches and was caught with a cricket. Can any St. Joe nimrods equal this?

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Koch and children, accompanied by Mrs. Koch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gee, of Dayton, Ohio, were over Sunday guests of Mrs. Flora Gee and Roy Koch. Mr. and Mrs. Gee arrivde from California a few months ago and both have found employment at Dayton. Howard was bothered with sinus trouble which led him to come back home, and he reports that his condition is much improved and he thinks he will soon be on the road to recovery.

Quail and Pheasants are Banned for State Game Bird Survey

Actual Banding Scene Before Liberation

The banding of more than 14,000 quail and pheasants was begun recently by the Department of Conservation and the Pittman-Robertson Wildlife Research Project, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, head of the Division of Fish and Game, reports.

This survey, when completed, will determine how long the bird lives after it has been released and how far it travelled from the point of release before being killed. Other information to be recorded will show whether the bird was killed by a hunter, automobile, weather, predators or by some other means.

Conservation clubs over the state have been raising approximately 165,000 quail and pheasants which are now being released at the age of eight weeks. One or two brooders of birds in each of 55 counties will be used for the experiment and 6,700 quail and 8,100 pheasants will be banded. St. Joe and Spencerville pheasants were released on August 1, and all were banded.

These two local conservation clubs and Department of Conservation officers have cooperated with the Pittman-Robertson district leaders in selecting the areas and in the actual banding of the birds. Actual records are kept of place liberated and the sex of the birds released together with the band number.

Hunters and sportsmen are asked to co-operate in making the survey a success. It was pointed out that the band taken off the pheasant or quail does not have to be turned in. Only the number on the band and the kind of bird, sex, cause of death and the date and location where it was taken is needed.

The number of the band on the quail or pheasant may be turned in to the secretary of the local conservation club owning the brooder, to the County Conservation Officer or to the Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation, Indianapolis.

The extensive brooder program carried on by conservation clubs in co-operation with the Division of Fish and Game during the past few years, has provided excellent quail and pheasant hunting for nimrods.

Pheasants released in DeKalb County by the several clubs totals as follows:

St. Joe	161
Moores	155
Garrett	167
Waterloo	168
Fish Creek	172
Spencerville	170

Advice to Home Mechanics!

A "Stitch in Time" may keep that Electric Appliance running

BECAUSE of the need to conserve scarce metals for Victory in every home, the urge is to "make it do" for the duration. Many things that go wrong with electrical appliances such as frayed cords, can be fixed at home. With a screw driver and pliers it can easily be repaired. Many appliances fail for lack of a few drops of oil. Others may need only a good cleaning.

When the trouble is deep seated, call your electrical dealer before it has gone too far. He may be delayed in securing parts as time goes on, but he will give you prompt service.

MAURICE KLINE IS GIVEN SOLO LICENSE

Having completed the required hours of aviation training last week, Maurice Kline flew to Indianapolis Monday and appeared before the Civil Aeronautics Authority to make application for his solo license.

Eleven hours of intensive training with an instructor is the first lap in the long road for obtaining a pilot's license, and this has been completed since starting in June at the Smith Field in Fort Wayne.

Thirty-five hours of solo flying will have to be done before his next appearance with the board, and if successful Maurice will then be granted a Private license.

The air distance to Indianapolis from Fort Wayne is 120 miles and the trip was made in one hour and twenty-six minutes, the return trip being made in five minutes less time.

PHEASANTS ARE RELEASED FROM STATE GAME FARMS

About 12,000 pheasants, raised at the State Game Farms have been released recently and will provide some excellent hunting for nimrods during the fall open season, Harrell F. Mesbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, announced today.

Those birds, raised at the Jasper-Pulaski and Wells County Preserves were released in 76 counties. The northern part of the state received a larger number as this section provides better natural living conditions for pheasants. Quail survive more successfully in southern counties.

While a large number of the birds were eight weeks old, nearly 3,500 were two years or older.

The birds released from the two game farms are in addition to the thousands of pheasant and quail raised by local conservation clubs.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The Spencerville 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, August 5, 1942. The meeting was called to order by President Richard Strongback. The club enjoyed singing several favorite songs, lead by the song leader, Miss Hazel Ankney.

Richard Shilling gave a report on "Fitting and Showing the Club Lamb." The Club made plans for taking an inspection tour of some of the member's projects. This tour will include stops to see LaVon Hart's 4-H lamb, Harold Murphy's beef calf, and Richard Strongback's dairy calf and victory garden. After the closing song the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held September 2.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

We now are on the offensive. For the first time in this war American forces have moved against the enemy with the objective of expelling him. The theatre of action is the Solomons. The Solomons are a chain of islands, the islands are a steaming jungle and abrupt peak and the home of head hunting savages.

From its very start this first American offensive indicatel to the home front the need for redoubling our production effort. Admiral King, Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet, said it appears we have lost at least one cruiser and that other warships had been damaged and he said—"Considerable losses, such as are inherent in any offensive operation, must be expected."

We must go on from offensive to offensive if we are to win this war. We can win this war only by driving the Japs out from the terrtory they seized, by driving the Nazis form Europe and the near East. To do this we must accept losses on a great scale, and we must prepare for these losses.

We cannot sit smugly back on past performance.

Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, spoke of the front line of production and said of it that "generally speaking this line is holding firm." But Davis went on to say that this front line could break unless new lines swiftly are established behind it. "We certainly shall fail," he said, "Unless we increase the production of raw materials." He said we must develop new processes, end waste, and—something in which everyone can help—"press for full salvage by every citizen in the land."

Materials and more materials—that is the desperate need. This is a war in which tanks are destroyed by hundreds in a single action on a single sector of one front. And yet into a tank of the General Grant type go about 26 tons of steel, some six hundred pounds of copper, more than five hundred pounds of chromium and more than six hundred pounds of manganese, aluminum, lead and zinc.

More than ever today the emphasis must be on salvage and on such further restrictions of an already restricted civilian industry as may be possible. It is still possible to tighten up on the civilian economy here and there, and wherever it is possible it must be done. One of our most critical shortages is the shortage of steel and last week the War Production Board ordered the makers of wooden unholstered furniture to stop using iron or steel in springs. WPB launched a drive for metal salvage embracing 37,000 dairy plants throughout the country and appealed to wholesale and retail merchants to "make a clean sweep" of store rooms and shops for critically needed material. There are almost two million retail merchants in the U. S. A. and more than 100,000 wholesalers. And the combined production and resources board, the agency through which Great Britain and the United States attack their joint production problems, says an American steel mission is going to England to work out plans for a more efficient method of using steel, and to study British methods of collecting scrap.

We must forget that we are the richest country in the world, until the war is won we must live as though the U. S. A. were a poor country without resources. Last week WPB ordered that men's work clothes must have fewer pockets, fewer buttons and buckles and must consume less cloth. Another order cut use of rubber in manufacture of products intended not for civilian use, but for the armed forces. The order prohibited use of rubber in a long list of military products, including cartridge clip boxes and gun grips.

The Office of Defense Transportation announced that by cutting out duplicate passenger train and bus schedules in the first half of 1942 the railways have gained 114 locomotives and 553 passenger cars to meet the needs of war traffic. The greatest civilian long distance transportation problem is that which affects Eastern states facing next winter with a shortage of fuel, especially fuel oil. The railroads are moving great 60-car tank trains on limited schedules to the East, but there is a point beyond which we may not count on the supplies so received. WPB has set aside 11,000 tons of scarce iron and steel for makers of grates and other equipment needed to change oil burners and furnaces so that they will burn coal.

The Office of Price Administration denies it plans to add new commodities to the rationing program. The rumors arose from OPA's plan to prepare rationing machinery for future emergencies. Part of this plan is "a universal rationing book which, placed in the hands of every citizen in the country, could be used for the rationing of any commodity or article in which a shortage occurred" .....The U. S. A. and Mexico have concluded an arrangement by which Mexican farm workers may enter the U. S. A. to help get in this year's bumper crops.....In July we spent $184,400,000 a day for war—a gain of 16.3 per cent over June ...More than 1500 Negro recruits now are being trained at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and 300 Negro coast guard recruits have been assigned to active duty.....You can't buy railroad watches any more unless it is an army order or you work for the railroad...Admiral William D. Leahy, th President's chief of staff in a radio speech—"This is the time to make our stand....We dare not be reckless with the fate of our own country—we dare not throw away the fate of the world."

The 4-H show has usually been held in connection with the DeKalb County Fair but the county fair has been called off and it has been decided to go ahead with a separate 4-H show. The 4-H exhibits will be shown at the Auburn Livestock Sales Co. on South Indiana Avenue.

Mrs. Fern Hughes received a letter last week from her brother, Lynn Shilling, who left in January for service and is now stationed at Jacksonville, Florida, in which he reports his success as a gunner, after taking a 26 weeks course of training. In the test 30 callibre machine guns were used and Lynn's score was 83 shots out of 100. To date he has captured his fourth medal. His folks are equally proud of his fine record achieved in such a short time.

The annual Sechler reunion was held Sunday at the Alton community center east of St. Joe. At noon a carry-in dinner was enjoyed. During the business meeting it was decided to hold next year's réunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe, northwest of St. Joe. Officers elected were Frank Baltz, of Spencerville, president; Mrs. Vernie Monroe, of near St. Joe, vice president; Mrs. Grace Dilley of near St. Joe, secretary, and S. A. Mumaw also of near St. Joe, treasurer.

The News is indebted to a number of its friends, for the past week brot us a basket of vegetables from Harry Kees, consisting of mangoes, sweet corn, tomatoes, Hungarian peppers, green onions and cauliflower; from Sherman Rickett a sack of plums, something we have never seen before was that all were double. One stem but two nice plums with two seeds. Excellent variety. Then our friends, the Buckinghams have been keeping our office decorated with a nice fresh bouquet of Hardy Amaryllis. Saturday, when our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Yeiser, returned from the lake, we were presented a nice mess of fish all ready to fry. Thanks to all of you.

U. S. O. BENEFIT SHOW FRIDAY EVENING

The newly-organized Junior Dramatic Club will present its first production on Friday, August 21. The play is a three-act comedy, "The Beantown Choir," and will be given at the St. Joe Gymnasium.

Members of the cast include Frances Reidenbach, Joan Diederich, Evelyn George, Myru Keesler, Cordelia Diederich, Pat Fluke, Pat Maxwell, Gloria Zonker, Ralph Lanum and Jim Kees.

Assisting back stage are the following: Virginia George, promptor; Dick Davis, stage manager; Paul Keller, costumes; and Earl Kinsey, set. A specialty dance will be given by Sylvia Washler and Jean Billow, and unusual between-acts entertainment will be presented.

Let's all support this production—remember that the proceeds go to the U. S. O. Tckets may be purchased from members of the cast, at Bowman's Drug Store, and at Kinsey's Hardware. Curtain time is 8:30.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP FARM IS VICTORY BULL WINNER

Word was received by county agent C. E. Baker that William D. Larowe, of St. Joe, is the winner of one of the thousand Victory Jersey bulls given away in all parts of the United States by outstanding Jersey breeders thru the Victory program of the American Jersey Cattle Club. That is, these Jersey bulls were donated by their breeders to be given to worthy owners of grade Jersey Herds throughout the United States.

The bulls meet all of the qualifications of the selective registration. The selective registration applies only to the Jersey breed of cattle and carries with it a guarantee of production as well as a record of ancestry.

The recipients of the bulls were determined by a letter of application sent to the Indiana Jersey Cattle Club along with a questionnaire showing the need for one of the bulls and the possibilities of his value in the community. This bull program which is designed to build better dairy herds should be of material help in the "Food for Freedom" program in the future by making available higher producing dairy cows. DeKalb County is fortunate to receive one of these bulls and Mr. Larowe is to be congratulated as the winner.

The trouble with people, they judge all civilization by the crowd of folks they are with.

We don't even have the corner any more that prosperity is supposed to be around.

It doesn't make any difference if they have become men, boys will still be boys.

To some men around here you can't do much about the war but what about that trout that got away the other day?

One thing this war has shown us is that all of Russia isn't covered with whiskers.

The stock exchange is a place where a fellow usually exchanges a stock of money for a stock of experience.

You won't hear many men getting indignant over cutting short the wool in ladies skirts.

They say that women are more fascinated by horrors than men. Take their choice of neckties for instance.

Now that his wife isn't driving the car, a certain man took the hinges off of the back end of his garage.

It is almost time to start thinking about giving the ice-house a rest and beginning on the wood-pile.

MEAT PRICES

There has been an amount of complaining from housewives around St. Joe concerning the many cuts of inferior quality meat that they are having to buy. Also they are still paying a pretty high price for it, they say. Not only is much of the meat poor but there isn't the quantity of any meat as normally found in the markets. What is the shortage from, in beef and pork? In the case of pork we are informed that large amounts of it are shipped to provide the armed forces and the agricultural marketing administration. The latter is buying about 40 per cent of all pork produced in federally inspected plants. The increase in production is not great enough to take care of it. Those who know say that the cattle coming to market aren't as heavy as before, not carrying as much meat since the farmers aren't feeding cattle for heavy weights, which is due to it being more profitable this way than to have to meet the ceiling price on better grades of meat. We are going to have to complain less or eat less meat and more vegetables. Write this down on the account of war.

WE'RE STILL AT IT

There has been reducing measures in St. Joe but the fellow who likes sugar in his coffee hasn't given up having it entirely. The chap who couldn't get through the day without the coffee still has his cup or maybe two. The gasoline rationing in some states has reduced driving but in others the tires are wearing kind of thin. Still folks will drive for a cooling off in the country and get the usual ice cream cone or bottle of drink to relieve the heat, driving back to the garage in the same manner of old. Yes, we have found it almost impossible to buy bananas, and the price of ham is terrific, and dog food in cans is a problem, and certain canned foods that were taken for granted are not so numerous. Sure we notice changes and we are going to face more before we are through. But maybe we were driving too fast and eating too richly for our own good. We didn't think that was a picnic with salad and beans and lemonade. Its that other part—ants in your food, poison ivy and poison oak, somebody hurt and maybe somebody almost drowned and a flat tire on the car when you were ready to go home.

CONQUEST OF CORN

We can go back to the days when corn bread was the main dish of our Pilgrim forefathers, as they struggled to keep their bodies whole in their attempt to obtain freedom for their souls. They didn't call those early ears of corn by such names as Evergreen or Golden Bantum perhaps, nor realize that they were savoring vitamin A when they ate of the tasty dish. There is the corn meal that we prepare for the table, especially in our south lands which was a favorite with the Indians, who, by the way, should have the credit for instructing the Pilgrims how to plant corn and how to use it. What would we do today without the waving stalks, the luscious ears, white or yellow, buttered and salted, oozing with crunchy mouthsful of delicate grains. The temptress of August, the boon of life in a hot spot, the glory of a corner restaurant or an ornate banquet hall. You may be given little silver forks with which to hold the ears daintily, or an ordinary looking tool that makes a handle which still keeps the fingers clean though the procedure isn't as 'ritzy' appearing as the silver. But to most folks in St. Joe the old fashioned, down-to-cob method, working from left to right and back again, cleaning up as you go along with a smile of satisfaction that carries a smeary appearance of butter at the corners, hands still holding on to each end with a relish for the task, that is eating corn on the cob with appreciation. August offers our table glories from the garden but always corn is the main love. Corn is purely American, almost every farm grows it, almost every citizen wants it. When you talk about 'buy American' we are most happy if it is sweet corn on the cob!

"WAVES"

Women are especially interested in the new feminine naval reserve organization known as the "Waves." It is the latest effort to enlist the women's aid in becoming officers in this naval reserve. There are three groups for ensigns and lieutenants. One trains for future naval instructors, another for administrative work in the organization, the third are enrolled as apprentice seamen, women from signing but forbids those unmarried to wed during training. The law forbids women to go to sea, but they must serve in this country. They receive the same pay as men of equal rank, eligible for benefits of insurance as civil employees, all candidates must be citizens, of good reputation and able to pass physical and mental tests. A required amount of education and business experience is required, which means that when these ladies wear their navy blues—they are in the navy and how!

FEWER BILLBOARDS

Reports from vacationists who have cared to notice, tell us that there is a noticeable decline in billboard advertising along the highways. That is, there does not seem to be the number of them as of yore, when you couldn't see the scenery for the posters. Finances might play an important part, but there have been many states with laws to restrict the erection of signs, posters or billboards that obstruct the view, of roads or grade-crossings, and also some where the billboard causes a bit of scenery to be spoiled. There are fines imposed if the law is disobeyed. Of course we have too many laws at times, but almost everyone in St. Joe likes to see a clean countryside, not hindered with billboard advertising which adds to traffic and motoring hazards as well. So it is good news when they report that America the beautiful is no less beautiful.

That bit of good in everybody doesn't always find its way on the front page of a paper during a scandal.

A St. Joe man says that it doesn't seem to be as popular a pastime these days to kill a man and then go crazy to escape being punished.

"...A SHARP ENEMY ATTACK WAS REPULSED DURING THE NIGHT..."

TODAY'S war communiques have a familiar ring to the men of your electric company. For years, they've been fighting cyclones, sleet, snow, lightning, and other natural enemies, all around the clock and calendar.

When real war came, they were ready. Ready for day and night duty. Ready to keep the lines hot with the precious electricity that powers America's war industries.

Tank, plane and ship production schedules that seemed fantastic a few months ago are being surpassed today—partly because these men knew their job so well. They know the job because they learned it the hard way—the American way—from the ground up.

Experienced business management, built upon the savings of millions of Americans, has given this country by far the most and the best electric service in the world. It's the reason why the average American home enjoys cold milk and hot coffee, clean rugs and clean clothes, accurate time and accurate news electrically—all for a dime a day!

Only a free people could have accomplished that.

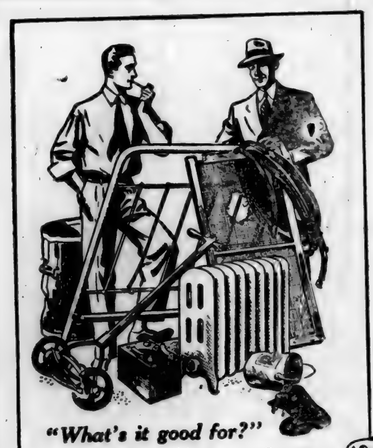
JUNK needed for War



"What's it good for?"
"Guns, tanks, and maybe part of a plane"

In the attics and cellars of homes, in garages, tool sheds, and on farms, is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example. Old radiators, lengths of pipe, refrigerators, garbage pails, broken garden tools...

It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel, with most impurities removed—and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

Even in peacetime our Nation relied on scrap to provide about 50% of the raw material for steel. Now production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined.

But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns, and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead, and tin.

America needs your active assistance in rounding up these materials. The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

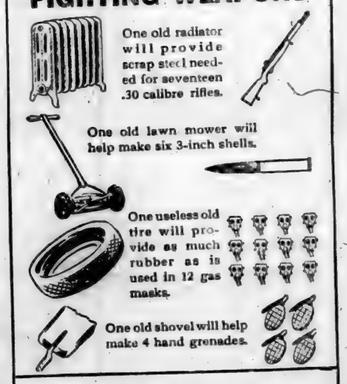
First—collect all your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

JUNK MAKES FIGHTING WEAPONS



One old radiator will provide scrap steel needed for seventeen .30 calibre rifles.

One old lawn mower will help make six 3-inch shells.

One useless old tire will provide as much rubber as is used in 12 gas masks.

One old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

MATERIALS NEEDED

Scrap iron and steel.
Other metals of all kinds.
Old rubber.
Rags, Manila rope, burlap bags.

Waste Cooking Fats—Strain into a large tin can and when you get a pound or more, sell to your meat dealer.

NEEDED ONLY IN CERTAIN LOCALITIES: Waste paper and tin cans, as announced locally.

NOT NEEDED at this time: Razor blades—glass.

The reunion will be held at the Otis Gloyd home near Robinson Chapel next year.

A new type of glass that floats like cork and can be used in life rafts, preservers, lifeboats, pontoon bridges and for insulation purposes has been developed by a Pittsburgh glass concern. The new product is called "f o a m-glass," and possesses a cellular structure that gives it buoyance, the new glass has a weight of only 10 pounds per cubic foot—one fifteenth the weight of ordinary glass. Its closed-c e l l construction is proof against absorbing water and permits it to float indefinitely.

THE STRAIGHT OF IT

It is alleged that a schoolboy in Kansas wrote the following, entitled "An Editor."

"I don't know how newspapers and magazines got into the world, and I don't think God does, for He ain't got nothing to say about these in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of, and that he stayed in the business until after the flood, came out and wrote the thing up, and has been kept busy ever since. If the editor makes a mistake, folks say he ought to be hung; but if the doctor makes mistakes, he buries them and people don't say nothing because they can't read Latin. When the editor makes mistakes, there is a big lawsuit, and a big fuss; but if the doctor makes one, there is a funeral with flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone else knowing what it means; but if the editor uses one, he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges for the visit; but if the editor goes, he gets a charge of buckshot. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born."

Metals are one of our greatest war needs, and to mine them large quantities of dynamite are needed for blasting. Nearly 10 pounds of dynamite can be made from the 17 pounds of kitchen fats the country is asking every family to salvage this year. That amount of fat produces the 1½ pounds of glycerine needed to make the 10 pounds of dynamite. So save your fats to help our miners.

Dear Friends:

"Many thanks for the nice Birthday Card. Enjoyed it very much. Have been kept quite busy for the past few weeks and haven't had much time for writing. Am scheduled to go on the range and fire the 45 cal. pistol in the morning and we have a written test in the afternoon so I'm going to have a lot to de between now and morning.

"Our Company softball team just won the last game, and championship of the Western League. We have a very good team and they will go far toward winning the Camp Pickett Championship.

"Have had plenty of rain, recently. It has helped a lot to relieve the heat. Nights are cooler, now and we sleep very well." Youre truly.

TRAFFIC FATALITIES TABULATED TO JULY

At the half year mark, Hoosier traffic fatalities have mounted to 535 dead, an almost 19 per cent decrease under the 660 up to the end of June, 1941. The Governor's Coordinating Safety Committee revealed that this represented a 21 per cent decrease in rural fatalities, totaling 363, and an 11 per cent decline in urban deaths, with 172.

With travel reduced in the month of June about ten per cent below June of last year, according to gasoline consumption figures, traffic deaths however dropped 35 per cent from the 109 of June last year to 71 this year. This is the fewest deaths reported in any month yet this year.

Collisions between two or more motor vehicles accounted for 181 of these fatalities while pedestrian auto accidents killed 145 persons. Eighty-six persons have been killed in auto-train wrecks, a sharp increase over the previous year. In non-collision accidents 70 have been killed, 35 met death by running into fixed objects, 15 while riding bicycles and three when hit by autos in horse drawn vehicles.

LYSLE MILLIMAN DIES IN FT. WAYNE HOSPITAL

Lysle Milliman, 39, 3906 Eastway Drive, Fort Wayne, a gear inspector at the International Harvester plant, died at 9:50 P. M. Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital following a month's illness. He was born in Fremont, Mich., and lived in Fort Wayne for the past 15 years. He also lived in St. Joe where his father, was engaged in the barber business. He was a member of the Moose Lodge, 10-Year Club at the International Harvester, International Union of United Workers No. 57. He served as a civilian defense warden in Section J.

Surviving are the widow, Myrtle; a daughter, Norma Jean, at home; and a brother, Merritt, Fort Wayne. The body was removed to the Klaehn & Sons Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be held at 2 P. M. Thursday at the funeral home, but place of burial has not been made known. Additional survivors are a niece, Donna Jean Milliman, and a nephew, Paul Edwin Milliman.

ANOTHER WIFE IS ASKING FOR DIVORCE

Her husband is an habitual drunkard and has a violent temper, Queen Isbella Meese, of 350 W. Seventh St., Auburn, alleges in filing a divorce complaint Tuesday in the DeKalb Circuit Court against Frank Meese.

This condition has existed a long time and it has become impossible for the plaintiff to live with the defendant, she says. She adds that he did not support her. They were married in 1920 and separated the first day of this month.

Mrs. Meese asks that the court award to her the title to the household goods and enjoin the defendant from selling or removing the furniture or interfering with her in the possesson of it. Attorney Dan M. Link represents the plaintiff, who formerly resided at St. Joe.

ATTEND FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees, George Kees and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees, attended the Gorrell reunion, Sunday, at the old John Gorrell homestead, one mile south and 1½ miles east of Harlan.

Electric Line Extensions And Additions Greatly Curtailed By War Production Board

Due to the very acute shortage of copper and other critical materials, especially metals, the War Production Board in Washington has found it necessary to still further curtail the extending of and adding to distribution lines of the utilities of the country. This tightening of the use of the critical materials required for war production purposes was brought out by the War Production Board's recent revisions and amendments to Preference Rating Order P-46, under which utilities of the country have been operating since several months before the declaration of war. This was brought out today in an interview with Mr. F. H. Korsmeyer, District Manager of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company.

The general effect of the new restrictions is to deny the electric utilities the privilege of making any line extensions or making any additions to existing line facilities for any customers or establishments which are not directly a part of the war production program of the country. Although leaving the way open for possible approval by local Federal Housing Authority and War Production Board agencies for line extensions or additions to existing lines are prohibited unless the building or dwelling was completely and adequately wired for the service to be rendered, or unless, in case of new construction, the foundations for the new buildings or dwellings were completed and ready for superstructure erection, as of July 1, 1942.

It was stated that these new restrictions affected electric service to not only new buildings and dwellings, but also to existing dwellings where additional or newly purchased electrical equipment was being added. The fact was stressed that in order to avoid possible misunderstandings it is suggested that the electric company be consulted before any major electrical appliances, such as ranges or water heaters, are purchased and before any customers with such major appliances move into another home. It was further stated that it was hoped that their customers would take an understanding viewpoint of the matter and realize that these restrictions are not arbitrary rulings on the part of either the utility or the War Production Board but, instead, are absolutely necessary to conserve the Nation's supply of copper and other critical materials for war production purposes.

IT WON'T BE LONG

If you could consult with most of the youngsters of St. Joe regarding which of the twelve months of the year they would be most willing to eliminate, the answer would probably be "August." If you wait to find out why, the chances are they will explain that August only brings you around to September and September brings you around to school.

We will find today that the old nightmare of school that we might have felt in our youth, is not considered such with the present generation. There isn't the dread of school that used to hover over our summer vacations. Perhaps it is the newer and more attractive methods of teaching, perhaps the added forms of recreation that are present in the curriculum, maybe the type of text-books are more interesting. Whatever the difference, it means that school attendance is much more popular and pleasant now than it was in earlier days. We don't find the grind to the "three R's" that they had when we were young, and consequently it follows that there isn't the fascination to playing hookey now as then. Another item in the present set-up of education is the teaching of thrift and the advantage to be gained by education in accepting good positions later on in the world. This helps to make school more attractive and takes away some of the sting. Examples of educated men meeting with success are more numerous today than in those days when opportunities were more limited. So maybe, all in all, the return to September and school doesn't carry as much grief as we might figure.

NOT SO FREELY

Amateur photographers are having some difficulty in pursuing their favorite sport of taking pictures of all sorts of objects. In some places people with cameras have been arrested or held by police until they could account for the snapping of views, some of which were of bridges, harbors, docks perhaps, others of innocent looking barns, barges and woods. But there has been censoring of photography where the chance of enemy agents availing themselves of facts dealing with our military equipment and so on. The law prevents the usual freedom given the camera addict. It may be absurd to be so supervised, according to some, to check the photographer when news reels and even post cards carry the same sort of thing. Though many of the current rulings are difficult to understand, it is a fact that many are necessary and we must let the mistakes by law, be forgiven and remember that the regulation is with our own safety and good in mind.

MORTUARY

FRIEND

Funeral rites for Miss Marie Friend, age 39, former resident of the Rehoboth vicinity, were held at 2:30 on Tuesday afternoon at the Rehoboth Methodist Church. Rev. C. W. Montgomery of Garrett, officiated and interment was in Roselawn Cemetery, Auburn. Preceding the funeral brief services were held at the late residence south of Ossian.

Miss Friend died at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at her home following a short illness of dropsy. As an infant she was stricken by spinal meningitis, which left her a partial cripple.

The deceased was born in Garrett, January 31, 1903. She resided on a farm six miles southeast of Auburn in Jackson township until 1925. Surviving are the father, Charles S. Friend of near Ossian; two brothers, Arthur M. Friend of Rehoboth community and Royal R. Friend of Decatur; and two sisters, Mrs. Violet Lee of Huntington, and Mrs. Gladys Goble of Columbia City. The mother died in 1935.

County Tax Levy Shows Drastic Cut for Next Year-1943

The DeKalb County budget for 1943 prepared in the office of County Auditor Burley Ensley provides for a tax levy of 38 cents on the $100 valuation, a reduction of 3 cents from the rate levied for this year.

The rate is divided into only two funds, as no levy for the sinking fund is required. This levy was 1 cent for 1942. The general fund rate set in the budget is 24 cents, as against 26 cents levied fon 1942. The welfare fund remains at 14 cents. The budget is subject to action of the county council in September and review by the county tax adjustment board and the state tax board.

The appropriations asked for the general fund aggregate $104,309.50, a reduction from $107,486 approved by the county council for 1942. Of this sum, $67,204.54 is to be raised by the tax levy, the balance being derived from other sources. The county welfare budget calls for a total of $170,085, of which $38,825 is to be raised by the county tax levy. One reason for a reduction in the general fund is the elimination of an item of $9,000 placed in the 1942 budget for the expense of the general election.

The future of the income of the county highway department from gasoline tax is uncertain, but the budget provides for the expenditure of $122,000, which is about the same as this year. If the amount of gasoline tax is drastically reduced, the legisltrue may change the law apportioning the money to the various units.

The county commissioners are asking in their budget for $1,000 to pay for premiums for a County fair and 4-H Club. Since no fair is being held this year, the $1,000 appropriated for the purpose a year ago will revert to the general fund.

The county council of civilian defense, by Director Don E. Messenger, of Auburn, is asking for $1,000 for expenses in 1943. The county council granted $500 several months ago for use of the council.

The budget shows that on July 31 of this yeqr the balances on hand in the various funds follow; General, $37,262.10; sinking, $1,041.47; and welfare, $26,629.

The budget items for the various departments of the county in 1943 include: Clerk, $6,000; auditor, $6,260; treasurer, $6,434; recorder, $3,833; sheriff, $6,680; surveyor, $4,020; county agent, $3,570; superintendent of schools, $3,885; health officer, $1,210; coroner, $690; county assessor, $1,360; prosecuting attorney, $2,050; circuit court, $6,210; court house maintenance, $10,392.50; county jail, $1,170, and county infirmary, $9,625.

The amount needed to retire township highway bonds is now only nominal. The levies for 1943 follow: Concord, 2 cents; Fairfield, 1; and Richland and Wilmington, 3 cents, each. No levies will be needed thereafter for Concord, Fairfield and Wilmington. The Richland township bonds run until 1948.

The following additional appropriations for 1942 will be asked of the county council: insanity and epileptic inquest fees, $100; court library books, $100; court house elevator insurance, $40; county infirmary operation, $1,500; soldiers' burial, $300; school farm loan and county owned farm expense, $75; assistance for crippled children, $500; assistance for crippled children committed, $125; and highway department, $4,500. The latter item is for the purpose of paying John Nugen, of Auburn, for property at Auburn Junction that will be used as a county garage and for straightening the road at that point.

NINE-DAY SEASON ON COCK PHEASANTS WILL OPEN NOV. 10

A nine-day open season for the hunting of cock pheasants has been authorized for Hoosier sportsmen this year, the season to start on Tuesday, Nov. 10 and end on Thursday Nov. 19—it was announced today by Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game.

Additional regulations governing the hunting of pheasants during this open season make it illegal to take hen pheasants, establish a daily bag limit of two cock birds and fix a possession limit of four cock birds after two days lawful hunting.

The only change from the 1941 pheasant regulations is the closing of the season on hen pheasants. During the last hunting season, gimrods were permitted to take two birds daily, one of which might be a hen and to have four birds in possession, including two hens.

The closed season on hen pheasants for 1942 was established by the Division of Fish and Game after an extensive survey which included reports on birds taken during the 1941 season, survival after the hunting season and after the winter months. It was found that the ratio between hen and cock birds was too great for maximum natural reproduction.

Before the open season dates were established for 1942, the subject was debated in two sessions of the State Conservation Advisory Committee and serious attention was given to suggestions that the opening of the season be delayed for 10 days. After considerable study and investigation no change was made in the opening date since the open seasons for taking quail and rabbit also start on Nov. 10 and it was felt that there would be too much confusion on the part of hunters if the opening of the seasons were staggered.

Phesant hunting has developed in recent years to a major field sport for thousands of Hoosier outdoorsmen, especially in the central and northern parts of the state where food and climatic conditions are most favorable to these same birds. The propagation and liberating of pheasants was initiated a number of years ago by the Division of Fish and Game but no open season was permitted until 1936 when investigation showed the pheasant well established in the state.

GEORGE HOME BURNS WHILE THEY ARE AWAY

The farm home of Roscoe George, located just north of the George Corners, and northwest of Concord, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. All contents of the two-story frame house, including clothing, canned food and furniture, were lost.

Answering an alarm to the fire at 2 o'clock, the Auburn fire department found the residence burned almost to the ground. Mr. George, his mother and sister, who live with him had been away since morning and did not return until their home was practically destroyed. Firemen were at loss concerning the origin.

A passing motorist saw the flames and called the fire department. He said the place was beyond saving when he first discovered the blaze. The loss is partly covered by insurance. They will live on a neighboring farm until they can make further arrangements.

Fortunately none of the outbuildings were burned. Mr. George's car was parked in a garage only a short distance behind the house, but the firemen saved the structure with water drawn from a horse trough. Also saved was a summer kitchen situated at the rear of the home.

RECLASSIFYING OF REGISTERED MEN FOR ARMED SERVICE

Elimination of Class 1-B, the Selective Service designation for registrants considered fit for limited military service only, which began August 20, has been announced by Col. Robinson Hitchcock, State Selective Service Director. Thereafter all registrats who are not totally disqualified will be reclassified in Class 1-A and the Army will decide, after induction, on their individual assignment to full or limited military service. Registrants found to be unsuited for any military service will be placed in Class IV-F.

Instructing local boards on the reclassification of limited service men who had been placed in Class 1-B, which will be started throughout the country on September 1, Colonel Hitchcock stressed that not to exceed one-fourth of the present Class 1-B men in each local board area may be reclassified each month. It is expected that the reclassification will be completed by January 1.

In the reclassification of Class 1-B registrants, where the individual is not deferred for reasons other than physical, he will be re-examined by the local board examining physician to determine whether he has any obviously disqualifying defects which would prevent him from rendering any military service. If he has none he will be sent to the army induction station on the appropriate call.

Reclassification procedure requires that local boards place registrants not believed totally disqualified for military service in Class 1-A pending examination at army induction stations. Those men who are obviously physically disqualified will be given the Class IV-F classification, as will those rejected by the army.

The Selective Service action followed closely the recent dicision of the War Department to induct men with minor physical defects. Future calls for selectees will be for Class 1-A men only.

Men, having minor but not disqualifying defects, will be forwarded to army induction stations along with those having no known defects. The inducted men will be assigned by the army to general or limited military service according to their physical qualifications.

Conscientious objectors who heretofore had been classified in Class I-B-O, if fit for limited service in noncombatant units, or in Class IV-T-LS, if fit for limited service in civilian work camps, now will be classified Class I-A-O if fit for noncombatant military service, or in Class IV-E if fit for induction into work camps. Those physically unfit will be classified in Class IV-F.

Instructing local boards to reclassify limited service registrants, Col. Hitchcock cautioned that full consideration must be given to Selective Service policies governing deferments for dependency, family relationship, and occupation. While limited service registrants were not considered by their local boards to have any basis for dependency or occupational classification at the time they were originally classified, Col. Hitchcock pointed out that in some instances their status may have changed.

TRAIN DERAILED ON WABASH RAILROAD

Last Wednesday afternoon the Wabash experienced a peculiar wreck just north of the tower. A heavy freight coming from the north came cautiously toward the target, but for some cause was unable to stop before reaching the derail just north of the B. & O. When the engineer saw that he would be unable to stop the train before reaching the derail, he ordered his fireman off, and they alighted just before the huge 2800 engine and tender toppled off the track and down the bank on the east side.

Naturally traffic was tied up for a time. On Thursday, the two large wrecking cranes of the company were used in getting the monster engine back on the track, and by night this was accomplished without any accident of any sort. People for miles came to the scene of the wreck.

The LIONS CLUB

Twelve Lions enjoyed an interesting meeting Monday night at the Akins Tea Room.

The Scrap drive was discussed and plans made to begin the work in a week or two.

Clyde Rectenwall, Lion Education Chairman, read the objects of the Lions Club and the Lion's Code of Ethics.

Judge Endicott gave an informal talk on his work as Circuit Court Judge of our county. He has held that position for 30 years and ranks third in the state in length of service.

We list a few of the points discussed in his talk.

The Circuit Court is made up of four divisions: Juvenile, Probate, Criminal and Civil, each division has separate records, but one judge presides over each court. It keeps one man busy hopping from court to court.

Contrary to general opinion, actual trials make up but about 15% of the work. While 85% is desk work. There is an enormous amount of reading of reports and records, preparation of cases, and keeping of records.

JUDGE W. P. ENDICOTT

Another interesting point was the fact that divorce cases have decreased about 30% in the last year. When he first began his work there were about 67 divorces granted a year. The average during the later years is about 47; the lowest record being 27 in one year. In passing Judge Endicott mentioned that since the war the majority of divorce cases has been withdrawn.

Judge Endicott then spoke of his work in the juvenile court. He told of many of his interesting informal cases, bringing out the fact that the idea back of all that work is the rehabilitating of the youth and the making of a good citizen out of those who have a wrong start.

The next meeting of the Lions Club on September 14 will be Ladies Night. The speaker will be furnished by the B. & O. Railroad.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Master Garrett Reese, of Garrett, is here the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Olevia Keeler and family.

The B. & O. Paint crew are located here for the week painting the depot and all pumping equipment at the river.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole were Mrs. Nettie Baker, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bishop, of Auburn and Merritt Sechler.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hartranft spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ordway near Bryan, Ohio. Enroute home they called on Chas. Ordway's east of Butler.

Homer Woodcox and lady friend, of Kalamazoo, Mich., were here Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Woodcox. Miss Maxine Woodcox had been a guest of her brother from Thursday to Sunday.

Sandra Kay, born August 19, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oberlin, of Auburn, and weighing 8 pounds. Mrs. Oberlin is the daughter of Fred Gee and wife and granddaughter of Mrs. Matie Neiland of St. Joe.

Mr. Ralph Hawkens, of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., was a guest in the George Tustison home for a couple days last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Taylor and son, Chester and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor, of Jackson, Mich., were week-end guests.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and son, Charles, motored to Celina, Ohio, Sunday, where they met Mr. and Mrs. John Haverstock and baby, and spent the day together, and enjoyed a picnic dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown and son, Warren, of Butler, called on Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Trostel Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Brown is an aunt of Mr. Trostel and is quite poorly. Mrs. Wayne Trostel and children, of Garrett, were supper guests.

F. A. Hamman and family moved last week to Butler, so as to be near their work at the truck camp on Road 6 near Waterloo. The tire situation makes it critical for one to drive a great distance to their work, hence this move will save much of his expense.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hart called at News office Thursday afternoon, after attending the Hootman reunion at Alton Park. The Harts have sold their farm and expect to give possession this fall and will move to Ravenna, Ohio, where their daughter, Florence resides.

An application for a sanity inquest for Pauline Lydia Beree, of Newville township, has been filed in the DeKalb Circuit Court by a brother, Wilbur Beree, of Payne, O., and a sister, Daisy Hart, of Goshen. It is stated that Miss Beree, who is 33 years of age, tried to take her own life in 1937 and has grown worse since. She threatens to commit suicide and to burn the farm buildings. The application is supported by an affidavit by Dr. Gage Helms, of Hicksville, O. Judge Endicott appointed Drs. D. M. Hines and L. N. Geisinger, of Auburn, to examine Miss Beree and report.

Stricken with a partial paralysis, Watler J. McCoy, an outlaw who was turned over to the Allen County sheriff recently by Sheriff Artus Coyle after being recaptured on the B. & O. railroad tracks east of St. Joe, is now confined to his bunk at Fort Wayne. He does not have the use of one leg. However, it is stated that he is recovering from an injury to his neck that he inflicted in the DeKalb County jail in an attempt at suicide. His present affliction has no connection with the injury, the Allen County jail physician said. McCoy, who was being held in jail at Fort Wayne on a check charge when he escaped with four other prisoners, is being kept under close guard.

The DeKalb County selective service board Thursday released a list of 190 classifications, including 27 in class 1-A, available for military duty. Among this group known to News readers are included Laurence W. Haupt and Max L. Markle, of Spencerville, Ralph E. Lanum and James V. Hatch, of St. Joe. Those deferred as necessary civilian employes include Francis R. Sible and Geo. H. Argerbright, of St. Joe, Robert M. Hafner and Jack Grover, of Spencerville. As necessary war worker, Merle A. Guilford, St. Joe, and deferred for dependents include Arlie B. Dwyer, C. Brooks Trenary, Henry H. Fluke, Joe H. Keller, Simon Nicholls, Geo. H. Kees, Howard S. Grimm and Arthur L. Knop.

FAREWELL PARTY

A farewell party for Lewis Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walter of north of St. Joe, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Rosenberry on Monday evening. Lewis left Tuesday for Grand Rapids, Mich., where he has been working and where he enlisted, and from there today (Thursday) goes to Camp Custer.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Walter and son, Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Walter and sons, Burnell and Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Krafft and daughter, Marlene, Mr. and Mrs. David Koaht, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Keller and children, LeRoy, Violet, Leonard, Carol and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Praul and son, Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Rosenberry and children, Bob, Charles and Carol.

Ice cream and cake were served.

Frances Reidenbach, Dawn Keesler, Shirley Crothers and Carol Rosenberry appeared Tuesday evening in a Piano Recital given by Grace Finzer-Coughanour.

Several minor accident reports have prompted a warning from H. F. Mosbaugh, head of the Division of Fish and Game, that squirrel hunting should be on guard at all times. Although the number of accidents caused by bullets from hunters guns has decreased materially in recent years, many casualties are reported each season. More than ever it is felt that injuries and perhaps deaths caused by careless hunters are inexcusable and with the permission to hunt game should go the pledge to follow hunter's safety rules.

THERE GOES MY HEART

Cast: Fredric March, Virginia Bruce, Patsy Kelly, Alan Mowbray, Nancy Carroll, Eugene Pallette, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Lake, Etienne Girardot, Robert Armstrong, Irving Bacon, Irving Pichel, Sid Saylor, Mary Field, J. Farrell MacDonald.

Fredric March and Virginia Bruce romp through one of the merriest adventures of the year in THERE GOES MY HEART.

The story casts Virginia as a madcap heiress who tries to run out on her fortune and March as a reporter who tries to run out on his boss.

Virginia gives up her yacht for a job in a bargain basement and finds a new world full of walk-up apartments, kind-hearted salesgirls and eccentric motormen. Then into her life roams the roving reporter and the pair have a barrel of fun eating hamburgers, visiting skating rinks, riding in the subway and falling in love.

Patsy Kelly heads the supporting cast as the electric vibrator demonstrator who befriends the poor little rich girl, and versatile Alan Mowbray has one of his maddest roles as Patsy's subway motorman sweetheart, who works all night and studies chiropractic by day. Nancy Carroll returns to the screen in an important featured role.

Virginia Bruce leaves her father's yacht and looks for freedom in adventure in New York. She strikes up an acquaintance with Patsy Kelly who gets her a job in a bargain basement. Meanwhile Fredric March as a reporter who has been trying to get an interview with the heiress and who has taken an intense dislike to her sees her in the bargain basement and pretending not to recognize her takes her out to dinner. His hatred soon turns to love and the pair are soon having a grand time. He tears up his story about Joan. Meanwhile, however, Bill's editor has patched together the story Bill wrote about Joan and published it. Crushed by what looks like Bill's duplicity, Joan welcomes her grandfather and gratefully returns home with him. However, after considerable maneuvering by Patsy Kelly and Alan Mowbray the misunderstanding is straightened out, the pair are brought together again, and happiness reigns. THERE GOES MY HEART will go right to your heart and it will give you the laugh spree of a lifetime.

Important when writing SOLDIERS

Mail Address for Military Personnel.

Correspondents with members of the Armed Forces should note carefully the different methods of addressing mail to military personnel within the continental United States and those without the continental limits of the United States.

The correct examples below should be followed as to style, arrangements and directions which should be included on the envelope. Additional information is unnecessary and may possibly result in delay in delivering the letter to the soldier.

If a soldier is located in the U. S.:

Mrs. John Doe
107 High Street
Anytown, State, U. S. A.

Private John Doe, (Serial No.)
Company B, 373rd Infantry
Camp Wilton, Nebraska

If a soldier is located outside the U. S.:

Mrs. John Doe
107 High Street
Anytown, State, U. S. A.

Private John Doe, (Serial No.)
Company B, 373rd Infantry
Army Post Office No.
% Postmaster
City, State.—(As instructed by soldier or War Department)

Information on Address:

The station and location of a soldier outside the United States is a military secret upon which the life of your son, brother or husband may depend, and also the success of our war effort. Avoid writing to the War Department for this information.

Get the correct mailing address from the soldier, including the Army Post Office number, and the city through which mail addressed to him is to be handled. If, however this information is not available, after the soldier has left the country, then you may inquire the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington, D. C. for the correct mailing address. However, only the Army Post Office address will be furnished and not the foreign station of the soldier.

Postage Fees

Regular Mail: Three cents on letters addressed through Army Post Office number.

Air Mail: Six cents per half ounce.

Parcel Post: Postage charged only from city of mailing to port of dispatch in the United States. (Visit local Post Office for exact cost.)

Preparation of Mail

1. Incude your return address in upper left hand corner of envelope and allow plenty of white space on envelope for forwarding data by Postmaster.

2. Write on one side of page. When letters are censored, the material is actually cut out with a pair of scissors, thereby destroying unnecessarily harmless material on the reverse side.

3. Always write in plain, visible text, preferably English; never in secret writing of any type.

Reasons for Foreign Mail Censorship

1. Never include in your letters information concerning training troops movements, or production of military equipment or mention of any specific employment of that equipment. If your son includes that information within his letter, keep the data confidential.

2. Don't discuss security measures taken to protect plants, local utilities or transportation facilities. This is the heart of our home front, and the first targets for enemy aviation and parachute troops.

3. Never include any information about the weather.

4. Don't discuss adverse conditions which affect your farm or occupation.

5. Don't include criticism of the conduct of the war. Your views may not be based upon facts and may actually endanger the current military action in which the soldier may be concerned.

6. When sending pictures, make certain no information of a military nature is included in the scene.

7. Remember the purpose of censorship is not to place hardship on correspondents, but instead it is to collect information from mail coming from foreign countries while at the same time preventing important information from reaching the enemy.

Remember Your Letter May Fall Into Enemy Hands. Don't Make It Valuable Reading For Them.

Mail to Soldiers Highly Desired.

Don't be discouraged by long delays in receiving replies. This is a World Wide War. The seas are wide and rough sailing. Regular mail travels in convoys and there are many unpredictable factors that may unavoidably delay the delivery of mail to soldiers overseas. Be Patient.

Don't be discouraged by the above necessary military restrictions. Write often to the soldier; write long letters; help keep your soldier informed about your family; provide him with interesting personal reading matter. That is what he expects in his letters.

REMEMBER, the War Department considers your mail important enough to include a shipment of mail on every ship that leaves the country.

Bomb 'em with JUNK

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

Scrap iron and steel, other metals, rubber and waste materials. It will all be used to make tanks, ships, planes and the fighting weapons our boys must have. It is needed at once.

Sell it to a Junk dealer—give it to a charity or collection agency—take it yourself to the nearest collection point—or consult the Local Salvage Committee... If you live on a farm, and have found no means of disposing of your Junk, get in touch with the County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

Figures on Cost of DeKalb County Schools

With a figure of $57.86, Union township won the distinction of the lowest per pupil cost on the basis of daily attendance in the district schools of DeKalb County for grades 1-8 last year, taking the place of Butler township.

A year ago Union township had the highest average, $82.98. In the new report prepared in the office of County Superintendent Carl F. Stallman, Stafford township has the highest average cost, $107.59, as compared with $82.28 a year ago. Troy is next high, with $100.05, a jump from $75.22.

Only three townships show reductions this year. Those besides Union are Franklin, cut from $78.18 to $68.91, and Jackson, reduced from $66.40 to $62.28. Butler went from $55.50 to $64.69; Fairfield from $55.97 to $58.53; Keyser from $70.08 to $90.78; Newville from $60.14 to $85.17; Richland from $75.32 to $85.36; and Wilmington from $63.13 to $70.92.

In the three townships where the cost is figured for grades 1-6 the costs were: Concord, $59.36, a reduction from $63.82; Smithfiend, $64.42, an increase from $62.57; and Spencer, $60.60, a reduction from $68.16.

Report of Attendance Given

Where costs are higher, lower attendance and higher teachers' pay are chiefly responsible.

The average daily attendance follows: Butler township, 95, a loss of 1; Concord, 91, a loss of 14; Fairfield, 156, a loss of 2; Franklin, 111, an increase of 3; Jackson, 115, a loss of 8; Keyser, 107, a loss of 16; Newville, 41, a loss of 10; Richland, 147, an increase of 1; Smithfield, 137, a gain of 7; Spencer, 85, a gain of 8; Stafford, 33, a loss of 5; Troy, 34, a loss of 4; Union, 58, a gain of 10, and Wilmington, 125, a loss of 9.

Statistics for average daily attendance and per pupil costs in grades 7-12 follow: Concord, 135, $119.98; Smithfield, 179, $105.45, and Spencer, 111, $122.50.

Transfer tuition costs of the various townships follow: Butler, $2,230.58; Fairfield, $873.77; Franklin, $8,871.95; Jackson, $6,360.76; Keyser, $6,299.21; Newville, $1,726.12; Richland $3,300; Stafford, $1,709.95; Troy, $780.06; Union, $7,598.99; and Wilmington, $4,325.61. Butler's was practically the same as last year. Fairfield's was reduced from $3,892; Franklin's was increased from $1,173; Jackson's was increased from $5,970; Keyser's was cut from $7,421; Newville's was reduced from $1,948; Richland's was increased from $3,185; Stafford's was increased from $1,225; Troy's was reduced from $1,353; Union's was reduced from $11,307; and Wilmington's was reduced from $9,067.

Revenue Sources Reported

Revenue receipts of the townships for school purposes last year were $207,253.22, an increase of $8,030. The sources follow: Local taxation, $146,724.99; common school fund interest, $3,089.48; congressional township fund interest, $650.86; state school relief, $1,204.55; state vocational allotment, $2,026.07; state tuition support, $46,384.80; excise fund, $2,616.26; intangibles stamp tax, $4,241.32; and miscellaneous revenue, $308.89. Non-revenue receipts, mostly from transfer tuition, were $10,519.48. The grand total of balance and receipts was $326,642.39. The expenditures were $203,304.63, leaving a balance Aug. 1, 1942, of $120,337.76.

Disbursements included: Instruction, $93,773.02; operation, $43,015.22; maintenance, $7,889.30; fixed charges, $3,021.28; coordinate and auxiliary activities, $1,496.29; transfer tuition, $44,077; payment on bonds, $6,525; new buildings, $221.37; new building equipment, $2,511.15; and new school buses, $775.

Concord township retired $750 in bonds; Fairfield, $1,250; Smithfield, $3,000, and Spencer, $1,525. Unpaid bonds outstanding follow: Concord, $14,547.50; Fairfield, $18,450; Smithfield, $7,000, and Spencer, $4,200.

Operation of school buses costs Butler township $1,032; Concord, $3,123.40; Fairfield, $2,405.15; Franklin, $1,860; Jackson, $970.69; Keyser, $2,248.75; Newville, $1,038.10; Richland, $2,465.12; Smithfield, $6,373.09; Spencer, $3,229.86; Stafford, $950.11; Troy, $697.50; Union, $575.04, and Wilmington, $1,498.75.

Four Less School Houses

The schools were in operation 156 days. The number of boys completing the eighth grade was 84, girls, 108, a total of 192. This was a reduction of 6. Completing the twelfth grade were 37 boys and 43 girls, a total of 80, an increase of 3. The number of school houses in use was 37, a reduction of 4. The number of class rooms used was 89. One-teacher schools numbered 23, two-teacher schools 9, consolidated grade school, 1, and consolidated grade and high schools, 3.

Men teachers employed numbered 25 and women 53, a total of 78, a reduction of 5. The total tax levy for school purposes in Butler township was 49 cents on the $100 valuation, Concord, 94; Fairfield, 92; Franklin, $1.32; Jackson, 55; Keyser, 95; Newville, 54; Richland, 69; Smithfield, $1.28; Spencer, $1.03; Stafford, 35; Troy, 62; Union, $1.04; and Wilmington, 50 cents.

The longest ride to school in point of time of any pupil transported was 80 minutes in Concord township, with Smithfield having a record of 70 minutes. The other townships follow: Butler, 53 minutes; Fairfield, 60; Franklin, 40; Jackson, 50; Keyser, 45; Newville, 60; Richland, 35; Spencer, 60; Stafford, 50; Troy, 60; Union, 45; and Wilmington, 50. The total number of pupils transported was 1,176, an increase of 160. The total mileage of all routes per day (round trip) was 1,032, a reduction of 59.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Carl Stallman, of Auburn, was in town Monday on official business.

Richard Wiers, of Detroit, spent the week-end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wiers.

J. K. P. Martindale, father of Mrs. Ralph Sechler, celebrates his 97th birthday today, (Thursday) at the Sechler home where he has been for several weeks. His health is good and he is about the home, but his hearing is very poor which makes it hard to carry on a conversation.

Workers living in DeKalb County received $3,331 in July unemployment compensation payments. This compares with $3,678 paid in June, and $545 paid in July, 1941. Unemployment compensation payments on a statewide basis apparently are declining even faster than new jobs are opening up in war industries. Benefits paid in this county in July were $274 to rural residents; $1,519 to Auburn residents, and $244 to Waterloo residents.

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Persons mailing in application for canning sugar are warned by OPA officials that unless they use enough postage their letters will go to the dead letter office in Washington, D. C.

Since the war rationing board books must be included with the application, they also will go to the dead letter office and the individual will be without them for a considerable period.

James D. Strickland, State OPA Director, said that local War Price and Rationing Boards have no funds to pay postage due and that it is up to the rationing book holders to be certain that they have put enough stamps on to carry the books.

He also warned book holders again that they must sign the application form to make the application valid.

"A good many letters containing applications and war rationing books already have come in postage due and are on their way to the dead letter office," Mr. Strickland said.

"And a good many applications have come in without signatures or without other important information and will be returned, slowing the process for all concerned.

"If you are making an application for canning sugar, please follow the instructions carefully so that you will be promptly supplied and our staff will not be burdended with return mailings."

The whole town of Converse, in Miami County, is interested in a current experiment sponsored by the Lions Club. It seems that years ago there was a foundry a short distance from town. At one time or another there was an accident and nearly 140 tons of molten steel escaped to the ground and burned its way into the soil.

Nobody paid much attention to this until the current scrap drive and then the Lions Club decided to make it a project. The first move was to hire a dynamiter who exploded a few sticks on top of one of the big pieces. The sum total effect of this was to break all windows in the homes of Converse, including those of the Lions Club members.

A little dismayed, but undiscouraged, the Lions Club then sought the advice of steel mills and discovered that they will have to bore holes in the lumps and then dynamite. Steel mills have told them that the metal is of good quality and they can use it.

At the same time, another Converse citizen has rigged up a home magnet and is dragging a pile of slack in an effort to salvage the pieces of useable steel. He is now seeking priority for materials to build a larger magnet with which he hopes to salvage several tons more. Right now those are the two most spectacular Home Front projects at Converse.

The fight to keep down the cost of living is a fight in which there can be no truce.

Anybody who remembers the last war knows what happens to the cost of living when prices are not controlled. The last war brought what the economists called "inflation" and this inflation did tremendous damage. In some countries it wiped out the life savings of millions and brought other millions close to starvation. In the U. S. A. the cost of living rose so high that wages were not able to keep up with them.

During the last war, for instance, the mail order price for a pair of overalls rose from eighty-two cents to $2.95. Work clothing—jackets, dungarees, work shirts, and pants,—are an important item in the budget of every working family and when they cost too much the result is real hardship.

Last week OPA stops to make sure that work clothes, this time, remain at reasonable levels. OPA saw that there was a situation in the work clothes industry which, unless corrected, might force an increase in the prices charged for work clothing by retail stores. OPA cut the maximum price of cloth going into work clothes denims, jeans, etc.—And then reduced the maximum prices within which may be used by manufacturers and wholesalers for this clothing. The reduction is expected to save more than $6,500,000 for retailers of work clothing and as a result these clothes worn by most American workers in industry and agriculture, will continue to cost no more than they did last March.

Eight vessels were launched from Maine shipways in a single day last week—six cargo vessels and two destroyers...The Boy Scouts are distributing leaflets explaining price control to 25,000,000 homes throughout the country....WPB again urged home owners in the East to convert their furnaces from oil to coal if they can—and do it now. And ODT took control over all inland and coastal craft capable of transporting liquid cargo in a further effort to relieve the oil shortage...WPB has started a progrom to reclaim millions of gallons of chemical solvents and oils. These products are critically needed by our war machine and are being wasted now....And the Department of Interior is making it possible to harvest yucca from public lands—yucca, which grows wild and abundantly throughout the Southwest, is a domestic substitute for the hemp and jute fibers we used to get from the Far East. It can be used to make rope and twine, burlap and materials used in mattresses and in upholstery...A loss of key men in coal mines to other war industries and the armed forces is limiting production and threatens to make it impossible for the miners to supply the fuel needed for war industry and essential civilian uses...Not to be opened until Christmas—OPA has exempted "trees, mistletoe, holly, ferns, plants and other green stuffs" from the provisions of the general maximum price regulations.

An Important Wartime Statement

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

ELECTRICITY is a vital element in war production . . . Your Electric Company is proud of the fact that we have met all demands for electric service—we have done and will continue to do everything in our power to assure war industries that they will have sufficient power to keep their production lines humming twenty-four hours a day for the duration. In order to do this, we shall have to utilize every available man and woman in our employ and to use all of our equipment, including automotive equipment, in the most efficient manner. Rubber is one of the most critical of all materials, and because we too will be unable to secure tire replacements for a large portion of our cars and trucks we must of a necessity ASK YOU TO HELP US TO SCHEDULE NECESSARY SERVICE CALLS IN ORDER TO CONSERVE PERSONNEL AND EQUIPMENT—TIRES, CARS AND GASOLINE.

HOW YOU CAN HELP US!

If you plan on moving to a new location

Be sure and check on the existing electrical facilities at the new location to see whether they are adequate for your requirements. If they are inadequate, it may be impossible under Governmental restrictions, due to acute shortages of copper and other critical materials, for you or this company to make changes. We shall be glad to advise you concerning problems of this kind.

Connecting and disconnecting of your electrical service

If you desire service connected or disconnected, please give us as much advance notice as you can—one or two days, under present conditions, if possible. We will greatly appreciate your cooperation in this respect. It will also be helpful if you will see that our representatives are able to enter your premises on their first trip, thus eliminating unnecessary call-backs.

Customer Service Calls

We will appreciate your being absolutely sure of your need for one of our service men before calling. Please be patient after you have called and bear with us if we are not quite as prompt as we have been in the past. We will endeavor to give you good service and will do so in so far as possible, but it may take longer than in normal times as all service calls must be routed in order to save time, trucks, and tires. Your patience will be most helpful.

If you are without light or some appliance does not work

The trouble may be in your own home. A blown fuse, caused by some defective appliance or lamp cord, can be replaced easily by you. Carry a supply of fuse plugs so that you will not be inconvenienced. Pull the main switch, locate the blown fuse, and screw in one of like size. Have defective appliances or lamp cords repaired by your electrical dealer.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Stella and James Hart are visiting their brother, Charles at Camp Davis, N. C., making the trip by bus.

Helen Wade and Art Lyon are two more boosters for The News classified column. They both had results immediately and more than one customer in each case. It's the cheapest way to sell what you don't need, also to find what you want.

Have you heard the sermonette which was preached to pews? "My dear pews: you are always present, faithful, reverent, quiet, serviceable, dependable. You stay through the service. You never rush out. You do not lose faith because of the pettiness and stinginess of others. In these ways you are an example to all who sit on you."

Mrs. Belle Means, who has been ill, is now able to be around again.

Mrs. Cleo Reed and daughter, Adair, left on Sunday for a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. Ada Whitacre and family at Highland, Ind.

The Women's Society of Christian Education will be entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarice Hodges near Afton Cemetery. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Metta Sharp.

The Young Ladies Social Club was pleasantly entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. Cleo Reed. Those lucky for the evening were Mrs. Ruby Krafft, Mrs. Berniece Wilder, Mrs. Zelpha Steward and Mrs. LaVern Koch.

The Cheerful Workers Class of the Methodist Sunday School was most pleasantly entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Edith Akey. Two guests were present, Rev. Lee Sharp and Mrs. George Dancer.

Mrs. Virginia Speaks and sons, Larry and Pastel, James Webb, Patsy Angel, Jerry Woodring, Sonny Markle, Miss Vera Reed, Mrs. Ethel Bowser, Dale Wiesoff and Mr. and Mrs. James Reed assisted little Miss Adair Reed in celebrating her seventh birthday anniversary at her home Saturday. A large birthday cake and ice cream were enjoyed.

The Steward family reunion was held on Sunday at Eckhart Park, Auburn, with a very good attendance. The new officers are: President, Paul Steward; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Gladys Steward. Those attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter, Mrs. Cora Steward, Miss Arminta Steward, Miss Margaret Walter, and Mr. Paul Drerup.

The Curie reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams on Sunday. A bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all at the noon hour, after which a pleasant hour was spent in visiting. A business period was called by the president, F. L. Beams and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Frank Curie, of northeast of St. Joe; vice president, Mrs. Amanda Klopfenstein, of near Grabill; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Kathryn Jump, of Hicksville, Ohio. The meeting was then turned over to the entertainment committee, Mrs. Mildred Jarrett, of east of St. Joe and Mrs. Klopfenstein, who furnished the group with a round of merriment. At a late hour all departed for their homes thanking the host and hostess for a lovely day and hoping to meet again in another year.

Harry Shuff has landed a job on the maintenance crew of the B. & O. and is working with Oscar Harris of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland, Mrs. Mae Ervin and Mrs. Esther Coburn, attended the circus at Fort Wayne, Saturday afternoon.

Motorists are urged to protect their 1942 license plates, since new plates will not be sold in 1943. Instead a tag of some type will be attached to the present plates, thus conserving metal.

F. H. Langley, of Auburn, was in town Thursday calling on friends.

Harold L. Dunson, minister of the Church of Christ in Garrett for the last several years, will leave early in September for Cambridge, Mass., to begin his duties as an army chaplain.

John McCaffery, Jr., of St. Joe, left Tuesday evening for New York City to attend college, accompanied by his aunt, Mary McCaffery, she having spent a month in St. Joe the guest of her brother and family.

"The People Speak" Each Contribution Expresses to NEWS Readers Their Unbiased Opinion as to Jr. Club Production.

The play Friday evening was a good play for amateurs. It was quite interesting particularly the special numbers. It's for a worth while cause and people will patronize plays given for the benefit of the U. S. O.

Mrs. O. K. Shull.

Being one of many who attended the play presented by the Junior Dramatic Club, I will say that I enjoyed it immensely. To those who did not attend you missed an evening of good entertainment. To the cast it was a difficult task well done. I hope you continue to function.

M. E. Storer.

I am very glad to express my opinion of the drama presented Friday night at the gymnasium by the "Junior Dramatic Club." The young actors were well cast under capable direction.

Mrs. Wm. Curie.

It was my pleasure to witness the play, "The Beantown Choir," given Friday evening by the Junior Dramatic Club of St. Joe, for the benefit of the U. S. O.

A great deal of credit is due all who gave their time and talent to help make it a success. Not only was the play well directed, the music and costumes well chosen, but each person taking a part in the play seemed to forget his own identity and become the character he was impersonating.

All who had anything to do with the evening's entertainment have reason to feel proud of the result of their efforts.

Nettie P. Baker.

SUCCESS TO THE CLUB

The rendition of "The Bean-Town Choir" by the Junior Dramatic Club last Friday evening is deserving of very favorable comment. The performance management, costumes and all were evidence of careful thought and work. May the Club continue the work and give more such plays for worthy causes. Success to the Club.

Merritt C. Sechler.

Plenty of Variety

A great deal of enthusiasm and many favorable comments have been expressed by those who attended "The Beantown Choir" last Friday evening. The play was a light comedy which brought forth many laughs and contained enough variety to entertain the entire audience.

The original purpose of presenting a program of this type was to raise a sum of money to give to the United Service Organization which would benefit boys in our armed forces. However, it also served as a means for the young people who participated in producing the play to spend their leisure time in a constructive and charitable manner, something that will be appreciated to a greater extent as our leisure-time activities are more confined to our own community because of restricted transportation.

Ralph Sechler.

The Junior Dramatic Club, of St. Joe, presented on Aug. 21, 1942, "The Beantown Choir," the proceeds of which were given to the U. S. O.

The play, a three-act comedy with plenty of music was well received by a large and appreciative audience.

The crowd that turned out showed a fine spirit to this young dramatic group and also showed a fine spirit of patriotism in helping this worthy project, our U. S. O.

The Colonial Dance "Pretty as a Picture," directed by Paul Keller and starring Jean Billow and Sylvia Washler, was especially outstanding.

The musical coaching and parts speaking directed by Sylvia Washler and Tom Sellers was on a very high plane of music and dramatic direction. In fact, the entire cast and all committees aiding project deserve the highest compliments.

We hope to have this fine group present some more fine plays in the near future. Also wish to hear again our Grand Opera Star of the Puppet Stage.

Leon Kees.

"The Beantown Choir" was one of the best presented plays I have seen for a long time. Each actor seemed to know how to say and act every line.

Frank Lanum portrayed his part as the "Widow" almost like a professional.

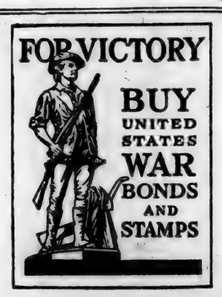
Several young ladies said they couldn't have done as well as he did.

The dancers can best be described by their song, "Pretty as a Picture."

St. Joe can be proud of it's director, Mr. Tom Selleres, the actors, and all the others who helped to present such a successful play.

May we in the near future see another performance by the St. Joe Jr. Dramatic Club.

Mrs. Maurice Kline.



A ROUSING HURRAH!

"Where you been, son?"

"Down ter the St. Joe Junior Dramatic Club play, ma."

"Did yur like it, son?"

" 'Twere better'n a feudin' ma."

Seriously, though, Beantown Choir carried enough variety to please everyone from Junior to great grandma. The play began with uproarious comedy, ending in the horror of a jumping skeleton. Moving into the second act, we found the perplexing situation developing of the eternal triangle between man and two women. The third act brought us the talent of various members of the Beantown Choir. Mimi, the famous opera star, with much heaving and many gestures followed true to puppet form. The play ended happily in marriage and the audience CLAPPING.

Tom Sellers is to be congratulated on his able direction; and the entire cast, those behind the scenes also, should be given a rousing HURRAH! It would be difficult to find fault with the play except..... "we want more."

Mrs. Arthur Lyon.

The Voice Of Experience

"The Beantown Choir" presented by the Junior Dramatic Club of St. Joe on Friday evening, August 21, was much appreciated by a very attentive audience besides given for a very worthy cause (U. S. O.) The play was well acted and directed from the beginning to end. It was a diversion in these troublesome times in giving one a carefree and enjoyable evening.

Speaking from experience a n-d knowing the amount of work it takes to produce a play of this kind, we can not help but commend all those that gave their time for the production of this play.

While rendering praise to the ones backstage who had an important part in getting costumes, lighting and stage ready for the production of the play and especially the director, Tom Sellers.

To all we offer our congratulations for an evening of fine entertainment.

D. B. Ridgway.

Near Professional Touch

It was a lovely night. There was a good-sized crowd, appreciative crowd. The proceeds went to a most worthy cause, the U. S. O. All of this created an atmosphere of helpfulness so necessary for successful amateur production of plays.

"Beantown Choir" is a ludicrous story of by-gone days. All action is in the living-room of well-to-do Widow Wood.

We looked at the stage setting with a critical eye and could find no flaw. It was a perfect back ground for the characters dressed in rich silks, velvets and laces made in the fashion of fifty years ago.

Each member of the cast gave his or her part in a most pleasing manner. Much credit is due the director, Tom Sellers, for with a near-professional touch he trained his group of inexperienced players into producing a play that will be remembered for its success.

The specialties were all good and included a puppet grand opera singer, a skit "Deep in the Heart of Texas," "A Bicycle Built for Two," sung, en costume, by Ralph Lanum and Cordelia Diedesch, "No, No, A Thousand Times No," a song and pantaomime by Evelyn George, and a very special number "Pretty as a Picture." This was a song and minuet by Jean Billow and Sylvia Washler. Miss Billow wore white satin and Miss Washler's dress was rose satin. The gowns were fashioned alike and had voluminous hoop skirts. The act was directed by Paul Keller.

The general production manager was Earl Kinsey and he may well be proud of the excellent work of his various committees the cast, the specialties, and the directors.

Mrs. F. R. Bowman.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Gas masks which came into use in warfare for the first time when the Germans used poison and mustard gas in World War I, are much improved today over those used then. The Chemical Warfare Branch of the War Department issues these gas masks to every man in the service. We are taking no chances.

The type pictured here is the "can" and "elephant nose" mask and costs about $9.25 each. The headgear is transparent, made of material resembling cellophane and does not cloud with the breath. You can buy two of these gas masks with the purchase of an $18.75 War Bond. We need thousands of them. Don't fail to give at least ten percent of your income every pay day for War Bonds. Buy them at your bank or postoffice, regularly.

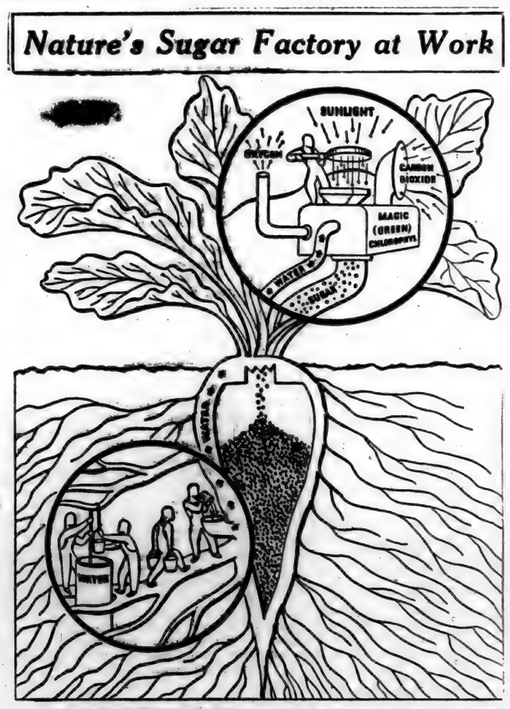
Nature's Sugar Factory at Work



Sugar of some kind is found in the sap of every living plant. Nature stores more sugar in the sugar beet and the sugar cane than in other plants, and for that reason they have become the chief sources of the world's sugar supply.

Sugar is formed in plants through a process of photosynthesis, which is illustrated in the case of the sugar beet in the accompanying pictogram. In this process, carbon dioxide from the air and water from the soil are combined within the plant through the agency of green pigment known as chlorophyl in the presence of light. For that reason sugar is often called "crystallized sunshine and water." The sugar which is manufactured within the green parts of the sugar beet is used principally for growth during the early part of the beet's life, but later in the season most of the sugar is carried to the root where it is stored.

To the scientist sugar is "sucrose," and in its pure form even chemists cannot tell whether it came from the sugar beet or the sugar cane. Sugar from beets is identical with sugar from cane in appearance, sweetness, quality and food value, and they may be used interchangeably for all purposes.

In 1942, according to estimates of the Office of Price Administration, which directs the sugar-rationing program, beet sugar will be the most important single source of our national sugar supply. Within a few weeks farmers of nineteen states will begin the harvest of more than one million acres of sugar beets. The crop is expected to produce approximately two million tons of sugar, enough to give a weekly ration of eight ounces for one year to every person in the United States. It is expected to be the largest crop in history.

SUGGESTED RECIPES FOR THE PICKLE SEASON

Now is the time of year when homemakers are probably making relishes and pickles. Recipes suggested by Home Demonstration Agent, Mary Lenore Moore are:

MUSTARD PICKLES

3 gal. pickles
1 gal. vinegar
1 c. horseradish
1 c. salt
1 c. mustard
1 tbsp. saccharin (level)

Wash pickles and chunk. Combine ingredients and add the pickles Put in jar.

SWEET PICKLES

Seven pounds pickles, chunked, leave in a salt brine strong enough to bounc an egg for 3 days. Soak 3 days in fresh water changing water each day. Simmer in weak vinegar for 3 hours with a piece of alum the size of a walnut. Dressing:

3 pts. vinegar
3 lbs. white sugar
1 oz. of cinnamon bark
1 oz. alspice buds
1 oz. celery seed

Boil 3 minutes

SACCHARINE PICKLES

7 quarts medium-sized cucumbers
1 teaspoon saccharine
1 cup dry mustard
1 cup salt
1 gallon vinegar

Wash cucumbers and pack into sterilized jars. Mix saccharine, mustard and salt and add to the vinegar. Pour over cucumbers in the jar and seal.

DILL PICKLES

40 to 50 cucumbers
2 ounces mixed pickle spices
Dill (fresh or dried)
1 pint vinegar
1 pound salt
one-fourth cup sugar (if desired)
2 gallons water

Wash and dry freshly picked cucumbers (soft water preferred.) Place a thin layer of dill in the bottom of a 5-gallon jar. (A layer of grape leaves may be placed on bottom of jar before dill is placed if desired.) Put cucumbers on top of dill. Dissolve the sugar, and salt in the water, add vinegar and spices, pour over the cucumbers. Place a layer of dill on top and cover with a heavy plate and weight it down to hold the cucumbers under the brine. Keep in an even room temperature (70 to 85 degrees F). Skim the scum from the pickles each day. Pickles will be ready for use in two or three weeks. Pickles are ready for canning when they are crisp, well flavored with dill and clear throughout. Pack into clean hot jars (use pint jars for smaller pickles and quarts for larger pickles.) cover with the brine and process in hot water bath 15 minutes below boiling point (about 180 degrees F.)

MIXED PICKLES

1 quart small cucumbers
1 pint cauliflower
1 pint pickling onions
1 pint diced muskmelon
1 pint small carrots
2 red peppers, seeds removed
1 pint celery, cut in 2-inch lengths.
4 tablespoons white mustard seed
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons celery seed
5 cups cider vinegar
5 tablespoons salt

Soak onions and cucumbers separately for 24 hours, in a brine made in the proportion of 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water. Remove from brine, soak in cold water for 2 hours and drain. Add spices, sugar and vinegar and let stand over night in a covered vessel. Drain off vinegar, heat it, add vegetables and allow mixture to simmer for fifteen minutes. Seal immediately in clean hot jars. Any combination of vegetables available may be used.

PLEASING VOICES

A friend remarked that the other day when speaking over the phone the telephone operator snapped at him and following this, in a store a clerk gave such a curt reply to a question that it made him stop to consider the effect of a voice on your disposition. He had started out the day in a friendly enough mood but two cross voices altered his frame of mind. It is common enough that most of us in St. Joe are under some sort of mental pressure, perhaps the telephone operator and the clerk couldn't work up a 'smiling voice' because of theirs. But if ever we need a pleasant cheerful tone to conversation, this is the time. There is something about the voice that smiles that gives us a lift, a bit of cheer that might snap us out of a melancholy mood, that would offer the come-back after a period of confusion and bewilderment. Why should not we all stop to consider if we are trying to keep our voices nice to the ear?

GILLIE EXPOSES SMEAR TACTICS OF NEW DEAL

Congressman Charges Outsiders Are Directing 'Purge' Campaign In This District.

Charges that Fourth District New Dealers are collaborating with radical leaders of the Eastern "purge Congress" movement in an organized campaign to create disunity by attacking the patriotism of Americans who opposed our entrance into the war before Pearl Harbor, were made today by Congressman George W. Gillie.

Denouncing what he termed "an undercover alliance intended to conceal the source of this smear campaign," Congressman Gillie Predicted that Hoosiers, valuing their political independence, will wreck the purge plans of outsiders.

"Citizens of this District will be interested to know that the so-called Union for Democratic Action, a New York organization whose Communist connections have been exposed by the Dies Committee, is sneaking into the local political arena," Congressman Gillie said.

"Hoosiers will not be pleased by the underhanded methods which try to make this smear seem to be of local origin. It is dictated by outsiders who believe they can get by with telling a majority of my constituents they were all wrong before Pearl Harbor."

Cities Anonymous Pamphlet

In his support of his charge that local New Dealers are collaborating with the Eastern purge committee, Congressman Gillie cited a smear pamphlet, of anonymous origin, which is being widely circulated throughout the Fourth District by Cleland-for-Congress workers. The pamphlet, purporting to show that Gillie has "obstructed" national defense, is identical in almost every respect with the smear propaganda of the Union for Democratic Action.

"The similarity is more than a coincidence," Congressman Gillie declared. "Local purveyors of this poison as much as admit its outside origin by refusing to have their names identified with it. Cloaked in cowardly anonymity, this smear is obviously a product of the Union for Democratic Action."

Several thousand of the pamphlets, demanding the defeat of Congressman Gillie, have been handed out at defense factory gates in Fort Wayne and in saloons and bars of other Fourth District communities. Thousands of others, it is reported, have been received at Cleland-for-Congress headquarters for future distribution.

Printed on the back is an American flag, a victory emblem, and a definition of Americanism. This has caused the pamphlet to be described as "red, white and blue on one side, and 'yellow' on the other."

Other Districts Invaded

Congressman Gillie said that a "similar but less subtle" smear campaign is being directed by the Union for Democratic Action against other Indiana Republicans, notably Congressman Robert A. Grant, of South Bend.

"These attacks," he asserted, "are cleverly mixed with material lifted almost verbatim from the special 'purge Congress' supplement of the New Republic Magazine, published in conjunction with the U. D. A.

"In some districts, reprints of the supplement itself are being distributed by local collaborators of the U. D. A. Evidently fearing that most Hoosiers do not like the New Republic, the undercover technique of cloaking the material in anonymity is being used in the Fourth District."

Thomas Amlie, former radical Congressman from Wisconsin and now director of various states urging them to use this material.

Denounced by State Department

The Dies Committee has extensive records concerning the organizers and members of the U. D. A Congressman Gillie said, as well as their memberships in hundreds of other Communist front organizations.

The State Department in Washington also is interested in the background and activities of this organization, he reported, and their files contain the following revealing report.

"The Union for Democratic Action, despite its name, is an aggregation of persons whose chief claim to public attention is their long record of affiliation with the front organization of the Communist Party.

"Even more sinister than the past records of the union's members is the objective of the group. That objective may be summarized briefly as the utilization of America's war crisis for the purpose of effecting what the union believes to be a program of social gains. Translated into stark realism, it is the entrenchment of the proponents of class struggle even more deeply into American life.

"The case against the Union for Democratic Action may be stated in brief by calling attention to the fact that its outstanding leaders have long records of affiliation with numerous front organizations of the Communist Party."

Congressman Gillie pointed out that while the U. D. A. is opposing his reelection, it is supporting the candidacy of Rep. Vito Marcantonio, of New York, who was once characterized by former Postmaster General James A. Farley as the only Communist member of Congress.

CLASS REUNION WAS HELD LAST SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcox entertained the fourth gathering of a high school group dating back to 1901, at their beautiful and commodius country home, just north of Coburntown Church, on State Road 101, on Sunday.

The day was ideal in every respect and was responsible for a splendid turning out of those who had been invited. By the noon hour twenty-five were present and ready for the carry-in dinner.

The home was supplied with beautiful flowers, brought by a number of the guests.

The ladies occupied the house, and engaged in visiting and singing, and others who were talented as readers when in the school were asked, to recite and this afforded much merriment.

The men occupied the front yard and talked shop, each of course helping to solve the problems of the other, because the farmer and the business man realized that their difficulties were of vital interest to each other.

For a diversion the men would walk about the premises and then assemble in the shade and try hard to settle many of the difficult problems of this age.

As the afternoon slipped by, one by one, the group began to break up being called by their daily task of doing chores and each expressing hopes of another reunion next year, should conditions be favorable and thanking the host and hostess for the happy day together.

Those who attended were:

Mr. and Mrs. Dio Dermott, of Constantine, Mich.; Mrs. Nettie Baker, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Lee. O. Tustison, Defiance, Ohio; Mrs. Laura Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Merrit Sechler, Mrs. Leia Northrup, Roy Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty and the host and hostess.

Mrs. Delphia Provines of Oklahoma City, Okla., who had been visiting in the community, was a guest for the first time, having been a member of the class of 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsmith, of Ft. Wayne, were afternoon guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dixon, of Wahjamega, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hudsell of Peru, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ulm, of Butler, were missing from the group. An invitation from Merritt Sechler was extended for the next reunion and was unanimously accepted.

BOND SALES ARE DOWN

August has always been recognized as a month when business slows down, and the government has recognized this fact also, when most all quotas were under subscribed. The local postoffice reports the following sales:

War Bonds $675.00
War Stamps $175.00

Spencerville Postoffice sold bonds to the value of $468.75 during August.

A report to state authorities made by D. E. Messenger, of Auburn, civilian defense director for DeKalb County, Monday showed that of a total population of 24,756 in the county, 778 men and women are giving part of their time as volunteer defense workers. The list includes the selective service board and examining physicians, air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen and police, demolition crews, nurses' aides, and other workers.

TRI-TOWNSHIPS MOBILIZE IN SCRAP DRIVE

Salvage job in second front for every patriotic man, woman and child in America and especially in this section of DeKlb County as the Lions Club has organized for the collection of all scrap materials, and have designated next Saturday, September 5, as a time to rally and see that it is brot in to the St. Joe or Spencerville Elevators, where it will be weighed and paid for.

We are asking for the co-operation of all citizens in this effort. Call the collection depots in case you have no way of delivering and arrangements will be made to call. Our people are busy, and we must insist that you do your part in making this effort successful.

The men locally heading the drive for scrap metals are Clifford Billow and Maurice Kline, St. Joe; Clyde Reetenwall, Franklin Robinson and Claude Laub, of Spencerville.

War with its horrors, its ever increasing demand for personal sacrifice, its restriction of individual rights, has cast a shadow over our country. No section, town, village, city or hamlet can escape its demands, demands that affect the lives of all of us. Yet we here have not felt the full potency of total war, at least many of our inland towns and cities will be secure from the scourge of the enemy. But this does not mean that we can allow ourselves to deviate one iota from the avowed purpose of total victory. To achieve this we must work, sacrifice, and bend every effort individually and collectively to contribute our efforts where they are vitally needed to win the war.

In every home in America, without exception, there are things that have long outlived their usefulness. True, they may be wrapped in memories,—delightful mementos of children at play. Ted's first tricycle....Mary's doll carriage....the skates that Bill learned on....These are only things....things that have passed, their utilitarian value, that we are asked to give as scrap. They aren't scrap to us.... they mean something in our lives. But our homes are still standing here. Over there they have a different kind of scrap....they have the beams that used to support the steeple of their church....the iron rails that little hands used to grasp to help them up the stairs....Yes—they have much more scrap of this kind than we.... but let us give the scrap in our homes —and not the scrap of our homes.

The LIONS CLUB

Mr. Phil Schorr, assistant general freight and passenger agent of the Wabash Railroad Co., Toledo, Ohio, representing the Eastern Railroads, will be the speaker for the Sept. 14 meeting of the Lions Club. Each Lion will be accompanied by his wife or guest. Reservations will be made not later than Sept. 12, with Lion Dale Wicoff, secretary of the Club.

MRS. JENNIE MOODY DIES AT AGE 94

Mrs. Jennie Moody, 94, mother of Dr. J. E. Graham of Auburn, died Monday morning at two o'clock at Reed's Convalescent Home. Death was due to senility.

Mrs. Moody was born in 1848 in Trenton, Ontario, the daughter of J. A. W. Meyers and Louis Hildreth Meyers. She was married to J. E. Graham, of Kingston, Ontario, in 1872. To this union two children were born, Erthenia, and John, Erthenia dying in infancy. In 1875 Mr. Graham passed away. In 1880 Mrs. Graham came to Indiana with her son to visit her sister and decided to remain. In 1888 she was married to Samuel Moody of Waterloo, where she lived for twelve years. In 1900 she moved to Auburn.

Mr. Moody preceded Mrs. Moody in death in 1915, and since that time has lived with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Graham.

She is survived by one son, Dr. J. E. Graham, a brother, Dr J. E. Meyers, of Beloit, Wis., a granddaughter, Mrs. Erthenia Quance, Auburn, County Red Cross nurse, and three grandsons, Major Gladwyn Graham, of the U. S. Army, and Lieutenant-Commander Du Verne Graham, U. S. Navy, and John E. Graham, of Philadelphia, Pa., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Dilgard Funeral Home, Rev. Hugh Craven, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Waterloo cemetery.

OTHER TEACHERS FOR SCHOOLS ARE CONTRACTED

Last week we were unable to report all the teachers for this section.

Trustee, R. E. Richards, of Newville, is able to report Edgar Willenar for Newville school with Mary Moore-Platter in primary department.

Trustee, Lewis E. Freeman, is able to report only three teachers as follows: Winnifred Peters, Magginis; Zora Titler, Hopewell, and Ruth Kelley for Jackson Center.

School starts September 8.

One vacancy exists among the high school faculties under his jurisdiction, Carl F. Stallman, of Auburn, the county superintendent, reported last Thursday. This resulted when Mrs. Dorothy Beeman, instructor of commerce and mathematics at Spencerville, resigned to take another position. Floyd Petty, of Hamilton, has been employed to teach science at St. Joe and Mrs. Madge Lynch, of Brazil, Ind., will fill the position of English teacher at St. Joe. Miss Dorothy League, of Indianapolis, had been hired for the latter post, but resigned.

JURY MEMBERS SELECTED FOR NEW TERM

The jury drawing held at the office of County Clerk Murray A. Steele Monday by Jury Commissioners Gerald Russell, of Auburn, and Vern Sparks, of Smithfield township, resulted as follows:

The new jury is scheduled to hear an interesting case on Monday, Sept. 14, when Mrs. Goldie Hodge, of Fort Wayne, will be tried on a drunk driving charge. She was arrested July 26 following an accident on Road 27 north of Waterloo in which four automobiles were involved. She pleaded not guilty at the time and was released on bond.

The only other jury case set at this time for the new term, which begins next Monday, is that on Wednesday, Sept. 16, of Joseph Alexander against Charles and Cora Donaghy on a note. The case was venued here from Allen Superior Court.

It is likely that other jury trials will be placed on the calendar when the court calls the docket Tuesday, Sept. 8.

CLASS PARTY

The August meeting of the Loyal Women's class of the St. Peter's Lutheran Church at Spencerville met at the home of Mrs. Addie Miller, Wednesday evening, August 26th. Devotionals and a brief business session were given. Mrs. Alma Hart and Mrs. Maude Beams were on the program committee. Games and contests were held. Eighteen members were present to enjoy the occasion. Pot luck supper was served. The next meeting will be held in September at the home of Mrs. Dean.

Complete First Aid Course

Eight received cards for completing standard Red Cross first aid course: Doris Yeiser, Lucille Lyon, Louise Sechler, Franc Wiers, Cliff Billow, Roy Maxwell, Ray Hadley, and D. B. Ridgway. The entire class will take the advanced course in Auburn, starting in September. Owen Elson, of Garrett, was the instructor.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Tom Sellers will teach in the Arcola schools this year in the English, Art and Mathematical department.

The Junior Dramatic Club is able to report a net earning of $32 from their recent play, and will be used for USO assistance. The members wish to thank all who assisted in any way to make their first attempt such a success.

DeKalb County in August exceeded its quota of defense bond and stamp sales by $1,238.75, according to a report Tuesday by Fisher West, of Auburn, chairman of defense savings for all of DeKalb County except Garrett. The quota expected was $64,800 and DeKalb County sales of bonds and stamps amounted to $66,038.75.

The average-sized family in Indiana has been placed at 3.12 persons, according to a report of the 1940 census of housing. The medium size of the family in urban areas has been placed at 3.07 persons, while in the rural non-farm areas, the figure has been set at 2.98 persons a family. The average family in the rural farm sections is 3.98 persons.

Friends and relatives held a farewell party for DuWayne Haynes at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Haynes, southwest of Auburn, Sunday, August 30. DuWayne will leave for Camp Perry, Ohio, Saturday, Sept. 5, where he will enter the U. S. Army. The young folks furnished the musical entertainment in the afternoon. A very delicious pot luck dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour. The Haynes family formerly lived on the Krise farm west of Concord.

NEED FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK

Twelfth Annual Observance Sunday, September 27 through Sunday, October 4, 1942, Is Urged by County Council

Religious Education Week is one of the nation-wide observances of the United Christian Education Advance and has as its purpose the developing in the home, in the church, and in the community an increasing consciousness of the importance of Christian religious education, particularly in these times.

A spiritual advance equal in tempo and degree to America's all-out defense program is urged by Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, "or else the nation may find it has won its war and lost its soul."

Wartime conditions have troubled and quadrupled the problem of strengthening the nation's spiritual foundations "so that we may achieve that better, more Christian way of life in the days to come," he said in issuing a call for observance of the twelfth annual national Religious Education Week.

"A favorable start has been made," he said, "in nurturing the spiritual life of the men in the services, both in their camps and in camp areas. These efforts will become better organized and more wide-spread during the coming year."

Of interest to all churchmen today is the parallel, and "actually more serious" problem of intensifying religion's service to the civilian population, particularly to men, women and children in industrial and underprivileged areas.

The national week will mark organized effort of Christian educators to take religion out to the entire nation. Last year's observance stressed the fact that more than 15 million school age children and more than 30 million were without religious ties of any sort.

During the past year, the Protestant Churches, working through the council, have moved toward answering this challenge. A four-year program known as the United Christian Education Advance was launched in February with intense organizational efforts continuing through this summer. It has three emphases in its program to make Christian education available to every American: Church, Family, and Community.

The past months have brought organizational efforts centering in all three emphases of this program. In May a national Christian Family Week stressed the home unit's part in developing Christian citizens.

Religious Education Week beginning in late September will mark the spread of the movement to its third emphasis of the community.

"Development of the Christian way of life in every home, in every area of church life, in every community will result in a Christian nation," Dr. Ross explained.

"Foundations of Freedom" will be the week's theme with nationally known educators, churchmen, and legislators taking part. In addition to localized activities, the week's program will feature national radio broadcasts.

Daily themes to be observed during Religious Education Week will include:

Sunday, Sept. 27, "The Truth Shall Make You Free."
Monday, "Free—To Serve!"
Tuesday, "The Home a Foundation of Freedom."
Wednesday, "A Free Church in a Free State."
Thursday, "Community Foundations of Freedom."
Friday, "Youth's Claim to Freedom."
Saturday, "Good Will, A Foundation of Freedom."
Sunday, "World-wide Foundations of Freedom."

Every local church is urged to participate in Religious Education Week. It comes at the time of year when many churches are accustomed to launch the year's program vigorously through Rally Day and Promotion Day.

The DeKalb County Council of Christian Education joins in the observance by urging the leaders of its churches to secure their own denominational suggestions and plans for the observance and cooperate through local church participation.

Let us be aware that it is in the local church that the real program of religious education reaches the child, the youth, the adult, and their homes. No observance of Religious Education Week can possibly achieve the desired results unless each church carries out a vigorous program.

LADIES TO TAKE CAKES

A cake display will feature the Farm Bureau meeting next Tuesday evening at the school house, and all ladies are asked to furnish cakes for such display. After they are judged and the program of the evening is completed, the organization will furnish the ice cream for the members, and the cakes will be used for serving.

Maxine Woodcox has resigned her position as manager and operator of the telephone exchange and will take work in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Marjorie Ramsey has been hired to take charge of the work.

When School Bells Rang in 1842

With the opening of school just around the corner, American boys and girls are thankful that such disciplinary measures as the above belong to the tattered pages of their nation's history. When the New York city board of education marked the 100th anniversary of its founding, public school students re-enacted scenes that were commonplace back in 1842. In those days the "slow" student wasn't treated with special consideration. In fact, his scholastic standing (or lack of it) was made obvious to all. Today's modern educators are much more scientific in their handling of pupils.

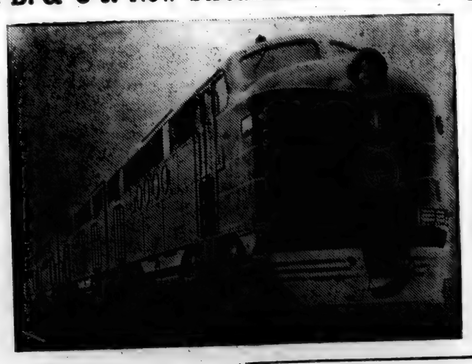
The B. & O's. New Streamlined Diesel Freight



The new B. & O. mainline Diesel freight locomotives, like the mainline Diesel passenger locomotives on crack B. & O. trains, were manufactured by the Electro-Motive Division of General Motors, at LaGrange, Ill.

Builder of 85% of the main line Diesel passenger locomotives and 65 per cent of the Diesel switching locomotives now in service on American railroads, Electro-Motive is the only supplier of Diesel mainline freight locomotives. Shortly after Hitler marched on Poland in 1939, Electro-Motive completed tests of an experimental freight locomotive over 83,000 miles of track on 21 different railroad lines, under all conditions, with a spectacular record of not a minute of lost time.

The Diesel freight locomotive measures 103 feet from its stream-lined prow to its rear coupler. There are four short power cars, each containing a 16-cylinder GM two-cycle Diesel engine, conservatively rated at 130 horsepower. The crankshafts of each of these four Diesels, with a total horsepower of 5400, are connected directly to four electric generators, which feed power into the traction motors located in the trucks. There are sixteen traction motors, each of which is geared to two wheels, making every one of the 32 wheels of the locomotive a "power wheel."

The locomotive can pull a freight train at 70 miles an hour, as compared with a maximum speed of 120 miles an hour for her sister mainline passenger locomotive, but in actual freight train operation such speed is not required or attained.

Frequent water stops are unnecessary, because water is used only in the radiators of the four powerful internal combustion engines that can go days without replenishing, like automobile engines. Fuel oil tank capacity is 4800 gallons.

Even more important than these time-saving Diesel qualities is the accelerating ability of the new freight locomotive. Design of the electric transmission and flexibility of the two-cycle Diesel engines enables the locomotive to start a long heavy train—either on the level or on an upgrade—and get it up to balanced speed in less time and distance than are required by the most powerful steam locomotive to do the same job. Time saved thru quick acceleration after stops or slowdowns for curves or other road conditions mounts into hours over long distances. The Diesel freight locomotive has the same tremendous power available at low speed as at cruising speed. Moreover, the power is electrically and evenly applied at 32 power wheels which gives greater traction in wet weather.

Operation of the Diesel locomotive is less affected than the steam locomotive by weather extreme cold or heat. For inspection and repairs two men can handle every moving part of the GM Diesel engine, except the crankshaft, without a crane. The B. & O. has tested the high availability of Diesel mainline passenger locomotives, which normally receive a general shopping about every 750,000 miles, as compared with 150,000 miles for a steam locomotive. One B. & O. Diesel passenger locomotive ran over a million miles before major overhaul.

A novel feature of the new locomotive is its ability to brake electrically. Electrical retarding brakes have been used on some of the older types of electric locomotives, which draw their current from power lines through trolleys or third rails, but it is a new feature on "independent" Diesel freight locomotive power. By simply reversing the fields of the Diesel locomotive's 16 traction motors, they become generators. This method of producing retardation is similar to that of driving an automobile down hill in second gear. The electric current, so generated, is fed into grids on the roof of the locomotive power units and is dissipated in the form of heat. This new method of braking, made possible by the flexibility of the electrical transmission of a Diesel locomotive, saves wear and tear on brake shoes and wheels of the whole train.

The operating crew's compartment is similar to that of the Diesel passenger locomotives. All control levers are easily accessible, and, with the exception of one lever that controls the traction motor connections, they are identical to steam locomotive controls—namely, throttle, reverse bar, train and locomotive air brakes, sander, bell valve and whistle cords. Therefore, it is simple for an engineer to switch over from steam to Diesel after a few hours of instruction.

An instrument board, similar to an automobile dashboard, has indicators which show track speed, air brake pressures, wheel slip and train control indications. Back in the engine rooms are indicators to signal Diesel engine trouble and hot journal bearings. Automatic windshield wipers and defroster slot are provided. Adequate ventilation in the cab is provided by roll-down side windows, and can be heated for cold weather by merely throwing a switch. Rear wall and roof of the cab are soundproofed against train and engine noises, enabling the crew to carry on conversation without raising their voices.

The power-car framing is constructed on the trussed bridge principle. The streamlined prow of the locomotive is especially braced with a battleship battering ram to protect the crew in case of a collision. The crew's safety is further provided for by the position of the cab high in the nose, above and back of the normal point of impact.

The appearance of the new B. & O. Diesel freight locomotive is similar to that of its sisted passenger locomotives, with the notable exception that its nose is more blunt, suggesting bulldog power. Since there is no smoke, soot and steam to mar the finish, the designers used the same colorful paint job used on Diesel passenger locomotives, airplanes and modern trucks.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Battles in the far corners of the earth are tied by strong, invisible hands to what happens in our Hoosier Kitchens, our corner grocey, drug-store, shoe shop, drygoods store, laundry, lumber mill, paint shop, hardware store, motion picture theater. If we bought freely everything we wanted, many of our fighting men would lack shoes, clothing, mattresses, medical supplies. There would be fewer guns, tanks, planes and shops.

On the other hand, if the sellers of goods took advantage of that greatly increased national income which is competing for the limited amount of goods available, another kind of enemy—the war ogre, inflation—would score a victory. The Office of Price Administration warns us that the threat of inflation, of high living costs, is not licked. Our surplus buying power still is mounting, while farm products and wages are loopholes in the price control program which will need serious attention. If living costs are not to soar as in previous wars, farmers will have to take less for their products, workers will have to give up the idea of unnecessary wage boosts, and business profits will have to be cut.

Outside the uncontrolled danger zones, however, price ceilings are being steadily extended to protect our pocket books. Overalls and other staple work clothes, toweling, blankets, cotton goods, cold weather apparel, storm doors and sashes, fire and snow shovels, room heaters, saw handles, toys, games and Christmas novelties and equipment for winter sports will cost no more than they did last year. If we economize on fuel oil, at least we can afford winter gloves, wool sweaters, ear muffs, and heavy shoes as long as the stocks last.

In many lines, as present stocks are exhausted and replacements are diverted to war needs, we must expect to save what we have or do without. Rubber goods of all sorts, of course, will be at a premium. Wire coat hangers must be cherished, cleaners now have a right to ask for a small deposit for their return unless customer brings his own. Paper dress patterns for home-made dresses will have to be no larger than the garments sold in stores. Cattle hair, the best material for bunk mattresses where the climate is damp, will go to the boys who have to fight in steaming jungles. Veneer made from white oak lumber will be missing from store shelves, and all grades and types of soft-wood lumber will soon be hard for the civilian to get. He may not even rent a new typewriter for modern war needs typewriters for swift and legible communications. Dried fruits take up little space in cargo boats. Canned California sardines will be a part of soldiers' rations. Convalescents in military hospitals must have canned chicken and turkey.

Users of fuel oil will join buyers of gasoline in a broad program to save these liquids, a program brought about by the shipping shortage. The tankers sunk off our Eastern Coast have drawn into their vortex consumers of fuel oil and gasoline from Maine to Texas, from North Dakota to Louisiana. Regulations designed to free some 5,000 to 7,000 tank cars for service on the East Coast will affect 20 states, Indiana included.

The scrap "drive" is not for this month or the next, it is for the duration and must be sustained—if we are to meet the unending need for steel. A sizeable contribution continues to come from auto graveyards which in the past four months have turned up 1,623,360 tons of salvaged metals, in July alone, 434,448 tons of iron and steel and 18,697 tons of scrap rubber.

All these far-flung and diverse efforts add up to just one thing—our common will to defeat our enemies. This national determination was underscored in WPB Chairman Donald Nelson's second war production report. Munitions output in July was 3½ times as great as our output in November, 1941. For that month aircraft production was up 11 per cent over June, ordnance 26 per cent, naval construction 22 per cent, and merchant ship tonnage 6 per cent over the previous month. The War Production Drive, with its 1250 Labor-Management committees serving plants in which nearly three million men and women work for victory, has had a great deal to do with speeding production.

In South Bend, Ind., a one-week community nutrition campaign resulted in a 10 per cent increase by typical city families in knowledge of food values, interest in healthful foods, and use of healthful foods...The Office of Civilian Defense will accept the services of conscientious objectors who volunteer for civilian defense work... Mail deliveries will be cut and many mail boxes will stand idle for the duration, to save time and manpower.... "Thrill shows" by dare-devil drivers of automobiles and motorcycles have been banned. They use up rubber and gas.....Violators of various official regulations dealing with price ceilings and the sale of commodities are finding out that the government can get tough....Laundries, dry cleaning establishments and motion picture theaters will not be able to replace equipment for the duration.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

HOG CHOLERA OUTBREAK

A hog cholera outbreak in DeKalb County has been reported to County Agent, C. E. Baker. This is extremely serious and DeKalb County farmers are warned to be on the alert to prevent the spread of this disastrous disease.

Hog cholera can be prevented by vaccination. The following precautions should be taken in preparing the herd for vaccination: Hogs should not be fed grain or slop for at least 12 hours before vaccinating them. Body temperatures of 103.5 to 105 degrees occur early in a cholera outbreak or several days before the hogs stop eating. Clean pastures, yards, and pens permit clean vaccination. Filthy, muddy, dusty quaters make it difficult to clean the skin at the points of injection of the serum and virus. A filthy skin can not be freed completely of filth organisms. The judgment of a veterinarian should be used in determining the quantity of serum and virus to be injected into pigs of different ages and weights.

The following point should be considered in caring for the hogs after vaccination: It is not advisable to allow hogs that have just been vaccinated to feed from a self-feeder of hog-down corn. They should be hand-fed the grain ration limited to just what they will eat in one-half hour, twice daily. If pasturing on clover, alfalfa, or a forage crop, it may not be necessary to feed grain. Slop is not a satisfactory feed for recently vaccinated hogs. The limited ration should be fed about ten days. After this the quantity of grain may be gradually increased to all that they will eat.

Hand feeding allows the person in charge of the herd to observe the condition of individual hogs. Vaccinated hogs that are slow or do not eat at all, should be taken out of the herd and placed in special quarters for observation and treatment.

The death rate from cholera can be lowered by vaccinating herds in communities where hogs are moved from sales barns, stock yards, and other live stock centers to the farm; by determining the state of health before vaccinating them; by administering sufficient cholera serum to protect the hogs against the virus; by the early diagnosis of cholera and the treatment and vaccintion of sick and exposed hogs; by giving the herd special care and reducing the grain ration for a short time following vaccination; and by observing disease-control regulations.

All farmers should be on their guard against this disease and should call in a competent veterinary at the very first sign of trouble.

DRUMS OF AFRICA

Cast: Buster Crabbe, Charles Middleton, Sheila Darcy, Vince Barnett, Weldon Heyburn, Robert Carson, Paul Scott, Hal Price, Floyd Shackleforth.

The film, "Drums of Africa" or "Jungle Man" opens with Buster Crabbe in the title role, that of Junga, a white doctor, laboring in the heart of the jungle to perfect a serum for the dreaded fever, Malaka. Into the savage head-hunter country comes a party of archeologists, headed by Weldon Heyburn, his fiance Sheila Darcy, and Vince Barnett. As Heyburn dashes on ahead to locate and film the lost ancient "City of the Dead," Miss Darcy meets and pursues the anything but reluctant, Crabbe. In the course of her wanderings, she is trapped by a band of maurading beasts and Crabbe has his first opportunity to rescue the native-clad white girl. Later the rescue act is repeated when a tribe of semi-savages desert them in a village as it is being pillaged by lions. This time, Crabbe is forced into a body-to-body wrestle with a four hundred pound King of Beasts before he manages to save the girl from death.

Meanwhile her fiance, Heyburn, is being chased by a party of headhunters who have taken offense at his finding and filming their ancient city. When he does make his way back to the settlement, he is wounded and racked with jungle fever. At that his is a better fate than Vince Barnett's who is left on the trail with a native spear through his body.

The ship carrying the much needed serum is torpedoed a few hundred yards off the African coastline and upon the girl's urging, Crabbe tracks for many days through the wilderness to reach the sunken boat. At this point he is forced to swim his way through shark-infested waters to reach the freighter, and recover the serum.

The entire cast give well rounded performances, which is especially creditable in lieu of the fact that at times their fellow actors were four hundred pound lions, and thirty foot pythons, not to mention such reliable scene stealers as pet monkeys and a three weeks old lion cub.

Crabbe, returning to films after an eighteen months personal appearance tour, gives one of the finest performances of his career as Junga, the wilderness Doctor. Miss Darcey in addition to giving Dorothy Lamour a good run for her money where the sarong is concerned, performs a difficult role. Charles Middleton as the jungle priest, Bob Carson, Vince Barnett and Paul Scott also come through in fine style.

Mrs. Allie Metcalf returned to her home in Huntington, Monday after a few days visit with the Buckinghams.

The September meeting of the Wittenberg Brotherhood will be held in the Methodist Church Hamilton, Ind., on Wednesday evening, September 9. A good program is being prepared.

• From the first blueprint to the finished bomber, electric power speeds the production lines that are making America supreme in the air.

• In every other war industry as well, Uncle Sam outproduces the Axis because he commands the greatest supply of electric power in the world.

• That tremendous power advantage didn't just happen. Seven-eighths of it was built up by business management under public regulation by men with a real incentive to work, create, succeed—and keep the savings of millions of Americans invested in the electric industry.

• As the industry grew under the American system of business management, it employed more and more people—and served more and more people—at lower and lower prices. Today, the average American home enjoys about twice as much electric service as it did 10 or 15 years ago—for the same amount of money.

The many other industries that make America great grew the same way—under proved and practical business management. That way of life is a part of what this country's fighting for—and a big reason why we'll win—because every one of our 133 million people has a personal stake in it!

McNABB

Margaret A. McNabb, daughter of Elias and Mahalia Spitler, was born March 14, 1870, in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, and passed from this life August 26, 1942 at her home near Spencerville, at the age of 72 years, 5 months and 12 days.

Her childhood life was spent in Springfield Township. On December 24, 1892, she was united in marriage to John C. McNabb, who preceded her in death April 17, 1940.

She attended Sunday School and Church at Springfiel Center in her young life.

She had been in poor health for some time and for the past three weeks has been bedfast. She looked forward with a trustful faith to her happy home beyond. She was a kind and loving mother and will leave in the home circle a vacancy that only a mother can fill.

She leaves to mourn her departure one brother, James Spitler, of Harlan. Also five sons, Earl of Auburn, Glenn and Kenneth, of Spencerville, Bernard and Dale of Dearborn, Mich., and four daughters, Mrs. Izetta Chaney, Mrs. Alwilda Walter and Mrs. Ethel Landin of Spencerville and Mrs. Thelma Oswald of Fort Wayne. Also sixteen grandchildren and un-numbered neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Inez Hadsell and Harry Martin were guests of Paul Hadsell and family at Flint, Mich., a few days this week.

Mrs. Anna Koch spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Nan Lysher, northeast of St. Joe. Sammy Kees, of Garrett, was a Sunday night guest in the same home, having spent Saturday night and Sunday with Walter Stewart, Jr.

Bonnie Kees, who has spent the summer with her grandmother and uncle, Mrs. Lysher and Edgar, visited her parents last week south of Garrett, she will stay with the Lyshers this winter and go to school here. Bonnie likes the St. Joe school.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Sunday guests of Mrs. Elnora Blue were Mrs. Marcia Sible, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Weidman, of Bryan, Ohio and Mr. George Palmerton, of Butler.

Last week Tuesday, Dean Kees took a trip to the Southern part of the state, to Washington, Ind., about 200 miles south of Indianapolis, in the interest of their dairy herd and looking over some cattle. He drove through with a friend, and after his business was attended to, concluded to try hiking home. Luck smiled on him for he sooo found a chance to ride as far as Indianapolis, where he stopped off to take his examination at the military training school, then look for a ride on home. Turning down two chances for short rides, he accepted one from a gentleman going to Marion, Ind. Arriving there his good angel was still watching over him and the next trck brought him a quarter of a mile from home, arriving Friday night. His good luck deserted him when he reached home for he couldn't get his wife awake, and had to crawl in a window. Bud's winning smile and pleasing personality surely stood him in good stead on this trip. He will enter the military school some time the last of this month.

CANNING COMPANY EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

With the stress of the time, both on labor and the conservation of the large crop of vegetables, many problems have entered into the custom canning business, which has been so different than ordinary years, and because of the fine spirit of the public, and the willingness of labor to do everything possible to create satisfaction among the large number of new customers this season, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guilford, wish in this manner to express their appreciation of this co-operative spirit.

The following is a list of the people employed this season at one time or another:

Mary Mathes, Lavon Kline, Roscoe Moore, Harry Hursh, Paul Kitchen, Henry Walter, Clifton Ruppert, Elgin Curie, James Kees, Dan Bush, Cecil Shilling, Mrs. Roy Zimmerman, Neva Hursh, Nellie Lindley, Anna Hursey, Edith Sailer, Edna Mock, Viena Rude, Mildred Kraft, Eva Roberts, Dorothy Collins, Helen Ulm, Aulene Chorpenning, W. J. Cornelius.

Roy Wade has been conducting the telephone service for the factory, taking the calls as they came into St. Joe, and the St. Joe and Spencerville telephone operators come in for their share of the thanks of the company, as they handled the many calls promptly.

Canning continues every day but Saturday.

ALBERT N. THRUSH DIES AT AGE 82 YEARS

Albert N. Thrush died at the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett Friday afternoon from paralysis and infirmities of age after a serious illness of eight days. He was 82 years of age and was born in Swan township, Noble County. The family moved to Butler township in 1867. Mr. Thrush attended the Five Points school. His wife, Mrs. Ellen Thrush, died in 1925.

Surviving are three children, Walter Thrush of Butler township, Mr. Frank W. Weathers, of Auburn, and Miss Marie Thrush, a Garrett high school teacher, who lived with her father.

Mr. Thrush had been a member of the Cedar Chapel congregation since he was a boy. He served as trustee of Butler township and he helped to found the DeKalb County Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., serving as president and director. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Huntertown and the Scottish Rite at Fort Wayne, and a prominent Republican in politics in DeKalb County.

His funeral was held from Cedar Chapel Church, Monday at 11 o'clock with burial in the cemetery near the church.

TWO GOOD BANDS AT WILLIAMS COUNTY FAIR

G. V. Lockhart, secretary, Williams County Fair, Montpelier, Ohio, announces a change in program for the week of Sept. 13-19. Bernie Cummins and his band who was to appear Thursday and Friday, Sept. 17-18, will appear only one night, Thursday, Sept. 17.

Bob Strong and his orchestra will appear on the stage Friday, Sept. 18. This change was made so that an entirely different show will be seen each night. Bob Strong is heard over NBC, New York Station, and was featured on Uncle Walter's Doghouse Program. Bob's slogan is "Music with the Strong Appeal."

The program for Wednesday Sept. 16, School Day, remains the same as previously announced. The various schools in the county will participate in the entertainment which will include eight school bands, amateur contest, milk maid contest, etc.

Saturday is a big day at the Fair, for the Circus is coming to town. The three-ring Lewis Brothers Circus will be held in front of the Grand Stand at 8:30 P. M.

Some of the nation's finest stables are entered on the race program which will start on Thursday, Sept. 17. Forty-two heats will be run in the three day meet. This will be one of the largest racing programs which have ever been staged at the Montpelier track. $4000 in race purses and trophies will be awarded during the week.

MRS. H. C. WILLIS DIES AT WATERLOO

Mrs. Martha Gonser Willis, age 71, wife of Herbert C. Willis, editor and publisher of the Waterloo Press, was buried Tuesday afternoon in the Waterloo cemetery. Dr. Geo. W. Allison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Fort Wayne officiated at the services held at the late residence in Waterloo.

Mrs. Willis died at 10:15 o'clock Sunday morning at her home following an eight-month illness of carcinoma. She was prominent in social and civic activities in Waterloo and DeKalb County.

Surviving besides the husband are a son, Herbert G. Willis, Fort Wayne attorney; a daughter, Mrs. Everett Pennington, also of Fort Wayne, and three grandchildren.

15 NEW OIL WELLS NOW PRODUCING

Fifteen producing wells were drilled in the state during August, with 35 permits for drilling issued, Ralph Esarey, State Geologist, reports.

Three successful pools were found in Daviess County, three in Gibson and four in Posey County. Permits issued for a number of drillings in Spencer, Daviess and Posey counties lead to the drilling of dry holes.

The Indiana oil quota, set by the office of Petroleum Coordinator, is expected to be higher for September. The August quota was set at 26,000 barrels.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Wm. Smith of Fort Wayne, was a Sunday and Monday guest of James Hatch.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kagey purchased the Ella Wilmot six acre estate on Thursday. They will remodel for permanent home.

Mrs. Helen Randall and mother, Mrs. Bertha Slater, of Lima, O., spent last week here and on Saturday drove to Gary with her husband, Harry, for over Labor Day. Mrs. Iva Tyler, of Ligonier, came Monday to spend the week with her sister.

Westbound trains on the B. & O. were tied up for several hours Sunday afternoon when the cars, part of a 138-car double-header freight were derailed at 4:30 o'clock at Auburn Junction. No one was injured, but damage to about 400 ties and planks at the Junction was estimated at $1,000, $500 to the interlocker at the Junction and $1,000 to the two freight cars. The accident was caused by a broken wheel journal on a coal car midway in the train, which was made up of 110 loaded cars and 28 empties. The coal car bounced along the ties for 2,000 feet and finally derailed the box car behind it.

Grady Woodcox is remodeling the Burley home west of town.

Pvt. Jesse Hart returned to Camp Shelby, Miss., Wednesday, after spending the past week with his parents, J. J. Hart and wife.

The Happy Hustlers will be entertained at the home of Mr. Lester Coburn, Friday evening, Sept. 11. Every member is urged to be present.

Art Lyon sold his grocery store last week to Victor Smith of Rochester, Ind., and on Monday the store was sold to Ort Waltz also of Rochester. Art made the change, anticipating his being called into the armed service.

WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—September War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation were announced today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, to make up the national September total of $775,000,000.

The September quota for the State of Indiana is $18,000,000.

In fixing the county quotas, the Treasury has continued its announced policy of setting the monthly quotas in line with the seasonal distribution of income with the billion-dollar monthly national average as the annual goal.

The national quota for May, when the nation went on the billion-a-month annual basis, was $800,000,000. For June the quota was $800,000,000 and for July it jumped to $1,000,000,000. The August quota was $815,000,000, so to maintain the billion-dollar annual monthly average, the quotas for the Fall and Winter months must necessarily be stepped up considerably to reach the objective set.

SECRETARY DECLARES RELIGIOUS EDU. WEEK AFFORDS OPPORTUNITY

Dr. Holland issues the following message to the local churches:

Religious Education Week is observed annually in the United States, and this year is being celebrated Sept. 27 to Oct. 4. The first of these two dates will be observed in many churches as Rally Day and the second as World-Wide Communion Sunday.

The week is especially significant this year because it affords an opportunity for the churches of each community to focus the attention of all the citizens on the United Christian Education Advance. The Advance is a vast Protestant movement comprising more than forty denominations in an effort to reach the unreached of the land with Christian teaching. More than half the boys and girls in the United States receive no Christian teaching as such. Out of this large number will come many of tomorrow's responsible leaders in politics, business, etc. If we want to keep America in the Christian tradition and stem the tide toward paganism we must utilize this opportunity of making a united Church impact upon the people of our land.

The Advance stresses three fundamental areas of life—the Home, the Church, and the Community. Christian Education Week enables each church to plan its program in such a way as to touch every one of these three institutions with definite Christian teaching. It has been suggested that each church plan the week on this order:

Sunday, Sept. 27, Rally Day.
Monday, Sept. 28, Workers' Conferences for all Church School workers.
Tuesday, Sept. 29, Family-at-Home Night. (Every family holding an at-home for every member of the family.)
Wednesday, Sept. 30, Fami-at-Home Night. Every family Family night supper. Prayer Meeting.)
Thursday, Oct. 1, Community Night. (The Community Inter-denominational observance—a co-operative activity in which all the churches join.)
Friday, Oct. 2, Youth Night. (In local Church or community.)
Saturday, Oct. 3, Visitation Day, enlisting everyone unreached.
Sunday, Oct. 4, World-Wide Communion Sunday.

United Christian Education Week is endorsed by the governors of many states, by President Roosevelt and by many local officials—all of the men who see the tremendous need of a spritiually revitalized nation.

Dr. Ralph L. Holland, General Secretary, Indiana Council of Christian Education.

Will your church join in this Spiritual Revitalizing effort?

They tell us that one thing this war has brought to England is less of an uplift in noses.

Why not let that fellow profit from your mistakes who needs it most—that fellow being you.

Women in St. Joe are kept so busy today they don't have time, or care to take time, to talk about the family's operations.

After being a sweater, glamour and oomph girl, what other interest could a girl have in life?

Students in St. Joe no longer take apples to their teachers, yet they say we are living in an age of graft.

Don't repeat the stories you read from over-seas today, for tomorrow they are apt to be denied.

When the outlook is not good, try the uplook.

Too many men live under the impression that liberty gives them the full right to mind the other fellow's business.

It has reached the place, some one has said, where a fellow doesn't have enough money to put a rubber band around his bankroll.

The way to lose freedom is to give too much of it to the wrong people.

IT'S SCHOOL AGAIN

We have entered that time of year when schools in and around St. Joe and Spencerville present an animated scene and when this community at large, is later to profit by the works of these young boys and girls, future citizens-to-be, taking up the task of preparing themselves for entering a competitive world where education plays a large role. Swing open the doors of the nation's schools, as in years past, welcoming the multitude of youngsters who are seeking a privilige denied many other boys and girls. Education is no small proposition in our land for practically one-fourth of the entire population is pursuing the practice in either the capacity of student or instructor. So why should it not be an impressive business?

There aren't many children who return to school who seriously view their advantage. They don't consider that these are the happiest days of their life, until the later years when they look back longingly on things that used to be. No words of ours will convince them that it is a great privilege unless they know of what is going on in other parts of a warring world where children are receiving a far different type of education. In our country we will suffer added hardships, we will assume more responsibility, deny ourselves necessities, in order to give our children this American right. We know that our country would suffer if the opportunity were denied the youth for they are the ones to be equipped to take on the administration of government and citizenship, later on. Through them will our future standard of living be set and through them will we reap our reward of sacrifice today. One of the first points of interest in any community, that edifice to which an American points with pride as part of the national plan, is the local school house.

So come what will in the near future, what is offered in new hardship and struggle, we will all try to maintain this school system and rear our children to appreciate the fact that the happiest and most successful men are those who take advantage of an education.

APPLE TIME

This is when we recall that bit of truth from the pen of Mark Twain: "There's plenty of boys that will come hankering and groveling around you when you've got an apple, and beg for the core off you; but when they've got one, and you beg for the core, and remind them how you give them a core one time, they make a mouth at you, and say thank you 'most to death, but there ain't a-going to BE no core."

It was many years ago that some News readers felt that way about an apple core, maybe many never did for it isn't every man's pleasure to cherish the apple. This is the time when orchards are laden with beauty representing famous family names of Winesap, McIntosh, Delicious, Rome Beauty and Northern Spy. The boughs hang low with their appetizing gems, bearing their burden in delight. Hail the bounty of orchards, scented in cider and served on royal and humble boards.

CONSTITUTION DAY

Sept. 17, 1787, thirty-nine liberty-minded men put their now famous signatures to a document that grew in name, fame, force and magnitude, until today its significance is the bulwark of the U. S. Such a paper was called the Constitution, and it stands as the charter of rights and liberties of the American people, a bill so important that each man and woman respects its principles and would fight to maintain them. We offer fervent thanks that these thirty-nine foresighted individuals made the move to interpret on paper the fibre and core of citizenship in this country. Dmocracy is assailed today as never before, we are told and we are warned what would happen if democracy should lose its stand. We are aware of the need to protect this institution in order to hand on the right of a republican government. On the anniversary of the Constitution we offer congratulations and praise to those ones of the past who fought to preserve it and succeeded, and we give our pledge to the generations of the future that we will do likewise.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS REPUDIATES CHARGE GILLIE 'BLOCKED' DEFENSE

Replying to what he termed "the false charge that, prior to Pearl Harbor, I in some way delayed or 'obstructed' national defense," Rep. George W. Gillie today made public an official report of the Library of Congress repudiating this charge and showing that he has supported every appropriation for defense purposes—for guns, tanks, ships and planes—which Congress has passed in the last three and one-half years.

The report made public by Representative Gillie as he prepared to return to Washington for the resumption of House sessions this week, lists all national defense appropriations voted by Congress since January, 1939, and has the following to say about Gillie's voting record:

"We have checked the Congressional Record very carefully and do not find that you are recorded as having voted against a single one of these defense appropriations."

In an explanatory statement Representative Gillie said:

"Leaders of the 'purge Congress' movement in this District, in their attempts to deceive the people by perverting my record have made not once, but repeatedly, the false charge that, prior to Pearl Harbor, I in some way delayed or 'obstructed' national defense.

"This charge is totally unfounded and its authors know that it is untrue. They need only refer to the record to find that I have regularly, enthusiastically and consistently supported, by voice and vote, every national defense appropriation—for guns, tanks, ships and planes—that Congress has passed in the last three and one-half years.

"It is not necessary to take my word for this. The record speaks for itself and is open to every citizen of this District seeking the truth. It has been examined by the impartial, non-partisan Library of Congress, and their report is available to those who have falsely assailed my defense record and to the people they have attempted to deceive.

"This report, prepared at my request, lists the total amount of apropriations voted by Congress for national defense purposes—for the Army, Navy and Coast Guard—since January, 1939, when I entered Congress as the representative of this District. It also contains the following factual statement concerning my voting record on these measures:

" 'We have checked the Congressional Record very carefully and do not find that you are recorded as having voted against a single one of these defense appropriations.'

The complete text of the Library of Congress report follows:

July 22, 1942.

Honorable George W. Gillie,
U. S. House of Representatives
Washington D. C.

Dear Congressman:

In response to your request of July 17 for a statement showing the appropriations voted by the Seventy-Sixth and Seventy-Seventh Congresses for national defense purposes, I enclose a Table prepared by our Federal Law Section which lists the total amounts appropriated for the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard from January, 1939, to date.

This Table reveals that Congress, over this period, has appropriated $119,817,135,042 for the Army, $35,686,700,649 for the Navy, and $269, 985,-791.68 for the Coast Guard—or a grand total of $155,773,-821,482.68 for national defense purposes.

We have checked the Congressional Record very carefully and do not find that you are recorded as having voted against a single one of these defense appropriations.

Trusting that this information will be satisfactory, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Lucy Salamanca Morey.

WALTER-DRERUP WEDDING CEREMONY

At a nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock Sept. 5, in the Immaculate Conception Church in Auburn, Margaret Joan Walter, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter of Spencerville, was united in marriage with Paul H. Drerup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Drerup of near Auburn. The vows of the double ring service were read by Rev. Lawrence J. Weber in the sanctuary which was decorated with vases of salmon-colored gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white satin having a sweetheart neckline, lace inserts, and which ended in a long train. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her full length veil of illusion was lace-edged and was caught to a seed-pearl tiara. The bride's bouquet was of white and pink roses and had streamers fastened with swansonia.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gerry Souder, Jr., and the bridesemaids, Miss Fara Lee Walter and Mrs. Ermel Drerup, wore dresses fashioned alike of twilled taffeta, having very full, four-tiered skirts, shirred bodice and angel sleeves, with which they carried similar fan-shaped bouquets of gladioli.

Mrs. Souder's dress was of pastel pink and her bouquet of deep-hued red gladioli. Mrs. Drerup's dress of blue and Miss Walter's of yellow were contrasted with bouquets of yellow and blue.

Wayne Beuret attended the groom as best man, and Gerry Souder, Jr., and Fred Steward ushered.

The bride's mother chose a dress of Indiana Sumac wool crepe. Her accessories were of dull victory blue combined with Indiana Sumac. Mrs. Drerup, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of black crepe trimmed at the shoulder and pockets with black sequins. Her accessories were also in black. Both wore similar corsages of white roses and swansonia.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Frances Schooley, roganist, played "Liebestraum" and "Ave Maria." Mrs. Carrie Roth played, "The Rosary" which the choir sang and also played during the mass. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held for aproximately sixty guests at the Walter home in Spencerville. Friends of the bride who assisted in serving were Miss Carol Gerig, Mrs. Fred Steward and Mrs. Wayne Beuret. The table was beautifully laid with silver tea and coffee service, and centered with the wedding cake. Bouquets of garden flowers decorated the dining room and other rooms of the house.

The young couple left Saturday afternoon for a short wedding trip and upon their return will be at home in Auburn at 355 West Second St.

WISCONSIN SETS UP SHEARLING PROGRAM

Because of the urgency of need for shearling pelts for the manufacture of aviation garments, a Wisconsin program for the production of these pelts is being formulated by a group of men representing the varied sheep interests of the state.

At a meeting of the State Fair Park on Tuesday, Aug. 25, the committee membership was selected, and first steps in program development discussed. The committee decided that because of wide variance in the quality of native lambs produced in Wisconsin, a wholesale suggestion of shearing market lambs would not be advisable.

In western areas where lamb weights and fleece quality are uniform, efforts will be made to induce breeders of native lambs to shear animals aproximately two months before the date for marketing. This early shearing will permit growth of wool which is sufficient growth to classify the pelts as No. 1 shearlings.

If shorn at two months before marketing, the lambs will weigh 65 to 75 pounds and, following the shearing, will put on sufficient additional weight to make good to choice market lambs.

The committee also decided that fleeces removed from lambs before sale time may be sold to advantage because of present need for felting wool. Lamb fleeces are short and the lamb wool is worth 15 to 20 per cent less per pound than is wool of equal grade when produced to full length.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

Tri-Township Farm Bureau held their monthly meeting in the gym Tuesday evening. All sang "America the Beautiful," led by Forest Harding, prayer by Mr. A. Yoder. Roll call response was "Where I first wen to school. Mrs. Grogg gave a short talk on the cooperative mortuary at Kendallville, followed by a few remarks by Mr. Yoder in regards to the milk problem facing the farmers. Mr. Fred Rhoades then talked on tire and gasoline rationing closing with a poem by James Whitcomb Riley entitled "Goodbye Jim." Carl Cook played two selections on his guitar, then Mr. Rhoades presented each lady with a clothes pin apron advertising the Farm Bureau Co-op. A lunch of ice cream and cake was served which all seemed to enjoy. This was followed with a comedy and show "Dora's Dunking Donuts," and "My First Romance." This was much enjoyed by all and brot the meeting to a close.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Now comes from your government a new request for metal scrap to keep the steel mills going, to keep the factories going, to keep the armies going.

Here, in Indiana, each county exceeded its original quota. But that's not enough. The scrap stock piles at the mills are low and winter is coming on.

So, each county is asked to produce 1000 more tons in the new scrap harvest, and a good deal of that will have to come from the farms. The auto graveyard section and the industrial salvage section are doing their part.

But the campaign can never succeed unless each individual makes a systematic and thorough search for scrap metal on his own premises, and turns it in. And the campaign must succeed. Upon it depends a lot of things.

Remember, be a price detective! And here are a few reasons why.

Granulated sugar, now under a price ceiling, went from 5 cents a pound in 1914 to 27 cents a pound in 1920. During the war, because of government controls, sugar prices held at 10 cents a pound, but after the war when controls were taken away, the price soared.

During this war sugar had a low price of 5 cents a pound in December, 1940, to a high of 7 cents a pound in March, 1942, when OPA's general ceiling went into effect. There will be no 10 cent sugar during this war and no 29 cent sugar after the war.

Another item. Between 1914 and 1918 the priec of blue denim overalls rose from 50 cents a pair to $2.10 a pair, an increase of 320 per cent. Starting from a base of about 92 cents a pair, a fairly equivalent pair of overalls has gone from that base in September, 1939, to $1.38, a rise of 50 per cent, by March, 1942, when price control intervened.

Price control is your law, to protect you. See that it's obeyed.

As the machinery of war production moves to a steadier pace, with fewer starts and stops and less grinding of gears, plans that were only paper a short while ago become realized facts. One question long under discussion was how to combine the productive resources of plants manufacturing similar, competitive articles so that a limited supply of these articles still would be available after most of the plants had turned to making war goods. The British have had a system of pooling industrial resources for some time.

America's first real test of the new method of operating "surviving" plants comes in the bicycle field. Last year's output of these machines averaged about 150,000 per month. This year the figure has been steadily reduced until it is now set at no more than 10,000 bicycles per month, with Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, War Shipping Administration and Lend-Lease having first call on those produced. Ten of the dozen bicycle plants already have been converted strictly to war manufactures. The two remaining plants will continue to make bicycles but only the victory model, a light machine that uses a scant amount of critical materials. The two makes will be alike, distinguished merely by the letter "W" or "H" before the serial number.

War production drives also show a favorable balance sheet with labor-management committees established in 1300 war plants, and other industries, including the first major railroad to adopt this form of cooperation, the Illinois Central Railroad, and the first of the large lumber companies, the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company... government geologists and engineers have blocked out more than 500,000 tons of valuable bauxite in Georgia, and other experts are exploring the "black" sands of the Oregon coast for metals....There will be more sugar for workers in areas where the population has jumped because of war industries...Apple processors may raise the price of canned apple sauce, applejuice, cider and dried apples to cover the increased cost of producing and harvesting apples... Ceiling prices for dry cleaning, shoe repairing, laundering and other common services must be posted for public inspection.. retail prices for footballs, basketballs, and other autumnal sporting goods will be cut.... Boys and men will have to get along with whatever woolen lounging robes are on hand, but mothers need not worry about woolen robes for infants, sizes 1 to 3—and over-size persons can have their woolen garments built to fit....Measures to protect the nation's federal buildings against air raid hazards and sabotage are being taken by the federal buildings and by the Federal Works Administration. Two problems—to prevent escape of prisoners from federal prisons, and of dangerous animals from bombed zoos...Violators of the men's and women's clothing simplification orders who make expensive "zoot suits" and "juke" coats for male and female jitterbugs face WPB trouble...The third aniversary of the German invasion of Poland found that tortured country still defiant and unconquered, with more than 150,000 of its fighting men in action on United Nation Fronts.

Walter says they all like trailer life.

A DOZEN REASONS WHY THE BIBLE SHOULD BE TAUGHT IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

1. Because our Government is founded upon its teaching.

2. Because it is the one recognized book that has always lifted humanity to a higher moral standard wherever its teachings were followed.

3. Because truly great men that have been recognized as great, have stood upon its foundation, and shaped their lives by its teachings.

4. Because it is recognized by the heads of Christian nations and held sacred.

5. Because through faith in its supernatural origin all oaths—in our nation's public affairs and in our courts—are solemnized through its authority.

6. Because it is known that all nations become great as they respect and follow its precepts or fall into decay as they disregard them.

7. Because the most respected and beloved of our nation's leaders have lived and died cradled in its teachings.

8. Because it is so broad in its teachings that it embraces every nation and people on the earth, and is so minute and strict in its discipline that every life will be affected by it.

9. Because our youth need its principles incorporated in their education, and without them they will be building upon a sandy foundation.

10. Because education without moral training does not lift up or make better citizens, as is proven by the cruel murders and atrocious crimes plotted and committed by educated people. Ex. — Chicago kidnap-murder case, two law students, sons of millionaires, murdering a neighbor boy, also son of a millionaire, for "an adventure."

11. Because the mothers and Christian people of our nation are both praying for, and demanding, a return to the old paths of respect and holy honor for the Word of God, as a safeguard against falling into anarchistic tendencies and national demoralization.

12. Because a righteous nation can never retain its righteousness by knocking out the props that it has stood upon.

Read Prov. 14: 34, "Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people."

Psalm 11: 7, "For the righteous Lord loveth righteousness; his countenance doth behold the upright."

Prov. 20: 2, "When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn."

Prov. 11: 4, "Riches profit not in the day of wrath: but righteousness delivereth from death"

Isa. 26: 2, "Open ye the gates, that the righteous nation which keepeth truth may enter in."

The draft policy of General Hershey leaves little for debate. Employers are advised to prepare to lose every able-bodied man, 20 to 45, within two years and start training replacement personnel now, as it is only a matter of weeks before a general reclassification of deferred classes will start. Essentiality of occupation will carry little weight. The General believes that, if a bomber pilot can be trained in eight months, war worker substitutes can acquire the know-how in six. Women appear to be the most likely new soldiers of production.

Lavon Murphy and family of Sherwood, O., were over Saturday and Labor Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mason.

HOOSIER SOLONS STUDY RUBBER PROBLEM

Voicing intense anxiety because of the serious shortage of rubber and the delay of government action on production of synthetic rubber, Indiana's eight Republican Congressmen and United States Senator Raymond E. Willis visited the plant of Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Incorporated, at Louisville, Kentucky, where they toured that plant. Seagrams is one of the first organizations in the country to engage actively in the manufacture of rubber from butadiene derived from agricultural products. Those who made the trip were in the accompanying picture rear row left to right—Congressmen George W. Gillie of Ft. Wayne, Raymond S. Springer of Connersville, Noble J. Johnson of Terre Haute, Forrest A. Harness of Kokomo, Charles A. Halleck of Rensselaer. Front row left to right—Senator Willis and Congressmen Gerald W. Landis of Linton, Robert A. Grant of South Bend and Earl Wilson of Huron. A number of Indiana farm leaders accompanied the national legislators on the tour from which they gained valuable information which will enable them to discuss advisably the rubber question on the floor of the House and Senate.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WARNING TO FARMERS AND MOTORISTS

At this time of the year, the papers are full of reports of accidents, causing injury and death of hundreds of people in the rural districts throughout the corn belt.

These accidents are due mainly to the rank growth of corn at rural road intersections, obstructing the view of approaching cars. This year particularly, in DeKalb County, the luxuriant growth of corn presents almost a solid green wall, completely obstructing the view and making the approach to the corners extremely hazardous.

I am asking every farmer, who has a corn field cornering on a road intersection, to cut a couple of arm-loads of corn, diagonally across the corner, thereby increasing the sight distance at the cross roads. This will not be much loss as corn now has developed to the stage where it has considerable feeding value, and will only take a few moments of time. If by doing this we are able to save one human life, or prevent the crippling of some man, woman or child, we will be repaid for the small amount of effort a hundred fold.

I also ask all motorists to operate their cars and trucks with extreme caution on our county roads this fall. The continued wet weather has caused a weed problem to develop along our highways, that is almost beyond control with the meager force we have taking care of the county mileage, coupled with our inability to get parts and repairs for our equipment. Drive carefully, save lives, save your present cars, it may be a long time before you will be able to get another one.

Some farmers have already cut the corners, some did not plant out to the corner, to both classes we tender our thanks and I am happy to report that most motorists are driving carefully and with good judgment. It is to the small minority, who are not, that I am making this appeal.

WAYNE VANAUKEN,
Supervisor DeKalb Co. Highways.

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, SEPT. 17, 1942 NUMBER 38

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. YEISER, Publicity

The St. Joe Lions Club met at the Akins Tea Room, Monday evening to partake of a fine dinner and entertain their ladies. The attendance was exceptionally good. Pres. F. B. Leighty presided and called for a report of the scrap metal campaign. Both Spencerville and St. Joe have made good in this war effort project. Bring your scrap metal to the St. Joe or Spencerville elevators. You are entitled to pay for your amount if you so desire. The government needs every pound of metal that is not in use.

Lion Secretary Wicoff presented Phil Schorr, of Toledo, who is the Asst. General and Freight Agent for the Wabash Railroad Company. Mr. Schorr is a pleasing speaker and in a short address had the very close attention of his hearers. He explained the difficulties that brot on governmental operation in the first World War.

The railroads are cooperating to the fullest extent with the government departments and are doing it in such an efficient manner that the war materials are reaching their destinations on time.

The war has brought many difficulties to the railroads, but through foresight and good management the materials are moving promptly. There are 70,000 tank cars in service today, all being used for hauls in excess of 200 miles. The limits being placed on transportation on rubber is going to throw a tremendous volume of freight to the railroads. They will do their best to meet the emergency and the people generally can assist by getting their supplies, particularly coal, before it is needed. Freight cars cannot be built at present, so the increased traffic must be taken care of by efficiency, at this the railroads are striving to supply.

A tremendous passenger business, due to the war, is being handled. The government moved their soldiers an average of three times during the first World War and now they are moving them six times. The refinement of the trains on which our soldiers are moved are much superior to that of the first war.

The railroads of today are subsidized and if they get the proper cooperation they will come through the emergency without governmental assistance.

Attendance buttons were presented to Lions Everett Paschen and Ralph Sechler.

INSANITY PROCEEDINGS FOR SHERMAN WOLFF

Sherman Wolff, 73, residing a mile west of St. Joe, at Wabash Corners, became an inmate of the county jail in Auburn Wednesday of last week for safe keeping pending insanity proceedings.

An application for a sanity inquest and an affidavit charging that Wolff was not safe to be at large were filed by Sherman Rickett, a neighbor. Mr. Rickett stated that Wolff carried a revolver and wanted to shoot everybody, thinking someone was after him. He thought his dead wife had returned and he claimed that everyone bothered him. He also threatened to committ suicide and is depressed. The first signs of insanity were observed last spring and the aged man's condition has gradually become worse.

Dr. F. F. DeMuth made a statement supporting the petition and Judge Endicott appointed Drs. D. M. and A. V. Hines of Auburn, to examine Wolff and report.

Friends have been much concerned about Mr. Wolff living alone due to his physical condition. He made frequent trips to St. Joe daily and in the night. While he was not dangerous, yet one could not tell when he might become violent and cause some disturbance.

S. O. S. CLIPPER

Cast: Ralph Byrd, Julie Duncan, Carol Hughes, Jack Mulhall, I. Stanford Jolley, Kenneth Harlan, Richard Clark, Johnstone White, Paul Bryar, Thornton Edwards, Don Forrest, Loretta Russell.

S. O. S. CLIPPER or DESPERATE CARGO, (35mm name) is the story of a band of international crooks who plan to steal a gigantic Trans-Caribbean flying clipper and actually get away with it in mid-air. It will have every movie fan completely absorbed from beginning to end. Everyone aboard, including the crew of eight is taken by the air pirates in order to completely mask the crime.

The real motive is to obtain a fortune in jewels which is being transpotred from South America to Miami in the plane's safe. Ralph Byrd, purser aboard the sky giant, is one of the crew victimized by the gang. Julie Duncan, as the girl he loves, is one of the terrified passengers for whose sake Byrd must remain quiet, rather than take a chance on a free-for-all escape dash. Carol Hughes, a wise-cracking comedienne, is another passenger. S. O. S. Clipper is the first film which uses as its main theme the theft of a trans-oceanic air-clipper while in flight and is filled with zooming action from the opening shot to fade-out.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK TO BE A GREAT WEEK

Tens of thousands of churches and thousands of communities will celebrate Religious Education Week, Sept. 27 to Oct. 4. 15,000 copies of the Manual are already sold.

Many denominations are planning for a big advance as their local churches are accepting the responsibility to share in reaching every person with Christian teaching.

What Are Your Local Church Plans?

Governor Payne Ratner, of Kansas, said when speaking in Topeka, one-day convention, "If as a nation we are fully prepared materially, but unprepared spiritually, we are only half prepared." And President Roosevelt in his endorsement of Religious Education week, said "I am more than happy to endorse the nation-wide observance of Religious Education Week."

The DeKalb County Council of Christian Education urges our local churches to join in this Spiritual Preparedness effort to reach every person with Christian teaching.

Through Christian teaching in the home, in the church and in the community only can the theme of the week "Foundations for Freedom" be laid and achieved.

It is in the home where the Primary foundation of freedom is laid. Shall our homes successfully teach the ways of freedom or shall their members be seriously disqualified for freedom by the lack of Christian teaching? Bible reading and Prayer in the family together with the living as Christians in the family mark the task of the family in laying the foundation for freedom.

If our citizens are really concerned about Spiritual freedom, our churches should be thronged. The full participation and support of the spiritual ministry of the church ought to be no less than that expression of patriotic devotion to any other cause or degree of service and giving. For the preservation of our spiritual heritage let us teach as never before for Christian discipleship, lest while fighting to safeguard our freedom we lose its only guarantee from our national life.

Freedom must characterize community life before it can exist on a larger scale. Let this Religious Education Week teach neighborliness and seek to transfer the attention of Christian people from the promotion of their own enterprises to surrounding every person and group with Christian fellowship.

These basic freedoms are the only foundation for world-wide freedom. Religious Education Week with its theme Foundations for Freedom should help us keep our proper prospective of First things first and give the people at large an idea of the goals of each local church in launching the Christian Advance.

PNEUMONIA CAUSES DEATH OF INFANT

Puenmonia proved fatal Tuesday evening, Sept. 8 to Winifred Joan Wells, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wells, at their home in Garrett. The child became ill Thursday, Sept. 3. She appeared improved Saturday but suffered a relapse Monday. The mother and doctor were at the bedside when the child passed away.

The deceased was born Feb. 13, 1941, at 812 So. Ijam St., Garrett. She is survived by the parents, two brothers, Cecil Lamar, age 4, and Robert Leroy, age 3; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Littlefield of Concord, Mr. Edward Wells of east of Auburn, and Mrs. Etta Hipshire of Garrett; five aunts, the Misses Dorothy and Maude Littlefield of Concord, Mrs. Frank Morr of Warren, Mich., Mrs. C. M. Pence of Garrett and Mrs. Alvester Curtland of Angola; six uncles Bernard and Clinton Wells, of Garrett, Oscar Wells of Mishawaka, Arthur Wells, of Ft. Wayne, Pvt. Ray Littlefield of Camp Roberts, Calif, and F. Marion Littlefield of Centerline, Mich., and many cousins.

The baby was taken to the Zimmerman funeral home in Garrett and later removed to the home of Mrs. Pence. Services were held at 2 P. M. Thursday at the Garrett Baptist Church, Rev. D. J. Dunkin officiating and interment in Union cemetery.

The child's mother is the former Betty Littlefield of Concord.

TRUCK CAUSES WRECK AT BUTLER CROSSING

Two men were killed, two were injured, one seriously, and unestimated damage was incurred Sunday morning at 6:50 as a northbound Wabash railroad freight train crashed into a heavily-laden semi-trailer truck on the east edge of Bulter on U. S. 6. Rail traffic was tied up 11 hours and 12 freight cars were jumbled up like jackstraws. Joe Swoverland, 35, Denver, Ind., fireman was killed, also John C. Beckworth, 35, of Roby, Ind., driver of the truck.

Elmer Fairweather, 54, of Chicago, relief driver who was asleep in the truck cab, was taken to the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder hospital in Auburn in a semi-conscious condition. He suffered from extreme shock, laceration of the left eye, fractured ankle and multiple bruises.

M. O. Black of Peru, engineer, escaped with minor injuries and M. N. Cooper, of Peru, head brakeman was thrown clear of the train uninjured.

The trailer was loaded with cartons of small electrical appliances.

The wheel trucks of all the cars were torn off and two box cars were demolished. One car was filled with bags of flour. A cattle car carried hogs, two of which were killed outright. Another, its back broken, had to be shot. A tank car loaded with tar and four gondola coal cars were overturned.

Thousands of spectators milled about the place all day to watch the giant cars clear the tracks and place the hugh engine on the track.

An unofficial report placed the railroad's loss at about $75,000. The locomotive, the Fourth 98, cost approximately $100,000 when new.

Open Democratic Campaign

The first big rally of the campaign of the DeKalb County Democrats will be staged Thursday, Sept. 24, at 6:30 P. M. in the Chamber of Commerce building in Auburn, Leighton F. Tombow, of Butler, county chairman, announces.

Principal speakers for the occasion will be Samuel C. Cleland, prominent Ft. Wayne attorney and candidate for congress from the fourth district, and Judge Roscoe C. O'Byrne, of Batesville, candidate for judge of the state supreme court.

NOTICE TO HOME OWNERS

Property owners in St. Joe are asked to make immediate repairs in their side walks, where the roots have upheaved the walks and where the sod holds the water on the walk. Please arrange to have this repairing completed within the next 30 days and save action by the Town Board. This is important.

38t2 Signed: Town Board.

J. H. SinClair, 84, died at the home of his son, Ross, in Auburn, Tuesday noon after an illness of 2 years. He was born in Waterloo, April 5, 1858. On Oct. 6, 1881, Mr. St. Clair was married to Eleonore Subina Erehart, who preceded him in death Jan. 4, 1936. Surviving are the son, Ross; a daughter, Mrs. C. C. Smith of 817 Midway Drive, Auburn, and two grandchildren. Services will be conducted from the home of his son Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NIMRODS WILL NEED HUNTING TIME TABLE

Waterfowl hunters will need a time table this year to take full advantage of the extended hunting hours. Regulations provide for hunting between sunrise and sunset rather than between sunrise and 4 P. M. as last year, H. H. Mosbaugh, head of the Division of Fish and Game, reminded nimrods today.

Hunters may have to consult a schedule when the weather is such that rising and setting times are not clearly evident. On Oct. 15 the rising time is 6:56 A. M. and setting time is 5:06 P. M. while on Dec. 23, the last day of the open season, rising time is 8:05 and setting time is 4:24. Times quoted are War Times.

Rails, sora and gallinules (except coot) may be legally taken from now until Nov. 30 but the open season on all other water fowl and migratory birds extends from Oct. 15 through Dec. 23. Complete hunting regulations may be obtained through the Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation, Indianapolis.

SUPERINTENDENTS ANNOUNCED FOR 4-H SHOW

The superintendents for the various departments of the DeKalb County 4-H Club Show which is to be held in Auburn, Sept. 22-24, inclusive, was announced by county agent, C. E. Baker. Albert Berg, vocational agricultural teacher at Butler, will be superintendent of colt and lamb departments; Richard Latier, vocational agricultural teacher of Ashley, will have charge of the swine department; Dale Wicoff, vocational agricultural teacher of St. Joe and Spencerville, will be superintendent of the beef calf division, A. J. Smith, vocational agricultural teacher of Waterloo, will have charge of the dairy department; Paul Bateman, vocational agricultural teacher of Garrett, will have charge of the poultry department; while C. G. Hornady, vocational agricultural teacher of Auburn, will have charge of the corn, garden, onion, potato and insect division.

Judges for the show will be as follows: Colts, lambs, swine and beef calves, Hay Royce of the Livestock Division of the Indiana Farm Bureau; Dairy, Forest Schaffer of Van Wert, Ohio; Poultry, Mrs. Stella Goldsmith, manager of the DeKalb County Cooperative Hatchery; and garden exhibits will be judged by J. E. Dickerson, Federal State Supervising Inspector; Corn, L. N. Chapman of Waterloo. The record books will be judged by C. H. Elliott, vocational agricultural teacher of Angola.

In the dairy classes the health regulations as used at the DeKalb County Fair last year will be enforced for the 4-H Club Show this fall. In the poultry classes club members are asked to exhibit three pullets this year in place of the two pullets and one cockerel as shown in past years.

All exhibits are to be in place at the Auburn Livestock Sales Barn by 5 o'clock Tuesday evening, Sept. 22. Club members exhibiting will be given tickets for the 4-H Club Banquet by their respective vocational teacher. This banquet is to be held at the Auburn Chamber of Commerce Building at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Judging will be held Wednesday starting at 9 o'clock. Colts, lambs, and dairy classes will be judged in the morning with the swine and beef classes judged in the afternoon. All exhibits will be released at 5 o'clock except the fat stock which is to be sold starting Thursday Noon.

The DeKalb County Horsemen's Association is sponsoring a Horse Pulling Contest to be held Thursday morning starting promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Prizes are being offered for both heavy and light weight teams. The dividing weight being 3000 pounds. Horsemen interested in pulling should make their entry for this event at the county agent's office by Monday, Sept. 21. Four prizes are offered in each class.

On Thursday promptly at 12 o'clock Noon the Fat Stock Sale will begin. Anyone interested in securing some well-fatted beef calves or hogs are invited to attend and purchase some of these fine offerings.

K. OF P's TO HEAR THEIR SUPREME CHANCELLOR

Phoenix Lodge No. 101 and Ft. Wayne Lodge No. 116 will be host to John Lee Smith, of Throckmorton, Texas, Supreme Chancellor of Knights of Pythias, at a meeting on Thursday night, September 24 at 8:00 P. M. in the Pythian Hall, 122 W. Washington.

Mr. Smith, recently nominated for Lieut.-Governor in Texas which is the same as an election, is touring the country in behalf of the Pythian responsibility toward the War effort.

Mr. Smith, a veteran of the World War, saw overseas action, took part in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, and there was wounded. His oldest son, John Lee, Jr., is a Sergeant in the 36th Division of the Army.

Born in Throckmorton, he is a practising Attorney, member of the State Senate, and an active member of Throckmorton Cowboy lodge of Pythias. He received his elementary and college education in his native state and took special work at the University of Poitiers, France, with Honorary degrees.

He was State Chairman for two years of the Committee on Americanism of the American Legion, for 4 years a member of the State Department of Education and is now a member of the State Senate of Texas.

Mr. Smith is a speaker of outstanding ability and the theme of his address will be "Pythias as a Patriotic Fraternity."

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting and especially those who have sons in the service as you will hear an address from a former soldier and a father of a soldier.

Mr. Smith will be accompanied to the meetings by Mrs. Smith, Q. Austin East, Grand Chancellor of Bloomington, Reuben L. Robertson, G. K. R. S., Indianapolis, and Mrs. Madge Robertson, Grand Senior of Pythian Sisters of Indianapolis.

Other Supreme Lodge Officers who will be present will be Richard Meares, Supreme Master of Exchequer of Indianapolis.

Other Grand Lodge Officers that will attend include Supreme Representatives Russell B. Dalrymple, Knightstown and Harvey T. Walker, Montpelier; Grand Vice Chancellor, Joe E. Hocker, Elwood; Grand Prelate, Clarence Hole, Muncie; Grand Outer Guard, Otto Shuman, Waterloo; Grand Trustees, Fred Swain, Huntington, and Chas. Phelps, New Castle; Past Grand Chancellors Edwin Thomas, Fort Wayne, Fred Ratliff, Marion, and Charles Loy, Swayzee; Grand Councilman Albert O. Schoelch, New Castle, and District Deputies Harry Randall, No. 4, St. Joe, Ed Green, No. 5, Van Buren and Milburn Holme, No. 10, Richmond.

ATTENTION!

Some one took a Wrecking Bar off of a ladder at the Geo. B. Wilson home Friday night and the party is known, if not returned where he got it his name will be published.

38t1p. Mrs. Geo. B. Wilson.

Mrs. Vienna Rude is relief operator at telephone office. Marjarie Ramsey is manager.

Harry Ginder ,of near Butler, has repaired the Dilts bridge and last week was roofing the Spencerville covered bridge.

While Indiana will use a small license tag, to fit over the present plate in 1943 in an effort to conserve steel, some other material besides metal will have to be used in 1944.

A St. Joe man says the principle objection he has to evolution is that it works so slowly.

A subscriber of The News reports that the fish took their vacation at the same time he took his.

The length of the Eskimo word for "I love you" is enough reason to keep American boys bashful while they are in the Arctic.

You haven't heard anyone recently state that European nations didn't have enough money to finance a war.

The President, in vetoing the bill calling for the manufacture of synthetic rubber from agricultural products, said he feared it might cause a shortage of food; the secretary of agriculture, almost on the same date, issues the new acreage allotments for 1943, showing widespread reduction.

You can lead Americans anywhere, but they won't drive worth a cent. Funny people! Or are they?

At least you won't be overcome with envy for your neighbor's car.

There is many a man who tries to buy experience on the easy payment plan, when it is a cash and carry proposition.

"I'll bet some fish go home and lie about the size of the bait that got away," says Roy Koch.

They use glue instead of nails on some of the prefabricated houses. In other words you enlarge your dwelling by gluing on another room.

Adjourn politics for the duration, say state and national New Dealers. But they mean for the public only to adjourn politics. The New Deal type politics goes on forever (See New York's election.)

We published a statement by Congressman Gillie some time ago which bears repeating. It follows: "If all American people were working as hard at the job of producing what it takes for victory as our Indiana farmers, there would be no cause for worry about the future. The farmers of Indiana are setting a pace for all America to follow."

There is no truer statement today. The farmer is patriotically going about the hardest job of his time producing for victory, watching proudly as his sons march off to war, stepping up to bond sales windows to buy more than his share of war stamps and bonds, sacrificing in every way to see that victory comes quickly to the Allied cause.

On the other hand, he is faced with the paradoxical situation that the New Deal asked him to plow under his crops just a short time ago and now this same leadership is urging him to grow more.

In the same breath he realizes that this same New Deal had him killing off pigs because there were too many and now he is being asked to cut out meat once a week.

Then he sees his tires wearing out and his only means of getting his livestock and crops to market is in danger and he sees this same New Deal leadership ignoring the proven process of making synthetic rubber from grain crops of which there are surplusses from years back and which come from a dependable natural resource which will never run out.

He sees labor unions growing fat and rich off war contracts while his crops face destruction because of his own shortage of labor, and the New Deal tells him that he is getting too much for his produce.

But like the good American that he is, he feels his right to criticize and try to correct these evils to help speed the war to a decisive triumph in which the farmer will be recognized equally with organized labor.

Yes, Congressman Gillie, the farmers of Indiana are setting a pace for all America to follow.

—Based on a column by Dick Prickett in the "Ablion New Era."

LOWLY MILKWEED

In northern Michigan they are cashing in on a harvest that would have been frowned upon years ago as a farmer's dream. So they tell us that anything can happen and it would seem to be true when it reaches the point of harvesting the milkweed. They process the floss and use the pod's contents as a substitute for kapok. There is a factory which will handle about ten million pounds of the pods, working a crew of eighty men and paid $200,000 for the initial harvest yield. This fuzz or floss will be used then in the lining of flying suits and in life jackets for the Navy. We again find a simple piece of plant life utilized, recognized and included in our economic system for practical needs. A new crop for America.

The idea was worked on and expanded by a Chicago doctor and through his efforts we will replace the imported kapok right in our own land. Milkweed is hollow and contains air cells like kapok and just as light and downy. Research finds milkweed is five times as light as cork, and cork we can't get at the present time. Chemists predict that after the war the lowly milkweed alone will yield probably six other products, including cellulose, plastics, chlorophyll and oils. So we live to see milkweed come into its own, from a weed to a plant and considered a crop to a farmer.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Another evidence of how Hoosiers pitch in when there's a war effort job to be done is the current tomato harvest and pack. Because of the unseasonable coolness of a few weeks ago, followed by hot weather, the harvest came upon the canner suddenly and caught some canners without adequate personnel.

Hoosiers responded to the call of the U. S. Employment Service for aid. Some ministers in the northern section preached sermons calling upon housewives who ordinarily did no work outside their homes, to be patriotic and get a canning job. Newspapers carried stories and editorials urging participation. Radios gave generously of their time.

Result: Many thousands of cases of tomatoes were saved from rotting at the docks of the canning factories. And remember, of this year's pack, 35 per cent of the tomatoes, 38 per cent of the catsup, and 17 per cent of the tomato juice have been contracted for by the armed forces, and $400,000 worth of puree is being put up by the Lend-Lease.

The first batch of individual awards of the War Production Drive headquarters for ingenuity in advancing the production in our war plants was announced recently at Washington. Of relatively few in the whole nation, Indiana had four. Four workers in two of the largest war producing plants in Indianapolis were so honored.

Nice going, eh?

Even so:—

"We are not doing enough," said the President, and he added, "in this war it is kill or be killed." In this "toughest war of all time" we are going to have to get down to brass tacks—and turn the brass tacks into bombs and bullets.

To an extent we have been doing this, but now the need is terribly urgent and materials scarce. Now we must have war goods in greater volume than ever— and in a shorter time. Our enemies don't wait.

Steel mills, eating up almost five million tons of scrap metal a month, are running on almost a day-to-day basis. We are dangerously short of copper, tin, and other non-ferrous metals. Some mills in Indiana are down.

That's why our school children—30 million of them—are being enlisted to comb our homes, backyards, and farmyards for scrap to feed the steel giants.

That's why our kitchens must shower down old tin cans by the million so that we can reach our goal of 3,000 tons of household tin a year recovered in 17 new "detinning" plants. That's why we must save waste fats and greases, turn in the half billion pounds we have been asked to salvage. These fats would help make enough bombs to cripple the German war machine, or enough explosives to fire 1,250,000 anti-aircraft shells.

Last year our production of all-wire coat hangers, if made into military barbed wire, would have grilled the earth six and one-half times. We shall not be making wire hangers this year.

To do all that we must do to stop the Axis hordes, merely to get enough skilled workers and fighting men for this gigantic job, is going to be a tough business for all of us. In 11 of 160 critical war production areas there are shortages of some kinds of skilled workers. Employment in the automotive industry, now making weapons, has passed the 800,000 mark—but not until it absorbs another 600,000 workers will the industry have reached peak production. There'll be almost five million women in war industries by the end of this year. More millions of them will be needed by 1943, not only in war plants but in the fields. Small towns and larger cities lacking war industries are losing their young men to the armed forces, their boys, women, and older men to war work in nearby or distant industrial areas. These towns are short-handed, and yet it is just such communities that are turning in thousands of pounds of scrap metals and rubber.

As we cut deeper into the war economy, unexpected values are attached to the commonest products and by-products—corn cobs and oats hulls, (sources of solvent known as furfurol,) plastics, drugs, and dyes. Some of these must be reserved strictly for war uses, others have been brought into balanced distribution among civilian and military users. Thus, the total supply of cotton linter, used in making explosives and other war goods, has been brought under distribution control, along with all refrigerator cars, barges and towboats—and the entire meat industry except retailers. Among products recently taken out of general circulation are portable electric fans, overhead traveling cranes, anti-freeze mixtures, quick-drying paints, caffeine (which goes into the "cola" drinks,) agave fiber (for wrapping twine,) western fire logs and hemlock aircraft logs.

Building lumber is so scarce that we shall be using bricks and tile for even temporary structures. Brushes, except for war uses or public health, must not contain more than 55 per cent pig and hog bristles. Cigarettes will be dryer—their moistening agent, glycol, going to cool military engines.

The drive for substitutes, better processes, short-cuts, goes on. With 90 per cent of our imported tin cut off, WPB has pressed developments of an electrolytic process which makes a ton of tin do the work of two.

ARMY COBBLER—How the shoeless Continentals at Valley Forge would have envied the United States soldiers of today when the Army carries to the field every facility for keeping footwear whole and comfortable!

Despite the modern mechanization of the armed forces, shoes are still a most important factor in the soldier's equipment. An Army shoe lasts about four months and in that time is re-soled twice. The shoe then is ready for salvage, and from this Uncle Sam also derives a percentage. With the latest equipment and skilled repairmen some of the camps and posts can turn out 900 pairs of re-soled shoes a day, according to the Quartermaster Corps. Millions of shoes have been bought for the Army since it is estimated that each man in the fighting forces will require 10 pairs during his period of service.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

COUNTY AGENT OFFERS TO LOAN HAY PROBE

County Agricultural Agent C. E. Baker has just received a hay "probe" which may be borrowed by DeKalb County farmers who think they may have hay heating in the mow, he announced today. The probe was furnished to him by an association of underwriters.

The probe consists of a three-quarter inch pipe, in 3 sections, to make it convenient to use in full mows. It has a point inserted in the end to make it punch down through the hay. A sensitive thermometer is part of the outfit and it is let down to the bottom of the pipe by means of a string.

The thermometer is allowed to remain a few minutes after which it is withdrawn and read. If the temperature is 150 degrees or higher, the farmer knows then that steps should be taken immediately to prevent the hay from bursting into flames. Ways of handling hot hay are outlined in a leaflet, "Spontaneous Combustion of Hay," obtainable at the county agricultural agent's office.

The probe will be loaned free of charge to anyone wishing to test his mow of hay for heating. Evidences of heating are moist warm spots on the surface of the hay.

Due to the extreme difficulty of getting building materials and to the need for feedstuffs of all kinds, extreme care should be taken to avoid fires, County Agent Baker declared. "Every barn burned now means a step backward in our war effort," he said.

Paper Plates, Drinking Cups, Napkins and table cloth by the yard at News Office. 30tf.

"Oh, Edgar, this is such fun!"

EDGAR and GWENDOLYN are making two tires do the work of four.

That's a timely example of twice as much for your money. But there's another example that you enjoy every day—if yours is an average household. It's the fact that you get twice as much electric service for the same money as you did 10 or 15 years ago.

You probably never realized it, because you were adding more electric appliances and using more electricity, all the time the rates were going down. Actually, the electric bill of two-thirds of all American families is about a dime a day.

That's just about the biggest dime's worth in the world—and worth remembering right now when the war is giving us a new sense of values.

Such a bargain is possible only because of the American system for which we're all fighting—a system of business management under public regulation, where free men are rewarded for their initiative and ability—and an ambitious office boy is a potential boss.

SADDLE HORSE ENTHUSIASTS MEET

A number of horse enthusiasts from the St. Joe and Spencerville communities, were hosts to a large number of riders and horse lovers from Auburn, Butler, Defiance, Hicksville and Antwerp, Ohio, at a party given last Sunday which afforded a day of wholesome and healthful pleasure to about fifty people, who are mindful of the fact that the prospect of tire and gasoline rationing should divert their minds from the pleasures made possible by automobiles alone.

This group met in the morning at the Dr. Baurgartner farm, Townsedge, and after a ride through the countryside gathered at the O. E. Ginther farm, Caseacres, where a potluck dinner of generous proportions was served in a beautiful rural setting made more attractive by the snappy atmosphere of an ideal autumn day.

After dinner, games were played consisting of a potato race, egg and spoon contest, and finally a comic costume race which all enjoyed to the utmost.

Another ride by the group through another section of the country side ended the day's activities and before parting those in attendance decided to have another get-together in the near future.

Hicksville saddle-horse folk were hosts to this group three weeks ago.

Interest in horse-back riding is increasing considerably in recent months and the riders, with their horses, will be used in a delnite program which is being established to be a part of our national defense.

NEWVILLE MAN DROPS DEAD AT HIS HOME

Coronary thrombosis was the cause of the sudden death Sunday of Paul Rex, age 43, of Newville. Calvin Hawkins, of Auburn, DeKalb County Coroner, said Monday. Mr. Rex dropped dead shortly before noon at his home.

Although he suffered a severe attack of quinsy, Sept. 3, Mr. Rex seemed to be in good health at the time of his death. He had just returned from town when stricken.

The deceased was a farmer and had spent his entire life in Newville. He was born there April 25, 1899. Surviving are the mother, Mrs. William Rex, and a sister, Miss Audrey Rex, both of Newville. The father, William, died 13 years ago.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the mother's home. Rev. William Nice of the Butler Church of Christ officiated, and burial was made in Evergreen cemetery at Newville. Richard Rupp had charge of the burial.

PANAMA MENACE

Director: Jean Yarborough
Original Story and Screenplay by: Ben Roberts and Sidney Sheldon
Cast: Roger Pryor, Virginia Vale, Lionel Royce, Lucien Prival, Duncan Renaldo, Lester Dorr, Jack Ingram, Hugh Beaumont, Warren Jackson, Sam McDaniel

PANAMA MENACE or (South of Panama, 35mm name) stars Roger Pryor and using the Panama Canal as background is a swiftly moving, exciting and altogether happy screen offering.

Revolving around Pryor's difficulties when he is mistakenly identified as a high government chemist by foreign agents, Panama Menace recounts his strange and breathtaking adventures in the Canal Zone. A seemingly impetuous kiss planted on his lips by Virginia Vale starts Pryor on a mad merry-go-round of adventure and hair-breath escapes. Before he can gather his wits and resources, he finds himself with not only one but two girl friends, a headache with results from a slugging by his tormentors and a stay in confined quarters as unwilling guest of some very tough gentlemen. But reporters are made of stern stuff, he proves, and before he gets his revenge and untangles his romantic mixup, his actions and adventures will keep you on the edge of your seat. Rousing is the word for this picture.

Pryor, playing the part of Mike Lawrence, the newspaperman with dynamite in his fists and romance in his heart gives one of his most pleasing and personable performances. His dash and deviltry keeps the picture going at an exciting pace and his winning personality has never been shown to better advantage.

Virginia Dale, in the dual roles of Jan Martin and Delores, a night-club entertainer proves an excellent foil for Pryor and in addition to lending her beauty and histrionic ability to the production, enhances it with some delightful singing.

Producer T. H. Richmond has provided Director Jean Yarborough and the competent cast headed by Roger Pryor with an excellent tale and handsome setting and both director and cast have shown their appreciation by turning out a mighty tempting and palatable dish of screenfare. It's been quite some time since we have seen as thrilling and carefree a show as Panama Menace or South of Panama.

OPENS 47th YEAF OF LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe opened its 47th year Wednesday with a dinner at the home of Mrs. John Leighty followed by a book review by Mrs. Jack Olinger, of Auburn.

An elaborate arrangement of fall flowers formed the center piece for the dining table from which dinner was served. Guests were seated at small tables daintily decorated with miniature bouquets.

During the study hour Mrs. Olinger reviewed the book South American Adventure by Alice Curtis Desmond. The book funrished a background for the year's study of South America by giving the story of the early explorers and plunderers of South America, chiefly of Pizzarro and his brutal destruction of the then highly civilized Incas. Mrs. Olinger is to be congratulated for the clever way in which she brought both the facts and the spirit of Mrs. Desmond's book to her listeners.

The meeting was planned by the club officers, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern, Mrs. Chas. O. Krise, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, Mrs. Carl Perkins, Mrs. Harvey Hull, Mrs. Fred B. Leighty, Miss Elizabeth Smith and the hostess.

Mrs. Harvey Hull will be hostess for the next meeting when Mrs. John Leighty and Mrs. Fred Leighty will have the lesson.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mr. W. E. Cox, of west of St. Joe, is having his electric service put into operation this week.

Martin Doenges said he had 5 responses from his classified ad last week and he was well pleased with the results.

Mrs. L. M. Condrey and two daughters, of Indianapolis, spent a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ginther.

Helen Sebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sebert, on Road 8, was removed from St. Joseph hospital this week, where she spent several weeks following an operation.

Mrs. Anna Frank, who spent the summer here the guest of her sister, Mrs. Hugh Neiland, left Wednesday for Auburn and then on to Akron, O., on Thursday to be with her daughter and family for the winter.

GILLIE LAUDED FOR SUPPORT OF ECONOMY DRIVE

Representative George W. Gillie has been cited for his unswerving opposition to non-essential Federal expenditures by the Citizen's Emergency Committee on Non-Defense Expenditures.

The Committee is a non partisan group with headquarters in Chicago, whose purpose is to realize sharp reductions in non-essential Government spending.

The score of Representative Gillie, according to a survey of votes cast on non-essential expenditures made by the committee, was 100 per cent against. This perfect record inspired a member of the committee to write Representative Gillie praising him for his opposition to Government extravagance and expressing appreciation of the fact that "we have representatives in Congress who are looking out for the interests of the taxpayers."

Representative Gillie's perfect score is based upon his support last Winter of decreases in the following appropriations:

Executive Office of the President, $34,743,760.
WPA, $595,000,000.
NYA $83,767,000.
CCC, $246,960,000.
Public Roads, $50,300,000.
Public Buildings Administration $34,548,576.
Department of Agriculture, $402,656,521.
Department of Commerce, $7,639,316.
Interior Department, $63,056,814.
TVA, $60,700,000.
Veterans Adminstration, $9,838,490.
State Department, $4,544,840.
Treasury Department, $31,606,595.

These were economics which Representative Gillie has supported since Pearl Harbor, but prior to Dec. 7, Rep. Gillie foresaw that the Treasury couldn't pay for war and continue non-essential expenditures as well.

On May 30, 1941, seven months before Pearl Harbor, Rep. Gillie said:

"We need billions for national defense. Let some of these billions come through a reduction in the luxuries and unnecessary expenses of Government itself."

In June, 1941 he stated:

"Americans will gladly share the burden of defense expenditures if they are assured that the money they pay in taxes is not wasted and squandered on non-essential, non-defense frills."

And in April, 1942 he asserted:

"The Government must clear its decks for action. It must rid itself of incompetents and bunglers. It must curtail, for the duration, all activities not directly contributing to the war effort."

NOTICE TO HOME OWNERS

Property owners in St. Joe are asked to make immediate repairs in their side walks, where the roots have upheaved the walks and where the sod holds the water on the walk. Please arrange to have this repairing completed within the next 30 days and save action by the Town Board. This is important.

At a meeting to be held soon, the program for the new year will be planned, a secretary-treasurer, farmer field woman and other members of the staff will be named and rates of pay decided upon. Mrs. Lois Fisher, of Spencerville, is now secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Audra Brown, of Franklin township, is the field woman. Carl K. Kohr, of Huntington, farmer field man for the AAA, will attend this meeting.

GIVE MORE CODE "V" FOR RECKLESS DRIVERS

Want to get even with the rubber wrecker?

Want to tame the tire torturer who whizzes by when you're holding 'er down to a patriotic 40, who squeals his tires on corners and specializes in jackrabbit starts and bucking bronco stops?

Well, one way to cool off this highway hotshot:

Give him three shorts and a long on your horn—the International Morse Code "V" for victory.

The National Safety Council believes that if eough of us use this handy means of reminding the reckless driver that he isn't doing his part in the conservation effort, he'll soon catch on and fall into line.

Result: More rubber and fewer crashes!

GENIEVE GINDER TO GET PART OF PROPERTY

By agreement of the parties, entries were made in the DeKalb Circuit Court Monday showing settlement of the litigation over the estate of the late Eugene D. Curtis, bachelor farmer of Stafford township, southeast of Butler.

By the terms of his will, Mr. Curtis devised 43 acres of land, valued at $1,400, to Genieve Ginder, a neighbor girl who is now 14 years of age; he gave his sister, Miss Bird Curtis, a life estate in 20 acres, valued at $1,000, with that tract going to a niece, Mrs. Garman Hallett, of Butler, upon the death of the sister; and he bequeathed his personal property, valued at $600, to the sister outright.

An attack on the will was made by Miss Bird Curtis, who had the co-operation of Mrs. Hallett, and trial was held last April. Testimony indicated the elderly man was eccentric, but witnesses for the Ginder girl expressed the opinion that Curtis knew what he was doing when he made his will. It was shown that he was very fond of Genieve and that he stated he intended to make her a bequest in his will. The jury held that the will was good.

Negotiations then were entered into for the settlement of the case out of court. Harry M. Ginder, father of Genieve, acting as her guardian, accepted an offer from Miss Curtis and Mrs. Hallett to pay the girl $300 in cash, convey to her 20 acres of land, valued at $600, pay the court costs, amounting to $104, give her the hay crop and relieve her of the burden of placing a monument at Eugene Curtis' grave, as required by his will.

Harry Ginder qualified to serve as guardian of his daughter, by filing $700 bond, with Albert H. Reinhart and Walter R. Hose as sureties.

OIL MEN SEEK MORE DRILLING PERMITS

As a result of the WPB's plementary order which recently relaxed drilling restrictions in Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, applications for permits to drill wells have greatly increased, according to Geo. V. Cohee, assistant State Geologist.

During the month of August, 32 wells were completed in Indiana, 12 of which were successful producers. A total of 53 active drilling operations were in progress and location made for 43 new wells. The ruling permitting only one well to a forty-acre tract of land was in effect during August. The new ruling which went into effect allows one well to a ten or twenty acre tract, depending on the depth of the well.

Oil production thus far in 1942 is more than 4,500,000 barrels. August crude oil production averaged 18,200 barrels daily, a slight decline from the peak month of May when 20,00 barrels were produced per day.

THE BOY PREACHER TO SPEAK AT RALLY

WAR SERMONS

There has always been talk about the feasibility of preaching war sermons from our nation's pulpits. There is two sides to the question, the man who wants to go to his service to get away completely from all hints of war, that other man who goes to his church to come away inspired to serve his country better, with renewed courage to go on in his small way for the sake of all mankind. We in St. Joe and Spencerville know that the true purpose of any church is to inspire, direct and guide. This holds true in war and in peace. It is the solace of daily life and since this war is an integral part of living today, it would seem that men must be encouraged to face it with the help of our nation's sermons. Many church hymns are suggestive of patriotism and loyalty and loyalty to country, the sacred duty of bravery for church and Christianity. There is an especial responsibility that rests with the pulpit today and few are the churches not meeting it with wisdom. We can go to church, not to hear a heated warlike sermon, but for inspiration to go forward hopefully, coming home refreshed and comforted.

COUNTRY FAIRS

There is one institution that time hasn't changed to such an extent around here. This is the county fair, the same sort of fair today as in grandfather's. Perhaps a few added features show the stage of progress from back-board to dash-board. There won't be as many fairs through the country this year but those that are scheduled will probably contain the usual poultry and pigs, apples and pumpkins, quilts and preserves of yesteryear's fairs. The 4-H Clubs will have their exhibits. The blue ribbons will be displayed as prominently as ever. Peanuts and taffy will still find its way into many an American stomach and the familiar sight of race tracks and midway will lend the extra bit of color. We hope many persons enjoy the fair, take pride in their country's contribution to achievement in agriculture and receive pleasure in renewing old associations and friendships that sometimes aren't revived until county fair week. Last week the Montpelier fair drew its share of people from this section, especially on Thursday and Friday.

FALL WEEK ENDS

Other years past it was found there was no season quite as popular for a week-end trip through the country as in the fall. Autumn has been conducive to travel, with that added something in the air that urges you to seek the open for a ramble, a weiner roast or a steak fry. Autumn beckoned you to go to the country and relax. With the development of good roads we were able to go farther by car and return to work and home quickly. We have always been a people for holiday travel, in quest of healthy change and excitement. Offices and stores, schools and factories opened doors during the week end for fishermen and hunters to wander, athletes to take to sports, nature lovers to enjoying the open country, all for an autumn week end. This year fewer people will be able to leave, due to transportation difficulties and not having the time from jobs. Perhaps we can't ride away but here we can still appreciate nature's handiwork right in our own back yards.

BICYCLES

The automobile industry devoting its attention to defense manufacture, government regulations in gasoline and rubber indicates that the business of bicycling is a more popular means of transportation in many an area. Not long ago we referred to a 'bicycle age,' a period many remembered as "the good old days." There seems to be a return to a bicycle era today if reports of sales and maintainence costs are true. The art of pedaling isn't a lost or dead one, in fact, we believe the bicycle is really here to stay. You may be safe in saying that using the horse and buggy is just a temporary issue due to gasoline and rubber shortage, but not so of the bike. Riding bicycles is another way to promote health, we are advised, but that means of course, if you can observe traffic rules and don't take unnecessary chances in riding them. There are still many automobiles on roads and the way some ride bicycles through moving lanes of traffic, weaving back and forth, crossing in front of cars, riding without using handle bars as a stunt to show dexterity, all points to bike riding as bein unhealthy at times. Parents can often help by impressing upon a child's mind the danger to themselves and the hazard to others. Motorists are afraid of youngsters on bicycles as they say they never can tell what the child will do. Riding bicycles in foreign countries has always been an important means of transportation since autos have not held the important place abroad they have here. They are taken as a matter of course in other countries and riders respect rules the same as govern motorists here at home. Certain cities here have set up laws of conduct for cyclists, worked out regulations, made age restrictions, hold special courts for cycling law-breakers. We have bicycles here in St. Joe and Spencerville so let us watch our step as we use our pedals.

WHO MAY VOTE ON ABSENT VOTER'S BALLOT

A duly registered voter may vote by the absent voter's method if he expects to be absent from his country on election day, on account of any of the following reasons:

1. By reason of his gainful employment of business.
2. By reason of his service in the military or naval force of the United States.
3. By reason of attendance at school or college.
4. If absent from his precinct because of being a member of a precinct election board in other than his own precinct.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Vernon Woodcox and wife, of Detroit, were Sunday guests in the C. C. Woodcox home.

Mrs. Leslie Wilbern attended a meeting of the county council of Federated Clubs at the home of Mrs. Wayne Smith of Auburn.

Word from Hobart stated that Mrs. Eva Chandler had fallen in her home, and was in a serious condition. She has been poorly for months.

Gerald Gee, of Madison, Iniana, was home over Tuesday with his parents, and on Wednesday went on to Dayton to visit his wife before returning to camp.

Howard Krise and wife, Maurice Kline and wife and Miss Fredrice Frick of Waterloo, drove to Nashville, Tenn., leaving early Saturday morning and returning Sunday evening, and were guests of Paul Krise who is in camp there. The trip was delightful and they found Paul well.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hadley entertained at their home Sunday some friends and neighbors from near Ossian. A pot luck dinner was served at noon. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Burr Simmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stoppenhagen, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stoppenhagen, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Buuck and daughter, Marceil, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stoppenhagen and son, Loren, Roger Simmerman, Edwin Stoppenhagen and Bernice Stoppenhagen.

Over 12,000 entries have been received in the annual national hybrid corn growing contest conducted by the DeKalb Agricultural Association, it was announced by Thomas H. Roberts, general manager of the association who said that entries in the contest all close October 1. He added that 16 corn growing states, two more than last year, are represented in the contest, the most states ever competing. County, state and national champions will be announced in early November.

LEGAL QUALIFICATIONS TO VOTE

For a person to be entitled to vote in the precinct or township in which she or he resides, he or she must:

1. Be a citizen of the United States;
2. Be of the age of twenty-one years, or upwards;
3. Have resided in the state for six months, in the township sixty days, in the ward or precinct thirty days immediately preceding the day of the election, and;
4. Have registered as a voter.

If the voter voted in the General Election of 1940 or the Primary of 1942 no further registration is necessary unless the voter has moved, then a transfer of registration to his present address is required.

LOCAL MINISTER ENDORSES RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK

In these days of war much is being said about the sacrifices Americans must make to win the struggle, with the feeling also that certain movements should be halted until the fighting is over. But the observance of Religious Education Week is not one of the latter, for on July 29 President Roosevelt issued a strong letter to Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education endorsing the program. Our Chief Executive sees this global strife as a contest between two ideologies. The military training of German youth is no more intense than is the indoctrination of their minds with the totalitarian plans for the so-called "new world order."

Over against the program of the Axis powers let me quote Dr. George N. Shuster, of Hunter College, New York City, in his article on "Religion in Education" in the current number of the magazine, Religion in Life. "I am quite sure that neither democracy nor freedom will continue to mean a great deal unless they are associated once more with the religious thinking from which they sprang. The Western world struggled for liberty because it was sure that God must be obeyed rather than man. Freedom is the very essence of man, therefore freedom is also religious. Religion is triumphant liberation. Man's blood has been sacrificed lavishly in the past and the present to prove that the doors which lead to his innermost citadel are barred until he opens them to God. This and only this has protected the spirit of man against political invasion."

Historical research has shown that Dr. Shuster's words are true by the effort of our forefathers made to free the thirteen original colonies and to set up a government in which "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiess" were to be paramount, to use the immortal words of Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence. Where vital piety was engendered by the colonial churches the zeal for freedom was high and intense, in places where religion was at a low ebb the enthusiasm of the citizens for liberty was feeble.

We as churches owe it to the boys in the military and naval service to keep not only the "home fires burning," but the warm heart as well. Since I firmly believe that sane religious education is demanded if we do no lose our ideals in the midst of this world holocaust I heartily endorse the program of Religious Education Week, Sept. 27 to Oct. 4.

G. F. Hubbartt,
President of the DeKalb Co. Ministerial Association.

Religious Education Week can set the morale and shape the plans for the entire year's educational activities, if well planned. To start off your fall and winter church calendar with real zeal join in the observance vigorously. At no time has our country had such need of the Teachings of Christian Educational values in the home, the church and the community as today.

Christian Education is the strongest bulwark against this inflation of totalitarianism, against atheism and against godlessness. It is upon our church schools that all society must count heavily for this instruction and emphasis on the great Christian fundamental values. Young people growing up in this time of terrible chaos are in need of such instruction and emphasis. But so do all of us. The young and the mature alike need Faith. A Faith that is steadfast, unmovable, lest our doubtings and despairing overcome us. All need to keep the Light of Christianity shining through the darkness. And who among us does not stand in need of Prayer?

Religious Education Week Has Also Its World Outreach!

Sunday, Oct. 4 has been designated as World Communion Sunday. Many denominations are making a Relief Appeal at this time. And what better time could there be than while commemorating the suffering of our Lord and Savior to remember the countless world sufferers of today?

May this Religious Education Week be the beginning as one writer puts it, "Sponsors of Religious Education Week—which should be 52 weeks"—of making a vital contribution to the defense of American democracy.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

We've been "only ankle-deep" in war. But we're wading in, getting deeper as we plunge into a racing tide of scarcities through which we must fight our way to victory. And our strength against swirling currents is the strength which lies in control—control of scarce manpower, raw materials, fuel to run war plants and heat homes, control of foods made scarce by the enormous need for food of our allies and our own armed forces.

Our latest attack on scarcity comes from two directions—further control over distribution of scarce goods and products in the form of rationing, and a new offensive against high costs—in part created by scarcity — through extension of control over prices and wages.

Scarcity of fuel oil in the East and Mid-west, caused by our tanker losses in the Atlantic and the need to send tankers to far parts of the earth, has led to fuel oil rationing in 30 Eastern and Midwestern states and the District of Columbia.

Gasoline rationing, in prospect for the entire country, serves a less direct but most vital purpose—the saving of rubber. Every day, by unnecessary and fast driving, we have been wasting enough rubber to rebuild 200,000 tires. A good deal of rubber has been saved because rationing limited use of gasoline by motorists in 17 Eastern states. But we cannot save rubber in one state and not in another. Not only would that be unfair, it would not save enough rubber. There's no shortage of oil and gasoline in the Southwest—far from it—but the country's tires are wearing out at a rate eight times faster than they are being replaced. It will take the Office of Price Administration a few weeks to work out a nationwide rationing program, in the meantime patriotic drivers everywhere will ration themselves—stop unnecessary driving—keep speeds down to 35 miles an hour.

Quantities of rubber and gasoline will be saved because the government has taken control over the operation of all commercial vehicles in the country. Reduction of the number of taxicabs operating in New York City and curtailing use of those that remain will save 428 million tire miles, 15,000 new tires and the same number of recaps, and 10 million gallons of gasoline.

Meats and meat products are among the foods that are scarce because of abnormal demands. Besides the huge requirements for our fighting men, in three months we have sent the United Nations millions of pounds of pork, fish, dried beef, army rations, and the like. Faced with meat shortages, the OPA has been given authority to ration all types of meat and meat products except poultry, game and lard, and to control their distribution from slaughterhouse to consumer. It will be some time, however, before OPA is ready to ration meat at the retail buying level.

Chemical fertilizers that contain nitrogen, needed for vital war manufacture, have been placed under nationwide control. Delivery of superphosphate containing more than 18 per cent phosphoric acid is also forbidden. Fertilizers must come in bags weighing at least 100 pounds, except for bags of 80 pounds and up already in manufacturers' stocks.

The Home Front's dread enemy, inflation, still threatens us with high living costs as vastly increaesed buying power competes for scarce goods not yet under price control. Today, for example, we are paying $1.35 for what was a dollar's worth of food in 1939. Prices of foods not under control have arisen almost 10 per cent in a three month period, where as foods, products, and services under price ceilings have shown a slight decline during the same period. The answer is more extensive price control, and this control now has been extended to a varied list of products—rugs, denims, plywood, lime for improving soils, insecticides, fungicides, fall and winter knitted underwear, tool handles, tent pins, wagon spokes, dried prunes and raisins.

Thousands of women will be needed as part of the ground force at commercial airports. . Railroads, local transit companies, all the war industries are short-handed. Trained nurses and nursing assistants are desperately needed. . . Labor-Management committees reached a total of 1,303 in August, with the largest increase in the machine-tool industry. . In California a committee proposed that workers spend Sundays harvesting fruit that would otherwise spoil. They did. . . . Liberty ship builders are beating all shipbuilding records, they are now turning them out in so short a time as 50 days. . . . Ceiling price of apple butter has been raised ten per cent, and jams, jellies and preserves will be higher. . Following its policy of cracking down on chiselers who cheapen products and claim they are the same grade, OPA has ordered strictor grading of beef and veal. . . Great tea drinkers are going to learn to like black tea or go without. Green tea comes from enemy-occupied areas. . . War expenses of the U. S. for the last month topped the five billion dollar mark. More than 10 per cent of our total war expenditures are for our allies under Lend-Lease, but they're returning this aid in countless ways, building naval bases and airports, supplying our troops abroad.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Fresh apples are the Victory Food Special for the period Sept. 17 through Sept. 26. They will be featured as such by retailers throughout the country in a merchandising drive designed to focus consumer attention on the abundance of apples in season says Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent.

Object of the Victory Food Special designation is to encourage consumers to make full use of particular foods in most plentiful supply in order to conserve other foods needed for the war and to assure the harvest and marketing of all foods produced.

And speaking of pies, as everyone who speaks of apples eventually does, have you ever tried crusting the crust with melted cheese? The Tastes blend even more subtly than when a nibble of cheese is taken now and then. You wait until after the pie is baked then cover the top with American cheese, thin sliced or grated, and put the pie back in a moderate oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) until the cheese is melted. And be sure to serve while the cheese is still warm.

Apple turnovers, apple dumplings, apple upside-down cake—a hard list to choose from; you'll want to try them all one of these times when apples are a Victory Food Special.

Turnovers are easy to make—If you can make good pastry dough. You just roll the dough in rounds about the size of a large saucer. On one half of the pastry round arrange layers of thinly sliced apples, sprinkle with a mixture of sugar, cinnamon, and a little salt, and dot with butter. Moisten the lower rim of the pastry, bring the other part over it, press the two edges firmly together with the tines of a fork and prick the crust so the steam can escape. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 to 400 degress F.) for 20 minutes. Smell the cinnamon-sweet aroma? Yum! Yum!

Now it's another day and time for that upside-down cake. You get out the mixing bowl and cream ¼ cup of butter or other fat with ½ cup of sugar, a well beaten egg, and a teaspoonful of vanilla.

Sift 1 and ½ cups of soft wheat flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder and ¼ teaspoon of salt together and add it, alternately with ½ cup of milk, to the creamed mixture. Coat the bottom and sides of a glass baking dish or a very heavy pan with fat, spread thick. Spread thin slices of firm-fleshed apples in an overlapping layer on the bottom of the baking dish and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar mixture. Now pour the thick cake mixture in and smooth out the top with a knife. Bake in a very moderate oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Loosen the sides of the cake, turn it over carefully, upside down and the top will be covered with a neat layer of apples you can see through. Serve hot with hard sauce (if you have enough sugar left!) or whipped cream.

Apple rings with pork chops—or even with bacon for breakfast. Tart apples diced, skins and all, with chopped celery and chopped nuts for Waldorf salad. Chopped apples of any kind to give added taste, an added zest to any salad. It's good to have apples as a Victory Food Special.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Edgar Lysher attended a party given by the Eagles at their lodge room in Garrett on Friday evening. Cards and dancing furnished the entertainment, and a nice lunch was enjoyed.

Miss Betty Mavis, of Chicago, and Mrs. Everett Mavis of Garrett, were Saturday guests of Merritt Sechler. Sunday guests were Dr. and Mrs. Dan Benninghoff, sons, Dan and David and Mrs. Margaret Benninghoff, all of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Lela Northrup entertained at a birthday dinner Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. R. Shilling, with Mrs. F. B. Leighty as the honored guest. Those present were Mrs. Inez Chapman, Fred Leighty, Roy Koch and Frank Leighty.

A number of men from the community attended the state swine meeting at Purdue last Friday with Dale Wicoff, agricultural teacher in the Spencer and Concord Township schools. They were Howard Shilling, C. C. Woodcox, Chas. Furnish, Kenneth Coburn, Mark Murphy, Maurice Kline, Fred Stemen and Louis Washler.

Around forty farmers including their families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr to settle up for the season's threshing. After the business was taken care of ice cream and cake were served by the ladies and the rest of the evening was spent in visiting and music on the piano, guitar and violin by the Wells and Surfas families, also special music by Miss Virginia Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on Tuesday. F. B. Leighty's celebrated their 34th anniversary. Monday, in fact the affair started on Sunday with a special dinner, Monday another dinner out at 6 and Tuesday a luncheon at the Kees home. We are thinking of advocating a full week's celebration for such events. Anyway it's nice to have friends and be able to enjoy these days together.

Richard Freeburn was home from Camp Grant over the week-end visiting his parents and friends.

On last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kees gave a farewell dinner for their son, Dean, who is leaving this week for military training. Those present were the honor guest and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hutton and daughter, Betty, Dan Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Deluceny and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Lee Jackson, Mrs. Anna Koch, Mrs. Nan Lysher, Edgar Lysher, Miss Maxine Woodcox, and the children, Nelda, Sammy, Harry Lee, Bonnie and Roger, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees.

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCT. 1. 1942 NUMBER 40

TWENTY TAXING UNITS TO TO ENJOY REDUCTION.

Of twenty-three taxing units in DeKalb County, twenty will benefit by lower levies for the year 1943, a table prepared in the office of County Auditor Burley Ensley shows.

Reductions vary from 58 cents on the $100 valuation in Smithfield township to 7 cents in Auburn. The other decreases follow: Garrett, 40 cents; Altona, 44 cents; Butler City, 33; Corunna, 33; St. Joe, 26; Waterloo, 14; Ashley, 57; Concord township, Fairfield, Franklin, Grant, 13; Jackson, 32; Keyser, 37; Newville, 36; Richland, 19; Spencer, 18; Union, 30; Wilmington, 11. Stafford township's rate goes up one cent and Troy's 41 cents, while Butler township's remains the same at $1.20.

The levies are all subject to review by the state tax board, but probably only minor changes will be made. The total rates for the various units follow: Auburn, $2.25; Garrett, $2.76; Altona, $1.90; Ashley, $2.81; Butler city, $2.85; Corunna, $2.05; St. Joe, $2.06; Waterloo, $2.94; Butler township, $1.20; Concord, $1.56; Fairfield, $1.39; Franklin, $1.47; Grant, $1.75; Jackson, 90 cts; Keyser $1.55; Newville, $1.04; Richland, $1.29; Smithfield, $1.56; Spencer, $1.52; Stafford $1.01; Troy, $1.67; Union, $1.34; Wilmington, $1.05.

Twelve of the units are within the statutory limits which are $2 for city and towns and $1.25 for townships, excepting welfare levies and debt service levies. These units are Auburn, Altona, Corunna, St. Joe and Butler, Fairfield, Jackson, Newville, Richland, Stafford, Union and Wilmington townships. The rates of eleven units are automatically appealed to the state board. They are Garrett, Ashley, Butler city, Waterloo, and Concord, Franklin, Fairfield, Keyser, Smithfield, Spencer and Troy townships.

Various Levies Reduced

The rates include 12 cents assessed by the state as decided upon. This is a cut of 2 cents from last year. Mr. Ensley has made a report of the work of the county adjustment board to the state. By reviewing all budget figures of operating balances, income and estimated expenditures, the board ordered a number of rate reductions, as follows:

County general fund, from 22 cents to 20.

Welfare fund, from 14 cents to 13.

Butler township, general fund from 12 to 10, and tuition fund, 29 to 27.

Concord, general fund from 8 to 5.

Franklin, general fund from 11 to 10 and special school 67 to 57.

Grant township tuition fund from 35 to 33 and library from 6 to 4.

Keyser township general fund from 6 to 5 and special school from 62 to 60.

Newville general fund from 15 to 12 and tuition from 29 to 26.

Richland special school from 46 to 45.

Smithfield general fund from 8 to 5 and tuition from 57 to 21.

Spencer special school from 65 to 64.

Stafford tuition from 24 to 20.

Troy general fund from 16 to 15.

Union special school from 47 to 46.

Wilmington special school from 15 to 12.

Auburn tuition from 58 to 54.

Garrett, township general fund from 6 to 5; school bonds from 19 to 17, tuition from 75 to 74 and special school from 75 to 70.

Altona, township general fund from 6 to 5.

Ashley, township general fund from 8 to 5 and tuition from 57 to 21.

Butler city general fund from 88 to 81.

Corunna special school from 46 to 45 and general fund from 92 to 76.

St. Joe, township general fund from 8 to 5.

Waterloo tuition from 35 to 33 and general fund from $1.35 to $1.15.

Mr. Ensley received word from the state board of the approval of additional appropriations for 1942 made by the county council recently. The total is $7,540, including $4,500 for the purchase by the commissioners from John Nugen of property at Auburn Junction for the use of the highway department, a garage to be established on the site and the road straightened. It is expected the deal for the real estate will now be consummated.

TO ESTABLISH HOME NURSING COURSE HERE.

Moved by patriotism and self-interest, several hundred thousand Americans will take the Red Cross Home Nursing Course this year. You are invited to be one of them. Everyone needs to know what to do in case of illness or emergency in the home.

Classes in Red Cross Home Nursing are being organized and held in Chapter buildings, schools, churches, industrial plants, and similar places where there are facilities for teaching. Trained nurses serve as instructors.

Most of the instruction is through the "learn-by-doing" method. The course covers 24 to 30 hours. A "Red Cross Home Nursing Certificate" is awarded on the satisfactory completion of the course.

There are classes for all—mothers, wives, young women, girls, as well as for fathers, men and boys.

What the Course Will Do For You

It will teach you: First, to improve the general health of your family and yourself; second, to do the right thing in your home in case of sudden or prolonged sickness. But further, let even one person in ten have this knowledge and the general health of the community is immediately raised—for National Defense.

The subjects covered in the course are:

I. HEALTH

Individual health and personal hygiene.

Healthful home environment.

Healthful community environment.

II. CHILDREN

Babies and their care.

The care of older children.

III. ILLNESS

Indications of illness.

Equipment and care of the sick room.

Baths and making occupied bed.

Sickroom appliances and procedures.

Medicines and other remedies.

Feeding the sick.

IV. SPECIAL HEALTH SERVICES

The home attendant and her daily routine.

Care of patients with communicable diseases.

Care of convalescents, the chronic, and the aged.

Minor illnesses and emergencies.

Plans are under way to organize a class in St. Joe, and all interested are asked to report or contact Lora Leighty, chairman, or Doris Yeiser, assistant, as soon as possible, so these classes may be started. The Red Cross will cooperate by furnishing a trained nurse instructor. There will be a meeting next Tuesday, Oct. 6, at the home of Mrs. Yeiser, at 2 o'clock. Plan to attend. Study books will be 75 cents each.

"Safeguard your home and community health for national Defense."

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Wednesday evening, Sept. 23, a regular meeting of Auxiliary held at the home of the president, Josephine Kees. After regular business meeting Bernice Wilder was presented by the installing officer, Lois Dean, a very beautiful" Naval Print" plate as an award for the membership contest.

Agnes Monroe was awarded a past president's pin for her active service in 1942.

After contests and a social hour, refreshments of donuts and coffee were served by the hostess. One guest present. Later the Legion Post came for their families and enjoyed the social hour. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will meet at Post Headquarters, Oct. 27. Every member urged to be present.

FACTS RELATIVE TO GASOLINE RATIONING

Rubber Administrator Jeffers, acting on two important recommendations of the Baruch Rubber Committee, directed the Office of Defense Transportation to limit driving speed to 35 miles an hour and told the Office of Price Administration to prepare to ration gasoline throughout the Nation on the same basis that it is now rationed in the East.

The limitation on speed will go into effect October 1 for all vehicles except those operated by common carriers. Common carriers—trucks and busses operated on regular schedules over regular routes—will be given until October 15 to adjust their schedules to the new top speed. Enforcement of the new speed limit will be left up to the states for the present, ODT announced.

Nationwide gasoline rationing—designed to reduce mileage so as to save rubber rather than gasoline—will become effective about November 22, Price Administrator Henderson reported. By that time ration books will have been distributed to approximately 20 million motorists in the unrationed area. The present tire rationing program will be integrated wtih the new gasoline rationing program and tires on all cars will have to be submitted to OPA for "on wheel inspection every 60 days to insure proper care."

The OPA said fuel oil consumers in the 30 rationed East and Mid-West states will have to get along this winter with one-third less oil than usual because the originally-announced cut of one-fourth would not be sufficient. On the basis of last winter, however—which was about 10 per cent warmer than usual—the cut will only be about 26 per cent, the Office said. The quota of new adult bicycles for rationing in October was set at 88,000, compared with the September quota of 90,000.

CONCORD HOME BUREAU

The September meeting of the Concord Township Home Bureau was held at the home of Gertrude Borthwick. The vice president, Millie Shull, took charge in the absence of the president, Mary Krise. The meeting was opened with the song, "In the Gloaming' being led by Mrs. Borthwick.

Sixteen members responded to roll call. The project lesson was on the preparing and packing of lunches. This was given by Laura Washler and Cora Curie, and enjoyed by all. The election of officers then took place. The old officers being elected for another year.

The hostess with her committee, Mable Baker and Mabel Weikel, served a delicious lunch consisting of chicken salad in lettuce cups, smacks, mints, nuts and coffee. The October meeting will be held at the home of Harriett Draggoo.

FOR DEFENSE

Sell your scrap iron, rags, and metals at the Standard Iron & Metal Co., Auburn Junction. We will pay you the highest market price and guarantee you honest weight.

NORMAN BOSELL, Owner, or see Harold Stafford, local representative. 40t1.

NOTICE TO HOME OWNERS

Property owners in St. Joe are asked to make immediate repairs in their side walks, where the roots have upheaved the walks and where the sod holds the water on the walk. Please arrange to have this repairing completed within the next 30 days and save action by the Town Board. This is important.

38t2 Signed: Town Board.

Miss Cordelia Dederick of north-west of Concord, and a graduate of St. Joe high school, has accepted a clerical position with the Farm Bureau at Auburn, where she began work last week.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE EVENING CLASSES

The Evening Schools for Adult Farmers at Spencer and Concord township high schools are starting one month earlier this year so that two War Production Courses may be offered to the farmers of this area later on in the year.

The starting night for St. Joe will be Oct. 5 at 8:00 P. M., C. W. T. at the High School Building. The subjects for the three months school include Problems of Beef, Hog, Sheep and Poultry Production.

Spencerville will start their school Oct. 7th at 8:00 P. M., C. W. T. with the subject of Dairy Production up for discussion. Meetings will be held in High School Building.

Any progressive farmer with in the patronage area of either high school may attend. The school will meet two hours every week for not less than ten consecutive weeks.

4-H CLUB WINNERS

Several 4-H Club members of the local school areas came back from the 4-H Club show with ribbons of various degrees.

Walter Fetters placed first in a class of 26 light weight steers, while Donald Baughman placed third in the same class. Calvin Hull placed third in the heavy weight class of 26 steers.

Donald Friend, Evelyn Friend and Harold Murphy placed first, second and third, respectively in the Insect Club.

Robert Kelley, Richard Shilling and Lavon Hart placed first, second and third respectively in the single ewe lamb class.

Robert Kelley placed first in advanced poultry production.

Frank Laub placed second in the Berkshire breeding gilt class.

Hazel Ankney placed third in beginning gardening.

The show was well attended and started off Tuesday night with a banquet for all members completing their project. The entries were placed Wednesday by competent judges from Purdue University. All exhibits but those to be sold Thursday, were released late Wednesday afternoon. The show was climaxed Thursday by the sale of fat stock.

BIRTHDAY SHOWER

The relatives and frends of Laney Gee remembered his 80th birthday, Sept. 25th by calling or sending greetings, bouquets, etc., and his daughter and family had a six o'clock dinner in his honor at their home east of town.

Greetings were received from Blytheville, Ark., where they lived several years, Ashtabula, Conneaut, Columbus, and Hicksville, Ohio, St. Joe, Auburn, Butler and Spencervlle, Ind. Many from the Coburn Corners friends, all of which were much appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abel, of Peru, called Monday at the home.

SHARE CROP WITH LABOR

Because of the scarcity of labor, the Leighty Orchard is offering a share in the crop of apples, by offering the picker one bushel out of eight picked, and will furnish ladders and picking bags for all. This offer is open to man, woman or child who can arrange to help harvest this crop. Contact them at once.

SQUIRREL SEASON TO END OCTOBER 8

Hunters will end a successful 60-day season on grey and fox squirrels Thursday, Oct. 8.

Reports indicate that squirrels were plentiful and the bag limit of five animals per person was not hard to get.

In the past zones have been established in an attenmpt to meet climatic differences prevailing over the state. This year, however, the same 60-day open season extending from August 10 to October 8 applied to both the northern and southern counties.

The LIONS CLUB

At the Lions Club Monday night, a report was submitted by Lion Billow relative to the scrap metal drive. Some 15 tons of metal have been collected and the piles at the St. Joe and Spencerville elevators are growing daily. The need for collecting scrap is urgent, and Lion Wilbern from the St. Joe school and Lion Paschen from the Spencerville school are cooperating with the club in giving the school children an opportunity to earn some cash for War Bonds and gather scrap to help lick the Japs.

The boys of St. Joe and Spencerville schools are part of a national junior army which on October 5 will begin a great attack.

The attack is against the worst enemy within our borders today. The enemy could stop our factories from making guns and ships and tanks and planes. The enemy could prevent those weapons from being made by preventing manufactuer of the steel out of which ture of the steel out of which parts of those weapons are

That enemy is starvation of the steel mills.

But the school pupils of our nation, organized in a great junior army, are going to feed the mills. They are going to find and bring together the things out of which tanks and ships are made—things like rusty pipe, broken bed springs, air guns that won't shoot any more.

Around St. Joe and Spencerville communities that is junk, scrap. But after it has gone through the mills it is bombs for the Nazis and bullets for the Japs.

The speaker of the occasion was Wm. F. Burbank of Allied Mills, Ft. Wayne, graduate of Ohio State University, former agricultural agent of Allen County, and veteran of World War I, spoke on the timely topic of Live Stock Production.

Mr. Burbank urged immediate increases in the production of quick meats—something that can be used before next spring, principally broilers.

In the past, increased production has resulted from increased profits alone. In the present crisis, this aspect must be supplemented by a patriotic need. Present production in the U. S. in three vital foods is as follows:

119,000 qts. every minute, (milk.)

5,000,000 eggs every hour,

3,200 carloads hogs daily, (pork.)

Current outlook points to increased production in all three of these foods. Feed—egg ration is much better than a year ago. Hog production is 25% above a year ago, and dairy products are showing more profit than in recent years.

"The country that wins the war," says Mr. Burbank, "is the country with its stomachs filled." With this in mind, it behooves us to avail ourselves of all reasonable information in increasing our present food out put. This is not done alone by keeping more brood sows or keeping more hens. Adequate housing must be provided—overcrowding. may decrease production. Most of the immediate increase in production must result from improved management and improved feeding.

Mr. Burbank urged action on the part of the farmers and producers immediately. To clinch this fact, he concluded his speech by three familiar rhymes. "Tomorrow," "The Little Red Rooster" and "The Man Who Wins is the Man Who Tries.'

Plans for coming sessions of the club were announced which will increase the attendance.

Robert Johnson was home from Fredericksburg, Va., over Thursday night. His furlough gave him only a few hours at home, but seeing his family and friends was worth his miles of travel.

Overheard Harry Kees say he was glad that it isn't considered unAmerican to look forward to sauerkraut and spareribs.

The fellow who sits around worrying about what people think about him might be surprised to know that they don't!

Another nice thing about returning to horses here is that they don't need their battery checked or air in their tires.

Nearly every married man can tell you that the best way to make your wife talk is to tell her to keep still.

Experience is a very faithful and persevering teacher, but we've seen a lot of other teachers who made things a lot clearer.

Few of us worry over how much money we make, but all of us worry over how much we get.

It is hard to get credit where credit is due, but the man in St. Joe who wants to try something that is hard should try to get credit where bills are due.

WOMEN'S DAY RALLY

Mrs. Edna Bingham, State Vice Chairman of Indianapolis, will be the speaker at a Democratic women's meeting to be held Oct. 5 (Monday eve) in the assembly room of the court house in Auburn at 7:30 P. M. A short program will follow the address. All women are invited to this meeting.

DISCIPLE HOSTS TO GATHER AT INDIANAPOLIS

With all the restrictions, rationings and priorities, it is the judgement of both religious and national political leaders that the flag of the church should be kept flying beside "Old Glory." Religious interest and enterprise must not go into hiding for the duration. In keeping with this thought, the North Amercian Christian Convention of disciples of Christ will assemble in Indianapolis, Oct. 14-18 inclusive.

For a time the committees in charge debated the question as to the patriotism and advisability of holding this national convention at this time. Aided by a suggestion of the President and the judgment of the committee of thirty, it was decided to go ahead full steam. The sentiment is that of all times this is a time when the religion of Christ and the flag of the church should be kept to the forefront. The convention will be held in the Cadle Tabernacle, which has been secured for the occasion.

FEDERATED CLUBS TO CONVENE

The 34th annual convention of the twelfth district of the Indiana Federation of Clubs will be held at Howe, Ind., on next Tuesday, Oct. 6, with the LaGrange County Federation of Clubs as hostess. Many club women from St. Joe are planning to attend. The theme of this year's convention is "You can depend on America." The project of the district federation is "War Service," and its theme is "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

The twelfth district is made up of clubs from Allen County, Whitley, LaGrange, Steuben, and DeKalb. The officers of this district are: President, Miss Wayne Smith, of Howe; 1st vice president, Mrs. Chas. Holland, of Angola; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Don LeBrow, of South Whitley; 3rd vice, Mrs. Frank Weathers, of Auburn; secretary, Mrs. M. K. Shoup, of Howe, and treasurer Mrs. D. F. Hand, of Fort Wayne. The Board of Directors are Mrs. W. C. Allen of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. O. B. Rose of Garrett, and Mrs. Clinton F. Bloom, of Albion.

OCTOBER 5 IS LAST DAY TO REGISTER

Monday, October 5, is the last day for a voter to register before the general election.

If you want to vote on Tuesday, Nov. 3, be sure to register on or before October 5.

October 5 is also the last day a voter may transfer his registration, and the last day for the clerk of the circuit court to prepare a list of the disfranchised voters in each precinct.

Mark Williams can boast of having caught the largest fish of the season in St. Joe River. Thursday evening he caught a Wall Eye Pike weighing 8 pounds and measuring 26 inches in length. This is the result of stocking the river by the Conservation Club for the past years.

Byron Widney was responsible for a fish fry at his country home Saturday night when Hollis Dilley, Wm. Staman and Frank Curie, accompanied by their wives, and Mrs. Mary Sechler all said they had more than enough fish for one meal. This is evidence that Byron knows how to catch fish.

The Butler elementary school opened the 1942 school year with an enrollment of 235, which is an increase of 20 over the same period last year. The high school showed a decrease of 14 from the enrollment of 214 last year. There are 55 Freshmen, 54 Sophomores, 38 Juniors and 53 Seniors. The Senior class has one more than graduated in the class of this year.

The Goodyear Tire Co., at Akron, states that it is ready to begin quarterly production of war time tires as soon as the government authorizes it to do so. The new tires, which will give 10,000 miles if driven 35 miles an hour or slower, contain only four ounces of crude rubber, one of the nation's most critical war materials. The crude rubber will be used in cementing the plies, it was explained. Most of the tire will be built from reclaimed rubber, which the company expects will be released in sufficient quantities by the government soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall visited Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John Beard at Waterloo.

A pot luck dinner was held Sunday at the home of Dan Keller and wife 4 miles north of St. Joe, honoring their son, Ray, who is home on a 14-day furlough. He is located at Ft. Bragg, N. C., and since being in the service 7 months has had two operations. Those in attendance besides his parents were: Mr. and Mrs. Mac Keller and three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keller and two children, Erman Haifley, wife and 4 children, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Osman and two children from Edgerton O., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blair, of Edon, Ohio, Richard Packer and wife and Bert Keller of Butler, Irene Smith, Betty Smith, Mrs. Will Smith of St. Joe, Robert Musser and a soldier Buddy from a Michigan Camp. On Monday the neighbors called at the Keller home with carry-in supper. Ray will leave on Thursday to return to camp.

Alvy Perry, of Garrett, was a caller in St. Joe Saturday.

Mrs. Harry Randall returned home Sunday night, after spending the summer taking care of her sick relatives.

Wesley Cornelius, who spent the past summer here in the Ada Zimmerman home, returned to Elkhart Monday morning by train.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schaab of Auburn, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty, Sunday, taking dinner at the Akins Tea Room.

Peggy Jo Chorpenning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Chorpenning, was married last week to Dale Richard Smith of Harlan, a trucker.

Mrs. Howard Shilling found a natural V for victory formation in a stone on the Shilling farm. The stone had several other formations similar to V's but only the one was perfect.

Harry Hursh and wife left Saturday for Ann Arbor, Michigan, where they both have work at the state college as maid and janitor in one of the domatories. Their Sunday School class gave them a farewell on Friday night with a surprise carry-in supper.

Sherman Welff was taken to Easthaven hospital at Richmond, Ind., Friday, after being committed by the court. It was thought that due to his age he would have to be a ward at the county home, but a vacancy came on Thursday at the hospital and the Sheriff and Sherman Rickett made the trip at once.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Total war has a gigantic and unappeasable appetite for goods, services, and manpower. Scarcely had we entered the fight for freedom when this vast hunger began to change our lives. Within one month after Pearl Harbor we had begun to take control over our stocks of some goods and raw materials, and to limit civilian use of others. By degrees, shortages developed in a hundred directions, many of which we had not anticipated. Control took a variety of forms, only one of which we called rationing, though actually every type of control that divides available supply in order to make it go as far as possible is a kind of rationing.

There are two sorts of rationing. One works only thru restrictive orders, with penalties for those who violate them. The other succeeds because we voluntarily limit our consumption of critical goods and our use of critical services. Both are necessary. But the voluntary method stems from our tradition of free cooperation, and is as important to our victory drive at home as is morale to an army in the field. It also is the hard way, it calls for extraordinary self discipline.

The rationing of fuel oil in the East and Middle West will be a test of our ability to take discomforts, and a test of our desire to work together patriotically, too. The plan sets allowances on the basis of average temperatures in four climate zones. It is a fair plan, but its success depends finally on the individual, on his attention to practical heating details and his real desire to make "short rations" go as far as possible, for the good of all.

There's more movement of fresh foodstuffs these days than ever before. To maintain this movement—so vital to the war effort—requires the closest interlocking of storage facilities with transportation.

We not only are desperately short of "front line" war workers—those with special skills—but by the end of 1943 we shall need about 18 million workers of all kinds, partly to replace the millions of men who will be called into service, although chiefly for war production expansion. This means that more women will be employed—by the millions. It means that at least five million persons who are not now working at anything will have to go to work. It means that our man power, in time, must—in one way or another—be "rationed," that is, applied where it is needed most. To some extent that already is being done.

Unless the scrap and salvage campaign goes into high gear this autumn, the country's blast furnaces will be forced to cut down production. Housewives are getting a list of more than 100 household items needed for the national scrap pile. Worn or used silk hosiery is so valuable in making bags for smokeless powder that ceiling prices have been raised so as to stimulate carload lot sales. Price increases also have been allowed for New England cordwood and canned fruit and berries, while maximum prices were fixed over raw furs and skins, cement, and knitted underwear last week.

Increased labor costs and the uncontrolled prices of farm products are exerting steady pressure against price ceilings. From January, 1941, through May, 1942, unit labor costs in American industry went up 1.1 per cent a month. Prices received by the farmers, on the other hand, went up 85 per cent between August, 1939, and August, 1942, while prices paid by farmers rose only 22 per cent in the same period. In our attack on our enemy—high living costs—we cannot, as Navy Ordnance Chief Blandy said of U. S. forces in the Pacific, hold the balance of striking power "by merely holding. We've got to keep pushing..." Farm production in 1942 is expected to be 15 per cent higher than in any previous peak year, but it will have increasing handicaps from labor shortage, inadequate supplies of farm machinery and enquipment, fertilizers, insecticides and other materials... By January, 1, 1943, all war production will be geared to the most gigantic job of scheduling ever attempted. But the President has warned us that we must strip our civilian economy to the bone, if we are to do our full share toward winning the war for freedom.

DEMANDS ACTION ON FARM LABOR SHORTAGE

A warning that the Nation will face a critical food shortage in 1943 is food prices are reduced below cost of production, and if steps are not taken to insure an adequate farm labor supply, was sounded in Washington this week by Rep. George W. Gillie, Indiana member of the house Committee on Agriculture.

Expressing grace concern over the failure of the Administration to deal effectively with shortages of farm labor and farm machinery, Representative Gillie said:

"Unless action is taken by the Government within the next few weeks to guarantee an adequate supply of farm labor and farm machinery for 1943, I seriously doubt that next year's farm production goals can be met.

"American farms cannot produce the food we need for victory without labor and machinery any more than industry can turn out guns, tanks and places without men and equipment."

Gillie warned that if farm labor and machinery problems are neglected any longer, America will face the sorry prospect of idle farms and unharvested crops in 1943.

Commenting on the current controversy over farm prices and inflation, the Indiana Congressman said:

"The farmers of America are ready and willing to undergo any sacrifice necessary to win the war. All they ask is that the President carry out the message to Congress of Sept. 7, in which he stated that 'parity prices must include all costs of production, including the cost of labor.'

"My contention is that giving the farmer cost of production is no more a danger to inflation than producing manufactured goods at cost of production and profit.

"Returns to producers always have had, and always will have, a direct bearing on production. In taking drastic action to control inflation, those in authority should not overlook the danger of reducing prices below the cost of production and thereby bring about a critical shortage of food necessary for our armed forces, our Allies and our civilian population."

SCHOOL BUSSES BANNED FOR USE OF ATHLETICS

National regulations governing tire rationing prevent the use of school busses to carry high school athletic teams or any other students when engaged in extra curricular activities, James D. Strickland, state director of the Office of Price Administration, has announced.

Mr. Strickland explained the regulations in a letter to Arthur L. Trester, commissioner of the Indiana High School Athletic Assn., who had asked eight questions relating to the use of school busses.

In answer to Mr. Trester's questions, Mr. Strickland pointed out:

"All tire rationing regulations and interpretations are issued by our Washington office and have national application.

"The individual owner of a school bus may not use this bus for the transportation of athletic teams even though no ratioend tires are used.

"An individual owner of a school bus, who uses it for the transportation of athletic teams, without using rationed tires, will thereby lose his eligibility for new or recapped tires.

"A township trustee owning a school bus is subject to the same restrictions as an individual owner.

"A township trustee owning a school bus and operating it in violation of the tire rationing regulations will lose his eligibility for new or recapped tires.

"No vehicle equipped with tires or tubes for which certificates have been granted shall be used for excursion of any character (including transportation of bands or orchestras.) Transportation shall be provided only from the homes of children or teachers or from the regular school bus stops to the regular place of instruction.

"I feel that inasmuch as this restriction has been imposed during the war emergency that it should be uniformly administered and that no exceptions should be made," Mr. Strickland concluded.

GENERAL TRAFFIC FLOW CUT 30% ON STATE HIGHWAYS

An average reduction of 30 per cent in triffic volume on the state highway system, away from defense and metropolitan areas, was reported for August by the Highway Planning Survey, it was announced today S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

The report is based upon data collected by twenty, electrically-operated counters located in various parts of the state. These are fixed stations and the comparison of traffic flow past each station does not necessarily reflect any increase or decrease in traffic on other sections of state highways. This accounts for the difference registered between the gasoline tax collections which have remained more nearly normal than the traffic flow shown by the counters at fixed locations.

The counter stations were selected more than a year ago and were establishd at locations which were expected to yield an accurate picture of any fluctuation in normal traffic. The establishment of defense areas which has taken place in Indiana was not anticipated at that time and it happened that the counters were not placed on roads which are carrying the thousands of defense workers and trucks. Thus it is felt that the counters do indicate the reduction in normal traffic on routes where these counters are located, while the gasoline tax receipts are maintained at a somewhat higher level by the concentration of traffic in the vicinity of defense areas.

TAKE good care of your electric appliance cords—they'll last longer and your appliances will give better service . . . Never JERK appliance or lamp cords when disconnecting . . . take a firm grip on the plug and pull gently. Keep cords free from oil, grease and moisture . . . don't let them get knotted or "kinked" . . . after using, coil and hang up carefully.

Most important—have frayed or worn cords repaired at once—remember appliances and cords are made from critical material and may have to last you for the duration. Many times, blown fuses are caused by defective cords—if you blow a fuse, locate the trouble and disconnect the appliance. If possible . . . replace the fuse with one of like size and call in an electrician to make repairs and avoid future trouble . . .

Every home should keep a supply of fuse plugs on hand—get yours today from your dealer.

With streams levels in most part of the state high, anglers are finding fall fishing better than usual. Although the summer months find the majority of fishermen on the lakes and streams, many old timers claim that fall, with its cooler water is the real time to get a good catch, and the St. Joe River is producing its share of good sized fish.

Maurice Kline of St. Joe, has filed a motion in the DeKalb circuit court to have his sisters, Hazel Bennett of Edon, Ohio, and Gladys Impton of St. Joe, who are executrices of the will of their mother, the late Emily Kline, of Newville township, ordered to sell her chattel property at a public sale and piece by piece, after notice. He says they have procured no order of sale, but that they intended to sell the property privately and as a job lot. In his report to the court recently preliminary to an inheritance tax determination, County Assessor Chas. E. Miser, placed the value of the chattel property at $373.

LOSES A YOUNG HORSE MYSTERIOUSLY

Last week Roscoe Walter missed a valuable two year old Belgian horse from his pastures of his Riverview Farm north of Spencerville. For several days he inquired among the neighbors, and searched thru the woodland pastures. On Thursday he again searced thru the woods and found the animal dead among a group of small trees about 75 feet from the river bank. It had been shot, presumably by hunters along the river. It had been killed instantly as not a single leaf, twig or bit of earth was disturbed around its hoofs or head, indicating it had never even slightly moved after it dropped. It had been dead several days.

Mr. Bernard Belt, of Goshen, who is employed by the General Electric, and has been trying to locate in Spencerville, stated on Monday before the discovery, when he and his family were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter, that he was interested in locating in Spencerville not only because it was nearer his work, but because the "fellows" up town had told him the sport up the river was excellent and that from the river bank or a boat, one could shoot game in abundance.

Mr. Walter has often advised hunters of the danger to his live stock of hunting in his woodlands and from shooting from boats on the river, and through The News expresses an earnest wish that hunters will keep this fact in mind.

CELEBRATE EIGHTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

A pot luck dinner was held Sunday, Oct. 4, at the home of V. L. Stemen, 3 miles west of Concord, honoring their mother's 81st birthday, Mrs. Mary Pierce. Besides the children a number of neighbors came in to help her celebrate the day. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ramsey, Ohio City, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. George Pierce, son George, Jr. and daughter, Georgia May, William Pierce, Mrs. Wilma Agler and daughter, Starley Mae, of Van Wert, O., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pierce, son, Junior and daughter, Mary Helen and children Sonny and Connie Jean, of Monroeville, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Gage Ramsey, of Lima, Ohio, Miss Martha Miller of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Lewis, Garrett, also Mrs. Pierce's brother, Riley Foreman, wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Snyder and daughter all of Coldwater, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Eldow Stemen and sons, Lyle and DeWayne, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Westrick and sons, Leo, Lewis and Junior and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Stemen all of Auburn.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau met Tuesday evening in the St. Joe Gym for their October meeting, which was called to order by Mrs. Brooks Trenary chairman pro tem.

First was a picture show which all enjoyed very much. Fred Rhodes, of Auburn, then gave a short talk on farmers' milk problems, new membership plans, convention plans, also discussed various articles in the Hoosier Farmer. The audience then sang "Bless Be the Tie that Binds" followed by praying the Lord's prayer.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved and this followed with roll call, response being "Where electricity is used most in the home." A lunch of cider and sandwiches was served and brought the meeting to a close.

BREAKS ARM IN FALL

Joan Bowser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser, of St. Joe, was discharged Tuesday from the Sanders hospital in Auburn. Joan suffered a multiple fracture of the left arm Sunday when she fell from a trapese ladder. The break was between the wrist and elbow.

MOTORCYCLE SQUAD
(7 reels)

Cast: Kane Richmond, Pauline Moore, Wynne Gibson, John Miljan, Richard Beach, Mary Gordon, Robert Homans, Wm. Halligan, Frank C. Moran, Henie Conklin, Edward Keane, Daisy Ford, Walter Shumway, Jimmie Fox, Ted Wray, Harry Horvey.

From the opening sequence the audience is completely absorbed in the mile-a-minute drama of "Motorcycle Squad" or (Double Cross, 35 mm name.) A gambling house run by glamorous Fay Saunders is raided by the vice squad. In the course of the melee, Fay grabs the gun of her sweetheart police officer Steve Bronson and murders one of the raiders. Steve seizes the gun, and is then shot by fellow officers who think he has turned on them. You can't beat that for action—and all within the first five minutes of the film. But it is nothing to what follows as Steve on his hospital death bed tells his friend and fellow officer, Jim Murray, the real story, and the latter sets out to clear Steve's name. Convinced that the only way he can do this is to work with the gang, Jim manages to get himself fired from the force. After his discharge on Fay's recommendation, he is given a job with the Taggart mob, but the gang leader on the theory "once a copper, always a copper" keeps close tab on him. When Jim makes his first fatal misstep, the entire gang closes in. There is a spine-tingling climax as the ex-police officer takes a daring chance to lead the gang into ambush, knowing full well that his own life may be forfeited in the attempt. Kane Richmond in the role of Jim Murray gives an excellently paced performance that ranks with anything he had ever done on the screen. He plays the role with a cool deliberation taking complete command of every scene in which he appears. Pauline Moore makes a glamorous cafe candid camera girl which helps Richmond clear the name of his brother. As Fay Saunders, Wynne Gibson is cast to perfection.

REHOBOTH TO DEDICATE MEMORIAL OCT. 18

Rehoboth Methodist Church will observe their annual Rally Day and Home Coming on Sunday, Oct. 18. Members and friends of the church are asked to plan to attend. The Sunday School will begin at 10 o'clock followed with a worship service by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Montgomery at 11. A basket dinner at noon will afford a pleasant time for all.

The afternoon program will begin at 2 o'clock with a memorial service. Dr. W. W. Robinson, district superintendent, will deliver the address after which the newly erected memorial commemorating the organization of the Bear Creek Class 100 years ago.

A NEW RECRUIT WRITES

Sept. 27, 1942.

Dear Fred:

Just a few lines to let you know that I am in Texas. We had a long trip. We have a nice camp here in the desert. We are about 500 feet from the mountains, and about 4,500 feet above sea level. Mt. Franklin is 7,152 feet high. You can send me the St. Joe News. Will write more later. My address is: Pvt. Roy A. Collins, Battery K, 509th CAA A, U. S.Army, Ft. Bliss, Texas.

FAREWELL PARTY

Wednesday evening, Sept. 31, sixteen little friends and neighbors were entertained at the home of Jack M. Kees in honor of Betty and Bobby McCaffery, who moved Friday to Avilla, Ind. This family will be greatly missed in our community as they were very well liked and made many friends. various games, impersonations

The evening was spent in and contests at the close. Refreshments of fruit cocktail and Dutch Mill wafers were served. Each guest wished Betty and Bobby a happy life in their new home.

IN HICKSVILLE HOSPITAL

Frances Conner, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conner, of west of St. Joe, is in the Hicksville hospital where she was operated on Monday afternoon for appendicitis. It was discovered that the appendix had ruptured and an abscess had formed, resulting in a serious condition. Because of her extra amount of energy she kept going in spite of feeling bad until Sunday. We hope she shall have a speedy recovery.

JOINS CIVIC THEATRE

Paul Keller, who is employed at the W. & D. store in Ft. Wayne, was home over Sunday and Monday. He reported that he had joined the Civic Theatre group and works on make-up of the characters. On Oct. 1-2-3 they staged a play entitled "The Eve of St. Mark" the first play Paul had worked with the group, and it was a real success. Paul made quite a hit in St. Joe in the make-up department when the Junior Dramatic Club put on "The Beantown Choir" some weeks ago.

URGES BONDS—NOW!

New Bond Poster.—Now being displayed throughout the country is this impelling poster pointing out the urgency of buying War Bonds now before it is too late. This is part of the general War Bond Campaign in which everyone is asked to invest at least 10 percent of his income in War Bonds. Illustration is by Laurence Beale Smith.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is fire prevention week and householders are asked to make a survey of their premises to see whether they have any fire hazards existing, and if so do their utmost to remedy them. If help is needed the local fire department will assist in making the correction. A circular will be placed at each home this week emphasizing some vital things in fire prevention and citizens of St. Joe are asked to read it carefully.

HOOSIERS IN CONGRESS

With Fuel-Oil Rationing already making itself felt in many under-heated living quarters, partly because huge amounts of oil are diverted to the manufacture of synthetic rubber, there is an increase in Congressional activity here in behalf of rubber derived from farm grains.

After a lull of some two weeks following the report of the Baruch Committee, appointed by the President to resurvey the rubber situation, the discussion of rubber made from farm crops was touched off again with introduction of a resolution by Indiana's Republican Senator Raymond E. Willis, calling upon Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers to report to the Senate every 30 days the progress of rubber production, whether the rubber is being produced from oil, grains, or other materials, etc.

The Willis resolution, which was commended on the Senate Floor by Senators Gillette (D., Ia.) and Clyde Reed (R., Kas.) when it was introduced last week, has been regarded here as the opening gun of a Congressional reply to the President's veto on August 6 of a bill authorizing grain rubber. For Willis is being strongly supported by Senators McNary (R., Ore.,) Norris (I., Nebr.,) Wheeler, (D., Mont.,) Thomas, (D., Okla.) and Gillette.

Senator Gillette declared that "The Senator from Indiana is to be congratulated for his grasp of the situation and for pointing out by the presentation of the resolution, the crisis which exists. I assure the Senator that when the Agriculture Committee acts on the resolution, the Committee's statement will express appreciation of the interest he has evinced, and I am quite sure that within a very short time they will have a rather full statement to make on the floor of the Senate.'

It is also recalled here that Senator Willis, 20 weeks after he and the eight Indiana Republican members of the House of Representatives first began their campaign for grain rubber, stated when presenting his resolution:

"I do not believe that members of the Senate are of the opinion that the mere appointment of a Rubber Adminisrator relieves Congress of its responsibility to do everything within its power to attain an adequate rate of rubber production. Our responsibility will not come to an end until solution of the rubber problem is completely demonstrated."

Many Washington Observers believe the Willis Resolution may lead to harmonious co-operation between Congress and Rubber Administrator Jeffers, and possibly to a greater increased percentage of rubber from grain; for —

(1) It has been widely reported that Jeffers was not the first man asked to acsept the job by President Roosevelt, who has consistently opposed grain-rubber proposals;

(2) Senator Gillette, farm-rubber champion, has stated that "we have been in conference with Mr. Jeffers and are convinced there will be no difficulty in working out the best solution possible for the interest of the country and all industries concerned;"

(3) It has been further reported that the Baruch Committee, which recommended that the oil industry be permitted to retain the bulk of the rubber allotment, did not recommend Mr. Jeffers for the job of Rubber Administrator; and

(4) When the Gillette Committee opened hearings seven months ago, Jeffers is known to have participated in efforts to establish some grain-rubber plants in the Mid-west.

Rep. Earl Wilson, Indiana Republican, believes the Baruch Committee's failure to recommend increased grain-rubber manufacture fulfilled a prediction he made following the President's appointment of Baruch. Wilson said then:

"I hope this is not just another attempt to stall off the farmers until the petroleum interests get a little farther along so that the Administration will think it can offer the excuse that we have gone so far now that it would be foolish to change to farm products for rubber manufacture."

Most Congressmen believe now that the Willis resolution may be the first step toward increased use of grain for rubber. In addition to Jeffer's apparent sympathy with grain rubber, they point to one other fact:

That while the Baruch Committee disputed the President's statement that making rubber from grain might cause a food shortage, an outstanding spokesman of the oil industry has now disputed the Baruch statement that making rubber from oil would not cause an oil shortage!

Just two days before Senator Willis introduced his resolution, Frank Phillips, chairman of Phillips Petroleum Co. and of the petroleum industry committee for 15 Midwestern states by appointment of Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes, said:

"I predict that another national scandal will break when the public realizes that available daily withdrawals of crude oil from existing wells can no longer keep pace with the enormous war demands of America and its Allies!"

It was the same day that Senator Norris announced the Gillette Committee would investigate reasons why the Baruch Committee had named Dr. Ernest A. Hauser as one of its chief investigators; for Dr. Hauser is author of a book declaring that oil is the cheapest, easiest and quickest source of rubber. He is on the faculty of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of which Dr. Karl T. Compton, Baruch Committee member, is President.

VACANCIES FILLED ON COUNTY TICKETS

Some of the vacancies left in the Republican and Democratic tickets as a result of the primary election last May have been filled by the filing of certificates by the central committees of the two parties in the office of County Clerk Murray A. Steele in Auburn.

The following candidates were appointed by the Republicans:

Trustee of Franklin township, Jesse C. Bonecutter.

Trustee of Smithfield township, Lewis Bonbrake.

Trustee of Richland township, Floyd Rynearson.

Member of advisory board of Richland township, Chester W. Bard.

Member advisory board of Stafford township, Harold Coll.

Mr. Bonecutter took the place of Harold Carpenter who withdrew. Mr. Bonecutter and Mr. Rynearson withdrew as candidates for the advisory board in their respective townships.

The Republicans did not nominate any candidates for mayor, city clerk and councilmen from the first, second and third districts in Garrett; nor for trustee of Keyser township.

The following candidates were placed on file by the Democrats:

County councilman second district, Harry Imhoff; third district, James Rugman; 4th district, Merritt Sechler; at large, John Platt and John A. Hoffelder.

Advisory board Franklin township, R. H. Platt, Chas. Newcomer and Albert Shultz.

Advisory board Jackson township, Glen Romine and Wm. Dosch.

Advisory board Keyser township, Burdette J. Gorrell.

Advisory board, Newville township, Harold A. Miller, Alvin Walker and John Washler.

Advisory board Union township, Glenn Heffley, Ward Kruse and Frank Draggoo.

The party has no candidate for trustee of Fairfield, Wilmington, Troy, and Spencer townships; for the advisory boards in Wilmington, Troy, or Spencer; nor for assessor of Keyser township.

The Republican certificate was signed by Henry Springer, county chairman, and E. E. Turner, secretary.

Signing the Democratic list were Leighton F. Tombow, chairman, and Ruth Anderson, secretary.

The county clerk also received a certificate from the secretary of state for legislative and judicial candidates of DeKalb county filed in his office, as follows:

For congressman, Republican, George W. Gillie; Democrat Samuel C. Cleland.

For state representative, Republican, Charles T. Miser; Democrat, Carson N. Schlosser.

For prosecuting attorney, Republican, Hugh G. Sanders; Democrat, James D. Brinkerhoff.

MOUNT PLEASANT TO HAVE HOME COMING

On Sunday, Oct. 18, the Mt. Pleasant U. B. Church will hold its annual Rally Day and Home Coming Service, commencing at 9:30, with classes for all ages, followed by a worship service at which time Rev. Munford will deliver the sermon. Basket dinner will feature the noon hour, when you can meet and greet old friends and acquaintances.

The address of the afternoon will be delivered by Rev. Ernest Lewellan, of Fort Wayne, a former Waterloo pastor. Special numbers will be given and the dedication of a service flag will conclude the service.

All those attending are asked to bring table service.

SOMEONE'S LIFE IS IN YOUR HANDS!

ROUND up your scrap metal—it's needed to make steel. Steel for armor plate to protect him from bombs and bullets. Steel for weapons to help him do the job that must be done before he can come home again.

You don't want production figures. It's enough to know that 50% of all new steel is made of scrap—that our steel mills now have only enough scrap in sight to last another 30 days at the most!

What happens after that depends on all of us. If production falls and you've not done your part, will you rest easy?

Next week we're starting a collection drive—to build the biggest stockpile of scrap metal you've ever seen. Then when the mills need it, we'll have it—because you came through ... for his sake!

FARM HELP

A subscriber who has had his troubles about getting farm hands, says there isn't a better place to freeze labor than right here on the American farms. There has been difficulty all over in obtaining farm labor since the hands leave the fields for factories since the industrial plants offer higher pay. We can talk about building soldiers bodies, keeping defense workers healthy by housewives urged to cook wisely, stressing our national food economy, but the most important part of all in this food question is how to keep it growing and supply the market demands. You need workers in the defense plants and you need farm hands in agriculture. You can't supply the countr ywith food without help on the farms, that's sure. Neither can you suggest that farm jobs be filled by just anybody, for any farmer will set you right on this topic. Farming is skilled labor in case you didn't know. You say there is the wage scale to consider. Take into account the fact that you are more apt to be saving money living on a farm, where you aren't running into shortages in housing, high food prices and city purse pulls, and perhaps you will find that at the end of the week the incomes of factory and farm might not differ so much in size. The farmers must be assured that they will be given help in their fight to keep a nation fed. They are a vital part of our defense plan.

MEAT RATIONING

The question has been raised many times around St. Joe. They ask why we need meat rationing. There are many reasons to consider we are told but the main one is that soldiers are eating almost twice as much meat as they ate when they were civilians. This is an important reason, isn't it? Despite the rumors that meat rationing is because we must send more meat to our allies, the fact is that we here are eating twelve pounds more meat apiece this year than during the war year of 1930. Our rationing calls for 2½ pounds per person a week which compares favorably with that of foreign countries. Folks around these parts are looking at this thing as another step in the pull for victory, that policy of sharing and of not offering the opportunity for the rich to starve out the poor. When they ration our meat supply, it actually means that from the present consumption of meat per week a person, we will each be cut about three ounces a week, and if that amount will effect our systems we had better see a doctor, for we must be in pretty bad shape to start with. Three ounces a week to strengthen those Russians who are fighting most courageously, three ounces a week we give to help the British carry on. There aren't many who will grumble in giving up 3 ounces of meat to feed the cold and starving. It isn't much of a sacrifice as sacrifices go!

A FALL HAZARD

Each season at about this time we issue a warning to our citizens to watch out for fall's hazards. A traffic danger comes to us with increased winds, rain and falling leaves which makes a combination of danger due to skidding and collision or accident. Most of us have found ourselves forced to use care if we are driving in machines and start sliding over sections where wet leaves are packed. Often wet leaves will hide oil streaks on the road which make skidding almost a certainty. There is danger to us on foot who blithely go along, not looking to see if our step may start solid and end slippery. Just because we want to stand on our two feet, to remain healthy and avoid accidents, let's watch this fall hazard.

WHO SAYS OLD!

It went something like this, "in 1942 Columbus sailed the ocean blue," and so he did. It was on October 12 that he first sighted land which he thought was India and proved to be San Salvador in the Bahamas. Columbus was an adventurer with courage, persistence and the necessary quality of faith in his convictions. At 57 years of age he undertook an adventure that was surprising in one of his years. We can learn from the strength of this man, his plugging to obtain a crew in order to sail, his efforts to obtain financial backing for the journey, his overcoming the suspicions of the sceptics of his day. Yet he sailed, an adventurous man past middle age, to add an important chapter in the making of history.

OUR GARDENS

Things attended to, lives lost, institutions changed, but thru the centuries the garden lives on. It is our heriage to pass on to our children and they to theirs. Gardening has been done under difficulties, be they hardships imposed by weather or man. The early settlers tended garden and also to the attacks of Indians at the same time. Today in war ridden lands they have their plows in hand and bombers overhead. Garden plants have been added to in these many years, from travelers, as the fuchsia in England brought from a far off battlefield by a soldier to his English mother, the Persian lilac brought by a crusader from the land called Turkey, the first weeping willow in our America the gift of Martha Washington's son from an English soldier. The Pilgrims, after 45 years in their New England home, published a list of fifty vegetables, herbs and flowers. So we will continue to keep alive our gardens along with our preparedness.

TUBES OF TIN

Those in St. Joe who have gone in to buy a tube of tooth paste and forgotten to take along the empty container, or to buy shaving cream and likewise here, have perhaps mumbled a bit and thought what did one tube matter anyway. Perhaps it doesn't seem much at the time but consider the amount of such tubes being salvaged all over the country and the item amounts to quite a bit. The average metal tube contains almost 99 per cent pure tin, and when you figure that there are hundreds of thousands of them being collected every day, you realize what the tin content is. One plant in New Jersey which reclaims these tubes, is getting in about six tons of them each day. So what we carelessly and thoughtlessly tossed on the dump we are now turning into one of the metals vital for our defense. Don't mind when you forget to return the empty tube and the man behind the counter says you will have to come back again.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

A captured Nazi document tells how Hitler plans to run his bloodstained "greater German empire"—by means of an army of secret police. Japanese ambition to share a conquered world with Germany isn't any secret, it's even symbolized on new Jap postage stamps. To be sure, these aspirations have had some rude shocks lately—the splendid stand of the Russians once more threatened Nazi aggressors with stalemate and approaching winter. The far-extended Jap flanks have been dealt blows by U. S. forces in the Solomons, Australians in New Guinea, Americans and Canadians at Kiska in the Aleutians.

But if we are to defeat the savage purpose of our enemies, if we are to grind them into dust, we all must do more, and in a hurry. Our war output is huge—in August munitions alone produced in a volume more than three and one half times that of November, 1941—but the plain fact is that over-all production in August lagged about 14 per cent behind forecasts.

The siphoning of vast stores of materials to war uses, together with loss of our sources of many raw materials, points the fact that we face a return to "depression" living standards—but with the difference that whereas in 1932 millions of us lacked buying power although goods were plentiful, today the situation is reversed. Today express buying power must be drained off, scarce goods divided up or rationed.

Fuel oil is not scarce but the means of transporting it—thanks to Nazi subs—are at a premium.

Unless our coal output is increased, we'll be short of this fuel too, next year—by 42 million tons. Coal production will be speeded thru 91 new labor-management committees in the soft coal mines, and longer work hours in the mines are likely.

Shifting thousands of railway tank cars to fuel oil service slowed movement by tank car of vegetable oils, fats, and chemicals needed for war and necessary civilian use. Now we must give these oils and chemicals preference in tank car loading.

Nationwide gasoline rationing, which will begin about Nov. 22, will help ease one of our first and most serious shortages, it will save all-important rubber. Trucks and busses alone are wearing out tires at the rate of 35,000 per day. Fast driving — greatest squanderer of rubber has been curbed by a maximum speed limit of 35 miles an hour.

We aren't short of meats, in fact we'll have largest supply in history this year, but it will fall short of unrestricted demand by more than six billion pounds. Our lghting men must have the meat they need, as must our lease-lend allies. The rest of us—although there's more money to spend than food—must share the 17½ billion pounds which will remain by voluntarily limiting our weekly meet diet to 2½ pounds per person, until about February, when a meat rationing program will be ready. Actually this allowance is about as much as we have averaged for ten years.

Controls and restrictions, brought on by war needs and shortages, extend from hairpins to casket handles, women in 1943 will have to make out with one-fourth of the bobpins or hairpins they used this year. Housewives and other civilians will get only about two-thirds of the 1942 pack of canned fruits and vegetables, 90 per cent of fats and oils that go into shortening, mayonnaise, and salad dressing.

Pick-up and delivery services of retail stores will be cut to the bone. Free samples will be few. Refrigerated display cases for food stores are out of production.

The CIO, AFL and the Railroad Brotherhood are cooperating with the scrap salvage drive, as are eighty per cent of the nation's daily newspapers. Citizens everywhere are asked to act as "salvage scouts" spot metal hoards that have escaped attention, idle machines and unused metal structure... Enlistment in the High School Victory Corps, which will train students for military service or civilian war work, is open to every high school student.... Seasonal workers and those who leave their homes to take war jobs will be given extra gasoline.

MAIL SOLDIERS' XMAS GIFTS BEFORE NOVEMBER 1.

READ THE RULES—The following rules, issued by the Postoffice Department in cooperation with the Army Postal Service of the War Department, apply to the mailing of Christmas parcels for members of our Armed Forces serving outside the continental limits of the United States.

TIME OF MAILING—Christmas parcels and greeting cards should be mailed during the period beginning October 1 and ending November 1, 1942, the earlier the better. Each package should be endorsed "Christmas Parcel." Special effort will be made for delivery in time for Christmas.

SIZE AND WEIGHT—Christmas parcels shall not exceed 11 pounds in weight, or 18 inches in length or 42 inches in length and girth combined. However, the public has been urged to cooperate by voluntarily restricting parcels to the size of an ordinary shoe box and the weight to six pounds.

USE CARE IN PREPARATION—Remembering the great distance this mail will be transported and the necessary storage and frequent handling, it is absolutely necessary that articles be packed in substantial boxes or containers and be covered with wrappers of sufficient strength to resist pressure of other mail. Each parcel is subject to censorship and delay may be minimized by securing covering to permit ready inspection of contents.

PROHIBITED MATTER—Intoxicants, inflammable materials, poisons or compositions likely to damage mails are unmailable. No perishable matter should be included in parcels.

HOW TO ADDRESS PARCELS—Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show in addition to the full name and address of the sender, the name rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A.P.O. number of the addressee and the postoffice through which parcels are to be routed. Units located within the continental United States may be addressed direct, using name, rank, organization and location.

POSTAGE MUST BE FULLY PREPAID—The rate on parcels of fourth-class matter (exceeding eight ounces) being the zone rate applicable from the postoffice where mailed to the postoffice in the care of which parcels are addressed.

GREETING MESSAGES PERMISSIBLE—Inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas", "Don't open until Christmas" and the like may be placed on the covering of the parcel if it does not interfere with the address. Cards may be enclosed and books may bear a simple dedicatory inscription.

INSURANCE AND REGISTRY—Gifts of value should be insured. Articles of small size and considerable value should be sealed and sent as first-class registered mail.

MONEY ORDERS—The Army Postal Service recommends use of postal money orders to transmit gifts of money to members of Armed Forces outside the United States. These are cashed at A.P.O. in local foreign currency at rate of exchange on date of presentation.

FILMS BURN AT COURT

Flames destroyed 4,000 feet of film and caused unestimated other damage to the projection room of the Court theatre shortly before 9 o'clock Monday night. The fire occurred late in the showing of "The Magnificent Dope." Coincidentally, the fire broke out about the time Henra Fonda, who portrayed "The Magnificent Dope," was ready to purchase a fire truck with money earned from the sale of an insurance policy.

CAESARIAN BIRTH

A baby son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sible at Auburn hospital, Friday. The birth was by Caesarian method and last report Wednesday was that Mrs. Sible is improving. Her condition was considered serious the first of the week.

SELECTEES TO TOLEDO

Forty-seven selectees left Tuesday morning for Toledo to be examined by army physician. Those from this section were Olen L. Roberts, James V. Hatch, Morris J. Woodcox, Ralph Lanum and Homer Stemen.

STORE CLOSED OUT

John Coburn made a trip to Rochester, Ind., Monday, moving the balance of the Lyon stock of groceries there for Ort Waltz who purchased the store and proceeded to close the stock out.

IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Stella Hart is in school again after recovering partially from injuries received last week, when the car in which she was riding crashed into the cement abutment at the Erick bridge on Road 1. The car was nearly wrecked.

SERVES ON FEDERAL JURY

Clyde Rectenwall and Walter Baker were chosen to appear on the Federal jury at South Bend and they left Sunday evening, to be away indefinitely. The calendar of this court contains some 300 cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller of Farmer, O., were Sunday guests in the Iona Woodcox home.

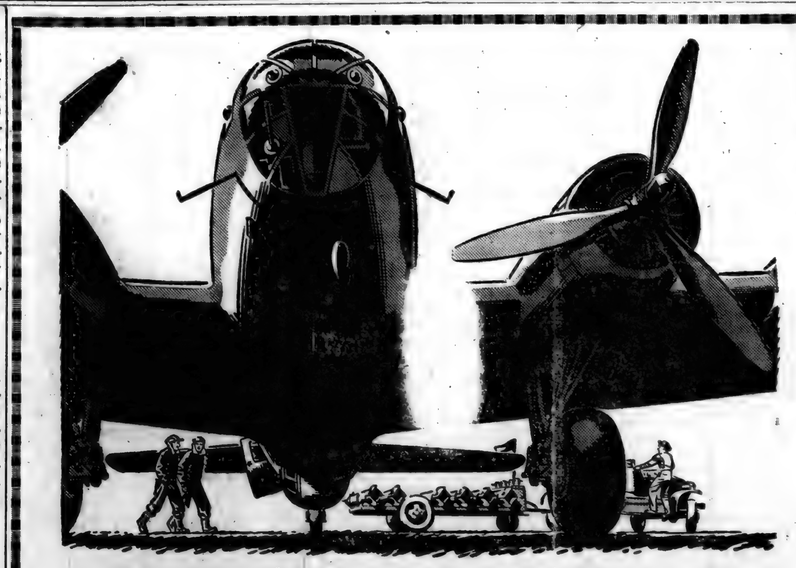
TO SELL 'EM, TELL 'EM— With An Ad



BIG ENOUGH to do a BIG JOB!

• This huge American bomber carries a large load a long distance—and does a job no smaller plane can do.

• Size is America's salvation today in other ways as well. The size of our land and its rich resources. The size of our great production plants. And the size of the electric industry that powers the machines that make planes, tanks, guns and ships.

• Like other American industries, the electric industry gained its size, skill and experience under the free democratic system for which we're fighting. It grew by supplying better and better service to more and more people at lower and lower price—building on the invested savings of millions of Americans — under practical business management and public regulation.

• Because the electric companies were ready when war came—because no war plant had to wait for power — precious time was saved for Victory. How big should an electric company be? Big enough to do the job, right around the clock and the calendar.

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCT. 15, 1942 NUMBER 42

ARE FARMERS BEING SCRAPPED?

The following from the Hoosier Farmer would indicate that Indiana farmers are not entirely jubilant about the national outlook:

"On the same day that Congress voted to sell government grain below parity, steel workers received a pay increase. Ceilings are placed on farm commodities and labor is promised "stabilization;" farmers are accused of promoting inflation, being greedy and self-centered. Can it be that farmers, like small business men, are marked for the scrap heap while big business ascends? Anyway, tires for beer trucks are out, and, by golly, we'll get rubber from grain, too, if we keep hammering away at the job."

HOPEWELL ANNUAL HOME COMING

The annual Home Coming of the Hopewell Church is set for Nov. 1st. Special committees are planning to make this day one of real Christian Fellowship. The services will include the Sunday School, basket dinner and afternoon services.

All former friends are cordially invited to attend these services.

MOUNT PLEASANT TO HAVE HOME COMING

On Sunday, Oct. 18, the Mt. Pleasant U. B. Church will hold its annual Rally Day and Home Coming Service, commencing at 9:30, with classes for all ages, followed by a worship service at which time Rev. Munford will deliver the sermon. Basket dinner will feature the noon hour, when you can meet and greet old friends and acquaintances.

The address of the afternoon will be delivered by Rev. Ernest Lewellan, of Fort Wayne, a former Waterloo pastor. Special numbers will be given and the dedication of a service flag will conclude the service.

All those attending are asked to bring table service.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mrs. Jane Koch and Mrs. Anna Koch were Sunday guests of Mrs. Frank Johnson.

The world has a lot fewer kings these days—but there still are plenty of people who should be crowned.

DeKalb county hunters have been awaiting the opening of the season on migratory water fowl today, Oct. 15. Federal regulations may be obtained at the post office in folder form. Duck hunters over the age of 16 must have a duck stamp, which is also available at the post office for $1. On the first day of the season the sun rises at 5:56 and sets at 5:06.

NEW NURSES AIDE CLASS STARTED IN COUNTY

The second class in nurses' aide started Thursday at the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett at 1:30 o'clock.

Each course involves 80 hours of study, lectures and hospital training. When the course is finished each nurse's aide must give 150 hours of practical nursing yearly in one of the hospitals in DeKalb county for the duration.

This training is of the utmost value to the women completing the course and in case of an emergency their work would be indispensable.

DeKalb county's quota is 85 nurses' aides so many more volunteers for this work are needed.

Anyone in the county interested can get information on the course by calling Mrs. Thelma Rieke, phone 536-J, who is in charge of all interviews, Mrs. Arthur Paulsen, phone 212, chairman of nurses' aide, both of Auburn, or Mrs. Charles Brandenburg, of Garrett, who will be in the Garrett Red Cross headquarters each Thursday for interviews.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club met at the Akins Tea Room Monday evening and it proved to be a very interesting meeting. Lion Paschen reported that the salvage drive in Spencer township was progressing satisfactorily and that the boys are doing a real job in locating the junk. Lion Billow reported that Concord township is also doing a good job in the salvage business.

Lion Ridgway in charge of civic activities recounted what is being done in the southeast part of the county. Quite a number of our people are taking the courses sponsored by the Civilian Defense Organization.

Our anniversary meeting will be in two weeks and the Auburn Lions will be here to help us celebrate. Governor Waterhouse, of Hamilton, and Dist. Gov. Finley, of Kendallville, will be present. The meeting will be held at Spencerville.

Chas. T. Miser, of Waterloo, DeKalb County Assessor, was present to tell us of the operation of his office and explain the Indiana tax law as it effects the county assessor's office. The inheritance tax was the first subject treated and the Assessor advised that everybody make a will. The tax on inheritances is used to maintain our benevolent institutions and no part of it comes back to the local taxing units. The average sum going to the state institution from this tax is $2,000,000 per year.

Last year the taxable property of DeKalb county was 27,300,000. The farm valuation 11,000,000, and the balance is divided between the cities and the corporations. The corporations pay over half of the tax money in Concord township. Were it not for these corporations, the local tax payer would really have a burden on his hands.

Couny Recorded Gould Stanley was also present and gave a very good talk. He advised that when in doubt about the filing of legal papers, to be on the safe side, have them recorded. Deeds and mortgages are the principal instruments filed, but many other contracts are required to be on record in the county office. Documents that carry federal revenue stamps should carry the proper amounts to avoid government investigators getting after you and compelling further payment.

All recording fees are turned over to the county each month and a report of the number of instruments that have been recorded and released. In ordinary times the Recorder's office is self-sustaining, but under present war conditions, revenues have slumped to quite a degree.

About one feature of the scrap salvage situation there appears to be a misunderstanding that should be corrected. A large portion of the public is worrying because automobile graveyards in particular, and junkyards in general, contain mountains of scrap while intensive efforts are being made to locate every pound that may be mislaid in somebody's basement or garage.

That is not a cause for legitimate worry. but rather for rejoicing. The old jalopies and other scrap are not lying idle. They are in a state of flux. So long as there are piles of metal in the junkyards our hard pressed steel plants can run to capacity. It will be when the junk piles get small that we should start fretting.

The ferrous metal that reaches junkyards is not all the same. It varies from plain iron to the most valuable of steels, the latter containing alloying metals that are worth more than all the gold at Fort Knox so far as the war effort is concerned.

It is the junk dealer's job to sort these different metals, so that each can be sent where it is needed most; so that fine steels containing critical alloys can be reworked to salvage the alloying metals for re-use.

When you look at an automobile graveyard, it may appear to contain the same wrecks that were there a month or six months ago. Apparently nothing has been accomplished. But in all probability, if a month ago you had marked the cars there, now you would find them all gone and replaced by a new lot.

Similar warning is needed in connection with the scrap collection in smaller communities, where personal observation shows that the salvage has not been moved since the town worked to get it together.

With transportation at a premium, the government can not send trains or trucks to clean up small junk piles as fast as each is ready. They must be aded to the inventory of potential supplies so transportation facilities can be routed to pick up adjacent piles with a minimum of waste motion.

Regardless of how much scrap metal you may see in junkyards the heat must be kept on if we are to provide American mills with the 45,000,000 tons they need this year.

Remember—the scrap salvage drive is not a one-shot affair. It must be continuous, week after week and month after month. Don't think your duty is done because you have given once, or twice, or half a dozen times.

As long as you can find anything salvageable to turn in or report, your country needs it.

The schools of Spencer and Concord townships are cooperating with the Lions Club in making a general drive for junk of all kinds and they are disposing of it at St. Joe and Spencerville elevators. The salvage drive at these two points is nearing the 20 ton mark and many more are to bring in their share of the salvage materials that are being gathered about the homes and farms. When coming to town, bring your contribution to the scrap drive, now.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mrs. Lena Meek, Mrs. John Crothers, Rev. Erby Messimer and Rev. Monroe left Wednesday for Indianapolis to attend the Christian Convention in session there the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Woodcox and son, Keith, of Chicago, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Butler and daughter, Peggy, spent the week-end at Woodcox homestead near Coburntown.

"Mike" Sechler happened to be at fault in knocking a caboose off the tracks at Garrett recently. He was called to the office and given the third degree and as punishment they promoted him to conductor. This position he held for one day and then was put back on his former job.

Robert Curie, of Waterloo, visited his grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Curie, Tuesday. Robert, only 19, enlisted in the U. S. Marine Aviation Corps, and will leave for San Diego, Calif., Thursday. He will be a flying Cadet. His brother, Junior, also of Waterloo, left for California last week for service with the same Corps.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, 72, religious colony leader, who insisted the world was flat and often predicted it would be destroyed died Sunday night 48 years before he expected to meet death. Voliva died at a hospital of heart ailment complicated by kidney disease. He had predicted that he would live to be 120 because of his "abstinence from meat and a diet of Brazil nuts." He forecast at various times that the world would end in 1923, 1927, 1930, 1935 and 1943.

Abandonment and non-support are charged by Nancy E. Shively of Spencer township in a divorce complaint filed in the DeKalb Circuit Court Monday against Wm. F. Shively. The couple married Dec. 2, 1929, and separated Dec. 18, 1932. The last known address of the defendant is Rt. 2, Eldred, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway went to Valparaiso, Ind., Saturday to visit the former's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Ridgway. Sunday they called on Mr. and Mrs. Vet. Chandler at Hobart, and found Mrs. Chandler some improved, being able to get about the house with the aid of crutches.

The Democratic rally Thursday night drew a small crowd of voters. The candidates were introduced in the usual fashion for such gatherings and the high school band furnished the music for the evening, and was received in good style by the officers of the organization, and they really deserved favorable comments for the music they put out. The talk of the evening was made by Arthur Parrish of Fort Wayne in which he spoke in behalf of their candidate for congress, Samuel Cleland, in which he assured his audience that he would be 100 per cent for the President and the administration.

MORTUARY

OLD RESIDENT DIES AT RICHMOND

Sherman Wolff, age 73, died at Easthaven Hospital Monday morning at 2 o'clock, following commitment of only a short time to this hospital, from DeKalb county. Mr. Wolff in his declining years had became demented to such an extent that he was unable to live alone any longer so he was committed to the hospital by the court.

Sherman Rickett, who was serving as guardian, was notified by the hospital authorities and the body was returned to St. Joe, where funeral was held from Kinsey funeral home on Wednesday afternoon, Richard Rupp funeral director. Burial on the family lot beside his wife in Riverside cemetery. Rev. L. B. Sharp, Spencerville Methodist minister, officiating.

Mr. Wolff was born in Steuben county and leaves three brothers, Earl, of Montpelier, O., Will, of Detroit, Robert, of Edon, O., and one sister, Mrs. Minna Walter of Metz, Ind.

He was married to Angelia White and lived one mile west of St. Joe at Wabash Corners, where an acre of land was purchased of D. D. Burley, after the construction of the Wabash railroad, and there they erected a small cottage house.

Sherman in his younger days was a useful man in the community, as he was a genius in making all kinds of parts for repairing of clocks, watches, guns and machinery. He was willing to work and share with his neighbors for the many years he resided here, until his health broke a few years ago.

He will be missed in the community and about St. Joe.

His wife died 17 years ago.

IS IN THE HOSPITAL

Junior Freeburn is in the Hicksville hospital where he was operated on Saturday morning for appendicitis, Junior was employeed at Fort Wayne. He became sick in the early morning hours and was taken to Hickeville by his parents. He is reported recovering nicely.

Display Price Regulations

Service station operators and dairymen received a surprise Friday night at the price regulations meeting in Auburn. C. E. Johnson, price regulations specialist from the state OPA office, informed the service station operators that every gasoline pump must bear a card giving the March ceiling price for that particular gasoline. Dairymen are required to display ceiling prices of their products on the right side of the delivery truck.

Leighty Orchard began the making of apple butter on Tuesday of this week. 42t1p.

MRS. GILLIE TO SPEAK AT ST. JOE

Mrs. George W. Gillie will address the women of the Tri-township organization of Republican women at the St. Joe Town Hall next Monday night at 8 o'clock. Light refreshments will be served at the close of the address for the social hour. All who desire to meet Mrs. Gillie are urged to attend.

PRETTY WEDDING CEREMONY IN CHURCH

At 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, at Spencerville, Miss Fara Lee Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe G. Walter, of Spencerville, became the bride of Mr. Joseph W. Baidinger, Jr., of Mishawaka.

The vows of the single ring ceremony were read by Rev. Frank Stevenson before an altar beautified by bouquets of large white and deep rose chrysanthemums, flanked on either side with palms and candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Margaret Fuller, of Fort Wayne sang, "Because," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "I Love You Truly." Mr. Arthur Gertz played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional.

The bride who was given away in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white bridal satin and lace, a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves, and flared skirt ending in a langer train. Her finger tip veil was edged with lace medallions, and caught to a tiara of pearly orange blossoms. She wore a strand of pearls, her gift from the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of Opera Gardenias.

Mrs. Paul Drerup, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor in a gown of romance blue taffeta and self colored lace, styled with short puffed sleeves, sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt. She wore a flowered tiara of carnations matching her bouquet of varigated salmon colored carnations. She wore an onyx pendent, a gift from the bride.

Miss Garnet Hott and Miss Erna Gay Bunker, of Fort Wayne, attended as bridesmaids and wore gowns of American Beauty Rose taffeta and lace, styled like that of the matron of honor. Their tiaras and bouquets were of pastel pink carnations and they wore gold cross necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Darrell Carlson, of Mishawaka, attended Mr. Baidinger as best man, and Paul Drerup, of Auburn and Dallas Zimmerman, of Spencerville, served as ushers.

Mrs. Walter, mother of the bride, chose an ensemble of Indiana Sumac wool crepe, with accessories in deep blue.

Mrs. Baidinger, mother of the groom was attired in a pine green costume with accessories in black. Both wore corsages of white mums.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for about one hundred fifty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Assisting in serving were the Misses Betty Shockley, Maxine Moore, Evelyn Shook, Donna Mae Washler and the Mesdames Lynn Fisher and Dallas Zimmerman.

After the reception, the couple left on a short trip. For traveling the bride wore a two-piece suit of brown and biege velveteen with Kelly green accessories. The couple will make their home in Detroit, where the groom is employed by the American Tool Design Engineering Company.

Businessmen—Let's talk about death! Let's not dodge the issue—let's face facts. A lot of good American fighting men may soon have to die for want of scrap!

IF YOU FAIL SOME BOY WILL DIE!

WE'RE talking facts, remember! Such as the fact that steel for every tank, ship, and gun must be made of 50% scrap. And the terrible fact that America's mills are starving for this scrap—without enough on hand for even 30 days more production!

Which puts it up to you!

Monday starts the big scrap metal drive. And you, as a businessman, have a double job to do. Clean out your home—and scour your place of business, factory, office or store . . . for every single bit of scrap.

And when you see the stockpile grow—for the mills to take when it's needed — be glad that you've done your part...that your work may have saved some boy from a needless death!

The modern young person's idea of dough is something to spend, not to knead.

It loks as though when they spoke a few years back of the 'more abundant life' that they must have meant a horse and buggy in every home.

It would't be so bad if one could strike a balance between their ups and downs. The trouble is that the downs prevail.

It soon will be Hallowe'en and time for pop corn and cider, if some way can be found to keep the tasty juice from working.

IN COMPARISON

We might bear in mind certain of the privations of England and here in our own land, at this writing. Take women's clothing as an example. Before the war English women bought an average of four dresses a year and today they average one. They buy one blouse or jumper in every two years now instead of buying two and a half blouses and jumpers a year. They do now with six pairs of hose a year instead of prewar 14. With gasoline rationed for us England gets no rationing of gas for private use—she gets no gasoline! As for food, it has been rationed since the very start of the war in England and we are just now getting sugar and prospective meat rationing. Perhaps we haven't seen anything yet.

There is one thing that England has learned so far in this conflict of reduction and ration, and that is that the poor must be fed. England's upper classes always ate heavily but the poor were underfed, in great numbers. Today we find that the very poorest of England are better fed than ever before in their lives. Fighters must be kept in condition in order to fight. The health condition of England is encouraging, less in many quarters is making for better health and the needed increase in other sections has improved health, too. There has always been the problem of eating too much or too little. This has all been accomplished by conscientious effort and we hope that if such a food situation arises in our own country we can meet it as effectively.

IN PRAYER

A recent news item states that six thousand Roman Catholics of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, met in a northern city to pray for an early peace and for victory founded on justice. This idea of prayer during siege is not new for in ages back man has prayed for strength to carry on the struggle, be a national situation or a fight within oneself the call for prayer. Many scoff at a faith or critioise a creed, yet when faced with a tough fight, they turn to the solace of prayer. England turns a day to prayer for her country, so does our country, there is a day of world prayer, which points out that prayer must strengthen one for war, not softens. History shows us that the hardest of fighters back thru the ages knelt in prayer before engaging in a fight. The pulpit in Colonial days often held the parson's gun while he prayed that his people be protected from the Indians. Famous words these of the Bataan soldier, "There are no atheists in fox holes.'

CHILDREN AT WORK

More children around St. Joe and Spencerville are working at odd jobs and we are glad to see it. We mean the kind of work that is good for them, realizing that it is training and also gives an appreciation for earning money through their own efforts. Oldsters recall their childhood when work on their father's farm was not stressed as character building, it was simply a fact of life, something you did because it was necessary. Maybe rising at about 5 o'clock to feed chickens, carrying in buckets of water for mother, keeping the wood box filled, a lamp as well. Milking cows, husking corn, plowing, all chores part of the farm pattern. So today we must follow this line of work for our children and if it isn't a corncrib, an orchard, a barnyard, we must supply the work in some other way to make men of children.

INDIAN SUMMER

Are you one of those in St. Joe who says, "when is Indian summer" or one of those who says, "or is it?" The only explanation for such a phrase as this is because each year in the autumn, usually after that period of frost and slight cold which is called "squaw winter" by some folks, the sun comes back with renewed vigor to shine brightly and warmly more than usual at this time of year. There is nothing quite as soothing and lovely as the touch of this brief season. As we search back for the origin of Indiana summer we see where Indians of years ago were not famous as farmers. They were apt to put off the chores of harvesting and cultivating until the last possible minute and sometimes they were so late they lost their crops. But often they waited until that period of Indian summer and during these mild days gathered grains and fruits and performed the tasks they had postponed until almost too late. Thus, by having a time when nature semed to give them another chance, this holding-off time became known as Indian Summer. Today we receive the same blessing of sunshine and warm haze that encourages us to seek outside recreation, roam the country side and enjoy the fleeting hours before winter's blast and blare makes us seek the stove. A charming season it is, a respite from work when we relax and contemplate the beauty offered in nature.

COMMUNIST PAPER ENDORSES CLELAND

The Communist Daily Worker, official organ of the Commnist Party of the United States, has formally endorsed the Congressional candidacy of Samuel C. Cleland, New Deal opponent of Rep. George W. Gillie in the November election.

The Daily Worker, a New York publication which has been banned in many communities, gave its official endorsement to Mr. Cleland in a recent issue. The endorsement carries with it the support of the Communist Party.

Mr. Cleland's candidacy also is being supported by the New Republic Magazine, a radical Eastern publication, and by the Union of Democratic Action, a New York "purge" committee which has been exposed by the Dies Committee as a Communist-front organization.

Congressman Gillie is included on the "purge" lists of all of these groups, and has stated that he "welcomes" their opposition and the opposition of all organizations whose primary allegiance is not to the United States.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The Hoosier Home Front is widening almost day by day. Any housewife who has been on a recent shopping tour knows that the war effort has taken a very substantial tuck in the variety of consumers' goods for sale. It might not be welcome news but it certainly is useful news that the pinch in consumers' goods has become more and more noticeable until conditions bordering on genuine hardship will be reached—perhaps early next year.

That's the way war is.

One of the things that widened the Home Front in the last few days was the rationing of fuel oil and kerosene. Approximately 1 million Hoosiers are affected by this rationing in one way or another. The philosophy back of it is to share what we have with those who need it. What we don't burn will be used either by the armed forces or by the Eastern seaboard civilians whose ship borne supplies have been cut off by the Nazi U-boats.

The need for petroleum products in the armed forces is tremendous. Remember, it takes 40 gallons of high test gasoline just to warm up a four-motored bomber.

There is a misunderstanding among some petroleum product vendors in Indiana about supplying customers who need kerosene either for lighting of space heating or cooking or all three. In spite of the fact that there are no rationing books yet available, vendors may sell kerosene to customers who need it provided the customers promise, in writing, to turn over all rationing coupons equal to their purchases when the coupons are available.

In some places in Indiana, it is almost like hitting the jack pot to visit your grocery and find coffee on the shelves for sale. That's because the available supply of coffee is allocated to grocers and it is considerably less than peace time supply. Your grocer can't help this.

But neither may he take advantage of this shortage to make the sale of coffee conditional to the sale of a specified amount of other items. It has come to the attention of the State OPA office that some grocers are doing this. This the OPA officers say is in direct violation of General Maximum Price Regulation and could carry a penalty.

Our present voluntary "share the meat" ration—two and one-half pounds per person per week—will not be entirely simple if we are honest with ourselves and with our country. The ration does not apply to light meat eaters, infants, invalids, and old people. But those who have been averaging more than the ration must eat larger quantities of foods with nourishment values similar to the "red meats"—fruits, cereals, dry beans, soy beans, peas, peanuts, milk and cheese, poultry, fish, eggs and the like. Meat bones included in the ration quota will go more than ever to soup stocks and we'll be serving such things as kidneys, brains and heart—not on the ration list—more often. Farmers who slaughter their own meats and butchers who handle them are obligated to keep to the same rations as the rest of us.

Rubber boots and work shoes now are being rationed to war workers and others who must have them, not by coupons but by certificates which eligible purchasers obtain from local rationing boards. Ordinary overshoes, which can be made mainly of reclaimed rubber, aren't affected.

We made a big gain in our fight to keep down living costs when maximum prices were fixed for nearly all foods previously not under control. The only important foods—about one-tenth of the total—not now under price ceilings are fresh fruits and vegetables, fresh fish and peanuts. Rent control—a most important weapon against rising living costs—is being extended to the entire country, in addition to the 396 defense rental areas where rents already have been rolled back.

Automobiles and tires are among our big problems, whether in storage or in use. Owners of commercial vehicles who are allowed new tires for essential operations must take special care of them, have them checked every 5,000 miles or every 60 days. And all drivers are expected to drive as little as possible, keep to the 35 mile maximum speed limit, be sure tires are properly inflated, share their cars with others. Used tires and tubes, which cannot be sold at present, soon will be rationed.... Workers' suggestions for increasing our war output are being "ploughed back" into industry through 1600 Labor-Management Committees. Labor-Management cooperation, already established in railway transportation, is being extended to the motor truck industry...Women workers, now heavily employed in the munitions industry, soon will make up two-thirds of the labor force in munitions plants. Four-fifths of all war jobs can be performed by women. Next year we'll need another five million of them working in war and other employment.. The lettes "S" (for simplified) on work clothes means they are up to government standards—and under price control ....Trainloads of "victory scrap" are rolling toward the steel mills, but there must be no letdown in the national scrap drivee if steel production is not to lag...Pelts for felt hats are so scarce that there is a campaign to hunt wild rabbits for their fur.. Home canning, storing or drying of fruits and vegetables will save labor and materials at the canning plants—another household contribution to the war program.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

IMMEDIATE ELIMINATION OF FIRE HAZARDS URGED

Chill fall days always bring a sharp increase in the occurrence of home fires. Though they are always costly, fire losses are especially serious now when materials and equipment may be impossible to replace. To help prevent home fire losses Miss Mary Lenore Moore, DeKalb County Home Demonstration Agent urges all families to make a careful check of their homes to eliminate every possible fire hazard. First among possible fire dangers are faulty chimneys and heating equipment. Approximately one-third of all farm fires and a correspondingly high proportion of city fires are caused by failure to repair such equipment before the arrival of winter months when it must be used constantly.

At the present season accumulations of dry leaves create further hazards by providing ready fuel for falling sparks, especially if the leaves are allowed to collect in the rain gutters of a roof.

Coal or wood ranges and many types of home heating units may offer serious fire dangers if certain practices are not observed. Fire resistant bases are needed beneath all stoves and furnaces. Miss Moore cautions that a safe clearance between heating units and walls must be at least 15 inches, and that no unprotected wood should be allowed within 18 inches of smoke pipes.

Oily, greasy or paint covered rags and mops stored in closets or out-of-the-way corners are always dangerous. Naptha, gasoline, kerosene or other petroleum products labeled, stored or used carelessly may lead to serious personal injury as well as damages from fire.

Recent salvage drives have helped to lessen fire dangers in many homes by removing accumulations of paper and various scrap materials. However, even these homes need a periodic rechecking to see that fire hazards have not been allowed to collect again.

Miss Moore offers a check list of these and other home and farm fire hazards to all families who have not received one. These lists are available at the county extension office or from Purdue University.

TO NAME FARM TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE

Arthur H. Lautzenhiser, Chairman of DeKalb County USDA War Board has just been notified that a farm Transportation Committee will be appointed for DeKalb County. It will be the duty of this committee to issue "Certificates of War Necessity."

Owners of all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt for the purpose of transporting property must have a "Certificate of War Necessity" to operate after Nov. 15, 1942. Applications are being mailed to every farm truck owner by the O. D. T.

Oct. 22-23-24 have been set aside as National Farm Truck Registration Days. The County Transportation Committee will assist truck operators in filling out the necessary papers on those days. The office of the Transportation Committee will be located in the A. A. A. office on the 3rd floor of the court house, Auburn, Indiana.

Questions and Answers Transportation Conservation Program

Q.—Who will have to have a Certificate of War Necessity?

A.—Owners of all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt primarily for the purposes of transporting property except motorcycles, as well as all other motor vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are available for public rental, including ambulances and hearses. Not included are private passenger cars.

Q.—Does this include farm trucks?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What happens if I don't have a certificate?

A.—No truck can be legally moved after November 15 without one. No gasoline, tires, or repair parts can be obtained without a certificate.

Q.—Who are County Farm Transportation Committees?

A.—They are committees appointed by County USDA War Boards at the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, to assist the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration in the operation of their transportation conservation and rationing programs.

Q.—Who is on these committees?

A.—Five men, as follows: Chairman (County War Board Chairman,) two farmer members, one member representing truck transportation, and one member who is a dealer in farm machinery. An alternate for each of last four is also appointed.

Q.—Where can you get in touch with your committee?

A.—Their headquarters are at the County USDA War Board offices.

Q.—Where can a farmer obtain help in filling out his application?

A.—Members of the County Farm Transportation committee or a specially trained volunteer working with the committee will help him.

Q.—When should he take his application to the committee?

A.—On October 22, 23, or 24. These days have been designated as the National Farm Truck Registration Days.

The Automotive Mechanic of Yesterday Is the VICTORY SERVICE MAN of Today

Help him to help you "SAVE THE WHEELS THAT SERVE AMERICA" by getting a skilled service check-up regularly

Take the word of millions: MORE PEOPLE GO TO CHEVROLET DEALERS FOR SERVICE than to any other dealer organization

Just how important the automotive mechanic's work is to the nation will be clear to all who consider the following facts*:

- Automobiles and trucks form the sole practicable means of transportation for war workers and war materials in many communities throughout America.
- In some sections, 78% to 100% of the workers drive by automobile to vital war plants.
- 2,314 U. S. cities, with a population of 12,524,000, depend on private cars for transportation; 54,000 communities depend entirely on motor vehicles.
- Six out of every ten farms use one car or more; 67% of farm car mileage is necessity driving.
- More than 65.2% of all war plants reporting in Michigan (a typical war production state) depend on trucks to haul their incoming and outgoing freight.
- Trucks haul nearly 100% of the milk supply of most large cities—and 58% of all livestock marketed in the U. S.
- Trucks are the sole transportation system serving our 54,000 communities not reached by railroads.

The automotive mechanic—the trained Chevrolet Victory Service Man—is the lifeguard of America's millions of cars and trucks. Help him to help you and America by getting a skilled service check-up at regular intervals.

GROSS INCOME SHOWS TREND OF BUSINESS

State gross income tax collections July 1 to Sept. 30 on second quarter 1942 income totalled $5,710,267.20, nearly three quarters of a million dollars short of the mark for the same period last year, Gilbert K. Hewit, director of the state gross income tax division, announced as the current tax-paying period extending to October 15 got well under way, with warnings of severe decreases in gross income tax revenue during the next year.

Recent tabulations of gross income tax returns show nearly two and a half times more business houses shutting down this year than last. This 150% increases in business close-outs, tax officials point out, substantiates recent predictions by the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago that retail sales in 1943 will be only 50% to 60% of the 1941 retail sales and lends force to estimates of U. S. economists that 300,000 small retail stores will be forced to close by the end of next year on account of declining supplies of civilian goods and store labor.

FOG CONFUSED-YOUNG PILOT FROM GRABILL

Phil Ruckman, of Grabill a student flyer who keeps his plane at the Auburn airport, underwent a harrowing experience Friday evening when he lost his direction shortly after taking off from the airport. Fog over the area made direction finding difficult.

When he realized he was lost, Mr. Ruckman followed the New York Central railroad tracks to the west side of Kendallville. He circled over that region several times and then set his small V-8 monoplane down in a wheat field owned by William Munk, four miles west of Kendallville on Road 6.

Although the plane was nearly out of fuel Ruckman managed to land it before the gas supply was exhausted, preventing any possible damage to the plane.

Leaving the plane under guard throughout the night the pilot returned to the scene early Saturday morning to return it to the Auburn airport. Owing to the softness of the field, several futile attempts were made before the plane could take off.

GERALD GEE WRITES NEWS FROM MADISON

J. P. G. Madison, Ind.
October 18, 1942.

Dear Fred:

Just writing a few lines to inquire about the magazine offer that you have in the paper and will also try to tell you a little about what my work is and how I like my work. We have five men in our Medical Detachment. We run the Hospital here on the Proving Grounds. We have two men who take an ambulane down to the Airport whenever there is a plane taking off or coming in. That is for use in case of a wreck. The other three men stay up to the hospital and help take care of any cases that may come in during the day. We have one Medical Officer here, one Nurse and a Stenographer. We have about 1500 Civilians working here besides the Officers and enlisted men. I can't tell you much about the type of work that is done on the Grounds as that is a Military Secret but I can tell that we test guns and ammunition. I look forward to getting the paper every week as it tells me the news of the boys around and also I can keep up with the boys that have gone to camp. Well I will close for now as I have to get to work.

Your friend,
Gerald D. Gee.
P. F. C. Medical Detachment.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post Auxiliary No. 283, St. Joe, Ind.

Regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Post's headquarters at 7:30 P. M. Each Auxiliary member requested to be present, as plans for our holiday treats, charity and community service committees to be reported. Each member a war worker in World War No. II.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Curie, October 14. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and the Collect read by Mrs. C. O. Krise.

The lesson for the evening was on Brazil. Mrs. Glen Cole gave the history and geography of the country, also told about Henry Ford's Rubber Plantation. Mrs. Fred Hart told of the beauties of the chief city of Rio de Janeiro, it being one of the great scenic wonders of the world. She also gave a history of the coffee which is raised in Brazil, how it is grown, harvested and transported.

During business several bills were allowed and one honorary member reinstated as an active member. There were 19 active members and two guests present. The meeting was adjourned to meet Oct. 28 with Mrs. Fred Hart.

CHANGE IN CONCORD AND ST. JOE TAX LEVIES

As a result of a hearing held at the court house in Auburn Friday on tax levies for DeKalb county units in 1943 that are in excess of the statutory limits, Ray E. Geyer, of Garrett, and L. K. Decker, of Indianapolis, special representatives of the state board of tax commissioners, announced that they would recommend several minor changes in rates.

The following changes are proposed:

Concord township and St. Joe, special school fund reduced from 75 cents on the $100 to 71.

Franklin township, special school fund increased from 57 cents to 62.

Spencer township, tuition fund reduced from 30 cents to 29 cents and special school increased from 64 to 65.

Garrett schools, special fund raised from 70 to 71.

Altona corporation fund cut from 35 to 34.

Butler town corporation fund raised from 81 to 84.

Waterloo town corporation fund raised from $1.15 to $1.16.

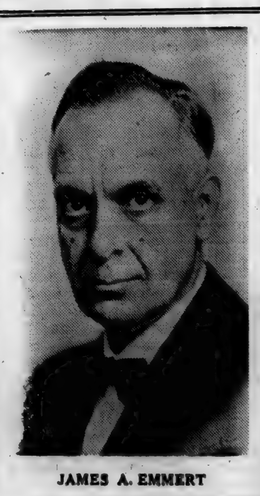
Grant township and Waterloo poor fund reduced from 8 to 7; Keyser township, Garrett and Altona from 15 to 14; Smithfield township and Ashley from 5 to 4; and Troy township from 18 to 15.

No remonstrators appeared, but the special representatives conferred with County Auditor Burley Ensley and John Zimmerman, of Auburn, secretary of the county tax adjustment board. The special representatives commended the adjustment board for its work.

The changes made are subject to approval by the State Board.

REPUBLICAN RALLY

Hear Judge James A. Emmert, former Mayor of Shelbyville, and former Judge of the Shelby County Circuit Court, now Republican candidate for Attorney General, will speak at 8 P. M., on Thursday evening, October 22, in the Assembly Room of the Court House, Auburn, Indiana.



JAMES A. EMMERT

Don't fail to hear his terse facts of the Campaign issues. Everyone is invited.

JANALYCE ROULS APPOINTED TO NEW POSITION

Miss Janalyce Rouls, of Angola, former teacher in the St. Joe schools, is now in Warsaw, where she has been appointed county home demonstration agent. Miss Rouls' appointment was approved by President Elliott, of Purdue University. She received her bachelor of science degree from Ball State Teachers' College and has taken graduate work at Columbia University, and at Iowa State College.

County home economics clubs of Kosciusko county recently entertained at a tea honoring Miss Rouls and Mrs. Ruth Parker Jordan, former demonstration agent, whose place Miss Rouls is filling.

MOUNT PLEASANT HOME COMING

A very pleasant day was enjoyed at the Mt. Pleasant Church Sunday when the annual Home Coming and Rally Day was observed. 82 were present at the Sunday School hour. Rev. F. I. Mumford, the pastor, brought the morning sermon on "Victory for the Christian."

The decorations for the church and dining room were rather unusual, being foods destined for the pastor's pantry. Everything was there from a bouquet of broccoli to eggs and canned goods. After a bountiful basket dinner, Rev. Erest Lewellen, of Ft. Wayne, gave the afternoon address to a congregation which nicely filled the sanctuary.

A feature of the afternoon program was the presentation and dedication of a beautiful service flag. Lawrence Warstler, superintendent of the Sunday School, made the presentation, unveiled the flag and read the names of the boys honored. They were: Ray Keller, Willard Campbell, William Boger, Leo Weicht, Harold Ewing, Robert Musser, Paul Ginder, Carroll Houser, Lloyd Wilson, Allen Gaff and Chester Powell.

GRADE PUPILS BEHIND THE SALVAGE DRIVE

The pupils of the lower six grades of our local school have really rolled up their sleeves in the "Save, Serve, Conserve" drive."

In the first six weeks of school they turned in 760 keys, and approximately 2900 jar rings for a total of 33 pounds. In addition they have gathered 38 pounds of scrap rubber, no piece of which weighed more than a pound.

Two items that have been started more recently are Victrola records and razor blades. By the close of the period, 99 records had been turned in, and 370 razor blades. They are also saving properly prepared tin cans, and zinc jar caps. The keys, tin cans, and Victrola records are donated outright. The proceeds of the sale of other items will be used for some worthwhile school project.

These youngsters are also buying Defense Stamps in a big way. In one room, with 17 pupils participating, stamps to the amount of $9.65 were purchased in one week. The following week, with 18 pupils participating, $9.00 worth of stamps were bought. In another room, with a different system of accounting, stamps and bonds to the total of $124.95 are owned by the pupils.

The pupils would appreciate the cooperation of families not having children in school, and will be glad to call for any salvage they may have.

Mrs. Chas. Woodcox continues to suffer with asthma.

Naval personnel will be required to conform to the nation-wide speed limit of 35 miles per hour according to Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the ninth naval district, who requested Governor Henry F. Schricker's cooperation in enforcing it on navy men. The commandant requested that state and local police stop any man in a naval uniform driving in excess of 35 miles per hour regardless of whether he is driving a naval vehicle or private car. His name, rate, tag number and points between which he is traveling will be recorded by the police and sent to the commandant. If the excuse of an emergency is offered by the driver, the commandant says it can be proved only by papers in possession of the driver.

Richard Wiers and James L. Rhodenbaugh, of Detroit, spent the week-end in the R. Wiers home.

Mrs. Anna Baker, of Fort Wayne, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Violet Platter and family.

Harry Kees and Leon Kees were Ft. Wayne visitors Saturday, attending the Rainbow Banquet, of which Leon served overseas, under Douglas MacArthur in World War I.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rony and little son, of Denver, Colo., arrived unexpectedly at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reidenbach on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Rony was on his way East where he was transferred for his work. The family will remain here for a few weeks until Mr. Rony gets located.

It is estimated that 400 youths of 18 and 19 years of age in DeKalb County will be affected by the new conscription law that will soon become effective. A registraion for these groups was held June 30. Those who were 19 then and have reached the age of 20 since automatically became subject to the present draft law. It is probable that another registration will be ordered soon of the boys who have become 18 since June 30.

The flow of war freight is reaching new heights weekly. Every day, according to the United States News, the railroads are delivering 6,000 carloads of materials to government camps and projects; 2,500 to 3,000 carloads of export freight; 500 carloads of food for the Army and Navy; about 2,000 carloads of Army Ordnance items; and 700 to 1,000 carloads of lend-lease food. In addition, they transport about 1,000,000 soldiers each month—plus an abnormally large number of civilian travelers.

VETERANS—You men who fought the last War—make this your job. To see that no American boy shall fall because a lack of scrap deprived him of a fighting chance.

SCRAP SLACKERS CAN LOSE THIS WAR!

It's squarely up to you. The mills need scrap to make the steel to go across the sea as ships, and tanks, and guns. They need it now—and in the months to come. For all new steel must be 50% scrap—and the mills are running out. They haven't enough for even 30 days more production—then they'll be shutting down.

Unless you get to work. Unless you go into your basement and your attic and rout out the junk that's there. Talk about it to your friends and neighbors—you men who know what war is like. Tell them..."Don't be a scrap slacker. Get your scrap ready for the drive that starts next Monday!" Then get to work and help them do it.

We're out to fill the junk yards—to make every salvage depot a towering tribute to our fighting men. And don't think the j is done when the scrap starts piling Because the war must end before th for scrap is over.

LETTER WRITING

America has become a letter-writing nation from all corners. It is usually a sentimental pastime, one which we might have enjoyed before this but one which because of the war, we are pursuing with spirit. Many are the pennies exchanged in for United States postage, which grows into dollars to add to the government's postal intake. Most of us know of some boy in service who would greatly appreciate a letter from us. It makes their lives more interesting and is encouraging to know that folks on the 'outside' are thinking about them. Boys in service enjoy mail more today than they ever have. They look forward to each delivery with hopeful anticipation. Let's not let them down!

THE FALL BONFIRE

It doesn't matter your age, there is still the thrill that comes with heaping of leaves for fall bonfires. As children, we would go from house to house and help in sweeping and raking in order to feel a part in the ritual of the neighborhood burning of leaves. Piled them high and before the fire was started had sport running and jumping into the heap, throwing arm loads of leaves at our pals, covering each other with the dusty, colorful array and yelling as children in our fall sport. Children especially love a bonfire. Maybe there is a hold it has on their imagination, perhaps a feeling of Indians and harvest since it comes at this season. Maybe we felt as hunters of old with the crackle of fire and pillars of smoke suggesting wild life with guns and war dances and particularly a vision of Indians. A long time ago it was the custom for parents to hide apples and potates in the bottom of the bonfire and when the fire burned low there in the ashes were the tasty morsels roasted to please every young palate. The smoke smelled sweet to you even if it smudged the clothes drying on the wash line next door. What if the wind blew vigorously and swept some of the active fire toward the barn or the fence! We would stay and watch until the last spark of life remained, coming into the house with the fragrant odor in our nostrils and carrying it around on our clothes for days. Remember all this from your youth, News reader?

AUTUMN

Frost covers the pumpkin, leaves on the grape are brittle as the vines lean heavily with purple bunches that are as fragrant as roses in summer. Birds still chirp, who are going to stay and weather a northern winter. Sight of jellies, bowls of garnered fruit, the gardener bringing up bulbs for planting while his neighbor is out covering over his flower beds, the smell of pears and pickles simmering on the stove, storing in cool, dark places of potatoes, apples and squash are autumn sweet. Tomatoes lined up on porches to ripen, wind swept leaves that crackle under foot on our streets, is all autumn goodness. So autumn is temperamental and changeable and unpredictable as a woman, is she, and your love for it, don't you? Before long she will use colors of gray and drab, cold lights and darks. Look to your cucumber pickles and moonlight on pumpkins while you may as time is fleeting.

KEEP HEALTHY

We were reminded the other day of the terrible influenza epidemic in this country during the first World War. We haven't forgotten that 50,000 Americans died in military service in battle in that war, but do we recall that 58,000 Americans died from disease at the same time and in our training camps? So far we find health figures in military service higher during this war and this is also true of the general health of the entire country. But this doesn't mean we are immune to approaching winter's chill, raw winds lowered temperatures and extra physical hardships, all part of the picture that spells common colds. Doctors are busy enough without you adding your case. Let's watch our winter's health program. Last year, industry lost four hundred million man-days because of physical disability of workers. We can't let that happen this year.

POLITICS IS THE OBSTACLE

Some time ago representatives of the private utility industry made public a plan for a national pool of power. The point of the proposal was to obtain maximum interconnection and integration of power producing and distributing facilities, in order to make the last possible kilowatt of electricity available for the war effort. Under the plan, the rights of both the privately-owned and the publicly-owned power systems would be completely protected. The plan was offered in great detail, after an exhaustive survey of the national power situation.

It should be obvious to a child that a plan of this character is precisely what the country needs. Because of strict priority restrictions, it will be impossible for either public or private interests to build new power facilities on the desired scale. Therefore, it is absolutely essential to use existing power facilities to the limit—to get full value from every mile of line and every generator. It is to the credit of the private utility industry that its leaders foresaw this long ago, and have been trying to put it into effect.

There is, however, one big obstacle in the way of real coordination of power resources in this country. That obstacle is politics. The advocates of socialized power are, apparently, more interested in attaining their totalitarian goal than they are in aiding the war effort. Through such mediums as TVA, Bonneville, Grand Coulee, and similar projects, the socialists have made substantial strides—at the expense of private enterprise and the American system of government. Now they are eager to go the rest of the way, and take over the entire private power industry.

If the people fail to demand a reversal of this political policy, the socialists will continue their program of conscienceless destruction of private enterprise—and the war effort will suffer because of it.

FIVE-CENT PATRIOTS

A doctor stationed on a lonely island in the Pacific Ocean recently wrote home:

"Mail day is the only day that breaks the monotony for men on this island. We have no holidays out here, no time off, the same grind day in and out, with occasional spurts of excitement. We are practically tied to our premises, because the sentries have itchy trigger fingers. It is our proud privilege to be protecting our friends on the mainland, so keep sending us the materials, including mail. We will do the rest."

This doctor is like millions of other men in our armed forces. They live in the belief that their sacrifices are essential to the protection of our nation. They left behind them a land in which the dignity and freedom of the individual were sacred. And that is the kind of land they have a right to expect when they return. But will they get it?

The air is literally blue with patriotic ballyhoo about Democracy, but beneath the flag-waving the men and women at home are worried. In the confusion of attaining an all-out war economy, abuses are being committed which if continued may easily destroy every vestige of representative government—the last, best hope of the individual.

Abuses by labor are rampant. Wildcat strikes continually cut production. Congress endangers the American form of government by making political footballs of such vital problems as taxation, the draft, and inflation control.

These abuses of the privileges of freedom threaten this country and what it stands for, not just because they hamper war production. There is a grimmer reason. The doctor in the Pacific epitomizes the latter.

The great middle class of Americans who are responsible for our war effort at home may turn in guilty desperation to a dictatorship for the sake of efficiency.

If that happens, the doctor in the Pacific and all other men in the service will get material with which to fight the war, but what will they think of their "friends" at home when they return and find the price that has been paid—when they find that this is no longer a land where the "little guy" can go out and make good on his own initiative?

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Forced labor under Nazi jailers—by millions of war prisoners and other milions of workers from conquered lands—is one of the "innumerable acts of savagery" the United Nations are determined to punish the proper time by trials of those responsible for them.

Germany, which has paid dearly in men and war materials for their gains in Russia, is desperate and even more ruthless. But neither their promises nor their brutalities have brought about any measure of "collaboration" in a Nazified "new order" for Europe.

Our own manpower shortage is one of "growing pains" developing out of our steadily mounting war strength — a strength that is just beginning to be felt in a series of worldwide military operations. We have set an immense goal in the production of ships and warmaterials for use by powerful forces of American fighting men and by our Allies.

The total value of all munitions plus war construction now runs close to five billion dollare each month. Out output of war weapons cannot grow less—on the contrary, it must increase. So, too, will the number of men in military service, who must soon include teen age youths, if we are to avoid calling up classes of older men.

With some 15 million workers now engaged in direct war work, more millions must be poured into our reservoir of war labor to replace those drained away into the armed forces and to take care of next year's expansion in production.

Although maximum prices have been fixed over nearly all foods that hadn't previously been under control, it is up to every housewife to help the campaign to keep down the cost of living by checking food prices.

Prices on poultry, mutton, butter, cheese, eggs, canned milk, onions, white potatoes, dry beans, corn meal, fresh and canned citrus fruits and juices should be no higher than the highest prices charged between Sept. 28 and Oct. 2. The quality and quantity as well as the prices of such items, also should be watched.

The Department of Agriculture is calling on farmers, who raise vegetables for the winter and spring markets, to increase their acreage of carrots, lima beans, snap beans, onions and to maintain the 1942 production of other vegetables except, for sharp reduction urged in the planting of such crops as cantaloupes, cucumbers, cauliflower, eggplant, watermelons, bleached celery, head lettuce, green peppers, aspargus and artichokes—all less essential to our wartime diet.

After the first of the year, with even more drastic cuts in the manufacture of civilian goods, we'll begin to notice how thoroughly our way of living is under-going changes. Travel by bus or train, already somewhat difficult, may be further restricted. The family car will have to get along with only 5 tires. Economic stabilization—the balanced control of all factors, men and materials, in our war economy—is now in the hands of Director Byrnes and his advisory board.

America's four million boys and girls who ride to school in busses may continue to do so, but the busses must be kept on main roads, make fewer stops . . . women are urged to save their old and discarded silk and nylon hosiery, the materials are valuable in making smokeless powder bags—Sportsmen should collect for scrap all their discharged shotgun shells, rifle cartridges, and save the short down feathers of wild ducks and geese they shoot, the down goes into garments for airmen flying at high altitudes.

The Friendly Legislat're

by J. OTTO LEE
State Representative
October 10, 1942

The 1941 "Friendly Legislature" was Republican.

The present Democratic Governor asks and pleads with the people of Indiana to return a "Friendly Legislature."

What does the Governor mean? Does he want another "Friendly Legislature" or a Democratic controlled, rubber stamp Legislature that will do his bidding as he will plan.

The people of Indiana elected a Republican Legislature and a "Friendly Legislature" two years ago and no better words can be found to describe the 1941 Legislature and its accomplishments than a part of the present Republican platform which is:

"The Republican Party believes that truth is still an essential element in the proper administration of our government, nothwithstanding the contrary examples of the past several years of New Deal rule in our state and nation. We regard platform pledges as a sacred promise to the electorate and commend the 1941 Republican General Assembly of Indiana for faithfully carrying out the mandates of our last platform."

This Republican "Friendly Legislature" created no new taxes but reduced the state budget appropriations five and a half million dollars. The first time since the Indiana Democratic New Deal took over in 1933 that a reduction has been made by the Legislature and this was done by a Republican Legislature.

This "Friendly Legislature" reduced the gross income tax for the retail merchants of Indiana from ONE percent to ONE-HALF percent, saving the Indiana and Marion County retail merchants over four million dollars.

This "Friendly Legislature" increased the payment to recipients of old-age pension from $30 to $40 per month and provided for medical care of these aged citizens and removed the part of the law provided for taking of liens on the property of these recipients.

This "Friendly Legislature" established a merit system for the state penal, charitable and benevolent institutions of the state and most recent reports are that this law is being sabotaged by some of the state officers.

This "Friendly Legislature" created a non-partisan state police force and it is reported that the police department is functioning to a greater degree of satisfaction than at any time in the past.

This "Friendly Legislature" took politics out of the Liquor Board and provided certain restrictions that benefited the people as well as those persons in that business.

This "Friendly Legislature" created the first State Defense Council in the United States and provided funds for the liberal operation of the activities of this war time service.

This "Friendly Legislature" set up a real anti-Nepotism Act and put to "slumber" the famous and notorious Two Percent Club and if the Republican Legislature did nothing more than put into a law these two much needed provisions they should have the everlasting gratitude of the citizenry of Indiana.

This "Friendly Legislature" re-established the office of the Attorney General of Indiana as an elective office, which had been an appointive office under the New Deal set-up.

This "Friendly Legislature" gave to the laboring people of Indiana much assistance when it amended the Unemployment Compensation law by reducing the waiting period for the unemployed from two weeks to one week and increased the maximum benefits from fifteen weeks to sixteen weeks.

This "Friendly Legislature" is charged by the Democratic Governor of obstructing the war efforts here in Indiana. However, this Republican "Friendly Legislature" will let the people make up their own minds as to which is right or wrong on this subject.

This Republican "Friendly Legislature" must be re-elected or the government of Indiana will be returned to a complete dictatorial government and the "McNutt Ripper Bill" of 1933 will be a "Piker" compared with the one that will be forced upon the people of Indiana by the present Democratic Governor if he can have a Democratic controlled Legislature instead of a "Friendly Legislature."

Vote straight Republican on November 3rd and you will give to the citizenry of Indiana a "SQUARE DEAL" instead of continuing this misfit New Deal.

"MORE POWER TO YOU, PARTNERS!"

WE'LL keep things humming down here while you're fighting up there.

We'll see to it that there's plenty of electricity at every switch at the air field — and plenty of power for the production lines that are pouring out airplanes, tanks, guns, supplies and ships.

That takes a lot of electric power — but we've got what it takes! We have far more power than all the Japanazis — five times as much as we had in the last war!

American business management is producing ⅞ of that flow of power. The same practical business management under public regulation that h increased electric service decreased electric pric much that the average ican family today enjo twice as much electri same amount of money it did 10 to 15 years ago.

More power to you, partners! Once this war's won, we'll provide the power to build a better world!

"I'm Just An Average Farmer . . .

. . . and like most small farmers I'm a little bit mixed up about things like price ceilings, parities and farm blocs and all that.

Reckon I'd feel a lot better if I knew that our men in public office understood our problems.

Take me, for instance . . . two of my boys are in the service, my hired hands left for higher wages in the city . . . we know our country will lose out if we fall down on the farm front . . . my wife an' I can't farm 210 acres by ourselves, but there's nothing much we can do about it except vote for men in November who know what we're up against . . . that's why my wife an' I are both going to . . .

Mrs. Lloyd Putt and son arrived last week at the Ray Argerbright home north of town, to remain for the duration, because of the husband and father being drafted. He is a machinist.

The Ray Littlefield automobile stalled on the B. & O. tracks, at Concord Monday morning as he was starting for Auburn, and as a result the car was demolished when hit by an approaching train. Ray and his family hurriedly got out of the car when he was unable to start it promptly. He was taking his folks to Auburn where they work.

Rationing of kerosene and other types of fuel oil started Oct. 1. Retailers have been instructed by the office of price administration to obtain written promises from their customers to surrender fuel oil coupons when they receive them for the amount of their purchases since then. Plans for the issuance of fuel oil ration books are now being completed.

"YOUR NAVY — FIRST LINE of DEFENSE." This is the Slogan for Navy Day—Tuesday, Oct. 27. A day when the NATION pays tribute to our American Navy and the magnificant job they are doing. They can fight to VICTORY only with our full whole hearted support. Encourage enlistments and buy Defense Stamps and Bonds. All enlistments from Indiana are trained at the Great Lakes Training Station forty miles north of Chicago. This is the largest Navy training station in the world and more than one-third of all our naval forces are trained here.

Approximately 35 automobile tires have been received by the Railway Express, in Auburn for sale to the government under the tire purchasing plan announced at Washington Thursday. All tires offered for sale are to be shipped to Elkhart, where a goverment appraiser will set the price to be paid by the government. Motorists must sell or turn over to the government through the Railway Express agencies all tires in excess of five. Motorists registering for gasoline Nov. 9 must certify that they possess not more than 5 tires. Falsification is punishable by fine up to $10,000 or 10 years in prison. We are unable to report the sale of any tires from this community under this ruling.

Tuesday, Oct. 27 is National Navy Day. Was legally established twenty years ago as a day to honor our Navy and its achievements. This year marks the most important Navy Day in our history and as a Nation we pay homage to "OUR NAVY—FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE." Our Navy is today fighting our battles and guarding our national honor on all the seas of the world. Every person can help by encouraging enlistments and by buying Defense Stamps and Bonds.

The Republican Women's Club of Spencer, Concord and Newville townships met in the Town Hall at St. Joe Monday evening and a very good crowd was present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall, followed by singing of America and pledge to the flag. Secretary's report by Mrs. Audrey Wade was read and approved. Mrs. Mabel Lyons, of Auburn, introduced Mrs. Grace Phelps, candidate for country treasurer, D. B. Ridgway, candidate for trustee of Concord township and Mark Murphy, Newville township candidate for trustee. Mrs. Grace Double, district vice chairman of Fort Wayne was a guest. Mrs. Geo. W. Gillie, wife of Cong. Gillie, also of Ft. Wayne was introduced and she told of the activities in Washington in war time, also of the buildings that have been erected and how bills are passed in the house. Light refreshments were served.

Indiana newspaper editors were in the limelight Monday as the result of the scrap metal drive sponsored by them, which has collected 138,700 tons of scrap in the past three weeks. Clarence A. Jackson, Indiana state salvage chairman and Indiana state defense council director, wrote more than 500 editors that their "unselfish exhibition of leadership resulted in tht hugh success of the scrap drive in Indiana." The way school officials and children and their parents responded to your appeal is convincing proof that Indiana citizens are alert to the nation's war problems and needs," Jackson said. In this community the Lions Club members are responsible for a great share of the success of the salvage drive and it is continuing indefinitely. The St. Joe and Spencerville elevators have been designated as the places for disposal and here you will receive cash for the salvage materials.

NAVY DAY

October 27, 1942

"The fundamental naval policy of the United States is to maintain the navy in sufficient strength to support the national policies, commerce, and to guard the continental and overseas possessions."

From The United States Navy.

All over the world United States navy men are battling for democracy, for the cause of free men everywhere. These official photographs show typical scenes of the navy at work. Above: While a bluejacket handles the wheel, an ensign directs the course of the minesweeper on patrol duty.

In foul weather a naval lookout garbs himself in heavy clothing. On watch in a convoy, he must remain alert at all times.

An able-bodied seaman, Bill Williams of San Diego, Calif., captain of a gun crew, is ready for action. He and his men are holding down a hot spot at sea.

A navy gun crew on an armed merchantman depends upon the fire control man for the signal to fire. This sharp-eyed sailor keeps on the alert for enemy vessels.

This sailor is standing watch for Japanese submarines. As a protection against cold, he is dressed in extra warm clothing. His binoculars are of the type requested by the navy department from civilians on a loan basis.

Muck Crop Show At Albion

The State Muck Crop Show, which will be held at Albion, Nov. 19 and 20, will have a ladies program both days of the show. Food demonstrations will be given at all of the program sessions.

The vegetable plate contest will again be a part of the Muck Crop Show. Any homemaker in DeKalb County who wishes to participate in this contest should contact Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent, for further information and contest rules. Outstanding prizes will be given to contest winners at Albion. A change that has been made in the contest this year is that any county may have as many as four vegetable plate participants in the State Contest.

Another division of the show will be a potato salad contest which will be open to girls 15 years or older who are taking home economics in high school or are 4-H Club members. Major awards will also be given to contest winners in this group.

Anyone wishing to enter either the vegetable plate contest or potato salad contest should register with Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent, not later than November 6.

CRANBERRIES APLENTY

To spread good cheer, to counteract bad news of war fronts with heartening reports from home fronts, we pass on the news to our News readers that there will be plenty of cranberries for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners this year. We may have to watch our sweetening of them, but 1942 finds us closer to Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners of the past where cranberry and contentment were synonomous with a gathering of the clan, all members of it, none off to the wars, none refusing because of Civilian Defense or Red Cross duties, none considering the trip too long because of lack of gasoline or weak auto tires. Those were the cranberry days of yesterday. We are glad that they are to be enjoyed in great plenty today.

Mrs. Marion Carlin and two sons, of Gary, spent from Tuesday until Sunday in the Randall home. Mr. Carlin joined them on Saturday, all returning home Sunday.

A marriage license was issued Monday by county clerk Murry A. Steele, to Frank Andrew Monroe, 24, factory employe, and Hilda Marie Edwards, 18, Auburn. Mr. Monroe is the son of Mrs. Grant Baltz near St. Joe.

Sunday dinner guests at their Hamilton Lake cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams, were: Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley, Mrs. Mary Sechler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler, Vernie Monroe and family, Mrs. Jessie Sommer, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole and B. E. Widney.

The army coastal service says that 4,986 sacks of United States mail bound for American armed forces in the British Isles had been lost in the sinking of a United Nations cargo ship. Much of the shipment was parcel post and represented one of the first parcel shipments of Christmas mail.

Eligible claimants living in DeKalb county received $1,003 in unemployment compensation during September, compared with $1,848 in August, and $178.00 in September, 1941. Benefits paid in this county in September were, $117.00 to rural residents; $418.00 to Auburn residents; $221.00 to Butler; $176.00 to Garrett; $71.00 to Waterloo residents.

The Democrats of DeKalb county will stage their closing rally for the coming election, Nov. 3, at the Royal theatre in Garrett Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Headline speakers will be Samuel C. Cleland, Ft. Wayne attorney, who is a candidate for congress, and A. E. Gordon, of Indianapolis, chairma of Indiana state legislative board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Mrs. Pearl Firestone, a resident of Butler and vicinity for almost a century passed away at 10 o'clock Sunday evening at the Sanders hospital in Auburn. Born in Butler 91 years ago, Mrs. Firestone was one of the pioneer residents of the community. She remained in the Butler vicinity her entire life. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Prudence Ratts, of near Butler. Services were held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Johnson funeral home in Butler.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson ordered nationwide rationing of coffee, effective at midnight on Nov. 28, on the basis of one pound each five weeks—about a cup a day—for all persons who were 15 years of age or over when they registered for sugar supplies on May 4-5. All retail sales of coffee will be frozen at midnight, Nov. 21, for the week before rationing begins to permit merchants to stock their shelves. Coffee will be the 9th rationed product. Others are sugar, farm equipment, gasoline, automobiles, tires, bicycles, typewriters, workers rubber boots and rubber shoes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RECORD

The following is a record of attendance and offering for the schools in this community, reporting for last Sunday:

Mrs. Mary Bartlett was a recent visitor of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kees.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Freeman of Pleasant Lake, called on Mrs. Leon Kees, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey had as Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Markle, of Spencerville.

Leon Kees and sons, Jack and James, attended the foot ball game in Ft. Wayne last Friday evening.

Mrs. Charles Mendenhall and Mrs. Harriett Pinchon, of Albion, were Sunday supper guests in the Randall home.

Leon Kees and family visited in the John McCaffery home at Avilla, finding them well pleased with their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr were Sunday dinner guests in the Luella Wyatt home in Auburn. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr and children were also guests.

Mrs. Lileth Kain and two daughters, of Ft. Wayne, were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Yeiser. They also called on St. Joe relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz had as weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Zimmerman and daughter, Joann, of Bluffton, Ind., Miss Margery Newman, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waltz, of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Claron Hilbert, of Hicksville.

November will make a call of 141 men to the armed services, and this community will contribute a number of men who have been re-classified as follows: Olen D. Weicht, Walter L. Loucks, Walter O. Hart, and John W. Tyndall, of Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Chorpenning, of Hicksville, entertained in their home Sunday, the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chorpenning, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Smith, of Harlan, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Chorpenning and daughteres, Patty and Delores, and Robert Schieferstine, of Harlan. The occasion was in honor of Jack, who is enlisting in the United States Army and celebrating the birthdays of Clayton and Delores. A bountiful dinner was served at noon the color scheme being carried out in patriotic colors, with a huge birthday cake as the center piece. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are leaving Tuesday for California.

"Patriotism should dictate the type of Hallowe'en observances in which Hoosier citizens will participate this year," Governor Henry F. Schricker pointed out in calling upon Indiana residents to refrain from any forms of hilarious, destructive celebrations and activities. "The too often destructive activities of Hallowe'en in the past must be regarded as dangerous, unpatriotic and damaging to the all-out war effort," the State's chief executive said in suggesting that the State Defense Council and County and local Defense Council take the leadership in an effort to prevent all vandalism and hilarious celebrations. In the sober spirit of the times, and not for the purpose of spoiling the fun, the public support is sought.

Halloween Contest Ends in Draw

Charley McCarthy, well-known dummy who returned not long ago from a tour of army camps in Alaska, stars momentarily in a Halloween contest titled "Who Scares Who?" or "Which Is Witch?" "With your face being what it is, I'm entering this contest under a terrific handicap," Charlie told his associate, Edgar Bergen. His moral support comes from Anne Gwynne, actress.

REPORT ON THE SCRAP CAMPAIGN

A ninety minute student-talent program here this afternoon marked the completion of a 12 day salvage campaign for members of the Spencerville school. Fifteen pounds of keys represented the admission fees.

The results of the scrap drive exceeded the expectations of even the wild guessers, for no less than 70 tons were added to Uncle Sam's scrap pile by this effort.

Scrap collected was divided as follows, Iron, 68 tons; rubber, 1½ tons; copper, 300 lbs.; aluminum, 300 pounds; brass, 150 pounds; and zinc, 150 lbs. This represented almost 700 pounds scrap collected for every pupil enrolled in the entire school.

Five teams were formed under the direction of Derrill Murphy and his staff of "colonels." The "Marines," captained by Morrix Laux, merged to the front the very last day, and won the contest by accounting for 18 tons. The "Army" ran a close second. Aileen Stemen, a senior, won individual honors by accrediting 8 tons to her team. Paul Mills was second in this department with 6 tons.

Bulletin!

Complete election returns will be published in The News next week, and this will necessitate the paper being late in delivery. It will not enter the postoffice until on Thursday morning.

The LIONS CLUB
L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The St. Joe Lions Club observed its second organization anniversary and ladies night, Monday evening. The repast being served by the ladies of the Spencerville Methodist Church in the basement dining room. The Auburn Lions, who sponsored the local club, were present, together with their ladies.

President F. B. Leighty presided and he called upon Lion Hohan, of Auburn, who led the group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, on the piano.

Principal Paschen of the Spencer township schools, reported on the scrap drive which the Lions are sponsoring. The Spencer pupils made a wonderful showing and if all communities would do as well, your Uncle Sam would have plenty of metal in the big emergency.

Past president Ralph Sechler, was called upon and made some appreciative remarks. Lion Hohan brought to our attention the observance of Navy Day, Oct. 27, and praised our boys in blue for the magnificent job they are doing on the scattered seas of the world. Observance of the day means more this year due to the world conflict.

Fred Stemen was made a Lion by Dist. Governor Waterhouse, of Hamilton and following the roll call he gave an inspiring talk on Lionism and what the local club can mean to a community. Our district 25A, has 54 clubs that are active in public service.

This annual meeting, when Auburn visits us, is always an enjoyable occasion and they are always invited to come again.

CLASS PARTY

The Jesus Helpers and the Ever Ready classes of the Coburn's Corners Junior Sunday School were pleasantly entertained at the home of Joan and Carleton Curie Friday afternoon, October 23.

Mrs. Trostel and Mrs. Kagey conducted a song and devotional service which was followed by the following games: Snip, Whose life will be saved first, cross questions and crooked answers, farm yard, a candy hunt, and a Hallowe'en contest.

Refreshments consisted of popcorn, cider, and candy.

Those who enjoyed the party besides Joan and Carlton were: Mrs. Trostel, Mrs. Kagey, Shirley Crothers, Ella and Jimmy Knop, Billy and Mary Wilder, Jack and Gene Mann, Geraldine and Jon Shull, Marlene and Joan Cook, Jean and Beverly Shumaker, Maxine Hoover, Doris Donut and Janet Jarrett.

HUNTING

With autumn comes hunting, when millions of sportsmen of the land don their heavy jackets, take down shotguns and rifles and hie themselves off to woods and fields, to engage in a favorite pastime. It is a season of acid test of good sportsmanship as it proves whether the hunter who would not do certain things in principle will do them in practice. It puts a man on his honor and shows if he is a good sport whenever, or just when the game warden is around. This being a sportsman covers trespassing on restricted property, shooting birds or animals protected by law, using illegal methods of taking game. We have many hunters around this part of DeKalb county and perhaps some of them have the name of being "game hogs" or of violating the hunting laws, but we don't believe there are many such and these are soon marked by their fellows and not held in respect as sports. Hunting is a dangerous business we must remember and men can stand being reminded each year that you don't shoot at a moving bush just because, you don't climb trees or fences with loaded guns, or point a gun at something which you don't intend to shoot. The hunter is advised to wear a bright color, distinguishable at a distance. Those who abide by the laws and live up to the regulations are the sportsmen.

ON VOTING

According to Dr. Gallup's poll, in November only thirty million of the eighty million eligible voters will cast their ballots for men of their choice for public offices. This is rather a deplorable situation, considering the fact that this country is engaged in a war that is fighting to preserve and maintain the right for its citizens to go to the polls and cast their vote, not coerced, not bought, but willingly and as a free people. It is rather strange that one should be urged to exercise a privilege that is an enviable position to most people of the earth. We have fought and died for this principle and now have to be sold on the idea that in order to create government of the people and for the people we must make it by the people. We can talk against our Congressmen, our Senators, picking them to small bits conversationally. We can criticise and find fault with acts of Congress and our President. It is the instrument of the people, and the people want to guard this function. Local and state politics enter into the voting picture. Everyone has the power, if they are citizens, to voice their approval or disapproval at the voting booth. There is much fault to be found in the working of political machines, of executive offices, and we all know in St. Joe that much criticism of policies and laws is deserved. It is impossible for everyone to be wholly pleased with legislation and the exercising of this right of criticism makes us the democratic government. Do not criticise however, without exercising your right to vote and offer your government your protest or affirmation, officially.

ARMISTICE DAY

We can look back at former Armistice Days and realize our mistake in our thinking! We were of the impression we had progressed further in our civilization that we really have. We thought that peace pacts, League of Nation understandings, alliances, were bits of achievement. Today, on this Armistice Day we realize that we had only hoped, in the past, that it was just another wishful thinking. We haven't progressed to such an extent that we can conscienciously set aside two minutes of earnest prayer and truthfully say that as Christians we have not our selves to blame in part for the present world conditions. We have always been taught that the reason for wars was based on hate. There is not such a great amount of hate displayed in this war as in others. Perhaps we should believe that wars are founded more on misunderstandings and on ignorance. As for the former, we realize that no nation fighting is washed white from blame, that there is not error on the part of us all. One thing this war has proven to us in St. Joe is that more people think in terms of peace than war. It is the people's choice and a principle which is most to be desired by all manner of men, humans capable of understanding, supposedly enlightened as to what brings on wars among nations. But what are we going to do about it? Take two minutes of prayerful thinking on Armistice Day and let it be two minutes of prayerful thought on the requirements for peace, to lead us to an all-time armistice.

A special patriotic program will be given by the Lions Club committee at their meeting on Nov. 9, with Ralph Sechler as chairman.

FARM ACCIDENTS

From the National Grange we receive the following report on accidents on the farm taking a heavy toll in lives: "There were approximately 18,500 accidental deaths on farms of the U. S. during 1941. About 7500 of these were home accident deaths. Work accidents claimed about 4500 lives of which 1000 occurred in motor vehicle accidents. The farm work fatality total was the largest recorded for any of the six major branches of industry, amounting to exactly one-fourth of all worker deaths. Farming includes about one-fifth of all workers, so the indicated frequency of fatal accidents on the farm was above the average for the whole country. It is estimated that during 1941, farm fires destroyed about $90,000,000 worth of property. This tremendous total points to the need of greater care in the prevention of farm fires."

EDUCATION WEEK

American Education Week, scheduled for week of November 16, is the time to bring up a few points that have been mentioned in educational meetings. Teachers wish to know the parents of the children personally, that they will have confidence in each other. The teacher will know certain factors in the behavior of the pupil which makes cooperation and understanding between the two. The parent who enters into conflict with the school on standards set-up by rules and regulations, establishes a bad policy for every one concerned. Constructive criticism isn't frowned upon by an instructor. In our democracy, the usual respect for school, teachers, and pupils, of giving each an opportunity for self-expression, is a factor that must be followed. We want to maintain our present standards and to improve upon them. Lions Paschen of Spencerville and Wilbern of St. Joe are preparing a special program for the club meeting on Nov. 23.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR RESIDENT LICENSES DETERMINED BY LAW

Legal qualifications determining who is eligible for a "resident" Indiana hunting, fishing and trapping license are set out in a 1937 act of the General Assembly and govern the issuance of all licenses by the Division of Fish and Game, Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Department of Conservation, said.

The law defines as a "resident" a person who is at the time and who has been continuously for a full period of six months preceding the date of application for a license or permit issued under the provisions of this Act a bona fide resident of this state. Proof that any person is not a qualified voter of the county in which he claims residence shall constitute prima facie evidence that such person is not a resident of the state within the meaning of this act.

Both resident and non-resident licenses for hunting, fishing and trapping in Indiana are issued by the clerks of the 92 counties and by agents in those counties designated by the county clerks. These agencies are usually established in places for the convenience of persons seeking a license.

SAFETY IS URGED IN HANDLING GUNS

With the duck hunting season under way and the opening of the quail, pheasant and rabbit seasons in November, Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Department of Conservation, urges the cooperation of all hunters in preventing hunting accidents.

Each year the hunting season results in a series of preventable accidents, many of which are due to careless or thoughtless handling of firearms. Surveys have shown that many accidents occur while loaded guns are being put in or taken out of automobiles. Others result from pulling loaded guns through or over fences, from shooting at moving objects without knowing what they are and other similar thoughtless actions.

A hunter and good sportsman should be familiar with the handling of firearms and should realize the responsibility involved in the possession and use of guns.

For COUNTY TREASURER

FERN A. MORR

A prominent DeKalb County citizen, Fern A. Morr, of Waterloo, is the candidate of the Democratic party for the office of County Treasurer.

Mr. Morr is a native of Jackson township and has always lived in this county. He has resided in Waterloo since 1926 and served as Grant township trustee for the last eight years. He has been an auctioneer since 1921 and engaged in the insurance business since 1935. He is active in community affairs including civic, religious and social groups.

Upon the passage of the selective service law in 1940, Mr. Morr was appointed by the governor as the Waterloo member of the advisory committee of the county draft board and in that capacity he has aided a large number of registrants in preparing their questionnaires.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

HOME MAKERS URGED TO CAN APPLES

With this year's supply of commercially canned fruit approximately one-third smaller, and shipped-in fresh fruit supplies more limited, Indiana families must rely more upon locally grown foods than in the past. To help conserve these supplies and to prevent food waste, Miss Mary Lenore Moore, DeKalb County home demonstration agent, urges homemakers to can all apples not suitable for storage.

Among those apple varieties which give an especially fine canned product, are Delicious, Golden Delicious and Rome. Turley and Staymen are also good canning varieties.

The apples to be canned may be pared thinly, if desired, then cut into pieces. Placing the fruit in a solution of 2 tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar to a gallon of water, will prevent darkening of the pieces until cooking is begun.

Apples require relatively little sugar for canning. The addition of a little sugar during the five minute precooking period will help draw out the natural juice. The hot, precooked sauce should be packed into sterilized jars to within one-half inch of the top, then covered with boiling juice. If there is insufficient juice, a thin, boiling syrup of one part sugar to three parts of water may be substituted.

Both pint and quart jars should be processed for fifteen minutes in a boiling water bath. The water should be one to two inches above the tops of the jars, and must be kept boiling vigorously during the entire processing time.

Send that soldier boy a new Victory card on sale at News office.

Your CONGRESS and YOU!

NEWS FROM THE OFFICE OF GEORGE W. GILLIE

The FUNDAMENTAL right of a free people to "counsel and advise" their elected representatives on problems of public policy was defended by Rep. George W. Gillie, candidate for re-election, in the opening address of his campaign Friday evening at a Republican rally in Columbia City.

"An issue has arisen in this campaign," Congressman Gillie said, "which I consider genuine and fundamental. It has been raised by my opponent, and it centers around the fundamental right of a free people to petition their elected representatives.

"More specifically, it can be expressed by the simple question: Are the citizens of this District well enough informed to advise and counsel their Congressman on important problems of public policy.

"MY OPPONENT does not believe they are. He believes, and he has so stated, that the people of Northeastern Indiana are, in the words of Harry Hopkins, 'just too dumb to understand'—that they are too ignorant to know what is best for them.

"He has stated that the people he seeks to represent—the mothtrs of sons who have gone to war—were 'wrong' and 'misinformed' when they appealed to me, before Pearl Harbor, to honor my promises and cast my influence on the side of peace.

"He has asserted that I have ignored the voice of my people, and should have supported interventionist policies and measures in violation of sacred pledges, solemnly given.

"Because I refused to do this, and because I gave heed to the expressed desires of my constituents, he now charges that the mothers of this District advised me 'wrongly' and that I am attempting to shift what he calls the 'blame' for my votes against war onto their shoulders.

"MY OPPONENT has said, in effect, that if he is elected to Congress, he will disregard your wishes and mine, and will listen only to the voice of his REAL masters—the New Deal leaders in Washington.

"He has asserted that a Congressman should be some sort of a super man, living in the clouds beyond reach of his numble and 'misinformed' constituency; a God-like creature endowed with all-seeing wisdom; a man ABOVE, rather than OF, the people.

"And he has modestly implied that HE is such a man.

"I SAY TO YOU that this doctrine of an all-seeing, superior 'Leader' is Hitler stuff. It is alien to everything that America stands for.

"It was rejected 150 years ago by our founding fathers, many of whom fled Europe to escape this very philosophy of Government.

"It is being rejected today—on the blood of many battlefields—by millions of American soldiers, fighting in defense of our Republic and of our inalienable right to a 'Government of the people, by the people, and for the people.'

"And it will be rejected—vigorously and overwhelmingly—in the election on Tuesday next.

"It will be rejected by an army here at home, in this District and in every District of the land, marching to the polls under the slogan:

"WIN THE WAR—PRESERVE THE REPUBLIC!"

CLELAND ENDORSED AS CANDIDATE OF C. I. O.

Samuel C. Cleland, New Deal candidate for Congress, had another endorsement this week to add to his endorsements by the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist Party, and the Union for Democratic Action, Communist front "purge" committee.

It is the endorsement of Philip Murray, president of the Congress for Industrial Organization (C. I. O.,) who has named Cleland as the C. I. O. choice for Congress in this District. In support of their candidate, it is reliably reported that the C. I. O. has contributed heavily to the Cleland campaign chest and has financed much of the "smear" literature directed against Rep. George W. Gillie, Republican incumbent.

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 5, 1942 NUMBER 45

From Boys In Service!

Argentia, Nfld.

Dear Fred:

Seeing that I am supposed to stay here for the duration I am writing you to have you send me the St. Joe News for as long as I am here. I am enclosing one dollar for my subscription and hope you will start sending it right way.

It will be good to get the news from home and find out what the people around home are doing. I am enjoying myself very much up here although it is a long way from Indiana. This is a real nice place and have all the facilities of home. Please send paper right away and until I receive the first paper, I remain

Yours truly,
Burl Rude.

October 24, 1942.

St. Joe News,
Dear Fred:

I have a little message for the young men of eighteen and nineteen. It is taken from our Basic Field Manual. I'm hoping it will be helpful to the new men about to enter the Service.

"The Army is made up of free Citizens chosen from among a free people. The American people of their own will, and through the men they have elected to represent them in Congress, have determined that the free institutions of this country will continue to exist. It is upon you, and the many thousands of your comrads now in the military service, that our country has placed its confident faith.

"In the transition from civil life to the life of a soldier you may, at first, feel somewhat confused. Making good as a soldier is no different from making good in civil life. The rule is the same and that is—know your own job and be ready to step into the job of the man ahead of you. Promotion is going to be very rapid in this Army. Be ready for it. The things that a trained soldier must know, and the way in which they are done, will be taught you as rapidly as you can absorb them.

"In making yourself an efficient soldier you are helping to build a defense for our country that nothing can destroy. You are repaying your obligation to the U. S. for all the benefits of the past and are declaring your faith in our future."

Yours truly,
Candidate James R. Maxwell,
2nd Co. O. C. No. 159, 1st Bn.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri Township Farm Bureau met Nov. 3 at 8:00 P. M. in the St. Joe gym with 50 in attendance. Meeting was called to order by Brooks Trenary chairman, all sang "Sing and Smile and Pray," and "The More We Get Together." Were then led in prayer by Mr. Trenary.

Mr. Horace Meek presented the $5.00 Tuberculosis bond to the members asking them to help in the fight against tuberculosis. Motion was made by Mrs. Fred Hart and seconded by John Ulm that we purchase this tuberculosis bond. Secretary's report was then read and approved. This followed with roll call, response being "My favorite Bible verse."

County Agent, C. E. Baker, then gave a few remarks followed with a talk by Mr. C. Stallman, Supt. of Schools. Talked on "Thanksgiving Day," and this proved of interest to all. A comparison of the first Thanksgiving and the Thanksgiving of today was made which proved inspirational to all. He reminded us to be thankful we are American. citizens and of the privileges we have. Fred Hart personally thanked the Tri Township Farm Bureau personally for the gift of cheer sent him some time ago.

Mrs. Horace Meek, S. & E. leader, then took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Fred Hart gave two readings entitled "Out of Doors," and "The Dear Old U. S. A." These readings were much enjoyed by all.

Moving pictures were then presented by County Agent, C. E. Baker, which all seemed to enjoy. The men served lunch of hot dogs and candy bars and this brought the meeting to a close.—Reporter.

REPUBLICANS LEAD ON INDIANA TICKET

Returns from 2,887 of 4,001 Precincts Show Comfortable Leads and in Some Instances Decisive Margins

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Returns from 2,887 of Indiana's 4,001 precincts today showed republicans to be holding comfortable and, in some instances, decisive margins in contests for state offices.

Returns were slow in being reported, particularly in rural areas where voting machines are not used. But the lacking rural vote was expected to bolster GOP margins.

Rue Alexander, Repn., Pine village, held an 80,000-vote advantage over Winfield K. Denton, Dem., Evansville, in the contest for Secretary of state. Tabulations showed: Alexander, 496,550; Denton, 406,018.

Returns showed Richard James, Repn., leading E. Curtis White, Dem., 435,130 to 337,512 in the auditor race.

A broad advantage was held by James E. Givens, Repn., over Harry McLain in the race for treasurer. Tabulations showed: Givens, 395,539; McLain, 303,360.

Dr. Clement T. Malan, Repn., swamped his democratic opponent, Ralph Watson, in the superintendent of public instruction contest.

James Emmert, Shelbyville, was far ahead in the race for attorney generalship. Emmert led George Beamer, 460,465 to 389,765.

Thomas C. Williams, Repn., was an obvious winner over F. Verne Bauldridge, Dem., for clerk of the supreme court.

In the race for supreme court, fourth district, tabulations showed: Martin O'Malley, Repn., with 90,062 votes to 61,054 for Roscoe C. O'Byrne.

GARRETT BARBER, AGE 62, IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Zeno Haver, 62, a well known Garrett barber, died at his home, 200 Britton street, Wednesday morning at 1:40 after a six weeks' illness, most of which time he was bedfast. Death was caused by cardio vascular disease, which is a disease of the circulatory system.

Final rites will be held at the Zimmerman funeral home in Garrett Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Carl G. Adams of the Garrett Methodist church officiating, and burial will be made in Forest Home cemetery at Hicksville, O. The body will be at the residence until Friday noon.

Mr. Haver was born at Mark Center, O., Feb. 8, 1880, and came to Garrett in 1900 taking employment with Leslie Stoner as a barber. In 1906 he bought an interest in the Mitchell H. Olinger barber shop and they operated the business together for more than thirty-six years.

Mr. Haver was a member of Garrett aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, the Modern Woodmen, Ben Hurs, and Journeymen Barbers International Union and the Creek Chub Casting club. Surviving are the widow, Mildred; three children, Miss Beverly Haver at home, Gareald Haver of St. Joe and Miss Ruth Haver of South Bend and three brothers, John Haver of Hicksville and Frank and Charles Haver of Toledo.

REP. GILLIE RE-ELECTED BY MAJORITY OF 21,520 VOTES

Dr. George W. Gillie of Fort Wayne, republican, was sent back to congress for his third term Tuesday by the people of the fourth district by the tremendous margin of 21,520 votes over his democratic rival Samuel C. Cleland, also of Fort Wayne.

This was slightly less than Dr. Gillie's majority in 1940, but the total of votes cast was much smaller this year. However, his majority in DeKalb county, 2,698 was higher this year by more than 200 votes.

The unofficial total vote in the district reported for Dr. Gillie Wednesday was 60,960, as against 39,440 for Cleland. The only county lost by Gillie was Wells, but that was by a margin of only 10 votes.

The majority reported for Gillie in Allen county is reported at 10,399; Adams, 781; LaGrange, 1,661; Noble, 2,410; Steuben, 2,416, and Whitley, 963.

The biggest percentage of victory ever accorded a Fort Wayne mayor was handed Mayor Harry W. Baals Tuesday when he polled 21,442 votes out of an unofficial total of 34,736 votes cast, for a 62 percent triumph and a majority of 8,148 votes. His majority over Harry W Gottschalk, Democratic candidate for mayor, dropped 2,419 from the 1938 figure of 10,567, but the total vote this year was 13,553 under the 48,289 total of four years ago.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe met at the home of Mrs. Fred Hart, Oct. 28th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and the Collect was read in unison.

The lesson on South America was divided into three parts. Mrs. Harvey Hull gave the lesson on Chile and Argentina was in charge of Mrs. C. O. Krise. In time past Argentina and Chile were having trouble over their boundary, after this was settled, a statue was placed on the boundary. The history of this statue known as "The Christ of the Andes" was given by Mrs. C. C. Woodcox.

The critic's report was given by Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Meeting was then adjourned to meet with Mrs. C. O. Krise, Nov. 11.

A depression is a period when people are obliged to do without the things their forefathers never had.

Thoughts are things and they take form into action—therefore think the right thoughts.

The fellow who can't talk without swearing must be just plain dumb. There are 450,000 words in the dictionary, and if he can't learn enought of them to express any idea he may have without using noises not in the dictionary, there's something wrong with him.

NEWS FROM HOME

We are aware in St. Joe of the great interest with which the young men in our armed forces receive their home town paper. Comment reaches us locally and nationally of the appreciation of the boys in getting home town news. Many papers send free copies to the boys, others can give reduced rates, but we are glad to know, that however he gets it, the home town publication looks mighty good to Johnny Doughboy. One chap says it is better than getting a letter from home because as far as news is concerned, he gets more of what's going on in the county. It is a tribute to the paper and every editor is going to try and make news as interesting as possible and give as much of it as there is space.

FAMILY AID ACT NOW IN EFFECT

Weeks ahead of schedule, payments are being made to soldiers' families under the provisions of the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act. This act applies to all soldiers in the four lower grades, that is, private, private first class, technician fifth grade, corporal, technician fourth grade, and sergeant. The Army has spared no effort to get the allowances to these soldiers' families in as short a time as possible.

Official application blanks have been sent to all Army posts, camps and recruiting stations in the United States and to all overseas stations. Soldiers, who are eligible for the family allowance, may obtain these official blanks from their commanding officers. In order to facilitate payments, men in the service are urged to file the application themselves. Don't leave it up to the family!

When the soldier files the application himself, he knows the business has been attended to properly. His officers will help him fill out the application correctly and completely, and can tell him what documentary proof is required.

The family allowance can be approved more quickly if the soldier files the application. His officers will already have made the proper military pay adjustments and have seen to it that all the necessary records are in good order and ready for processing. Also, the soldier is permitted to submit documentary proof to support his application any time within six months after the date he files his application with his commanding officer. During that time, payments can be on their way.

TULAREMIA

A wise hunter knows that a hunting accident is not the only toll for lives during the season. He realizes the importance of rabbit fever, called tularemia, and the figures these last years show that the disease increases each year during the open hunting season. The death rate is only about one in twenty cases reported, but the illness is unpleasant, being painful and long lasting. The rabbit which seems too tame, too willing to wait for capture, is a rabbit that is sick. Watch him. Tho tularemia is common among wild rabbits and is spreading, it doesn't mean that man can't control the situation. Infection comes generally when there is a break in the skin of the person handling an infected rabbit. Also, if a rabbit is not properly cooked you can contract the disease by eating the meat. Watch this.

KEEP 'EM ROLLING

Solving the rubber problem demands maximum cooperation on the part of the government, industry, and the public at large.

In the brief period in which Mr. Jeffers has had charge of the rubber program, he has cut a great deal of the red tape that delayed and blocked progress in the past. His office, working with the Office of Defense Transportation, is aggressively pushing for results. It is to be hoped that politics is kept out of the way—and that the defeatists who say that this country must reconcile itself to doing without motor transportion will keep their mouths shut.

The industries which are involved in the rubber program are doing an excellent job. The oil industry has vastly expanded its facilities for the production of synthetic rubber, and has simplified, improved and accelerated the manufacturing process. The tire companies are now making casings out of reclaimed rubber and synthetic rubber which gave fair service if properly used. And chemical companies are increasing their production of synthetic rubbers made from coal, grain alcohol, etc.

The experts are convinced that American ingenuity, American chemical genius, and American production methods can provide enough rubber to keep our vital automobiles rolling. In the meantime, the obligation of the public is clear. We should cheerfully accept the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit. No one should waste rubber on unnecessary driving. And every car owner should have his tires periodically inspected, and switched about on the wheels so that maximum mileage may be obtained.

No nation on earth is so dependent on individual transportation. Our cars will be kept on the road if the synthetic rubber program is freed of the dead hand of bureaucracy, and the public will practice rigid conservation.

BUTCHERING DAYS

Rural America comes to butchering days in November, familiar to News readers who think of it as a festival of equal importance with autumn fairs, or a church social. This is a rite of fall, the hanging of hogs, ready to be cut up into back-bone, spareribs, tenderloin, and sausage. Though city dwellers might be a bit squeamish over the display, we like the butchering-bee where families and friends gather to help in the work and afterwards sit and visit with the folks. But perhaps the city fellow who doesn't relish the butchering likes the meat that goes with dumplings, backbone and spareribs. Perhaps they will accompany sauer kraut, homemade bread, browned potatoes and gravy. So, though you may be fastidious before the meal, the sight of such an array of tempting morsels would make anyone's mouth water. Not many folks around here would turn down an invitation to a butchering day in the country. With meat rationing just around the corner, the custom of butchering a number of hogs for family use, may be changed.

With reduced auto driving your chances for getting from one side of the street to the other, are much better.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Indiana is now in the middle of another phase of the drive for scrap to build up mill stock piles for winter's war production. This time all owners of jalopies—Americanese for a car that is on its last few wheezes or has given up with a sigh—are asked to turn them in as scrap.

They can get some small money for them, but the money will in no way measure the service the owners will be rendering the government, i. e., themselves.

American Legion posts are undertaking to put spirit into the program, and Legionnaires, who have been repeatedly called upon for such services, are surveying their own areas for the drive.

This drive is expected to round up a considerable amount of much-needed, scrap and if you own a jalopy, you are expected to help.

All new farm machinery and equipment, except repair parts, have been frozen under a temporary rationing order issued by Secretary of Agriculture Claude B. Wickard. The order will remain in effect until state and county quotas are established as a basis for a permanent rationing order.

Approximately 1,000,000 Hoosier motorists will visit their nearest high school on November 9, 10 or 11 to receive their Basic "A" gasoline rationing book. Application forms, including tire inspection record, can now be obtained from filling stations. They MUST be filled out before taking them to the school site. Otherwise they will be refused.

Practically every Indiana grocer reported a run on his coffee counter even before plans for coffee rationing, effective November 29, was announced. Some merchants reported they were offered as much as a dollar a pound for coffee. This excessive buying by customers was one of the prime reasons for rationing.

Dim outs and black outs are rapidly becoming commonplace with most Indiana citizens. Cities which started with dim outs are now having complete black outs. The area covered has also greatly expanded. Formerly certain sections of a city were affected. Now it's entire counties.

The first ship built in the yards at Evansville was launched this week. A ribboned bottle of champagne was smashed across the bow of the newest type naval auxiliary craft to give it a proper christening. However, the ceremonies were viewed only by invited guests and shipyard employees because of Navy restrictions against public launchings.

Hoosiers are again urged by the Office of Defense Transportation to get in their winter's supply of coal. The soaring of coal has been found lagging in a number of Indiana communities. Deliveries by retail dealers in some cities are already becoming irregular.

Thirteen hundred seniors in Gary's eight high schools will have a strictly war curriculum beginning next semester. The program was proposed by the U. S. Victory Corps, a division of the Federal Security Agency. The program provides three hours a day of war training and four hours of related subjects including physical training, science, refresher courses in mathematics and economics or social problems.

For boys, the three hours a day offer a choice between metal crafts, machine operation, automobile mechanics, electricity and radio.

For girls the courses will be 10 weeks of home nursing and 10 weeks of child care, or 20 weeks of nutrition and home management problems.

Indiana's newest city is Kingsbury Heights, a model city, serving employees of the Kingsbury Ordnance plant. The first of 12,000 persons to occupy the war community will move in by the first of the year. Six months ago the site of the new city was 775 acres of corn land in the south end of LaPorte county.

The city will be complete in every detail with three grade schools, stores, theatres, playgrounds, churches, police and fire deparments, water works, sewage plant and dwellings for 3,150 families, of which 2,621 units are now completed.

The gomernment has built, owns and will operate the property. None of the houses are to be sold. Rental fees are to be based on the economic ability of the tenant to pay. Residents of the community will determine its form of government and elect their own officials.

NOVEMBER

ARMISTICE DAY—November 11, 1918—ended the "war-to-end-war."

This stirring event, symbolized by the above cheering crew of one of the guns of Battery D, 105th Regiment Field Artillery, 79th Division of the American Expeditionary Force, was snapped after the last shot had been fired at Etraye, in the Meuse sector.

The Armistice, however, was little more than a temporary truce for a strife-torn world. Every year since then has seen nations conducting some semblance of war. In the beginning most wars were "undeclared" or were gently labeled as "incidents." In chronological order they follow:

IBN SAUD

During 1918 and 1919 the Poles and Ukranians fought for control of Eastern Galicia, which was finally awarded to Poland for 25 years. The latter year—1919—saw Russia torn apart. The Red Russians crushed the White Russians, led by Admiral Kolchak in Siberia, General Deniken in the South, and General Yudenich in Estonia, all of whom were aided by the Allies.

IRISH FREE STATE BORN

Guerrilla warfare broke out in Ireland in 1919, continuing to 1921. The treaty of peace resulted in the long-demanded Irish Free State. From 1919 to 1926 was the Spanish war in the Riff (Morocco), and starting the same year were the conquests in Arabia by Ibn Saud, who drove King Husain from his throne at Mecca.

Russia attacked Poland in March of 1920, threatening Warsaw. They were defeated by the Poles in October. The same year Turkey attacked the Armenian republic, capturing Kars and Alexandropol and securing direct access to Russia. China, too, was disrupted by internal strife during the early twenties, when confused fighting took place among rival army generals.

CHINESE WARRIOR

In 1921-22 the Greeks invaded Asia Minor but were defeated by the Turks in a month of battle on the Sakaria river. Symrna was burned with a loss of $200,000,000 and many inhabitants were massacred. Two struggles began in 1925. First was the Druse rebellion in Syria against French administration, during which Damascus was bombarded. Second was the prolonged struggle between Bolivia and Paraguay over rival claims to Chaco. This ended ten years later.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK

From 1926 to 1928 was the activity of Kuomintang, Communist and Nationalist forces in China. The moderates established Republican headquarters at Nanking. In 1931-32 the Japanese invaded Manchukuo, drove out the Chinese governor and set up Henry Pu-yi, last of the Manchu dynasty, as emporer. The latter year saw furious fighting in Shanghai between 50,000 Japanese and 120,000 Chinese. Damage to the city was estimated at $350,000,000.

SPAIN'S CIVIL WAR BEGINS

Italy's "valiant legions" conquered Ethiopia in 1935 and 1936, sounding a more ominous note to the world. Spain's civil war broke out in 1936

WHITE-SHROUDED FINNISH GUNNERS

when General Franco, with Nazi and Fascist support, led a rebellion against the Spanish republic, which received assistance from Soviet Russia. The bitter civil war ended in March, 1939.

In 1937 Japan invaded Northern China and sent warships and troops to Shanghai, where a grave conflict developed when the Chinese republic at Nanking organized strong resistance. The following year Hitler annexed Austria in a "bloodless conquest." Czechoslovakia was dismembered.

GREAT BRITAIN DECLARES WAR

In 1939 Italy conquered Albania and Poland was partitioned for the fourth time by Germany and Russia after Hitler invaded the country.

On September 3, 1939, Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in Parliament that a state of war existed between Great Britain and Germany. In November of that year Russia mobilized troops on the Finnish border north of Leningrad and war began between those two countries.

On December 8, 1942, the United States declared war on Japan. This declaration was followed immediately by a declaration of war upon Germany and Italy.

The trio stole chickens in Allen county, Sheriff Artus Coyle of DeKalb county and Allen county officers report. Ladig also is said to have been the driver of a truck that left the scene after striking Frank Beck, 15, in Ft. Wayne. The vehicle ran over the youth's foot. Sheriff Coyle states that Mrs. Enzor saw the thieves taking turkeys from a field near the house just at daybreak Oct. 25. Five of the turkeys were found in the possession of Ladig and his accomplices, but they claimed two of the fowls got away. Ladig faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The office of price administration will exercise no control over serving of coffee in restaurants, but the decrease in available supplies probably will bring consumption down to the cup-a-day limit set for those who drink coffee at home. Already restaurants have been limited to 65 per cent of normal purchase, which figure corresponds closely to the 62 per cent of normal home consumption expected to result from the rationing program beginning November 28.

Two telephone operators from Hamilton and three from Butler office were Thursday callers of Marjorie Ramsey at the central office here, and brought with them a luncheon for her. NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Announcement has been made by Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent, that the home management extension project members of DeKalb county will meet November 6 in the Auburn Court House Assembly Room at 10 A. M. with Miss Ines E. Kent of Purdue University to learn how to make "wash day easier." Knowing wise rules for laundering can stretch both dollars in family budgets and the life of clothes.

Miss Kent will discuss water softeners, soaps, how to prevent clothes from fading, and how to simplify ironing.

A practical demonstration of the laundering of knitted and silk materials will be given.

REPUBLICANS GAIN ONE INDIANA SEAT

Assured of at Least Nine Representatives in Congress and Still have a Chance in Eleventh District

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Indiana republicans were virtually assured today of nine seats in congress, one more than they won in the 1940 election, and with the 11th district race narrowed to only three precincts still had a chance to make it 10 out of a total of 11 seats for the state.

By late afternoon the 11th district contest betwen Democratic Congressman Louis Ludlow and his republican opponent, Howard M. Meyer, had been tabulated in 363 of the district's 366 precincts and Ludlow led by a margin of 610 votes. The count stood Ludlow 78,811, Meyer 78,201.

The only democrat to have a sure victory was Ray Madden in the 1st district who defeated Republican Samuel Cullison 44,367 to 38,828 in the state's most highly industrialized section.

Although tabulations were not complete in all other districts, near-complete returns showed no democrat to have even a remote chance to win.

Nearly complete returns in the second district gave Charles Halleck, incumbent republican, a margin of nearly 20,000 votes while in the third only seven precincts of more than 300 remained to be reported with Robert Grant, incumbent republican, holding a lead of more than 15,000 votes.

Complete returns from the fourth district returned Republican George Gillie to congress by a vote of 60,960 to 39,440 over Samuel Cleland, democrat.

In the fifth district, Rep. Forest Harness, republican, was steadily increasing his lead over Edward C. Hays, democrat, on the basis of about three-fourths of the precincts, while Republican Rep. Noble Johnson of the 6th held a margin of nearly 19,000 votes over Floyd McMurray, democrat.

The seventh and ninth districts were going heavily republican in favor of Congressmen Gerald Landis and Earl Wilson, both republicans, over O. A. Noland and Capt. Roy Huckleberry.

OWNERS OF AUTOS TO REGISTER AT SCHOOLS

Gasoline rationing registration will be handled in all the schools of DeKalb county Nov. 12, 13, 14, as announced by Herman L. Brown, of Auburn, executive secretary of the county war price and rationing board.

Persons affected include all passenger car or truck operators, as well as anyone who uses gasoline for any other purpose, as for a tractor, stove, stationary engine, etc.

Applicants are to report to the nearest school building. The board asks that you register early if possible to avoid a last day jam. According to Mr. Brown, there are 8,500 passenger cars and 1,000 trucks to be registered, in addition to registrations for other uses. Persons who fail to appear on Nov. 12 13, or 14 will receive no consideration for gasoline until Nov. 23, the day after rationing goes into effect. The city schools probably will be open for registration during afternoons and evenings Nov. 12, 13 and 14 and the country schools during evenings only, Mr. Brown said.

Following are instructions:

Before reporting at the school to register, obtain an application blank at any filling station and fill it out. The teachers and other persons handling the registration will not have time to fill out your application for you.

On the application blank there is no place for the number of your government use tax stamp. Write that number in the space after the serial number of your tires.

Bring your state vehicle registration card with you. This card was issued to you with your new license plates.

Concerning holders of O. D. T. cards calling for certain amounts of gasoline, the board is not able to raise the quota, Mr. Brown said.

LOCAL ENTRIES MADE FOR MARKET SHOW

DeKalb County is among the many Indiana counties that will be represented by exhibitors at the Chicago Market Fat Stock and Carlot Competition, to be held at the Chicago Stock Yards December 2 to 5.

Carl D. Carpenter, of north of St. Joe, has sent entries for nine head of Spotted Poland China barrows he will exhibit in the swine classes of this event, for which entries have been received, to date, from stockmen and farm youths in 18 Indiana counties and from 12 other states and Canada.

The market show, sponsored by the Union Stock Yard and Transit Company, operators of the Chicago market, will take the place of the 1942 International Live Stock Exposition, which was cancelled by action of its Board of Directors last Spring as a war measure.

The show wil include a junior live stock feeding contest, featuring baby beeves, lambs, and pigs that have been fed and fitted by farm boys and girls between 10 and 20 years old.

The open competition will comprise all of the fat stock classes that in past years have made up an important part of the International Stock Show. These are the carload lot and individual animal classes for steers, lambs, and hogs.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The local Lions Club held their semi-monthly meeting at the Akins tea room, Monday evening. The inclement weather cut the attendance somewhat, but the interest was good and those in attendance were well rewarded for their presence.

Lion Ralph Sechler introduced D. Messenger, of Auburn, chairman of Civilian Defense for DeKalb County. Mr. Messenger is a busy man, but he is giving liberally of his time and ability to civilian defense work. He now has headquarters in the surveyor's office and his secretary Mrs. Thomas, is there to take care of the detail work.

Using charts, he thoroughly explained the numerous defense branches. DeKalb county is well organized and exceptional work is being done. Should the time ever come that this part of the county is attacked or invaded, our enemies will find us well prepared. Nine hundred and eighty-one people are now defense workers in DeKalb county. They are freely giving their time and effort that we might be prepared for any emergency.

Lion Billow reported the St. Joe scrap heap has reached the 56-ton stage. Spencerville exceeded that amount, but the exact figures are not available.

RALEIGH R. WYATT DIES AT AGE OF 61

An extended heart illness was fatal at 5:35 o'clock Monday morning to Raleigh R. Wyatt at his home, 316 West Nineteenth Street, Auburn. Mr. Wyatt had been in failing health since early last June, and he had been confined to his home most of the time since mid-September.

Mr. Wyatt was born in Medina county, Ohio, and had he lived until Nov. 25 he would have observed his 62nd birthday anniversary. He and his wife moved to Auburn from their Allen county farm in 1914 and established the Wyatt flower gardens. Mr. Wyatt was active in the flower business until his health failed last Spring.

The deceased was a member of the Wittenberg Brotherhood and the Methodist Church. He was president of the men's class of the church.

He is survived by his wife, Anna, to whom he was married in 1904; a son, George Wyatt, of Garrett; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Frances Bauer, of Fort Wayne, and four grandchildren.

Services were held at 2 P. M. Wednesday at the Dilgard funeral home. Rev. Harry A. P. Homer of the Methodist Church officiated, and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

TO HOLD UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The Churches of St. Joe and the neighboring Churches will hold a union Thanksgiving Service again this year similar to the one held last year. The place and date will be announced later.

Last year an offering was taken for China Relief. The proceeds amounted to a little more than thirty dollars. This year we hope to do even better. Let us begin now to think about and prepare for a Thanksgiving that will help a people who are fighting for similar principles that brought about our own Thanksgiving Day. Let us put a meaning into it by helping someone else.

THANKS TO VOTERS

Thanks to the Voters of Spencer, Concord and Newville Townships for the generous vote given me in the election on Nov. 3, for the office of Sheriff of DeKalb County.

TO CALL FAMILY MEN TO FILL QUOTA

State selective service headquarters announced today that Indiana local boards will induct married men in order to fill their December calls.

Col. Robinson Hitchcock, state selective service director, said, "Substantially all local boards in this state have reported that the supply of available single men will be exhausted by the November calls. National Headquarters has been informed that the induction of married men is scheduled for December."

Some single men who are key workers in essential industries will not be inducted at the present time, Col. Hitchcock explained, as trained replacements for them cannot be found immediately. However, he asserted that these men, if otherwise eligible, will be called as soon as they can be replaced.

He also reminded registrants that their financial contributions to dependents, except in a few highly unusual cases, are no longer considered by local boards in the process of inducting men. Monetary allowances made available by the Government will provide for the fundamental needs of such dependents except in a small number of grave personal hardship cases, he said.

ATTENTION PARENTS AND CHURCH SCHOOL WORKERS

The DeKalb County Council of Christian Education is sponsoring the Sixth Annual Training Institute for the Children's Division.

Institute to be held November 20, at the Auburn Christian Church, beginning at 10 A. M. Carry-in dinner at the noon hour and afternoon session beginning at 1 P. M.

This is an unusual opportunity for workers with children in the Church School and parents to equip themselves with best methods for the spiritual guidance of their children.

The President of our Nation, Governors and statesmen have stressed the vital importance of Christian Education for present crisis and meeting the needs of the future.

Watch your newspaper for complete program arrangements and plan to be present November 20!

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lamle, of three miles west of St. Joe, residing on the Berry farm, will have a public sale on Friday, Nov. 20, selling all their stock, farming tools and some household goods, after which they will return to Ft. Wayne.

Life, after all, contains only one great problem—that of so adjusting yourself to the inevitable that you can keep your peace of mind and your self-respect. The great victory of life is the conquest of worry. The greatest discovery a man can make is how to escape envy and hate.—Douglas Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr celebrated their regular Thanksgiving turkey dinner Saturday, having it early in honor of Private Ellsworth Morr, who was home on a furlough. The following guests were present: Miss Doris Doswell, of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Cleota Crick and son, Bobby, of Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Rober Morr and sons, Larry and Dicky, of Auburn. These same guests were entertained at the Robert Morr home in Auburn on Friday evening for supper.

TRY THIS

Write the numbers: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Pick out any one of these numbers and multiply by 9. Take 6 for example. 9 x 6 is 54, using the figures 12345 6789 as one number, multiply it by 54. You will be surprised at the result.

King Turkey Prepares for Inevitable

For at least one day during the year the turkey supplants the eagle as America's national bird. The well-dressed turkey of 1942 will be no different than in the past—but his relatives will be shipped to all parts of the world to feed American soldiers, sailors and marines on the nation's traditional holiday. Pictured here, King Turkey looks on as members of his court receive their fattening rations. Several years ago 50 per cent of America's turkey crop found its way to the table on one day—Thanksgiving. Thirty-eight per cent was consumed at Christmastime, and the other 12 per cent throughout the year. In recent years the latter percentage has increased appreciably.

SQUIRES—DRAGGOO

Orange V. Squires near Rehoboth Methodist Church, and Harriett Draggoo of St. Joe, R. 1, were united in marriage Sunday, Nov. 8, at 6 P. M. at the home of the bride in Concord.

Orange V. Squires is a very successful farmer, and Mrs. Squires is superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School at Concord.

Their friends and neighbors wish them happiness in marriage. They will make their home on the farm of the bridegroom near RehobothChurch. Their friends are very cordially invited to call on them.

MORTUARY

AYERS

Myrtle Dell Ayers, age 72 years, 8 months and 2 days, died Monday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Killian, one mile north of Newville U. B. Church, after a continued illness. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Killian, she leaves four sons, Clarence, Donald, Willard, and Lewis Ayers. The funeral will be held from the Newville Church of Christ Thursday afternoon at 2:30, with burial in Forrest Home Cemetery at Hicksville, Richard Rupp in charge.

Wolcottville School Fire

Fire of unknown origin early Monday morning swept through the school building at Wolcottville, completely gutting the old half of the building. Damage from smoke and water was heavy in an addition to the school built several years ago. The fire is believed to have started in the janitor's room in the basement or in the boiler room around 2 A. M. Damage in the basement of the building was heavy, but was negligible in the school gymnasium. Harry Kinsey, former St. Joe resident, is principal of the school.

Dear Mother, Dad and All:

As there isn't anything going on around here today, the only thing to do is to catch up on your writing. Yesterday was our first at K. P. duty and what I mean there is a lot of work connected with it.

To give you some idea of the amount of eats they use, here are a few items they used just for yesterday: 690 dozen eggs, 3200 pounds potatoes, 4500 steaks, 410 pounds spinach, 490 pounds butter, 6 crates of lettuce, 2 crates of celery, 2 crates of tomatoes, 1200 loaves of bread and 1260 quarts of milk. Served 12,600 meals and there were 105 fellows doing K. P. duty.

While in the kitchen I ran across Bob Burns from Spencerville, or rather he noticed me first. I just received a letter from Effiebel this morning. Am enclosing a few pictures that one of the fellows took the other day.

A FARM CARGO

We are pleased to pass on the official report concerning one of our ocean freighters which carried a cargo of American farm products abroad. It eluded subs and finally made port in Ireland with dried eggs, cheese, lard, canned and cured pork, dried and condensed milk, flour and canned vegetables. This was just an average cargo but our agricultural secretary informs us that this one load represents a year's production of about 3,800 average American farms. It is something for St. Joe folks to think about, that number of farms that entered into this cargo. It is heartening to every man who toils and sweats on the land, who labors for long hours in field and barn, to think that his efforts are reaching their port, that the suffering of others is being lifted in just one load alone—through 3,800 farms.

TO THE DONUT

Twenty-five years ago this fall, two canteen workers of the First World War, handed out the small round cakes with the hole in the middle which we call a donut. As they commemorate this event, we are reminded that to the American doughboy then, the donut stood as a symbol of home and family. These donuts were served to 800 home-sick soldiers in the fall of 1917 in a French village. The canteen women figured that homemade donuts would do the cheering up and so came the close association of doughboys and donuts with the years not breaking the tie. Today it may not be as popular an item since its homemade variety in many American homes, has given way to the commercial product, but even so, the donut is still handed out today in canteens throughout this country and on almos every front.

HUSKING THE CORN

There are all types of sporting events attracting crowds in certain localities. There are exhibits of strength, endurance, perception and dexterity, carrying glory to the participants and bringing fame to the sport. One of the big events which sometimes goes unnoticed yet which calls for expectional control and is a really tough job, is the National Corn Husking Contest. Although it gives farm equipment manufacturers a chance to promote their products, the main bout itself is what gets the most attention and brings a national champion each year. This husking contest may not have the widespread interest of other sports but for sheer strength it doesn't have to give way to any of them. It is a non-stop contest, with 80 minutes of ripping of husks, plunking ears on bangboards midst the roar of tractors and the excited yelling of the watching crowd.

A FAMOUS ADDRESS

On Nov. 19, 1863, at a place in Pennsylvania, thousands of people attended the dedication exercises of a new national cemetery. The most famous orator of that day, a man named Edward Everett, gave the prinpical address which occupied approximately two hours of the day's service. Mr. Everett spoke convincingly and eloquently and appealed to his listeners with his evident educational experience in the field of oratory. On the same program another gentleman spoke, from some notes he had jotted down hurriedly on the back of an envelope he carried in a pocket. Not with the grace of bearing of the main orator, uttering only 275 words which took about three minutes time, this gentleman by the name of Abraham Lincoln, was also heard by the assembly at the new national cemetery. But he was to be heard beyond all Pennsylvania, beyond the moment itself, words that passed to generations to come, reaching millions of people beyond, a three-minute address cherished through all years to come. You perhaps ask why should a renowned orator, whose discourse Lincoln himself praised, why his address should be overshadowed by the Gettysburg Address of Abraham Lincoln. Read it carefully, noting its simplicity and its utter sincerity. Authorities say nothing in it could have been omitted and it left out nothing that should be included. It will never die, these 270 words!

BLUNT TRUTH

Agriculture is one of our most essential industries, but it remains the orphan of the war effort, notwithstanding the political uproar that has surrounded its problems.

Manpower is the most critical of these problems, plus a lack of faith by the dirt farmers in the ability of the Washington swivel-chair farmers.

The Dairymen's League Cooperative Association of New York recently published some figures relative to thousands of producers going out of business that make grave reading for the consumer. The blunt truth is that our farmers either will be given the opportunity to produce, or we will starve. And if we wait much longer, we will suffer severely becaues it takes years to replace a good milk cow that has been slaughtered for beef.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The Federal Government has taken over approximately 210,000 acres of Indiana land for war projects and Army and Navy bases. This does not include the thousands of additional acres acquired by private industries for expansion purposes.

Acreage acquired by the Government is equal to the area of an average Hoosier county.

The largest tract of land, approximately 60,000 acres, was acquired for the Jefferson Proving Ground with headquarters at Madison. Upwards of 40,000 acres have been purchased to date for Camp Atterbury at Edinburg, and the East Coast Naval Ammunition Depot at Burns City.

November 12, 13, and 14 are the days set for Hoosiers to go to their nearest school site and obtain Basic "A" rationing books for gasoline. Application blanks, which can be obtained from filling stations and garages, must be filled out completely when they are presented to registrars at the schools.

A relic of the "horse and buggy" days is being revived in Indiana to stimulate sales of war bonds. Now known as Bond Auctions these affairs have all the earmarks of the old country store, once popular at most social events. Down at Anderson recently one of Governor Shricker's famous white hats was sold for $2,500. The purchaser, of course, received that amount in war bonds in addition to the hat.

Take good care of that safety razor because no more will be manufactured for civilian use, probably for the duration. They can be purchased now only for military use for export or for lend-lease purposes.

Production of razor blades next year will be twelve per cent greater than the 1940 output, but twenty per cent less than the 1941 output, which was a record breaking year with more than 3,000,000,000 blades produced. Next year, blade production will be approximately 2,750,000,000.

If you don't register for fuel oil rationing until after Nov. 1st, there will be no penalty, because of delays in printing of application forms. The procedure is that you will receive the proportion of the ration required for the degree days remaining in the heating season from the actual date of registration, less the inventory on hand at that dae. You will also receive consumer coupons to be surrendered to your dealer for deliveries since October 1. In no case, however, will the total coupon issuance exceed the maximum ration to which you would have been entitled had you registered before November 1st.

Ordinarily when the last growing crop is harvested, the farmer can settle down to indoor work such as getting his machinery in shape for spring plantings. Not so this year.

Already those who are in charge of the scrap collection campaign have an eye on the farm. You might as well be prepared to go over your land again for any scrap metal that would do better in war production lines. And all scrap metal that's usable is valuable now only if it is on the way to the mills or being precessed.

Meat slaughtered on farms for home use should be counted in the two and a half pounds weekly sharing allowance.

As you know, all farmers in the nation are being asked to contribute alike to the voluntary "Share the Meat" program by keeping weekly meat consumption to two and a half pounds per person over twelve years of age. Farmers should count home slaughtered meat as a part of the sharing allowance as well as the meat they buy at the local retail meat shops.

This applies to the meat from slaughtered cattle, hogs, calves and sheep.

To avoid waste when large supplies of home slaughtered meat are temporarily available, such as at butchering times, farmers may find it necessary to consume a larger volume. But as an average of the year, their consumption should be held to two and one-half pounds per person per week.

Carry-over note: Don't forget that The Lions Club still is looking for jalopies that either aren't able to get on the road or shouldn't be there. They belong in the war production line and should be sold for scrap. Deliver any and all junk to the St. Joe and Spencerville Elevators where you will receive cash payment.

Another Red Cross first aid class will be organized in St. Joe should there be sufficient interest shown. Register at St. Joe Filling Station if interested.

Stockpiles like this are needed all over the country so that our Government can plan our armament program—and our mills and plants can deliver the fighting tools!

Get in on the drive that starts today. Get the unused metal out of your cellar, your attic, your garage, your place of business. Without this scrap the Nation's steel mills must shut down, for all new steel is 50% scrap, and the mills have not enough for even 30 days more.

And one more thing. Help to stop the story — spread by innocents and ill-wishers alike—that there is lots of scrap already on hand. They point to junk yards, auto graveyards, and salvage depots that have not been cleaned out, as proof that there is no shortage. Kill this talk before it kills our boys!

In spite of the terrible lack of scrap, here is why you may still find full junk yards and scrap depots—and why they must be kept that way!

1. All scrap must be sorted, stripped, and broken up by scrap dealers before it can be used. Their yards are full because they are busy—preparing your scrap for the mills as fast as they possibly can!
2. Auto graveyards strip autos, keep the usable parts and junk the rest—turning out 450,000 tons of scrap in a typical month. Each must scrap within 60 days as many cars as he buys—that is the law!
3. Scrap collections sometimes have to stay around because the dealers can't handle them all immediately. Even if they could, the mills could not store it all. The local salvage depot is a stockpile—where your scrap is available for instant use as soon as it's needed. And it will be needed!

WHOSE BOY WILL DIE BECAUSE YOU FAILED?

Remember if these places become empty, the mills shut down — and we lose the war!

So get out your scrap and help your neighbors with theirs. It's the greatest single contribution you can make right now to win the war!

"The Just Shall Live by FAITH"

(Hab. 2:4; Ro. 1:17; Gal. 3:11; Heb. 10:38)

Speaking on the occasion of the 425th. anniversary of the beginning of the Protestant Reformation, Pastor Frank Stevenson addressed the local Lutheran congregation on this Scriptural theme of that great movement, declaring in part as follows:

The distinctiveness and daring of the Reformation message can be fully appreciated only when heard against the religious conditions out of which and against which it rang. Today, because the Roman church has removed and lessened many of the old abuses and because many Protestant churches have relapsed into pre-Reformation errors, there is often little apparent difference between them in practice, but wherever the message of the reformers has been preserved in the Church, there are still proclaimed the same cardinal principles which forced the original parting of the ways over four hundred years ago, and which prevent any re-union today.

The Reformation msssage was neither a new one nor the sudden revival of an old one. It was the messave as old and eternal as God's Word. It was anticipated in the message of the prophets and had its fulfilment in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. It was, "The just shall live by faith." Throughout the medieval age other reformers had attempted to restore the teachings of the Bible to the chief place of authority then assumed by the corrupted Church, but they were persecuted unto death and failure for lack of popular support. As early as 1170 a group of reformers under the leadership of Peter Waldo in Southern France (Lyons) had enunciated and put into practice all the reforms later proclaimed effectually in the Protestant Reformation of the 16th. cenury. They translated the Bible into the language of the people, rejected the priesthood as unnecessary, claimed for all believers the right to administer the sacrements (baptism and communion,) and to study and preach the Gospel, and renounced indulgences, adoration of the saints and other forms of external religion as useless for the salvation of men's souls. They failed to extend their reforms to other communities but a direct influence can be traced from the Waldenses in France through John Huss in Bohemia to Martin Luther in Germany many years later.

By Luther's day there was wide-spread dissatisfaction with the distorted religion fostered by the hierarchy of the Church. He appeared on the scene in the fulness of time. Naturally endowed with a keen mind, a strong will, and a sensitive conscience, he took up the torch of faith and declared fearlessly before the whole world what others had concluded privately and what he had experienced in the laboratory of his own soul. And, because he was proteceted by the secular government in defiance of the papal decrees, he was able to rally the waiting masses for throwing off the galling yoke of Rome.

The conflict known as the Protestant Reformation or the Evangelical Revival was essentially a major conflict between religion and the Gospel,—religion being man's approach to God and the Gospel being God's approach to man. The major premise of reformers was the Sepremacy of the Bible in matters of faith and morals, and in all phases of the conflict they proclaimed its message as their stand before God and man. The three great truths which they deducted from the Scriptures and which are still proclaimed in all truly evangelical churches paralled the three activities of Apostolic faith, and served to restore God above the Church as the object of faith.

The Roman church had replaced faith in the Father with faith in the fathers, she had replaced faith in Christ with faith in priests and saints and the Virgin Mary, and had repressed faith in the Holy Spirit by demanding implicit faith in her interpretation of the Scriptures. Against these corruptions of the truth the Reformers unfurled their triple banner —salvation by the Grace of God, universal priesthood in Christ, and the reliability of private judgment under the guidance of the Spirit. When prefaced by the great theme of the Reformation they read as follows:

The just shall live by faith in God the Father who saves us by His Grace;

The just shall live by faith in God the Son who opened to all the Holy of Holies;

The just shall live by faith in God the Holy Spirit who leads into all truth.

By such a faith alone can one have the assurance of forgiveness desired by all who have been made conscious of their sins. Without such faith one must trust in the works of his hands, the manipulations of selfappointed priests, and the conditional promises of an institution, none of which can relieve the guilty conscience nor rectify its relationship with God. Works can polish the external life of a man but only faith in God can cleanse his spirit and make him whole within.

The preservation of and our adherence to these three great principles of religious liberty are evidenced here today (1) by the unguarded doors which signify the right of all to enter in response to God's call; (2) by the open chancel which signifies the right of every believer to come before the throne of God without intermediaries; (3) by the open Bible which is your invitation to read and which signifies the right of private judgment for all who read with reverent minds. And outside the Church are also fruits of these same principles applied to society in general. Public school, hospitals, and democratic forms of government, and, indeed, all the religious and civil liberties which we are fighting to preserve and extend today, are direct results of the Reformation in that it pulled down the idols of Roman traditions which had demanded submission and gave back to the people the Word of God which inspires a life of service.

Both evil and good have resulted from this attempt to reform the Church. The Church suffered Her second major division; religious persecutions destroyed thousands of lives; and the new birth of freedom gave rise to excessive individualism in faith and life. But, in the wake of the Reformation. Faith in God has replaced superstitution; Worship by the people has replaced pageantry for the people; Service in the world had replaced monkery in the monastery; and the Parsonage has replaced the Priests' quarters as the index of Christian living.

If you are inclined to think that the Protestant Reformation was an ancient controversy having no significance for you today, make this simple test for your own satisfaction: Contrast the pattern of life today in our own and other nations which have been leavened by the free Word of God with the pattern of life in those nations which have never escaped the stagnating traditions of the church of Rome. Men have to live by faith in God or they will rot in submission to other men, be they politicians or priests. Take your choice, but as for me, I will believe in God,—Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Amen.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

A local woman is unusual. She thinks that her two year old son is just an ordinary normal boy.

A Radio Broadcast will be given by Mary Lenore Moore on Saturday, Nov. 14, over radio station WOWO. The broadcast will be on Safety or Household Economy to help win the war. Appearing on the program with Miss Moore as guests will be Mrs. Sadie Krise, DeKalb county home economics president and Mrs. Bertha Korff, Grant township home economics president for 1943.

Mrs. John Nicholson and daughter left Sunday for a two weeks visit at Clarksburg, W. Va., with relatives.

Thomas and Leon Hartranft, of Elkhart, spent Wednesday with their brother, Ed and family and spent the day hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Zimmerman, of Ft. Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz, spent the weekend touring Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley gave a dinner party last Friday reminding Mrs. J. P. Buckingham of her 71st birthday. Those present were Mrs. Mary Sechler, Mr. J. P. Buckingham, Merritt Sechler and Mrs. Wm. Staman.

Sunday dinner guests of F. B. Leighty and wife were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Frank, of Reading, Mich., Mrs. Vina Quance, Fred Quance, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and daughters, Mary Ann and Helen, of Auburn, and Mrs. Loretta Hull. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. George Gelhausen, of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Quance and little son, of Ft. Wayne.

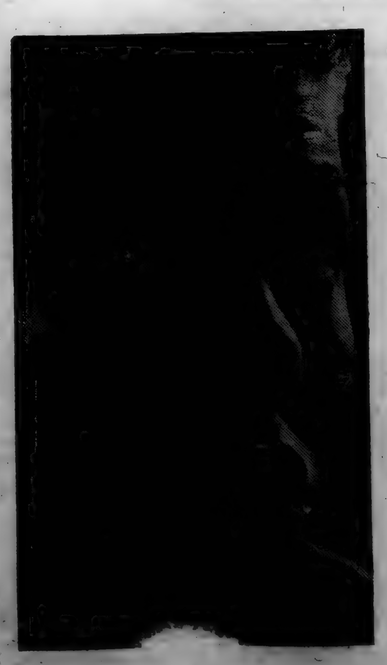
A flip of a coin Monday afternoon gave the office of trustee of Smithfield township to Lee R. Wise, for another term of four years. In the presence of the candidates, Mr. Wise and Lewis Bonbrake, the county election board, the two party chairmen and County Clerk, a coin was tossed and according to decision, tails were to win. With Mr. Wise declared elected, DeKalb county now has 5 Democrat and 10 Republican trustees.

Howard Guilford, of Connersville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Guilford, died at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at a hospital in Connersville. He was 36 years old. Surviving besides the parents are the widow, LaVere, to whom Mr. Guilford was married in 1928; a daughter, Geraldine; two brothers, Raymond Guilford, of north of Auburn, and Merl Guilford, of St. Joe; and three sisters, Mrs. George Seigel, Auburn, Mrs. Clifford Hart, Auburn, and Mrs. Ruth Robertson, of Indianapolis. Burial was made in Roselawn cemetery, Auburn, on Wednesday.

A dinner was given Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Zimmerman in honor of Corp. Melvin Zimmerman and wife, home on his furlough. He left for camp on the 10th. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Forest Beaty and son, Chalmer, of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Zimmerman and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Mooney and two children, of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zimmerman and five children, of Harlan, Albert Zimmerman, of Spencerville. Melvin and wife had other callers during the day, Mr. Charlie Boger, of Spencerville and Mrs. Johnnie Erbscom, of Archbold, Ohio.

SUPPOSE YOU FLICKED THIS SWITCH

and nothing happened!



CLICK! . . . Over and over between dusk and dawn—hundreds of times a month—your fingertips repeat that simple, automatic motion.

But suppose you let yourself in late some night and flick the switch—and nothing happens! No light anywhere! Annoyance gives way to confusion, concern and fear. Something's seriously wrong when the lights won't work!

The very fact that you do take electric service for granted is a tribute to the men and women who supply it. They've made it dependable—and they've made it cheap. The average American family gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did 10 to 15 years ago—and has many more appliances to make life pleasant.

The big job now is powering industry—the roaring factories that are making tanks, planes, ships and guns. That job, too, the electric companies have done so well that Uncle Sam is far more power-full than all the Axis countries combined.

This power is possible—and this war will be won—for the same reason—the American tradition of freedom. Freedom of business management under Government regulation—freedom to live our own lives—freedom to invest, invest and produce for everybody's benefit. . . . That is the American Way—the absolute opposite to the Hitler system of political management and state slavery.

America's strength today shows that the American Way has worked. It proves that practical business management is meeting the needs of this way of life.

YOUTHS OUT TO POCKET RICH TRAPLINE PROFITS

With the country's war effort having taken much of the man power which formerly harvested the annual fur crop, this job will fall to a considerable extent upon the sturdy and willing shoulders of youth. It is they who will be called on to maintain the national fur catch—one of America's great natural resources—as a valuable source of income.

While it's squarely up to the younger trappers to "carry on," the situation offers them several highly pleasing advantages. First of all, there is scarcely any other endeavor that offers such a combination of wholesome recreation, healthful exercise and a neat cash profit to boot! Compared with farm products, generally, raw furs yield a decidedly satisfactory return.

Crop Ready for Harvest

The raw fur crop is there—along the streams, in the woods and fields—literally waiting to be taken. Practically no investment is required—only a bunch of traps and the effort needed to run the trapline. And as for the effort, if desired it can be limited to spare time—a feature which fits in beautifully with the school boy's daily routine.

More Furs Per Trapper

One apparent attraction this season is the potentially greater catch per trapper afforded by the thinning of the trapline ranks. In other words, where a brook formerly supplied two or three trappers with their winter's catch, it is likely to become the exclusive domain of one trapper this winter—a veritable "happy hunting grounds" for the less experienced but rapidly-learning lad.

Speaking of learning, most trappers say that "there's almost nothing to it." The sheer fun of being out of doors—matching wits with the wily fur bearers—provides such a pleasurable thrill to the beginner that he considers trapping more of a sport or game than actual work.

Every pelt taken is as though the trapper had bagged a wad of actual money. There is a regular, steady market for raw furs—so come what may, Mr. Trapper can be sure of pocketing a stack of dollars in return for his catch.

WATCH ADDRESS OF ARMY MAIL

Improper and insufficient addresses on both letters and parcels are resulting in serious delays or non-delivery of thousands of pieces of mail intended for soldiers overseas, the Army Postal Service of the War Department reveals.

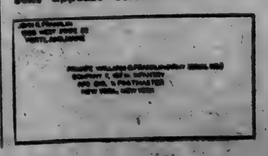
A survey conducted within the last few days at Ports of Embarkation on both coasts disclosed that approximately 10 per cent of all mail intended for delivery overseas to the armed forces was incorrectly or insufficiently addressed, thereby making delivery very difficult or altogether impossible.

Cautioning the public to use the full name, rank, serial number, service organization, and Army post office number on all overseas mail to the armed forces, the Army Postal Service warned that prompt delivery could not be assured unless mail was addressed in this manner.

In many cases of non-delivery, the Army Postal Service has found that the address contained only the soldier's name and Army post office number. Pointing out that thousands of troops may be served through a single Army post office, the War Department states that it is impossible to effect delivery of mail so addressed without serious delay.

With the thirty day period—October 1 to November 1—for mailing Christmas packages to soldiers overseas now under way, the Army Postal Service states that it will be impossible to deliver these packages in time to be in keeping with the spirit of the holiday season unless the address thereon includes the full name, rank, serial number, service organization, and Army post office number.

The correct method to be followed in addressing a soldier overseas appears below:



Mr. and Mrs. Ira Reinhart of Butler, visited relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Elva Stark and two children, Mrs. Glennis Conine and Miss Belle Blair spent Wednesday evening at St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Nelson have purchased the Vera Miller property and will move from Butler here, in the near future.

HOUSEWIVES ARE SAVING COOKING FATS

Quite a number of St. Joe women are already saving that all important war time item so vital to defense—grease. Here are the simple rules to follow:

Save all waste cooking grease from roast pork, beef, ham and poultry; drippings from broiled steaks, and vegetable shortenings from fried potatoes, fish and doughnuts.

Strain the grease through a cloth into a wide-mouth can, preferably a coffee or vegetable shortening can.

Keep the can in a cool place, preferably your refrigerator.

Take the grease to your meat dealer, who will pay 4 cents a pound for it.

There also are four things not to do:

Don't take less than one pound at a time to your dealer.

Don't take the grease in anything but a tin can.

Don't let the grease stand until it becomes rancid, as the glycerine content rapidly reduces in rancid grease.

Don' take your grease to the meat dealer on busy weekends if you can avoid it.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

DAIRYMEN ARE WARNED "BEWARE OF NOVEMBER"

"Beware the ides of March" may have been a good warning for Julius Caesar but for dairymen "Beware of November" is much more appropriate, declares G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman. After studying monthly production records on more than 20,000 dairy cows, he reports that "For years the Dairy Herd Improvement Association records have proved that November is a critical dairy month."

Williams points out five ways in which these "November Losses" may be prevented or reduced:

1. Keep the herd in the stable or shed so the cows will be comfortable. If they are comfortable, they will drink more water and eat more feed.
2. Lock the gate to corn stalk pastures.
3. Feed a grain mixture of corn, oats, and supplement in the proportion of 4-2-1- by weight. Do not feed "soft" corn or snapped nubbins.
4. Protect the cows' udders by good bedding. The best way for mastitis to get started is to permit the cows to lie on cold, wet ground or on ""unbedded" concrete.
5. Open the silo, if one is used. A few pounds of silage will bridge the gap between summer and winter feeding.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 19, 1942 NUMBER 47

ACCIDENTS DECREASED 58% DURING OCTOBER

Accidents on the state highway system, during the month of October dropped 58 per cent in comparison with the same month of the preceding year, S. C. Hadden, chairman of the State Highway Commission, pointed out today. Reports by motorists showed 998 accidents last month while 2,363 were reported in October, 1941.

Similar reductions were shown in the number of fatalities, 36 this year against 85 last year; 374 injured this year against 1,211 in 1941 and property damage of $119,714 in 1942 as compared with $284,337 in 1941.

During the first ten months of 1942 a total of 13,131 accidents on the state highway system have been reported. These resulted in 498 deaths, injury of 6,436 persons and property damage amounting to $1,787,045. During the same period in 1941, 18,886 accidents were reported. These involved 702 deaths, injury of 9,708 persons, and property damage of $2,543,786.

In the first ten months of 1942, 7,694 of the accidents reported have occurred on state highways outside cities of 3,500 population, while 5,437 of the accidents have occurred on state highways within cities of 3,500 or more population. In the same months of 1941, there were nearly twice as many accidents on state highways outside the cities, 11,941, as compared with 6,945 occurring within the cities.

ELEPHANT ELUDED PURSURERS FOUR DAYS

Modoc, the will o' the wisp elephant which eluded pursurers along the Wabash river for four days, feasted on hay and bran Monday evening in the familiar stall she knows as home. She traded her freedom for 30 pieces of bread.

Terrell Jacobs, her owner-trainer and leader of the posse which lured Modoc into her truck with the bread last night, said his wayward elephant was in marvelous condition despite exposure and frequent dips in the Wabash and Salamonie rivers.

Modoc was tired and hungry after her four days of hide-and-seek among the cornfields and woods along the Wabash river. She had fled Wednesday when dogs barked at her outside the Wabash high school gymnasium where she was appearing in a circus performance.

CONGRESS FOR SPIRITUAL LEADERS

President Roosevelt said recently "We have ahead of us difficult times and a long struggle. We shall need all our Spiritual Resources to Sustain Us in the days to come." For those who share his concern for Spiritual Resources in these times the DeKalb County Council of Christian Education is sposoring a six hour Congress, at the Auburn Christian Church, November 20, beginning at 10:00 A. M.

Parents of children under 14 years of age are especially urged to attend, also Pastors, Church School Superintendents and Leaders of Children in the Church Schools.

The program is designed to aid Parents and Workers with children in the field of Christian Education with the best methods of imparting to the Child the Biblical Truths necessary for his spiritual development.

Sessions forenoon and afternoon. You are invited!

COMMUNITY THANKSGIVING SERVICE, NOV. 24

The churches of the Saint Joe and Coburntown communities are sponsoring a union Thanksgiving service to be held this year in the Lutheran Church in Saint Joe, Tuesday evening, Nov. 24, 7:30 P. M.

The service will be in charge of the pastor of the Lutheran Church, Frank Stevenson, with the Rev. Erby Messimer, pastor of the local Church of Christ delivering the message speaking on the theme, "Thanksgiving in War Time." Local laymen will read the brief history of the first Thanksgiving and the President's 1942 proclamation, respectively, and the Saint Joe High School has been asked to provide special music for the occasion.

A fine spirited group in attendance a year ago contributed over $30.00 for United China Relief. A larger group, with larger pay-rolls and the same compassionate spirit is anticipated this year. One U. S. dollar from you means $12 worth of merciful ministrations to the world's needy people. Are you truly thankful or only boastful?

PRODUCTION OF OIL EXCEED 6 MILLION BARRELS

Production of more than 6 and one-half million barrels of oil from Indiana wells during 1942 was predicted today by Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Department of Conservation, following a report from the Division of Geology which showed that 5,635,000 barrels of oil had been produced during the past ten months.

Since the first of the present year 332 wells have been drilled in Indiana, 121 of which produced oil and 18 of which produced gas. On Nov. 1 drilling was in progress on 56 wells and applications are being received almost daily for drilling permits.

The News expects to go to press early next week in order to reach its readers before Thanksgiving. All news must be in early to insure publication.

TO SAVE TIN CANS FOR DEFENSE

Official tin can collection starts November 17th. Start saving today.

Save precious metal for war production. The lowly tin can is important to the war effort. It contains tin that is now impossible to replace. That tin is needed to plate the cannisters of gas masks, to make bushings for machine gun mounts, to make solder for electrical connections in bombing planes and for dozens of other uses. Tin cans also contain steel—not much in each one but enough in the cans your family uses in a year to produce a bigger piece of steel than you could lift. If your tin can is thrown out with the rubbish, it's gone forever—nobody can salvage it from the dump, for cans will rust under weather conditions. Its up to you. Here's what you can do to save valuable metal for war production.

Save all food cans.

Save all tin plated tobacco containers.

Coffee cans and others with painted on labels are wanted.

All collection of prepared tin cans should be kept out of the weather to prevent rust.

All paint, oil, varnish, floor polish or cone shaped cans are not wanted.

Evaporated or condensed milk cans are not worth saving. Put these with trash.

1. Washing prevents deterioration of tin coating, assures sanitary condition and prevents contamination of detinning fluid.

2. Removing top and bottom permits the free flow of detinning liquid over all surfaces of the can.

3. Flattened cans occupy less space in a collection, shipment and detinning operations, thereby decreasing handling costs and increasing plant capacity for detinning.

4. Prepared tin cans are ones which have been cleaned, label removed, ends cut out and tucked in and flattened by stepping on them. Leave enough space between mashed sides to see through them. Do not hammer.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met with Mrs. C. O. Krise on November 11th. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Krise. Collect was read by Mrs. Carl Carpenter. The country of Peru was discussed by Miss Elizabeth Smith. It being divided into three divisions, Coastal Desert, Highland and Montana. This country is the home of the Irish potato.

Bolivia is one of the two inland countrys, was described by Mrs. Inez Chapman. This country has one of the most beautiful lakes which is one-third the size of Lake Ontario.

Critic's review was given by Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Instead of roll call each member was given her ticket for the imaginary tour of South America and response was then given.

The hostess served vegetable salad, toll house cookies, smacks, coffee and tea. The meeting was adjourned to meet Dec. 2 at the home of Mrs. Carl Perkins.

NOTICE

To all those who have property bid in by the Auditor on the first Monday in December, 1941, under the Acts of 1941 where property has been advertised at Delinquent Tax sale two times or more and remains unsold on the first Monday in December, 1941, it shall be bid in by the Auditor for the County. Therefore, any one who has any property to bid in should call at the Auditor's Office and make arrangements for the redemption of same. As after the first Monday in December, 1942, it automatically becomes the property of DeKalb County according to the Statutes and shall be advertised, appraised and sold as any other County owned property is sold.

Any information on such property can be obtained by calling at the Auditor's Office.

BURLEY ENSLEY,
47t1 Auditor DeKalb County.

MORTUARY

WILLIAMS

Mrs. Ida Scholes Williams, 78, lifelong resident of St. Joe, died at 5:22 o'clock Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Refner, 113 East Jefferson Street, Auburn, where she had been for the last five weeks. Death was attributed to complications. Mrs. Williams had been ill since last July.

The deceased was born at St. Joe, Jan. 12, 1864. In 1891 she was married to Willard Williams, who passed away April 14 of this year. On Sept. 23, 1942, Mr. and Mrs. Williams observed their golden wedding anniversary.

Survivors are three sons, Mark, Howard and Frank, all of St. Joe; three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Wood of Saginaw, Mich., Mrs. Elmer Wood of Hammond, and Mrs. Refner in Auburn; one brother, Rev. J. N. Scholes of St. Joe; nine grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

The body remained at the Kinsey funeral home in St. Joe until time for services which were held at 2 oclock Sunday afternoon at the St. Joe Church of Christ, Erby Messmier, pastor, officiated, and interment was made in Alton Cemetery, east of St. Joe.

HENDERSON

Frank Henderson, 75, was buried Tuesday at 2 o'clock at Mason, Mich., according to word received by Frank Meese, brother in law. Besides the widow, Bertha Meese Henderson, he leaves one son, James, and two daughters. One daughter, Gladys, died a few years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson, and lived on the farm just east of Boots school house. He has lived at Albion, Michigan for many years.

MILLIMAN

John D. Milliman, 59, of Alvordton, Ohio, Wabash railroad agent, and former boy of two miles east of St. Joe, was buried in Alton Cemetery Sunday afternoon, following an illness of since August. We learned that John was about again and feeling quite improved, but a heart attack late last week, was attributed as the cause of his death.

He leaves a wife, one son, Harold, of Napoleon, Ohio, two daughters Dorothy of Minnesota, and Edna. He was the last of the J. M. Milliman family who were pioneer residents of the Coburntown community.

John received his education in the St. Joe schools, and learned telegraphy here at the Wabash depot, and when able to take work had been employed by the Wabash Railroad Co.

Funeral services were held at Alvordton with burial in the Alton Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

NEILAND

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Kinsey funeral home for Hugh Neiland age 75, who died suddenly Sunday afternoon at his home in St. Joe, while talking to his wife. Death was due to a heart attack. Burial was made in Alton Cemetery, with Erby Messimer officiating.

While Mr. Neiland had not been well, yet he was about and his sudden passing was a shock to the community.

The deceased was born in Ohio, but he spent the greater part of his life in Auburn. He went to Auburn as a young man and obtained employment at the Eckhart buggy factory. He later worked for the Auburn Auto Co., remaining with that concern for 35 years.

Mr. Neiland and his wife, Matie, who survives, moved to St. Joe four years ago. The only other close survivor is a step-son, Fred Gee, of Auburn.

All of the near relatives of Mrs. Neiland were present, including Anna and Elizabeth, of Akron, O., John of Allen county and Meade, who resides in St. Joe.

Mrs. Neiland expects to move to her property in Auburn, to be near her son and family, as she is unable to live alone, due to poor health.

Derwood Ridgway responded to the call for help at the Neiland home, but before he could get there Mr. Neiland had passed away, and without a struggle.

Card of Thanks

We wish in this way to express our sincere thanks to all who so kindly came to us, in our time of sorrow, to the minister for the words of consolation, to Mark for his words in song, and to all, who in any way hepled to ease our sorrow. —Mrs. Neiland, Fred Gee and family and Brothers and Sisters.

KEES

The funeral of Harry A. Kees will be held Thursday afternoon from the St. Joe Church of Christ at 2 o'clock and will be conducted by the pastor Erby Messimer, burial will be made in Riverside Cemetery.

Mr. Kees passed away Tuesday morning at the Hicksville Hospital from sugar diabetes and heart trouble. While Mr. Kees had been poorly all Summer, his last illness came on Sunday night a week ago and from the start was serious, so much so that his physician hurried him to the hospital for special care.

Born one and a half miles south of Harlan in Allen County on April 4, 1867 and departed this life on Nov. 17, 1942 at the age of 75 years, 7 months, and 13 days, and a greater part of these years were spent in St. Joe.

On September 22, 1890, he was married to Nina Filley at St. Joe, and soon after began working for Emillus Case south of St. Joe. Later they came to St. Joe, erected their own home and became associated with Alex Filley in the saw mill and contracting business.

Years later he was employed by the Standard Oil Co., as bulk station operator at St. Joe and he served the community for many miles with oil and gas, making the trips with a team. In all he spent twenty-nine years with the company, and nine years were spent at Marion, Ind., where he inaugurated the idea for the company of selling gasoline at retail through service stations about that city, and this idea grew until it became universal with all gas companies.

Before leaving St. Joe, Harry served on the school board for St. Joe for several years, and was always interested in civic and religious advancement, contributing generously toward that end.

Mr. Kees had friends every where he went due to his broad business relations.

He became a member of the Church of Christ in June of 1887, where he was baptized by Rev. T. A. Hedges, and has been a member of St. Joe church continuing through all these years.

Besides the widow, Nina, he leaves one son, Leon, who resides in St. Joe; three grandchildren; one sister, Caroline Thomas, 86, of St. Joe; and one brother, Samuel, age 85, of near Garrett.

The body will lie in state at the Kinsey funeral home until time for funeral, where friends may call.

HUFF

Cora Frances Huff, 68, and mother of Albert Moore, of two miles north of St. Joe, died at the home of her son on Tuesday morning after being bedfast for three weeks. Last June her husband died at their Ligonier home and she was brought here at that time to make her home.

Besides her son, Albert, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Geo. Gurach, of Troy, Ohio, and two sons, Clarence and Homer Moore both of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held from the Kinsey funeral home Friday afternoon at 1:30 with burial in Riverside Cemetery.

Gets Magazine Mention

The General Electric News, a trade paper published at Ft. Wayne, had the following paragraph, Oct. 30, concerning a St. Joe girl:

"Enid Curie, formerly of the Regional Warehouse, who was transferred to the Schenectady Publicity Department, has written many interesting letters to the girls of the Warehouse about her experiences in the East. She is now an Editor and is writing "Wings of Victory"—an advertisement now being published in the Country Weeklies. This is her first assignment, and a very good one, we think. Keep up the good work, Enid!"

MAIL EARLY

The Post Office Department is now undertaking the most gigantic task in its history.

This task is the movement of the largest volume of Christmas mail on record. This must be accomplished with less experienced help than ever before as there are now more than 25,000 Postal Employees in the armed forces. This means that thousands of inexperienced helpers will be added to postal staffs.

Transportation facilities are also taxed to the utmost. The department will do everything possible to keep this vast volume of mail moving but unless you cooperate and mail early there will be many heartaches and disappointments.

Be sure that all mail is properly addressed and insure or register all valuable parcels. Mail all Packages by Dec. 1st, if possible.

SHOOTS COON OUT OF SEASON, COSTS $20.50

The price of coons is high this year, if shot out of season, Robert Ridlen, of Ft. Wayne, paid $10 and costs, amounting to $20.50, in the court of Miles Baxter, Auburn justice of the peace, for shooting one of the animals five days before the season opened.

Ridlen was arrested several days ago by Game Warden Stewart for bagging a female coon Nov. 10 near Butler. Brot into justice of the peace court, Ridlen pleaded not guilty. He posted a $100 bond to appear for hearing Nov. 17. In the meantime, he changed his mind, appeared in court and pleaded guilty. He admitted shooting the coon, saying that he wanted to have it mounted. However, he said he got cold feet and threw it away.

Hitler didn't realize that he would have so many 'steppes' to climb in order to get to Russia.

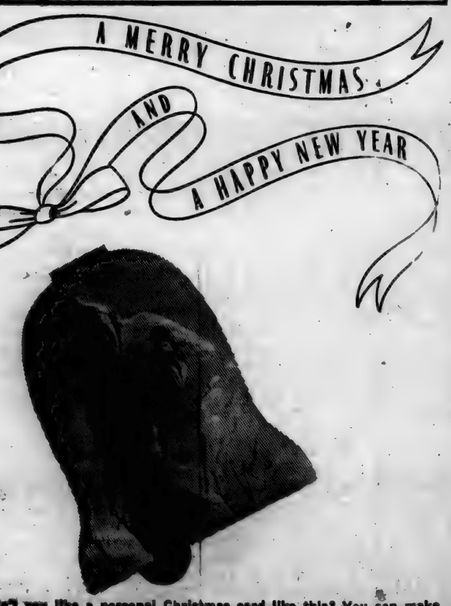
They say this will be an entirely different world after the war, and any change is bound to be for the better.

A fellow of fifty in the army is still considered young, but let the officer go into overalls for a mechanic's position and he's "too old to get the job."

One thing about Uncle Sam's generosity, he'll not only put it on the cuff but turn them wrong side out to make more room.

Household kettles are limited in size as well as skillets, but we hadn't planned on filling the old ones as full this winter, anyhow.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
CHRISTMAS CARDS



Wouldn't you like a personal Christmas card like this? You can make your own if you start planning and working toward it now.

Lieut. Gen. R. L. Eichelberger

VETERAN COMMANDER—Lieutenant General Robert L. Eichelberger, whose promotion to this rank was recently announced, holds an important command in United Nations forces. In 1918-20 General Eichelberger, then a lieutenant colonel, served as Chief Intelligence Officer, A. E. F., in Siberia, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action.

In his citation it is stated: "On July 2, 1919, an American platoon was halted by enemy enfilading fire, seriously wounding the members of the patrol. General Eichelberger, without regard for his own safety and armed with a rifle, voluntarily covered the withdrawal of the platoon . . . assisted in establishing the firing line . . . raised the morale of the American forces to a high pitch."

He was also awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and decorations from several allied nations during the World War. He served with distinction in the Philippines and China and with the General Staff in Washington. October 18, 1940, he was appointed superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point. In February, 1942, he was designated commanding general of the 77th Infantry Division, and since has held other important commands. General Eichelberger was born in Urbana, Ohio, March 9, 1886.

There is no more popular man than the one who says "I can get it for you wholesale."

You may ask what's in a name! Well, Chile hasn't been any too warm to us.

No doctor today would recommend a long sea voyage to build up rundown nerves.

It has cost us more for one Solomon Island than it did for all of Alaska.

With much time still devoted to spelling in our schools, many still don't know the difference between "Stop" and "Go" today.

Man is not a creature of circumstances. Circumstances are the creatures of men.

Nothing is easier than finding fault; no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business.

DO IT EARLY

Maybe it seems too soon to some local shoppers that we should start now to suggest they do their Christmas shopping early. But this year especially we might heed the advice of business men in order to help eliminate the last minute rush in which most of us engage just before Christmas day. Perhaps most of us are so used to being warned about this last minute shopping stunt that we will refuse to pay any attention to it again this year. But this year isn't like other shopping years we must remember. The reason for this early shopping appeal is not because of crowds but because of the shortage faced in labor, of difficulties in transportation and of distributing merchandise. These are several of the shopping problems to face this Christmas season and local buyers who have been purchasing goods recently can testify that they have found difficulties arising in normal shopping days. So let's make out our lists and get busy.

FIRST MILK ROUTE

The discussion of butterfat reduction in milk, ice cream, cheese and butter, brings up an item of interest in regard to milk that we pass on to our News readers. This concerns the first retail milk route which was started one hundred years ago when a young man working on a dairy farm in Harlem, which is now a part of New York City, figured that a milk route would pay. He saw there were enough people who didn't have cows of their own, who lived in the city, to make it profitable to deliver milk to their homes. So he started and immediately became successful and before long he was buying milk from upstate dairy farms to meet the growing demands. From this start, the idea of servicing the public with the present nation-wide house-to-house milk delivery, we today have this industry in every city and town of size. We may be reduced in quantity but we will probably never again be without milk routes in our country.

THANKSGIGING THIS YEAR

A day to count our blessings, just one day, and so many blessings? Or are you of a different mind and ask what we can be thankful for at such a time as this? That there are bombings of women and children, that cities lay in ruins, homes destroyed, hearts laid low, all this and more today's Thanksgiving finds in this grief-stricken world. But we still have had our successful harvest and in memory of this was the first Thanksgiving named, thanking God for food enough to carry the Pilgrim colony through the coming winter. For the blessing of labor and of harvest, then and today, Thanksgiving yesterday and tomorrow! Remember that the Pilgrims were refugees themselves, as in 1620 they established their homes in this new land where they had fled to follow the faith of their choice, to so live as they chose by their own governing and to build for a future for their children of such blessings as freedom, the opportunity of justice and the benefits of truth. As they were grateful for these in their new life, the completion of the harvest, the blessings offered them in their second winter, then we today can likewise bent our knee and offer the same prayer in gratitude. Without gratitude we are a lost people, and who of us in the towns of St. Joe and Spencerville can be wholly without blessings?

This is indeed a year to make man ask himself if he is especially blessed. Outlawry, humanity battling against brutality, lost hopes and cherished dreams cast aside, misled people, persecutions, poverty, all these cutting at our foundations in today's Thanksgiving world. But we still acknowledge and confess the mercies that we have found amidst all this other. As the early settlers were first giving thanks for food, each year added more material and spiritual blessings until today our thanks cannot be limited, its bounds are endless. We are a nation at work to maintain these blessings, to fight for them as we pray for them, to lift our eyes and find it good, our struggle worth the fighting. Thankful for churches and schools, our libraries and meeting halls, recreation centers, our blessings of beauty in nature and enjoyment in those every day things that make life worth living, love and friendship, companionship and understanding. We are grateful for strength to labor whether it be in our garden, home, factory, or if need be, on drilling ground. These we receive in humility and may we so grow that when generations to come view our good works, they will on their Thanksgiving days, give forth grateful prayers for the courage and the faith of their fathers before them—those fathers being you.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The world-shaking events taking place along the southern shores of the Mediterranean call for greater sacrifices at home. Hoosiers must speed up salvage drives, save tires and fuel, buy more war bonds; in fact, all efforts must be directed toward providing our fighting men in Africa and elsewhere with whatever they need to defeat the enemy.

Beginning November 29, Hoosiers will use their sugar ration books for coffee rations, too. Stamps number 20 to 28 have been designated as coffee stamps and the first coffee stamp is number 27. The arrangement of the stamps in the book makes it necessary to use them in this order: 27, 28, 25, 26, and so forth. Each customer will have to see that the right stamp is removed, and that coffee stamps are not taken from books showing an age of 15 or less. The 15-year-old limit for coffee rations was set in order to allow larger rations for the adult population, but heavy coffee drinkers will have to learn to get along on a great deal less. Indiana folks should remember that our sailors risked their lives bringing coffee to us from South and Central America.

December first is the new date for mileage rationing to become effective. Hoosiers can obtain their Basic "A" coupon books from the school house sites on November 18, 19 and 20. Be sure your applications are completely filled before presenting them to the school registrars. The Indiana OPA office advises rural residents with more than five tires to call their nearest Railway Express Agency to dispose of them. Special arrangements have been made by the Government with the Express Agency to pick up tires from car owners living a considerable distance from the nearest Express Agency office.

Supplemental gasoline will be furnished to Indiana war workers regardless of the size of the plant where they are employed. Under OPA regulations plants employing 100 or more persons must set up "transportation committees" in order to obtain extra gasoline. Persons working in smaller plants should request Form R-535, application for additional gasoline, when they present their application for Basic "A" coupons to the school registrar. Form R-535 should be immediately filled out and turned over to the school registrar.

Prices have been fixed for all kinds of Fall and Winter clothing.

The Government's first step in moving against violators of price ceilings was taken in Indiana this week when 212 retailers were sent warning notices by the OPA Regional Office. Most of the violators were grocery stores. These retailers will be given a reasonable length of time to comply with the law. If they fail to do so they will be prosecuted. Conviction carries a penalty of one year in jail, a $5,000 fine, or both. In addition customers can sue the retailers for triple damages or $50, whichever is higher.

Galvanized ware of every sort, from watering pots and dippers to coal scuttles and ash cans, will be limited to fewer types, and their distribution will be restricted in order to save both the metals that go into them and the surface finishing materials.

More than half a billion pounds of foodstuffs and other farm commodities were delivered for shipment to the allied nations in September. Dried and concentrated foods have become increasingly important—they save shipping space.

Merritt Sechler is having his country home insulated this week by the Johns-Manville Insulating Co., and Leon Kees is the local representative.

Burley Ensley wishes to thank all the voters of DeKalb County for their vote of confidence and assures them of the courteous service as in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ramsey and daughter left Monday morning for their home in Tennessee, after spending some time here with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Baker and three daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr and two sons, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Reinhart and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Reinhart.

John Coburn is at Jackson, Mich., where he has taken work in a defense plant, and he is very much pleased with his job. Clay Coburn and family were home over the week end.

George Wade enjoyed his vacation last week and on Saturday he and Mrs. Wade visited Mr. and Mrs. George Simanton in South Bend and attended the Notre Dame-Michigan foot ball game.

EXPERTS TELL HOW TO PREPARE PELTS RIGHT

Skinning, scraping and stretching are the "3 S's" of good pelt handling!

The first step (top sketch) in handling any pelt correctly is to see that the fur is clean and dry. Use lukewarm water and a clean cloth repeatedly rinsed out to remove all blood and dirt. Dry with a cloth to finish the cleaning. Some trappers also comb and brush the fur after drying.

Then, (lower sketch) with a sharp knife, cut around hind paw pads and slit up backs of the hind legs to base of the tail. This is the beginning for both "cased" and "open" handling.

Skins that are "cased" are shaped on stretchers with straight sides and one end tapered to a point. "Open" pelts are stretched either square or round by tacking them on a wall or board, with fur side toward the board, exposing the flesh side to the air. Only Beaver, Badger, and Raccoon pelts are handled "open."

Dry skins in a cool, airy place—never by the fire or in the sun. Never use salt alum or any other preparation for curing skins. Simply shape and dry.

Never cut off heads (except Rabbits). Never cut up back of pelts.

Tails and legs of Muskrat, Opossum, Rabbit and Beaver should be cut off.

Feet and claws should be left on Lynx, Fisher, Marten, Fox and Wolverine. Leave feet on Wolves (except the claws) as almost all of the leg is used by the fur trade.

Take your time and use skill in skinning heads and getting pelts loose around eyes, nose and ears.

Never over-stretch. This thins the fur and makes quality look poor. Don't under-stretch. This causes wrinkles. Get the "feel" of this job and you'll get results.

Don't let your knife slip. Don't tear the pelt. Do a clean, careful job.

Get square effect on Badgers and Raccoons, and round effect on Beavers, by stretching—NOT by trimming!

On Saturday night they saw the Andrews Sisters in person playing at the "Chicago Theatre." On Sunday night while dancing to the music of Dick Jurgen at the "Aragon," Lynn had a most unusual experience. Sunday was Lynn's birthday so Lois requested that the orchestra play a number for him. Much to the surprise of both, Dick Jurgen asked Lynn to come up on the stage. The orchestra sang "Happy Birthday" for him and then Maestro Jurgen introduced him and had each of the orchestra members shake hands with him. Lynn was even more surprised when he was given Jurgen's baton and he led the orchestra in "Careless" while the dancers resumed their dancing.

MAY TAKE LESS FUR IN STATE THIS YEAR

War conditions may result in the taking of less fur in Indiana this year with pelts expected to bring lower prices. The trapping season for raccoon, opossum, skunk, mink, and muskrat opened Nov. 15, and will continue until Jan. 31.

Scores of men who have found trapping a profitable Winter activity, are now in the armed forces and many others are employed in war industries with no time to operate their trap lines. This condition existed on a smaller scale during the 1940-'41 trapping season. Last year approximately a million pelts were taken in Indiana.

With fewer trappers in the field this year and a smaller demand for fur prices are expected to be lower than in the past. Pelts taken during the first weeks of the open season rarely bring top prices as the quality is usually better after several weeks of cold, Winter weather.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

CORN BORER ON INCREASE IN COUNTY

County Agricultural Agent C. E. Baker said today that he had received some startling information from L. E. Hoffman, associate director of the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service, on the increased population of the European corn borer in DeKalb County this year as compared with 1941.

Surveys conducted by the Indiana Department of Conservation in DeKalb County showed there were 95 borers per 100 stalks of corn this year and 33 borers per 100 stalks of corn in 1941. This is an increase of 287 per cent in the population of the destructive insect pest.

Bulletins and leaflets, written by Purdue officials, are available in Baker's office on how to control or retard effectively the rapid growth of the borer. This information is free upon request.

HUNTERS TO REPORT ON BANDED PHEASANTS

Hoosier sportsmen are reminded by Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, that they can aid in the improvement of hunting conditions by reporting each banded pheasant taken during the open season.

It is not necessary to return the band which was attached to the bird's leg before it was released last Spring but the hunter should report to the local club organization the information given on the band and a statement as to where and when the bird was taken. If a banded bird is found dead, information as to the band number, place found and cause of death should also be reported to the local club.

The study of the movement of game birds from areas in which they have been released, is a part of the state-wide wildlife management and research survey which was initiated more than a year ago and is being financed entirely by sportsmen through license fees and a tax on sporting guns and ammunition.

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

Private Ray W. Littlefield, Jr., arrived home Thursday to spend four days with his parents at Concord. He is located at Camp Roberts, California, and is on coastal patrol duty. Ray was given twelve days furlough but it took eight days in making the trip both ways. This is the first he has been home since his induction which was a year ago last September. He is looking fine and likes his job.

"One thing I miss is the football games," writes Lieut. Warren "Rex" Rectenwall, of Spencerville, who is now with the U. S. Army in England. In a "victory letter" received Friday by friends in Auburn, Lieut. Rectenwall mentioned that he and his buddies had many a hot argument over the relative merits of midwestern football teams. "Three of us are from the 'Big Ten'," he explained—one from Iowa, my captain who is from Michigan, and myself. Lieut. Rectenwall attended Purdue University. "It's no joke about the tea here," he continued. "They have tea at 10:00 A. M., 2 P. M., and 4 P. M.—and dinner at 8 or 9 P. M. I have seen London, Liverpool, Bristol, Bath, Birmingham and a few places over in Wales, such as Cardiff." Lieut. Rectenwall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall of Spencerville.

Frank Loftus has succeeded, after many attempts, to become a volunter enlistee in the armed forces. He is located at Baer Field at Ft. Wayne as a mechanic and that work is what Frank really can do.

Miami, Fla.
U. S. Army, 11-16-'42

Dear Grandma and Lizzie:

I am sorry I have not written you before but have been trying to keep Dad posted and also have been very busy. I am now in Florida, what is more I am staying at one of the most beautiful hotels at Miami Beach, The Franklin. I wish Lizzie could see it, it overlooks the ocean, is elegantly furnished, all rooms have private bath and shower, solariums, elevator service and sun deck, it is warm and all the buildings are white, with bright trimmings, just like you see in pictures.

I was at Camp Perry, Ohio, up by Toledo two weeks, while there I took various appitude tests and scored unusually well, my mechanical test 100% this gives me sufficient ratings to be elizible for officer's training if I should later become interested. It took us forty hours on the train to come to Miami. We went through Cincinnati, Knoxville. Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. So many of these places you read about but you can't imagine it until you really see it, the cotton fields, flowers and palm trees.

Suppose you read about the hurricane down here, well it missed us by about 200 miles. We had a little wind but nothing serious.

We are bebinning our marching and drilling now and we get lots of lectures on gas warfare, first aid, courtesy, fire, disorder, etc. We take exercises every day. I haven't felt better since I was playing basket ball in high school. I think if a fellow works hard it will not be too hard to get ahead in the army.

About the war, don't get too optimistic, it is like I heard over my radio the other day, "This is the end of the beginning, but not the beginning of the end." I like it very much down here and in the army in general. Am rooming with two fellows from Napoleon, both nice fellows.

Well I hope you are both well, write me the news.

With love,
George.

My address is:
George T. Hart, U. S. Army, 578th Tech. Sch. Sq. T. S. No. 1203, Basic Training Center No. 4, Miami Beach, Florida.

MORE 18-19 YOUTHS GET QUESTIONNAIRES

The processing of the questionnaires of the 18 and 19 year old registrants of DeKalb County will soon be started by the selective service board.

The mailing of the 284 quiz sheets was completed Friday. The first ones were dispatched last Tuesday and their return to the board's offices in Auburn has been started. The board will probably meet Tuesday night and will begin the study of the answers at that time.

Those who were married before Dec. 8, 1941, will be deferred because of dependents. It is unlikely that many of the registrants will be given deferment as necessary war workers, but some will likely be deferred as necessary on farms.

The final list of those to whom questionnaires were sent in this community, or known to News readers, were as follows:

Marcel W. Pugsley, St. Joe.
Dewey E. White, Rt. 1, St. Joe.
Chas. M. Hartranft, St. Joe.
Edward E. Baker, R. 1, St. Joe.
Frank Curie, St. Joe.
Wm. A. Chapman, Spencerville.
John P. McCaffery, Bronx, N. Y., formerly of St. Joe.
Maurice L. Hurni, St. Joe.
Gerald G. Kimes, Spencerville.
Franklyn R. Wiers, St. Joe.
Hubert E. Bleeks, R. 1, Auburn.
Robert B. Quance, Auburn, enlisted.
Jas. R. Strombeck, R. 1, St. Joe.

AUTO DRIVING DRUNKS ON THE INCREASE

Indiana state police arrest records for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants show an increase of more than 53 per cent the first 10 months of this year, according to Don F. Stiver, state police superintendent. The drivers records show, are drunker than in other years.

Of the cases brought to trial, better than 85 per cent of the drivers arrested by state troopers have been convicted. The conviction percentage will increase as pending cases are heard in court, it was asserted.

A cumulative comparison through October of the current year against the same period in 1941 revealed a total of 2,069 arrests of alleged intoxicated drivers this year, while 1,349 apprehensions were made in the first ten months a year ago. The increase is 720 more drivers arrested for the offense or a per cent increase of 53.3.

In October, Mr. Stiver reported, state officers arrested 214 drivers for operating cars or trucks while under the influence. A total of 173 convictions were obtained, while 36 cases are pending in court. Nolle prosequi actions, dismissals account for the remaining cases.

State police technicians report that Harger drunkometer tests show a high per cent of the arrested drivers to be in more advanced stages of intoxication, compared with statistics a year ago. The faster pace of wartime conditions—pressure of war production, higher wages and salaries and a search for means of relaxation in off hours—was blamed.

The LIONS CLUB

The St. Joe Lions Club met at Akins Tea Room Monday evening at 6:30. Lion Paschen discussed the present trend of education in the public schools.

The point of physical fitness was stressed in the effort to impress the necessity of better conditioning of the youth of today for service in the armed forces. Physical fitness program is designed for those over 16 and those in the last two years of high school.

It is necessary for a physical examination to be given to the student by the family Doctor. The cost of the physical examination will be met by the parents. Calisthenics is being suggested as one of the requirements for the program. A discussion of the program followed.

The most recent recommendation to the school is the strengthening of the working knowledge of Mathematics. Various testing devices are suggested in ranking students to their working knowledge of simple arithmetic and those failing to make the suggested score will be given further study in mathematics.

A testing device for knowledge of physics is suggested as physics is playing a vital part in our effort. Special emphasis is to be given in the training of those Seniors that are especially talented in physics.

A general testing device is being suggested for all Juniors and Seniors in order that these students may be classified in their relative ranking.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Red Cross first aid class will start Thursday, Dec. 3. Classes to be held in Town Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. George Watson spent the week end in the home of Robert Bailey.

Mrs. Frank Porter is in Fort Wayne this week assisting in the care of her sister, Mrs. Alice Smithers, who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Virginia Lee Eickmeyer and son, Thomas of Muskegon, Mich., are spending the Thanksgiving holiday in the O. E. Ginther home at Case Acres

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires of north of St. Joe, Mrs. LeAnna Steward of Spencerville, Mrs. Mary McNabb and Mrs. Dorothy Shugart of Auburn, were callers during the week in the Mrs. Mary Betz home. Mrs. Sadie Bruce also of Auburn spent over Saturday night and Sunday with her aunts, Mrs. Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry.

CHRISTIAN TEACHING PANACEA FOR WORLD ILLS

Christian Teaching was held as the only Panacea for the present world ills and for a Peaceful post war world by the speakers at the institute, Nov. 20th, in Auburn Christian Church.

The Apostle Paul set forth in the 12th chapter of Romans the practical relations of living toward God and fellowmen stated Rev. Daniel Eynon in the opening devotional message.

Declaring that the "Building of Christian Homes as the most important thing in America." Rev. A. L. Klopfenstein urged the discouragement of any plan that would transfer the teaching responsibility from the parent to a hireling.

Speaking on "The Evangelism of Children our Goal," Mrs. H. M. Casebeer told her audience she believed the attainment was only reached when the child caught enough of the way of the Christ that he was hurt when he saw sin: enough Christ Spirit that sin depressed.

Mr. Carl A. Stallman, stressed the fact that our constitution dedicated to the church the spiritual training. He said the Child was the first major activiy of the Church and that Christian Teaching should be given which would come within the child's experience.

The forenoon session was closed with a silent Prayer Period in behalf of our country and the spiritual needs of the nations.

Following the fellowship dinner in the basement of the church, the delegates entered into the afternoon session, Mrs. Ray V. Finkbiner directed the worship in song with Mrs. L. R. Minor assisting at the piano.

Mrs. Harry A. P. Homer used as her devotional theme, "Jesus' love for Children," as found in Mark 10: 13-16. Then stressed the Parents' Responsibility of taking the child to the House of God, using the example of Hannah's taking the child Samuel to the temple and closed her message with the poem, "It Was a Sheep That Went Astray."

Show the child the effects of alcohol and teach the proper use of God's gifts was Mrs. W. A. Arnold's answer to "What Can We Do For Temperance?" She presented a carefully prepared study course which had been arranged for children beginning with the Primary Department and continuing through the Junior and Intermediate Departments. She also advocated the signing of the Temperance Pledge in the Sunday Schools.

Does the fact that the world's at war change the content of the Gospel Message we ought to have been sounding? questioned Rev. D. J. Dunkin, speaking on Christian Teaching for Children in a World at War. "We need to be very clear in the reality of spiritual values," he said. Teach the reality of Love! We don't need to be angry and hate in order to oppose. We need to make a distinction between the sin and the sinner. The job of winning the Peace, he continued will be bigger than that of winning the War and we can't do it with the spirit of hate in our hearts.

Teach also the reality of Prayer. Sometimes we Christians keep God from doing things through our lack of Faith. The world is hungry for the Gospel — declared Rev. Dunkin.

The closing address of the institute was given by Rev. Geo. Hubbartt on the subject "Speak To My People That They Go Forward." He emphasized just as there was a time for Prayer there was a time for Action, and quoted the saying, "indolent emotion is the curse of much of our Christianity—" If God gives a blessing it is for the purpose of going forward, he continued. The time comes when we are to close the book of tactics and to move forward. David Livingston said: "I encourage myself in the Lord my God and go forward," and as Lord Shaftesbury's wife has put it, "It is your duty to go forward and leave the results with Him!"

Registrations at the institute included Parents, Pastors, Teachers and Departmental Superintendents.

A unanimous vote of the delegates was given in favor of a Children's Fellowship consisting of Bible Reading and Church attendance to be arranged for by DeKalb County Council of Christian Education.

FINDS WEATHER INSTRUMENT ON FARM

Mrs. Frank Warstler who resides on the old Joe Koch farm three miles north-west of St. Joe, found something besides hay in her hay field Thursday morning—a United States weather bureau instrument.

She was walking across the hay field when she noticed the red china silk of the parachute attached to the instrument. Upon investigation she found the instrument, which resembled somewhat the "innards" of a radio set. It had been suspended by a large rubber balloon. When the balloon burst, the instrument floated to earth under the red parachute.

"A balloon sent up by the U. S. weather bureau station carried the instrument to a height of about 12 miles," a tag on the gadget read. "The balloon burst and the instrument came down slowly on the parachute."

According to another tag, it was sent up Nov. 17 from Joliet, Ill. While afloat it acted as a radio broadcaster of the temperature, pressure and moisture of the air. It bore a mailing tag so all Mrs. Warstler has to do is mail it—after showing it to her youngsters. She will receive $1 for returning the instrument.

NOTICE TO MILK CUSTOMERS

Conditions have made it necessary that we change to daylight delivery of milk to our customers. Beginning on Sunday, November 29, milk will be delivered in the forenoon. Those wishing milk, please have empty bottles out.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest gratitude to those who assisted us in any way during the sickness and death of our husband and father, Harry Kees. To the neighbors for their kindness, to the minister, Erby Messimer, to the singers, to those who gave such beautiful flowers and cards of condolence, and for all those expressions of sympathy from relatives and friends.—Mrs. Harry Kees, Leon H. Kees.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their thoughtfulness and kind assistance rendered at the time of our bereavement. — Frank, Howard and Mark Williams, Mrs. Wm. Refner, Mrs. Elmer McKay, Mrs. Hugh Wood, J. N. Scholes.

APPRECIATION

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors who assisted at our home and for the words of sympathy expressed in the passing of our mother, and for the floral tributes.—Albert Moore and family and Mrs. Geo. Gerlack.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Though a debt of gratitude is easy to pay it is often left run until outlawed.

Let us know of your company over Thanksgiving or any other time. It's news of this kind that people like to read. Wha your editor doesn't know of or hear, he cannot print.

Mrs. Anna Frank returned to Akron, O., this week after spending several days here with her sister, Mrs. Hugh Neiland. Mrs. Neiland is now at Auburn with her son, Fred Gee and family, and will move to Auburn as soon as her home is vacated.

This man is not dead. He is just sleeping. And sleeping a little more soundly, perhaps, because there are still many Americans who are not putting at least 10% of their pay into War Bonds on a regular Payroll Savings Plan. How about you joining a lot of other fellows in giving the little paperhanger a rude awakening? How about you signing up with a Payroll Savings Plan today . . . to the tune of not 6%, or 7% or 8%, but 10%, and more if you can? LET'S TOP THAT 10% BY NEW YEAR'S.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO:

If you are . . .

1. Already investing 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan—boost that 10% if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed, but haven't signed up yet—sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Payroll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman, or plant manager—and see if it can't be installed right away. The local bank will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan for any reason, go to your local bank, or wherever Bonds are sold. They will be glad to help you start a Plan of your own.

"TOP THAT 10% BY NEW YEAR'S!"

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
CHRISTMAS CARDS

Wouldn't you like a personal Christmas card like this? You can make your own if you start planning and working toward it now.

OUR INDIANS

The press pays tribute to all engaged in the war effort and we will continue to do so, but there is one item which finds its way into the newspaper columns that calls for a special salutation at this time. Over 99 per cent of all Indians of eligible age have registered for selective service. Army officials comment that if such voluntary enlistment from the entire population was in like proportion, there would be no need for conscription.

The real Americans say, "this merciless slaughter of mankind upon the part of these enemies of free people can no linger be tolerated." So they have joined the force to protect their country, in which country they have been legally citizens only since 1924. A number of Indians who registered for service brought their own rifles thinking they would be of use immediately. One tribe of Indians didn't even find registering necessary since they figured every man of fighting age would voluntarily offer his services. Today the Indian becomes a warrior in all lines of endeavor, a Ranger at Dieppe, a member of the all-Indian platoon in the Marines, at machines in factories, in navy yards. And individual Indian purchasing of War Bonds has mounted, too. And so we pay tribute to the native Americans in joining their brothers to fight for their homeland, independence and citizenship. Their future too is at stake.

MAIL EARLY

The Post Office Department is now undertaking the most gigantic task in its history.

This task is the movement of the largest volume of Christmas mail on record. This must be accomplished with less experienced help than ever before as there are now more than 25,000 Postal Employees in the armed forces. This means that thousands of inexperienced helpers will be added to postal staffs.

Transportation facilities are also taxed to the utmost. The department will do everything possible to keep this vast volume of mail moving but unless you cooperate and mail early there will be many heartaches and disappointments.

Be sure that all mail is properly addressed and insure or register all valuable parcels. Mail all Packages by Dec. 1st, if possible.

THE SEEING EYE

A late bequest leaves the celebrated Seeing Eye school a substantial sum to further their splendid work in training dogs to guide the steps of the blind. This safeguarding of the sightless by perfectly trained German shepherd dogs, is comparatively a new thing, but its name and fame is widespread even in this length of time. There is a perfect record attached to the Seeing Eye, for never has a blind person being led by one of these dogs, been seriously injured or killed. Most News readers have heard of the way these animals are trained, of their devotion to their masters, the tests that must be met and passed by both dogs and owners before the dogs are supplied. There have been an increasing number of people interested in this school to keep the name prominent with many donations making it possible to supply dogs to people unable to meet the cost of one. How far we have advanced in caring for the comforts of the blind. Schools of instruction in trades, magazines and books published in Braille, talking machine records giving whole books for the pleasure of our blind, all offers a greater opportunity to keep in step with the seeing world around about them. May we never fail to keep faith with those who are blind but who can still see! Twenty-two men in this community, like in many others, are assisting in the care of the blind with their membership in the Lions Club. A proportionate share of all dues is regularly set aside for this one great act to those less fortunate than those who contribute.

BETTER MANNERED

Americans have been spoken of, by foreigners, to be rather careless with their manners. This was more of a popular belief a few years back when the fact that we were Americans meant something akin to being Indian. A recent report from abroad mentions the good manners of Americans today and we take heart! An old copy book stated that: Men like bullets go farther when they are polished. Perhaps we have learned much about doing the right thing at the right time. Of course when you are good mannered you must make more sacrifices like giving up the most comfortable chair, holding your tongue when you want to interrupt, taking the smaller piece of cake or slice of meat. All such determines whether you are polite and well bred. They say that it is just showing good manners and we are happy to know that our efforts in that direction have not gone unrecognized!

WE MIGHT TRY IT

There are still many drivers who have not entered into the campaign for slower driving to conserve tires. In spite of the speed limit set at thirty-five miles an hour, of the explanation of this necessity to preserve rubber, still folks ride speedily on figuring when they need the tires there will be ways of getting them. The National Safety Council makes this suggestion as a way of helping. All of us around St. Joe who find drivers whizzing around our car at about a sixty mile an hour gait, can give him a three shorts and a long on our automobile horn. This is, as we all know, the Morse code for the "V" for victory. Maybe if the driving so fast is just carelessness or from habit, your honk will shame the driver into going slower. We might try it and see if it will help the situation.

Gawsh! There ain't much time b'fore New Year's— and we gotta sign up fer War Bonds with 10% of our pay by thet time!

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

State, county and municipal governments will be organized in Indiana to conserve official mileage. First move was made by Governor Henry F. Schreiker, who named Ralph E. Wilson, formerly of the State Board of Accounts, as State Governmental Motor Vehicle Mileage Administrator.

It will be Mr. Wilson's job now to see to it that no two or more State officials make a trip to, say, South Bend, from Indianapolis, on the same day in different cars.

Each State official or employee, contemplating a trip out of the city where he is stationed, will report to Mr. Wilson when he expects to go, how, and where. Thus, if any other state employees contemplate the same trip, or one that can be made to coincide, a share-the-ride deal will be made.

The same sort of plan will be set up in counties and cities with the assistance of Mr. Wilson as experience is gained. So far as can be determined, this system has been originated in Indiana, as so many of the important Home Front—or civilian—war measures have.

This newest plan, besides saving thousands of miles on tires and hundreds of gallons of gasoline, all needed for the war effort, also will save the various governmental units thousands of tax dollars, which will be badly needed for the peace effort to follow.

And while the talk right now seems to be generally about mileage, driving, gasoline and other phases of motor transportation, you might consider these two items in their possible relation to you personally.

First, the Indiana Sheriffs' Association, in convention assembled recently in South Bend, voted significantly to enforce the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit with all possible vigilance. That's very apt to mean YOU, so you'd better be slow and sure.

Second, Indiana and Ohio recently reached a reciprocal agreement to exchange reports of motorists charged or warned by police of either state with speeding or otherwise abusing their tires. These reports eventually go to the local War Price and Rationing Board of the offender and the charge can be used by the board members in considering his application for replacement tires.

Indiana consumers who stocked up on coffee will have to count all above one pound they have on hand November 28 as part of their ration, the OPA has announced. Deduction of stamps to cover excessive coffee supplies held by individuals will be made when they apply for War Ration Book No. 2 some time around the first of the year.

The coffee rationing regulations provide that each consumer must retain in his ration book for later surrender, a coffee stamp for each pound of coffee he possesses in excess of one pound. When he applies for his War Ration Book No. 2 he will be required to declare the amount of coffee he had on hand at the start of consumer rationing. The registrar will remove from his book stamps to covtr the excess supply.

A stocking may be past the stage where it's a credit to a lady's leg, but if it's silk or nylon, it is valuable stuff for the Army and Navy. That sheer silk stocking, for instance, that went sw-oo-sh one night, may turn up in an American gun, holding the powder charge that sets off a shell fired at the Japs or the Germans.

Hoosier hosiery counters are now collecting these stockings for shipment in 100-pound lots to the Defense Supplies Corporation. Stockings should be washed before they are turned in at a collection box. There is no money involved in this stocking collection—no money to the women who turn them in, no remuneration to the retailers who collect them. The campaign is purely voluntary and patriotic.

DRIVE FOR USO WILL START NOVEMBER 30

Roy H. Faulkner, of Auburn, will serve as campaign manager and chairman of the general comittee for the DeKalb County USO drive for $2,500. The appointment was made by W. K. Schaab, also of Auburn, who is the county chairman. Harry M. Casebeer, of Auburn, was named treasurer, and C. E. Johnson, also of Auburn, publicity director and secretary. The drive will get under way Nov. 30, to be completed Dec. 5.

Mr. Faulkner is well known in the county. Formerly president of the Auburn Auto Co., he now is vice president of the General Broadcasting System, Inc., of Cleveland, O., and also is doing specialzed industrial work for other companies. Notwithstanding his many activities Mr. Faulkner has consistently maintained his residence in Auburn.

The name of H. M. Casebeer as treasurer of the drive is not novel, as he has served in that capacity for several past campaigns, such as Red Cross, Salvation Army, and the last USO campaign. Mr. Casebeer is cashier of the City National Bank of Auburn. Mr. Johnson is associated with the Auburn Evening Star in the news and advertising departments.

USO needs no introduction in DeKalb County. The fine work done by the organization has become known everywhere through the newspapers, radio and from soldiers in their letters and while home on furlough.

The organization has a much bigger job than it was originally given back in the Spring of 1941. For more men, in more places, and in many new ways, the USO program must be expanded and speeded up and improved.

Our army alone increased from 867,000 last February to 1,600,000 in October. Last year USO planned 339 service units for the men. There are 585 today. Next year USO plans to operate about 940 clubhouses and other service units. The cost of this will be $15,466,046.

Clarence E. Baker of Auburn, DeKalb County Agricultural Agent, will act as rural chairman of the county drive to raise $2,500 for the USO from Nov. 30 to Dec. 5, it was announced by Roy H. Faulkner, campaign manager.

Mr. Faulkner also has named the following chairmen for towns and cities in the county: Ashley, Carl Swank; Auburn, Noah Yoder; Butler, James Angelone; Corunna, I. E. Stonebraker; Garrett (including Altona,) Alex Kalafat; St. Joe, William Keeler; Spencerville, Roscoe Walter; and Waterloo, Warren Hamilton.

Mr. Baker will utilize the services of the Minute Men of the Farm Neighborhood Leaders organization for the rural solicitation. In this organization there are a man and a woman for every square mile of the county. Township chairmen who will work with Mr. Baker, and the quotas for each township follow:

Butler, Russell Housel of Garrett, $70; Concord, Merritt Sechler of St. Joe, $50; Fairfield, Walter Miller of Corunna, $100; Franklin, Cleland Brown of Hamilton, $90; Grant, Ora E. Crooks of Waterloo, $50; Jackson, Wilbur Swander of Auburn, $100; Keyser, John Chittenden of Route 3, Auburn, $70; Newville, Horace Meek of St. Joe, $40; Richland, Forrest C. Harding of Corunna, $60; Smithfield, William Brecbill of Waterloo, $80; Spencer, Claude Laub of St. Joe, $50; Stafford, Andrew Grube of Butler, $30; Troy, Roy Blaker of Butler, $30; Union, Lester Bogger of Auburn, $90; and Wilmington, Mrs. Mable Emme of Butler, $90.

The rural area has been allotted the task of obtaining $1,000 of the $2,500 quota.

REDUCTION IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS NOTED

Traffic fatalities in Indiana were down more than 51 per cent in September in comparison with September, 1941, according to statistics released by the Governor's Coordinating Safety Committee. The decline in deaths was imputed to the curtailment of speed by Hoosier motorists in response to request of national officials for a 35 mile per hour limit.

Seventy-six traffic deaths were reportd last September, the committee reported, while in the same month the preceding year a total of 158 fatalities were recorded. The actual per cent of decline in vehicular traffic was 51.9, the announcement said.

A 29 per cent reduction in traffic deaths the first nine months of the current year was shown, using a similar period in 1941 for comparison.

From January through September, 1942, a total of 759 traffic deaths were reported, of which 523 occurred in rural districts and 236 in towns and cities. The first nine months of 1941 saw 1,074 fatalities.

Deaths on Indiana streets and highways were slightly higher in September, compared with a steady decline in the preceding months of this year. The death total for September was 76 while 68 deaths were reported last August.

Of September fatalities, 57 happened in rural areas and 19 in urban sections. Thirty-one persons lost their lives in crashes involving two or more automobiles, and 18 deaths involved auto-pedestrian tragedies. The bulk of these accidents occurred in less thickly populated districts.

Nine persons died in crashes involving railways, and seven deaths were recorded when the drivers lost control of their machines. Four bicyclists were killed in September; five due to fixed object accidents, and four ran off the road.

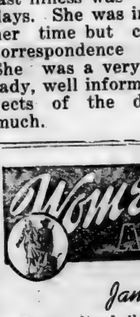
She has been a reader of The News since its establishment and her letters will be greatly missed by the editor and his wife.—Later: Word comes to Mrs. Pluma Hamilton that Mrs. Dunn has finally passed on and that her last illness was of only a few days. She was in bed most of her time but carried on her correspondence with friends. She was a very conscientious lady, well informed on all subjects of the day and wrote much.

WOMEN AT WAR

Janey

Janey closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! She threw back her head and heaved a deep sigh. Then she peeked out of the corner of her eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Hedy LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing-paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.



"Here are my stamps for a bond. $18.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janey stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janey." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air.

Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Janey!" In an instant Janey was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

(Letter from an actual communication in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Grown-ups and children alike should all help the "breadwinner" of the family to budget for War Bonds. Let's all join a payroll savings plan and "top that 10% by New Year's."

U. S. Treasury Department

Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau

November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary – every pay day – in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First – the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second – the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

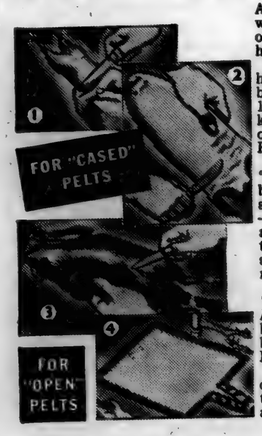
MORE PELT HANDLING HINTS FOR TRAPPERS



After the experienced trapper has washed the fur and slit up the backs of animal's hind legs to base of the tail, he follows these steps:

For "cased" pelts, hang carcass by hind feet, and peel skin downward from body, like pulling off a sock. (Diagram 1.) Work right along with a good sharp knife to remove pelt, keeping pelt as free of flesh and fat as possible while skinning. Be careful around nose, ears and eyes.

After skinning (Diagram 2), slip the "cased" pelt loosely over the scraping board, fur-side-in; and with a dull edge, such as an old knife or a sharpened lath —scrape skin from head to tail. Remove all surplus fat and flesh, but don't scrape too close. Shift the pelt around on the scraping board. In that way, you will never be scraping along edge of board.

Diagram 3 shows the beginning of "open" handling. (Beaver, Raccoon or Badger pelts.) Slit pelt down center of belly from mouth to tail; also, down back of hind legs and inside front legs. Never cut off heads, or slit up back.

Stretch "open" pelts by tacking them on a wall or board with fur side toward the board, exposing the flesh side to the air. (Diagram 4.)

Navy Men Get $13,700 Welding Award

CLEVELAND, OHIO, OCT. 6—Capt. C. A. Trexel, (upper left), and A. Amirikian, (upper right), of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, U. S. Navy Department, Washington, today were named recipients of the $13,700 Grand Award from The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland, Ohio, in its nationwide $200,000 industrial study on arc welding.

They are shown with a modern drydock having an all arc welded caisson, the welded construction of which costs 25 per cent less than other methods.

This means a saving on caissons built, under contract and soon to be contracted for, of $5,192,000. Enough steel is saved to bomb-proof the caissons.

The 2-½-year welding study, in which 408 awards were made, indicated a possible annual cost savings by arc welding of $1,825,000,000, including 7,000,000 tons of steel valued at $271,000,000 and 153,000,000 man hours of labor.

An award of $11,200, (Second Grand Award), went to John L. Miller, chief metallurgist, Gun-Mount Division, The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

The subject was the redesign for welding of the 40mm Bofors anti-aircraft gun made of high-strength low-alloy steels. The total saving with 35,000 units is estimated at $6,000,000.

An award of $500 went to Lt. Junior Grade, H. S. Knerr, U. S. Navy, Navy Yard, Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

The subject was the design of a 30-foot cabin cruiser.

An award of $250 went to Edgar Brooker and Loren L. Elliott, Ordnance Engineers, Ordnance Department, U. S. Army, Washington. Their subject was the welded construction of an armored tank.

An award of $150 went to Edward G. Biederman, Fisher Tank Division, Flint, Michigan. The subject was the welding of armor plate for tank production.

An award of $100 went to Harold Nagin, Chief Engineer, Reliance Steel Products Company, McKeesport, Pennsylvania. The subject was the design of welded girders and stringers for a military pontoon bridge, capable of supporting 60-ton tanks.

Awards in Indiana were as follows:

ANGOLA:—$100, Arthur E. Holden and Carl G. Cary, Carl Cary Garage.

CEDAR LAKE:—$250, Earl S. Lee, Buda Co.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 3, 1942 NUMBER 49

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

Enlistments in the U. S. Marines from this section of DeKalb county have been stepped up considerable the past few days, wih the following: Stanley H. Lake of Coburntown, Charles Hartranft and Frank Curie of St. Joe, Robert Shoudel of west of Spencerville and Howard Rickett of near Newville, and these boys will leave December 24 for Indianapolis for their final examination and if successful will leave at once for training center.

The new address for Richard Freeburn is: Pvt. Richard Freeburn 35331194, Med. Dept., APO 940, Seattle, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Washler have received a telegram from their son, Charles, whose address is: Pvt. Charles H. Washler, 79th Infantry Training B. T. N., Co. A., 4th Platoon, Camp Roberts, California.

Word was received this week from George Hart telling of being transferred to the following address: Pvt. George T. Hart, U. S. Army, 602 Tech. Sch. Sq. (Sp.) Barracks 1507, Amarillo Field, Texas.

Virgil Laux graduated from the Air Corps Technical School at Keesler Field, Miss., Nov. 5 and is now located in South Carolina. His address is: Pvt. Virgil A. Laux, 48th T. C., Sqd. 313th T. C.—Gp. Army Air Base, Florence, S. C.

Nov. 28, 1942
Station Hosp., Ward 11
Ft. Benjamin Harrison

Dear Editor:

Enclosed you will find $1.00 for subscription to the St. Joe News. I wrote you when I was in Mississippi at Keesler Field that I wanted to subscribe to The News, but, not at that time, because I knew that I would soon be on the move again.

Now I am stationed for a long time. Because of an accident I suffered on Sept. 11 compound fracture of both bones in the left leg between the knee and ankle, and lacerated thigh. Large laceration in foot cutting out the instep and ankle. Head injury, lacerated scalp concussion of brain, and partial amnesia for a couple of weeks.

Time has gone by and I am improving now, but still have months and months to go in the hospital before I'll be released. Now I am at Station Hosp., Ward 11, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

I shall always consider St. Joe my home more or less because I spent 9 years there and graduated from St. Joe high school.

Well, Fred I hope and pray for a complete and total victory this next year and feel certain that my desires will be fully realized. The boys are listening to the football game between the Army and Navy, just ended with the score 14-0 favor the Navy.

Well might as well close for news is scarce here. So will now be looking forward to the St. Joe News.

Sincerely yours,
Pvt. Merle Epler,
Station Hosp., Ward 11,
Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Monday, Nov. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walter,

Dear Folks:

I received all three of your letters today, and I am sorry but I did not get around to write, just kept putting it off.

Had saved the clippings of the airplane crash, and there is a lot about it in the papers. I have been doing a little guard duty and that is all, am waiting for the other hangar to open up. I was on guard on the field Friday morning. However, I left the field about 8, and the plane crashed at 8:50 near the post I had. It was a Locked A28 that is the lighter of the Hudson bombers of a crew of 5, it just had left the ground when it fell and burst into flames. They haven't found out the cause yet.

I thought I had told you I couldn't get a furlough for Christmas. They do not even accept an application unless you have been in six months, different organizations have different rules on them. You are allowed 2½ days a month so I will be able to get one some time early next Spring if I am still here.

The Camel Caravan is going to be here next week. I think I am going to get paid again this month, I signed the payroll the 18th and will be paid again if I am supposed to the 30th of this month.

The pictures will be ready the 28th and I think they will come out pretty good. Got a letter from Vera again today, and Ester and George both wrote. A gang of boys came in from Baer Field, Ft. Wayne, flew in by plane.

No I haven't got a pen. I have some news that should wake Dale up. The Brooklyn Dodgers are going to come to W. P. Beach for their Spring training. Think I will send this by air mail just to see what kind of service it gets going the other way. I listen to the radio quite a lot and it sure does run good, can get WGN, Chicago early in the morning.

Well this is all for this time,
Goodbye,
Pvt. Lewis Walter, 24th
Ferrying Squadron, Morrison Field, West Palm Beach, Florida.

The new address of Virgil A. Laux is: Pvt. Virgil A. Laux, 3975 S. Bar. W. 8., Bowman Field, Ky.

Friends may reach Charles Coburn, formerly of St. Joe by addressing Pvt. Charles W. Coburn, Regt'l. Hg. and Hg. Co. 55th Arm'd Inf. Regt., 11th Arm'd Division, Camp Polk, La., U. S. Army.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

A union Thanksgiving service was held at the Lutheran Church with the two St. Joe churches, the school and Coburntown Church cooperating. Special music was furnished by the Lutheran Church orchestra. The President's proclamation was read by Clyde Hart. Mrs. Hollis Dilley gave a brief history of the first Thanksgiving. Erby Messimer, pastor of the Church of Christ gave the message. The Thanksgiving offering for China relief was $27.47.

Former St. Joe Boy is Allergic to Rubber

Private E. R. Shilling of Camp Stoneman, Calif., is allergic to rubber, and breaks out in a rash when he goes near it. Here he is shown trying to escape a rubber gas mask which a friend of his is holding out to him.

Most Americans are distressed about the scarcity of rubber, but Pvt. E. R. Shilling, an Auburn soldier at Camp Stoneman, Calif., is one man in the world who looks at rubber with horror and the less he sees of it the better he likes it.

Pvt. Shilling is allergic to rubber. He first discovered that fact four years ago when he went to work at the Auburn Rubber Corp. He became ill, and although medical treatment brought relief in time, he had to find employment elsewhere.

Shilling became a member of the United States Army, and during his basic training the fateful day came when he had to don a gas mask, and the result was disastrous.

"After I had marched about 200 yards, the rubber face piece of the mask caused my face to turn white and break out in a rash," he declared.

He explained that he had had similar experiences when coming in close contact with rubber articles before he entered the Army, and that he was particularly susceptible to the burning rash when perspiring.

He was given treatment for some time after the gas mask incident. Doctors say, however, he should not wear a gas mask, and he probably will be assigned to limited service. Regardless of what his duties may be Shilling expressed this hope:

"I hope I won't be peeling potatoes for the duration!"

Pv. Shilling is 27 years old, married, and his wife, Betty, resides at 1415 So. Van Buren St., Auburn. He is the son of Cecil Shilling of St. Joe.

RABBIT HUNTING IS CHIEF ATTRACTION

Rabbit hunting continues to provide the major outdoor sport for thousands of Indiana nimrods, young and old, with the cottontails a welcome addition to the family menu, Harrel F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, said in discussing the hunting season.

The open season on rabbits began Nov. 10 and ends January 10, continuing after the close of the open season for pheasants, quail, Hungarian partridge, ducks and other migratory waterfowl. The pheasant season ended Nov. 19, the quail and partridge season ends Dec. 20 and the duck season ends Dec. 23. Hunters are permitted to take ten rabbits in their possession at any one time.

A PROUD HUNTER

Rabbits are numerous in almost every part of the state again this year although they make up the major part of the game taken in Indiana during each hunting season. For several years the Department of Conservation has trapped wild rabbits in state forests and game preserves, using them to stock any areas where a shortage of rabbits is reported. In many parts of the state an der-supply exists, with the rabbits regarded as a pest.

"PEARL HARBOR DAY" TO BE OBSERVED

The Churches of DeKalb County will observe Pearl Harbor Day on this coming Sunday by holding at some time during their regular services a portion dedicated to the memory of the Hero Dead of last Dec. 7th. The DeKalb County Ministerial Association at their regular meeting took action in adopting a resolution asking: That the Church Roll of service men be read, that prayer be offered in their behalf, that prayer be offered for all suffering and sorrowing people of the world and that an early ending of hostilities should come.

The parents of all service men should attend the church of their choice on this day. This is a Nation Wide program sponsored by the American Legion and is endorsed by the churches in this community.

In regard to war we say "Never Again" and what we mean, is not until the next time.

You would hardly call that fellow a patriot who buys a bond today and cashes it in tomorrow.

Everything comes to him who waits, and look at the number of folks who are riding on railroads again.

The most selfish man is that one who dips a wet spoon in the sugar bowl before putting it in his coffee.

If every key that we don't know what it fits, was donated as scrap, we'd have enough to keep a steel mill going all Winter.

According to a News reader, the radio is a wonderful instrument, and so is the pronunciation of some of the announcers that you get over it.

A St. Joe man says that it used to be you would at least get a free package of seeds for a bonus in paying your taxes!

BIGGER BUYING

Many a country crossroads and small village is profiting from wartime conditions especially because of added rural prosperity and of gas rationing and the rubber shortage. Due to unwillingness to use the family auto tires for longer distances than necessary to shop, the small town stores are getting a share of increased business today. From all parts of the country merchants from the outlying rural sections report an evidence of this boost in trading. The farming communities and war industrial centers are tying in together and those living on the outskirts of cities or in the country itself are getting wares in the nearby towns rather than the congested cities. The holiday should be an added boon to the village merchant. There hasn't been a lot of panicky buying nor hair pulling or stampeding around by women shoppers we are informed, since they figure to cooperate with the store keeper as long as he will keep his price of goods a fair level and the government consider ceiling prices in accordance with national income. Many of the articles which we thought would immediately disappear from the shelves are still to be found for others that have even proven better than the article they supplant. So though we might have figured a year ago that we couldn't do without a trip to the big city to get in some heavy buying we are now finding we can do as well right here at home and save money, gasoline, rubber tires and precious time.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

FEATURE CITRUS FRUITS AS VICTORY FOODS

Citrus fruits are no longer just a holiday treat, but have come to hold a regular and important place in everyday American meals, advises Miss Moore, DeKalb County Home demonstration agent.

This year's citrus crop promises to be of record size. Tho more oranges than ever before are going into concentrates for our soldiers and allies and more grapefruit juice is being canned for shipping, there are still huge quantities for use as fresh fruit. Grapefruit and tangerines, both yielding the biggest crops in history, are a "Victory Food Special" during the period of December 3 to Dec. 12. Fresh citrus fruits have been placed under a temporary price ceiling, so consumers should find no appreciable change in price, reports Miss Moore.

Citrus fruit is a real help in planning Winter meals, for it comes at a time when other fresh fruit is scarce and the diet is likely to be low in the vitamins and minerals provided by fresh fruits and vegetables.

Probably the most important of the food values in oranges and grapefruit is the rich supply of vitamin C. When meals run low in this vitamin, common Winter ills as aches, a rundown feeling, and lingering colds are apt to result.

Vitamin C is essential in the diet of every person. Babies today start getting orange juice when only a few weeks old, because milk is low in this vitamin. Older people, too, need vitamin C. and often find citrus fruits an enjoyable source for frequent use.

Though citrus fruits are plentiful, they must not be wasted, cautions Miss Moore. The whole fruit contains much more vitamin C than the juice, especially the strained juice. The outer peel also contains vitamin C. which may be used as grated peel to flavor desserts, biscuits, or cookies.

Oranges and grapefruit are richer in vitamin C. than tangerines. However, tangerines are richer in vitamin A and extra handy for a lunch box, because they are so easy to eat.

Today, more than ever, leadership is needed in this nation. The problems that face the nation, both now, and after the war, are too big, too varied and too complicated for any one individual to handle. The success of our prosecution of the war will depend upon the wisdom of our leadership. The handling of the post war problems is going to require even more expert leadership, clearer and straighter thinking, and wiser judgment and decision, if we are going to preserve for the future the things secured by this war, at a great price. The responsibility is going to be ours. We cannot evade it. To do so would be shirking a responsibility that this nation should not seek to evade. Whatever the post war world is for the next hundred years is going to be up to America and its leaders.

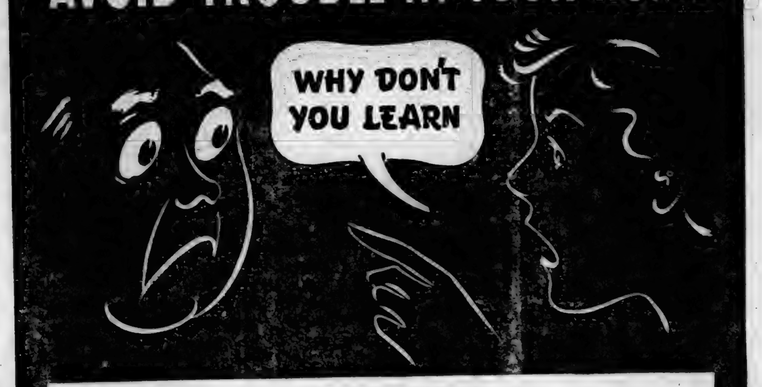
AVOID TROUBLE IN YOUR HOME

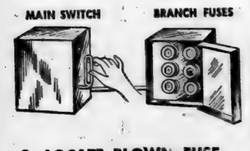


What to Do If a Fuse "Blows Out"

Before trouble develops locate your fuse box. Usually it will be in the cellar near the main electric switch, although it may be on any floor.

LAY IN A SUPPLY OF SPARE FUSES NOW

If lights go off all over your house, see first of all if your neighbors have lights—if not, the trouble is outside and you should call the company. If all lights are out in your house alone, this generally is an indication that a main fuse has blown. If only a part of the lights are out, a branch fuse has blown. If the failure occurs just as a lamp or appliance is plugged in, disconnect it before replacing the fuse and examine the appliance for defects.



1. PULL THE MAIN SWITCH

Before attempting to remove blown fuses, open your house circuit by pulling down the main switch. Stand on a dry board or surface while doing this. The main switch cuts off all electricity from the house circuits.

2. LOCATE BLOWN FUSE

Observe through the "window" on top of a new fuse the grey metal link. If in any of the fuses in your fuse box this link is melted and shows a gap, or if the "window" of the fuse is scorched so that you cannot see the link—the fuse has blown and must be replaced with a new fuse.

3. REMOVE THE BLOWN FUSE

When you have located the blown fuse unscrew it with your finger-tips just as you would a lamp bulb. Examine the base of the blown fuse. It will show its size or amperage and the new fuse should be the same size.

4. REPLACE BLOWN FUSE

REPLACE FUSE WITH ANOTHER OF EXACTLY THE SAME SIZE. SIZE IS STAMPED ON BASE.

It is of vital importance that fuses of the correct size be used. Branch circuits usually require 15-ampere plug fuses and main circuits may require 30-ampere or larger cartridge fuses. (In case of a blown cartridge fuse on a range, main service, or other circuit, call an electrician or the company.) Always replace a blown fuse with one of like size. NEVER USE A SUBSTITUTE OF ANY KIND FOR A FUSE. After replacing fuses, reclose the circuit by lifting up the main switch handle.

For your Convenience
KEEP FUSES ON HAND

5. REPAIR APPLIANCES

If fuse continues to blow out after replacing, investigate your appliances and if you cannot locate the trouble, call an electrician.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 10, 1942 NUMBER 50

From Boys IN THE U.S.Army

Loren D. Laub, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Laub of St. Joe, was recently appointed a Naval Aviation Cadet and was transferred to the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., for flight training, according to an announcement from the public relations office of that station.

Prior to entering the Naval service, Cadet Laub received his B. S. degree from Illinois Wesleyan, and played varsity baseball and basketball there.

The middle of August, he was sent to the Naval Reserve Aviation Base in St. Louis, for preliminary training, and successfully completed the course early this month.

LOREN DALE LAUB
AVIATION CADET U.S.N.R.

Upon completion of the intensive course at the "Annapolis of the Air," Laub will receive his Navy "Wings of Gold" with the designation of Naval Aviator, and will be commissioned an Ensign in the Naval Reserve or a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve.

His present address is: Aviation Cadet Loren D. Laub, U. S. Naval Air Sta., Bldg. 651, Room 733, Pensacola, Fla.

Paul Duane Crothers, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. P. Crothers, St. Joe, Ind., recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy and last week reported to the U. S. Naval Training Station to undergo a period of recruit training.

In "Boots," as recruit training is called in the Navy, the new recruit is getting instruction in military drill, seamanship, naval procedure, and is taking part in a strenuous physical conditioning program. Soon he will be given a series of aptitude tests to determine whether he will receive advanced technical training at one of the Navy's many service schools, or assigned to duty with the U. S. Fleet.

After graduating from recruit training, he will be granted a nine-day leave.

Jack Chorpenning, a former St. Joe boy, but now in the service, has the following address: Pvt. J. L. Chorpenning, Co. "H" 12th Q. M. Trg. Regt., Camp Lee, Va., No. 15374784, U. S. Army, T—347.

A new address: Pvt. George Snyder, Maint. Co. 42nd. A. R., A. P. O. 261, U. S. Army, Camp Polk. Louisiana. George would be glad to hear from anyone. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Snyder north of Concord.

Coburntown	89	$8.85
Hopewell	70	$7.92
Lutheran	68	$4.96
New. U. B.	61	$10.60
Spen. Lutheran	59	$4.88
Christian	51	$4.73
Spen. Methodist	39	$3.02

Mrs. Jack Guinn has received word that her husband is now stationed at Camp Wheeler, Georgia. His full address is: Pvt. George J. Guinn, Co. D, 12th Training Battalion, Camp Wheeler, Georgia. Mrs. Guinn, her son, Conde Lee and her mother, Mrs. Mack Hatch will continue to live at 106 E. 5th St. in Auburn.

Mrs. Clay Coburn of Jackson, Mich., writes News as folows: "I am sending a change in the address of Charles, although he is in the same camp. He is fine, likes army life, and is called sharpshooter by his Buddies. His Lieutenant said 'very good' and of course that made us proud of him. We are getting The News every week and enjoy it. The address is:

Pvt. Charles W. Coburn, A. S. N., 35344492, Regt'l Hq. & Hq. Co., 55th Arm'd Inf. Regt., Camp Polk, La., U. S. Army.

November 30, 1942.

Dear Mom:—

Will write you to let you know I am O. K. and busy.

What did you do Thanksgiving? I had a wonderful Thanksgiving turkey and chicken dinner, with all the trimmings including candy.

Thanks for the can of fruit, cake, nuts and candy, really swell and I sure liked them. We have quite a lot of snow and weather cold. I am now aviation mechanic mate 3-c.

Lots of love, Jim.

My new address is:
James W. Hamilton, U. S. N. R. A. B., A. M. M. 3-c, Barracks No. 2, Wing No. 2F, Olathe, Kansas.

December 1, 1942.

Editor St. Joe News:

I hardly know how to start my letter for I don't do much writing. But thought I might say a few words. Out here in Washington it has rained every day for a week, and I don't like that kind of weather. Personally, I would rather plow thru snow up to my neck than walk in water ankle deep. I hope that you and the people back home are well and O. K.

I think putting the addresses of boys in the service in The News is a swell idea, otherwise I would never have known where my old pal and schoolmate, George T. Hart, Jr., was located. I wrote to him as soon as I saw his address.

As for the Freeburn boy, I think he has left for Washington, but where he went, you can tell his parents, they need not worry as there is no danger what so ever. I will close now hoping that everyone back ome is "keeping them flying."

Yours truly,
Corp. C. R. Burns, Casual Mess Section, Staging Area, Ft. Lawton, Wash.

Sheppard Field, Texas, Pvt. Paul A. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moore of Spencerville Ind., has graduated from an intensive course in aviation mechanics and now is prepared to blast the Axis. Sheppard Field, near Wichita Falls, Texas, is one of the many schools in the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command which trains the specialist technicians who maintain our bombers and fighter planes in perfect combat condition. He now is eligible to become crew chief on a bomber and to win a rating as corporal or sergeant.

Before entering the school, he was trained at one of the basic training centers of the Air Forces Technical Training Command and learned to fight the Axis with other things besides the tools of his trade. Men trained by the Command are versed in the art of protection and offense as well as repair.

Wayne Dancer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dancer, who has been home on a 14-day furlough, left Monday morning for camp at Louisiana.

Glenn F. Moore, Spencerville, Max P. Dressel, St. Joe, and Roy E. Shilling, were among the local boys who passed the Army examination on Tuesday at Toledo, O. They will leave for camp next Tuesday. Frank Monroe failed to pass the test.

Private Robert B. Quance son of Mr. and Mrs. William Quance of Auburn, who enlisted in the Marine Corps Nov. 26, has been stationed at San Diego, Calif. His present address is Pvt. Robert B. Quance, Plt, 1128, R. D., M. C. B., San Diego, Calif.

Frank Curie and Charles Hartranft, are leaving St. Joe Friday for Indianapolis for final examination, instead of Dec. 24 as was first stated. And if successful leave for California.

BULLETIN

A telegram received by The News from Donald M. Nelson, Washington, D. C., is as follows: "The government is asking the American Farmer to dedicate the remaining weeks of 1942 to an intensified scrap hunt. Steel mills need more heavy scrap and the farms are one of the best sources of this type of metal. We need your further help in this farm drive, and in aiding our salvage committees to continue this effort thru out the next few weeks. All salvage committees are being instructed to continue to make available to the farmer all their transportation facilities and manpower, and to cooperate with you in every possible way. The nation is looking to the American Farmer. I am sure, with your help, he will come through."

MORTUARY

SHILLING

Services for the late Mrs. Minnie Shilling, 81, who died at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of her grandson, Paul Hilkey, one-half mile south of Cedar Chapel Church, were held at the Dilgard funeral home in Auburn Saturday morning. The Rev. A. K. Trout, pastor of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Auburn, officiated. Burial was made in Cedar Chapel cemetery.

Cancer and other complications caused the death of Mrs. Shilling. She had been in poor health for the past four years.

Mrs. Shilling was born in Stark County, O., April 7, 1861, and had resided in DeKalb County for sixty years. She was married in 1879 to William Shilling, who is now dead.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Frank Hilkey of Jackson township, three sisters, Mrs. Harvey Stoner, Mrs. Ada Brenner and Mrs. Nannie Hershey, all of Massillon, O., one grandson and three great grandchildren. She was a member of the Lutheran Church at Spencerville.

GOLDSMITH

Funeral services will be conducted at 10:30 Thursday morning at the Kinsey funeral home for Marie Goldsmith, 89, who died Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Zora Garton Pierce near Coldwater, Mich., where she had been taken a week previous. Burial will be made on the family lot at Newville. The funeral will be in charge of Mae Hibbs of Fort Wayne.

Miss Goldsmith was the daughter of Isaac and Sarah Goldsmith, and came with her parents from Vermillion County, Ohio, and settled on a farm onehalf mile east of Coleman's Corners. After the death of her parents, she with her sister Allie lived on the farm for fifteen months and then moved to St. Joe, where she lived until her death. Her sister, Allie, died in St. Joe twenty-three years ago on June 15, when she was killed at the B. & O. crossing.

Miss Goldsmith is the last of her family, besides her parents, one brother and two sisters are deceased.

Her last sickness was of four weeks duration and death was due to complications.

EUGENE WYATT, 83, DIES IN AUBURN

Cancer of the stomach claimed the life of Eugene Wyatt, one of Auburn's oldest residents, at the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital at 5:15 o'clock last Wednesday morning. Mr. Wyatt, age 83, resided at 351 W. Fifteenth Street.

The deceased had been in poor health for the past four years but had been up and around most of the time until Monday noon when he was stricken with what proved to be a fatal illness. He was taken to the hospital on Tuesday.

Mr. Wyatt had been a farmer all of his life, retiring about ten years ago. He had resided in Auburn since 1928. The Wyatt farm was located near Concord in Jackson township. The deceased was born Nov. 26, 1859 in Newville township, DeKalb county, and after his marriage to Miss Jennie Davis, now deceased, on Oct. 3, 1886, they engaged in farming in Jackson township. His first wife died on March 8, 1930, and on June 18, 1932, he married Mrs. Ida Barnhart of Auburn.

The surviving relatives include the widow, four children Earl E. Wyatt of Auburn; Dale E. Wyatt of Kendallville; Mrs. Walter Rowley of Peru, Ind., and Mrs. Glenn Winebrenner of Auburn; two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Wyatt was a member of the Auburn Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held at the First Church of God in Auburn on Friday afternoon at 3:30. The pastor, Rev. Alva Klopfenstein, officiated, assisted by the Rev. George Brannon, pastor of the Auburn Church of the Nazarene. Burial in Roselawn Cemetery.

By Bureau of Public Relations, U. S. War Dept., Wash., D. C.

NOSTALGIC SIGN POST—Young Army engineers add an extra arrow to a sign post on the route of the Alaska Highway far up in Northern wilderness.

FRIDAY FIRST DAY OF 18—19 REGISTRATION

Registration of 18 and 19 year old male citizens who have not previously registered for selective service was announced by Col. Robinson Hitchcock, state selective service director.

Under a proclamation issued by the President, Col. Hitchcock explained the registration will be extended over a period of twenty days and will be conducted according to age groups. This arrangement will generally allow all registrations to be held in local board offices and by selective service clerical personnel. If any areas find it necessary to register outside the local board office with the aid of volunteer helpers, Col. Hitchcock stated, such plans will be announced at a later date when final instructions are sent to all local board chairmen. The registration schedule by age groups follows:

(a) Those who were born on or after July 1, 1924, but not after August 31, 1924, shall be registered on any day during the week commencing Friday December 11, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 17, 1942;

(b) Those who were born on or after September 1, 1924, but not after October 31, 1924, shall be registered on any day during the week commencing Friday, December 18, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 24, 1942;

(c) Those who were born on or after November 1, 1924, but not after December 31, 1924 shall be registered on any day during the period commencing Saturday, December 26, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 31, 1942;

(d) During the continuance of the present war, those who were born on or after January 1, 1925, shall be registered on the day they attain the eighteenth anniversary of the day of their birth; provided, that if such anniversary falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday, their registration shall take place on the day following that is not a Sunday or a legal holiday.

Potential registrants are urged to register in their own local board areas, if possible, in order to avoid the transfer of registration cards. However, if a man is necessarily some distance from his local board area, he may register at any registration center and his card will be transferred to the local board having jurisdiction over the permanent address which he gives. The registration card used for this, the sixth Selective Service registration, will be gray in color. The usual registration certificate will be issued to all persons registering.

Registration for this section of the county will be held at S. Joe school house from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. on the days stated above.

We talk of Hitler's ruthlessness but seem to forget that he did let Chamberlain keep his umbrella.

"They deny that women are as dishonest about their age since going into defense employment," says Cliff Billow, "but how can we tell?"

The annual mean temperature of the earth is supposed to be about 50 degrees Fahrenheit, but it has been a lot meaner than that here in S. Joe the past week.

They tell us that most people can't stand prosperity, but they have to admit that most people haven't had much of an opportunity to try it.

With the way science is working they are evidently postponing death, but nobody seems to be making headway with taxes.

The modern girl thinks that dough is something to need, not to knead.

Sure most of us accept folks as they come, if they come our way.

A Spencerville man says they better ship Hitler and Mussolini that tandem bicycle built for two, for their take-off.

Talk about driving Rommel into a retreat as a feat, did you ever try to get the cap off of a fruit jar that has been in the basement for a couple of years?

"With the way we are using our dairy products," avers Ray Reasoner, "I'll wager the cows around here aren't as contented as they used to be."

You might politely term income taxation as a "bill at work to eliminate excess savings.

"The way it looks now," suggests L. B. Sharp, "we should have sent all of our missionaries to Japan instead of China too, 'cause it looks as though Japan was more in need of conversion."

PAYING ON BILLS

Most of Tri-township learned a lesson following the first World War regarding hardship and inability to meet debts accumulated during the time of war. This past year has found farm income up and in this time farmers have borrowed additional money, according to the report of the Farm Credit Administration. Farmers have also taken advantage of this good year of increased income to pay old debts. With hundreds of millions of dollars of food stuffs going to Allied Nations, plus our own increased consumption and price, the added acreage and livestock has enabled farmers to do well. They are urged and are following advice of the agricultural department to decrease their indebtedness and avoid the after the war hardships that usually accompany a peace.

A SUGGESTION

When you go through all of your old greeting cards and wonder what to do with them you might give this suggestion for disposing of them some thought. It will give pleasure to others after you have enjoyed seeing and reading the special sentiments. One dislikes throwing them away and so tucks a few away as souvenirs, perhaps frames another. But on the whole, most greeting cards are thrown out. Don't do this but give them to children's wards in hospitals, nurseries and foundling homes or wherever children are entertained, for they like to cut out cards and make scrap books of them. Perhaps you know of other worthy ways of sending them to be appreciated, but take the trouble to distribute them where they will give joy to another after they served their purpose with you.

COMMON COLDS

Science has too much on its hands this Winter to devote all its time to challenging the old bug-bear, the common cold. This ailment has been bothering scientific minds for a good many years as to exterminating it. They can reduce danger of infection by sterilizing the air with ultra-violet rays, but folks of S. Joe can't get much satisfaction out of this method. The approach of Winter always means the increase in colds, of chronic illness with this the cause of keeping children from school, housewives from attending to their duties, workers from offices and factories. The average person loses ten days a year from work or school because of sickness and you can just bet that this common cold is the main complaint. With reduced heating this Winter we will need more than ever to remember that part about 'an ounce of prevention.'

Concerning Advertising

A News reader brought up the subject regarding the amount of advertising being done by companies whose products are no longer on the market, of business houses advertising goods that are scarce and who can only supply trade with a minimum amount. Why advertise? Advertising, in general, is a deduction for taxes unless it is carried on unreasonably or is done purposely to avoid taxation. War doesn't eliminate advertising, it has been proven that war stimulates advertising. Remember that salesmen have been taken off the road because of tire and gasoline shortages and their place must be filled. Shortage of labor is another factor. There are a number of new products on the market that must be impressed upon the minds of the public. These are a few of the reasons and then there is the one which stands for all time in the "whys" of advertising — keeping the name before the public to protect the investment.

MARCHING AS TO WAR

There has been many tributes paid to the recently deceased George M. Conan and his famous "Over There." Some folks wonder if a song will immerge from this war that will ever equal it in popularity. We have not noticed any such tune so far but there is one hymn that we often hear now which has survived wars before that and which no one has outdone in composing. Take that profoundly stirring song, the militant force of "Onward, Christian Soldiers!" If you want to be touched to the depths, feel added devotion to country, a sense of cruelty, greed and power brought by war, to grasp the size of the struggle, to renew strengh and appreciation for things hoped for— listen to hundreds of soldiers voices singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers." If you have had your radio tuned for such a program or had a chance to be in the presence of soldiers singing this hymn, you know what we mean when we say 'stirring.' The song has such significance in its religious background that it is used in many instances to produce a stronger feeling from the public, the church, from inspirational programs for soldiers, and now from the soldiers singing it themselves. At every moment of peril or uncertainty man needs to keep his faith or find one if such he has not had. We need protection for a cause in the assurance that we are righteously led. A man needs a song in his heart and on his lips for singing gives the weak strength and the strong added courage. While we might be looking for a song such as "Over There" to come from the battle, we might keep singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Nature put in a busy night Monday. In order to cover up what she had in mind she covered the earth with a heavy fog, and by morning had the job pretty well done, and when the break of day caused the curtain to rise, here was the most beautiful piece of decorating you ever had seen. Every tree, shrub, vine and weed was all dressed up with white glistening frost, and everyone was happy in spite of the near zero temperature, and were wishing that Tuesday was Christ-Christmas. By noon the frost had shattered to the ground and we are now saying "Do it gain."

DUNN

Lillian Viola Northrup was born in Wayne, Ashtabula County, Ohio, in 1859. She was the youngest daughter of William and Angeline Northrup. They moved to DeKalb County, Inidana in 1866 and then to Michigan in 1878. In 1880 she married Frank Dunn and they lived most of their life in Michigan. To this union were born four children. She leaves two sons and one daughter, Carleton H. Dunn, of Oakland, California, Fred A. Dunn of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Agnes Dunn of Placintia, Calif.

She passed away November 18, 1942 at the home of her niece, Florence Northrup Crofoot at Breedsville, Mich. She has spent the past nine years there. The funereal was held Nov. 22, 1942 in South Haven, and she was laid to rest in McDowell Cemetery.

Mr.s Dunn was a sister of the late Howard Northrup, of St. Joe, father of Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and brother, Thayer Northrup, deceased.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Indiana automobile owners are advised by the State OPA to properly indorse all of their mileage rationing coupons at once for their own protection as well as to avoid the inconvenience of having to do so when they buy gasoline at a service station. Under the rationing regulations dealers must require correct notations on the back of all coupons they accept. A. B. C. and D coupons must be indorsed on the back with the car license number and state of registration. Passenger fleet operators using interchangeable coupon books must write or stamp, the fleet name. "T" coupons must be indorsed on the back with the war certificate number or the fleet name. "E" and "R" coupons must have the name and adress of the user written on the back. All indorsements must be in ink.

Indiana led the four states in WPB District 6 in the amount of industrial salvage reported moved during the month of October with a total of 250,236,879, John P. Collett, Indiana Director, Conservation Division, Industrial Salvage Branch, has reported.

After Dec. 12, Hoosier automobile owners who have not yet disposed of their idle tires —all tires over five—will be prohibited from the use of gasoline in their cars.

Rationing plays a greater and greater part in the life of the home front as wartime shortages increase. Fuel oil rations in Indiana will remain unchanged during the second heating period of five weeks. The fuel oil coupons for this period are numbered "2" and have the same value as those marked "1."

Coffee drinkers who failed to get their war ration book one must file an application with their local War Price and Rationing Board by Dec. 15 in order to purchase coffee, and that date is the last date on which Ration Stamp No. 9 may be used to buy sugar. Book One is necessary not only for obtaining coffee now, but must be presented to local boards around the first of the year in order to receive War Ration Book Two.

Ration Book Two will be used to obtain goods under a new system known as "point system," which is a program for rationing a group of related or similar commodities that can be substituted for one another in actual use. Point rationing will not replace straight rationing of sugar, gasoline and coffee, but will be used for certain new rationing programs, such as meat rationing. Under this system a low point value will be given to a plentiful commodity and a high value to one that is scarcer than usual. Each individual may "spend" his points to buy any of the items in the point-rationed group in any way he likes, but when he has "spent," or consumed, the products represented by his points for the month, he cannot buy any of these items until the next month, or rationing period begins.

We'll get no more whipping cream or other heavy cream for the duration, and men's and boys shirts are going to lose two or three inches in length.

Prices have been fixed for women's silk hose and for cotton seamless bags, used in packaging seeds.....cattle hides, goat, kid, and calf skins used in garment leather have been reserved for military and lend-lease use.... Children who work regularly on farms are eligible to purchase new bicycles to ride to school, and so are those who live in urban communities and ride to farms where they perform useful work.

The American Legion in Indiana is conducting an intensive campaign to get more jalopies to auto graveyards, now depleted of scrap cars.

Indiana persons who do not have copies of War Ration Book One—which consumers now need to buy coffee, have been isntructed by the OPA that applications must be filed with their local War Price and Rationing Board by Dec. 15.

The battle against high living costs, in spite of occasional setbacks, has made progress this year. Price control measures have saved Indiana families millions of dollars and next year—if we can hold our lines against high living costs—the saving to all of us should be much greater. But these tremendous savings can only be made possible by the complete cooperation among the buying public, retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and other producers, including farmers.

Food throughout the first year of war has been ample, despite heavy shipments to our Lend-Lease Allies, and the tremendous requirements of the armed forces. Up to Nov. 29, sugar was the only food product actually rationed, altho we had begun the voluntary share-the-meat program as a first step toward rationing of "red meats" early next year.

Meat is such a vital part of military diet that severe penalties will be invoked against violators of the Oct. 1 order limiting delivery for civilian use of meat from cattle, calves, sheep, lambs and hogs—the so-called "Controlled meats." The order applies to all slaughterers, including small country slaughterers and butchers, and farmers who kill animals except for the use of themselves and their families. In the last quarter of 1942 small slaughterers may deliver no more of these meats to customers than they did in the last quarter of 1941.

In 1943 we'll have reductions in some kinds of foods, fruits and vegetables especially in certain canned goods. Distributors already have been given monthly quotas on the delivery of canned goods, local milk shortages have been developed and 50 per cent of all butter stocks in 35 major dairy markets have been reserved for military and Lend-Lease needs. Many imported spices are scarce and imported fruits, such as bananas, are almost unobtainable.

Most of the new clothing has been simpliled, to save cloth, and the wool content of woolen clothing is sharply restricted. Fabrics for women's work garments have been placed under strict control to assure an adequate supply for women war workers. Next year manufacturers may make only four models of each of the permitted types of this clothing.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

TO SHARE MEAT WITH OUR ALLIES

You are called to action in the Nation-wide meat campaign. Food is a Weapon of War! In spite of the fact that our meat supply is the greatest in history, it will not be enough to meet the needs of our armed forces at home and abroad, the needs of our fighting allies, and the total civilian demands according to reports received by Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent from the Food Requirement Committee.

Facing the facts, the Food Requirements Committee of the War Production Board has determined that the amount of meat going to civilians must be restricted. Accordingly, deliveries from packers to civilian outlets were restricted as of Oct. 1, 1942, in anticipation of rationing at a later date. However, rationing machinery requires several months. In the meantime, we are asked voluntarily to share the meat so that all citizens will be able to get their full portion.

This is essential now and will also prepare the homemaker for actual rationing. We must see that our meat supplies last throughout the year. It has been calculated that the fair share of meat for each able-bodied person over 12 years of age is 2½ pounds per person per week (for each child under 6, ¾ pound per week; for each child 6 to 12, 1½ pounds per week is allowed.) That includes all meals eaten at home, in somebody else's home, or in a restaurant.

Meat to be shared includes all retail cuts from pork, beef, veal, lamb and mutton carcasses, sausage, and canned meats made from these limited meats. It is figured "bone in" and "fat on."

Your government is asking you to hold consumption to the allotted share voluntarily.

The program is not one that calls on everyone to cut the use of meat. It calls for reduction only by those who have been accustomed to eating more than 2½ pounds per person per week. No one expects families who are now consuming below that amount to cut their consumption.

RUBBER FOOTWEAR NEEDS GOOD CARE

Galoshes, overshoes and other rubber footwear are in season! And they must be made to last—not only through the present Winter season but thru several more, if possible, reminds Miss Mary Lenore Moore, county home demonstration agent.

Heat, sunlight, and oil or grease are the greatest enemies of rubber, so Winter footwear must be given protection against them.

Galoshes or overshoes may be cleaned by washing inside and outside with water. If needed, soap may be used, advises Miss Moore. After galoshes are washed, they may be dried with a cloth or by setting them in a cool, airy place. Storage between wearings should be in a dark, cool place —preferably with each overshoe stuffed loosely with a pad of wadded-up paper.

Worn spots in the soles or tears in galoshes may be repaired easily and quickly at home by the use of a "cold" patch of the type sometimes used for repairing rubber inner tubes. The patch should be about one-half inch larger in all dimensions than the damaged spot. Surfaces to be joined must be thoroughly cleaned and dry, before the patching process is started, cautions Miss Moore.

Boots which must withstand rough usage and hard wear are probably best repaired by means of "hot" vulcanized patches of the kind put on by tire shops. When properly applied the "hot" patch cannot be removed without tearing either the patch or the rubber article.

Nuts may play an important part in your Christmas menus and also in the box you're sending away any sort of nuts may be salted says Mary Lenore Moore, Home Demonstration Agent. It is necessary only to have them fresh and thoroughly dry on the surface. Almonds are the only nuts which need any preliminary treatment other than the removal of shells. Almonds should always be blanched—that is, dipped in hot water to loosen the skins, so they may be removed easily.

Nuts may be browned by pan frying or deep frying. The latter distributes the color more uniformly over a quantity of nuts. For pan frying, place a few tablespoons of fat in the bottom of the frying pan, as soon as fat is hot, add the nuts and stir them around constantly until browed. Remove to absorbant paper to drain. Salt. For deep fat frying have enough fat in a kettle to cover the nuts completely. Heat to 395 degrees F. Place the nuts in a wire basket and plunge into hot fat. Fry until delicately brown. Drain. Salt while warm.

SPICED NUTS

1 C. nut meats (Almonds, Pecans, English walnuts, Peanuts
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cloves
Fat enough to cover nuts.

In a kettle melt enough fat to cover nuts. Heat to 390 degrees F. Place nut meats in a wire basket and submerge in the hot fat. Stir constantly until delicately brown. Remove to a soft paper to drain. While still warm sprinkle with spice mixture.

GLAZED NUTS

1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, pinch of cream of tartar. Cook to hard crack stage, 295 degrees F. Drop the nut meats into the syrup one at a time (or several together for clusters.) Remove with a fork, and drain off excess syrup. Place on oiled paper to cool.

If the pan is removed from fire and set in another pan of hot water while the nuts are dipped, there will be no danger of the syrup hardening too quickly.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau met at the St. Joe Gym Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. for the last meeting of the year with fifty in attendance. Meeting was called to order by Brooks Trenary, we were then led in song by Forest Harding, singing "America" and "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Devotionals were led by Rev. Erby Messimer of the St. Joe Church of Christ. For his scripture he read Luke 2nd chapter, which is the Christmas story and closed with prayer. Roll call was then taken, response being, "What I Want for Christmas." This followed with reading of minutes of last meeting.

Mr. Trenary then made several remarks on the Cooperative Mortuary. Mr. Harding, who attended the Farm Bureau convention gave a report of the things he learned there and this talk proved an inspiration to all.

County Agent C. E. Baker then talked on farm records and the importance of having kept accurate daily farm records. A motion was made by Frank Warstler seconded by Leonard Jarrett that we send garden seeds to aid in Russia relief. The program was then turned over to Mrs. Brooks Trenary, S. & E. leader. Cordella and Patty Fluke and Audra Stewart sang "White Christmas" accompanied by Frances Reidenbach at the piano, which all enjoyed. The Trenary sisters sang "Life Railway to Heaven." Mr. Baker then showed pictures on petroleum.

The Christmas treat was given to all present, which brought the meeting to a close. —Secretary.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club met at the Akins Tea Room, Monday evening, President Leighty provided Christmas greeting cards carrying an outline program for the evening's activities.

Following the singing of America and the pledge to the flag, a fine dinner was served. Following the roll call, the speaker, Rev. Mumford, was introduced by L. W. Yeiser. Rev. Mumford is a former major league ball player, and has had a wide experience in travel and business. He is now the pastor of the Newville, Mt. Pleasant and Union U. B. Churches. His subject was "Christ's Supremacy In a Changing World," and we are pleased to give it to our readers as follows:

Christ's Supremacy In A Changing World

There are ten great and outstanding periods in the Holy Bible in which is seen very clearly the supremacy of God and when I say this I mean also the Supremacy of Jesus Christ.

We are not to lose sight of the all important fact that God and Christ are ONE and that Christ was with God in the beginning.

This is made evident in the first chapter of the Gospel of St. John: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him and without him was not anything made that was made. In him was life and the life was the light of men."... Verse 14: "And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father full of grace and truth."

Now these are the periods referred to above:

1. The Antideluvian Period: From the Creation to the Flood. 1,657 years.
2. Period of the Dispersion: From the Flood to the Promise. 435 years.
3. Period of the Patriarchs: From the Promise to the Exodus. 420 years.
4. Period of the Wandering in the Wilderness: From the Exodus to the Passage over Jordon. 40 years.
5. Period of Theocracy: From Joshua to Samuel. 335 years.
6. Intermediate Period: From Samuel to Davis as King. 68 years.
7. Period of the Monarchy: From David to the Babylonish Captivity. 442 years.
8. Period of the Captivity and of the Restoration: From the Conquest of Juda to conclusion of the Canon of the O. T. 206 years.
9. Period of Jewish History: From the Conclusion of the Canon of the O. T. to Christian Era. 400 years.
10. First Period of the Christian Church to the End of the Sacred Canon. 100 years.

In each of these great periods you will find illustrious men whom God chose to play their part in making a world to fit the needs of all peoples.

There were many changes wrought during this period of more than 4,000 years, but in all these changes is clearly seen the hand of God. When the people disobeyed they fully realized the punishment of God for their evil doings.

When they obeyed they were happy in the prosperity that God brough to them. Newton's third law of motion was even in operation then centuries before he was born "that action and re-action are always equal to each other"....Not only is this true of individuals but it is true of Nations as well.

God was working all of these years to consolidate the peoples, of the earth, and bring them together in peace and harmony that all might enjoy freedom and happiness. The World is composed of the Nations of the earth. They have always had their rulers from among their peoples so that there might be the visions of their needs as they are observed by the ones in authority...

This rule and custom began when God said to Abraham on that most eventful day in his long career "'get thee out from the Ur of the Chaldees and I will make of thee a great Nation"....Abraham's obedience to this Divine Command was the success of the formation of the Israelitish Nation....

Let us not forget that God has always found the right man in every Crisis of the World... When Israel was in Egyptian bondage and the people of God felt some how there was no hope. God went out to the Plains of Jethro and chose Moses a Shepherder to deliver his people.

This was the greatest task that was ever imposed on man thus far. When God called Moses he gave him this assurance: "Surely I will be with thee"...No man has a right to undertake such great tasks without the consciousness of the fact that God is directing him.....

In the early stages of the history of the world God called men and anointed them to be heads of Nations. They were subordinate to Him. He was the Chief Ruler and man was his helper....God was supreme—man was finite. When man obeyed his superior success crowned his every effort...God called Saul and anointed him king of Israel when the people after a period of 335 years calmored for a king.... Saul was a great success until he conceived the idea that he was supreme and not God.... This has happened to many so called rulers during the world's history and they have suffered ignominious downfalls...Some men are so prone to forget that they are only finite and that God is Infinite...We have but to read history from the beginning to discover this all important fact....Blessed is the nation whose ruler fears God and makes him supreme in his life and life's purpose...Like ruler, like people. How true!

If ever in the history of the human race man needs to recognize and acknowledge the Supremacy of Jesus Christ it is today—this day of sudden changes—this day of vastly more important changes than ever in the history of the world, for not only is the economic and financial and political world at stake, but the whole structure of civilization. There can be no real civilization without the dominance of the Christ of God who gave to the world the Golden Rule which is the keystone of all moral and spiritual building. "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so unto them." The Decalog that God gave to Moses on Sinai for the rule and guide of the faith of Israel is as binding upon us today as it ever was upon Israel's hordes. It is not an obsolete conglamoration of fogy ideas that have outlined their power.

It is not a something that can be replaced by foolish notions of man. "Thou Shalt and thou shalt not ring out as clearly with an abundance of compulsion as ever in the history of the race...

The supremacy of God and Christ is not only visible in the Ten Commandments but is felt also. This do says God and thou shalt live...Life in its fulness is what God wants every person to enjoy. Jesus said upon one occasion: "I am come that ye might have life and that ye might have it more abundantly." Signifying, of course, that the abundant life depends upon Christ's supremacy in each human heart. What marvelous things come to pass in individuals when the life is hid with God in Christ!

It is indeed a most stimulating and helpful discovery when we realize that we have come upon one who knows more than we do about things that make for a larger and more useful life.

The disciples whom Jesus called realized this in their quest for real worth-while life for we hear them saying: "We have found Him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth the Son of Joseph." They found Him because they firmly believed that there was a higher power than their own which could be adapted to their own lives to make them more effective. After all this should be the ambition of all men, and only Christ can help men realize this ambition—The Patriarch Job in dire distress grasping after every possible source of help, exclaimed: "O, that I knew where I might find Him (God) that I might come even to his seat"....

In a changing world like ours today when so much is at stake from every viewpoint men are not looking for God and Christ to direct them, because to find them and acknowledge them as Supreme Rulers of their lives would mean a curb upon their desires, ambitions and plans. The Spirit of Christ in man has a tremendous restraining influence. It prevents him from doing the things he once did.

After Saul of Tarsus was converted and changed from the proud, boastful blasphemer that he was, to the humble penitent, loving Servant of God that he became he said: "The things I used to love I now hate, and the things I used to hate I now love"....

Why this change? Christ was dwelling supreme in him. Paul's was a changing world too and he never could have kept pace with it had he not made Christ supreme in his life.....

What the world—the whole wide world—needs more today than anything else is a complete return to God and a perfect injecion of the Spirit of Christ into every department of life—in man's dealings with his fellowman in the business, social, political and moral sense.

We need a complete restoration of confidence—we need a revision of conscience—We need an acknowledgement of Christ's supreme power over mankind....We have but to read the condition of the world before Christ's coming and then contrast it with the world's condition after his advent. It is not a be-littling of man's intelligence to allow the Spirit of Christ to guide him in his undertakings.

Abrahm Lincoln, one of the greatest men of all time, felt the need of God's help in the dark days of the Civil War. Bishop Simpson was his personal friend and a frequent caller upon the President. He never made a call upon the President but that he was called upon for prayer. The greatest of men in all ages have been the ones who recognized and ackowledged the Supremacy of God. Back to God, should be the slogan of the whole wide world and this great nation of ours should take the lead in this wonderful movement. If this were true we would have a lasting Peace when this awful war comes to an end. Men in high places should feel this great responsibility and lead the way to a re-establishment of the Spirit of Christ in others who would gladly follow. Yes it's a changing world and only the Unchanging Christ and his teachings can keep pace with it and meet and supply its needs.

Nov. 25, 1942.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Leighty:

I should have written before this but for some reason I haven't, so will try my best now.

St. Joe must be pretty quiet these days since so many of the fellows are in the Service or working out of town, but let's hope that some of these days that all of the boys return to the Good Old Home Town.

It was sort of a surprise to me to see one of my letters published in the "News" but would appreciate it if you print that I hope all the fellows in or around St. Joe who are now in the Service are getting along swell and although I haven't written to all of them, would appreciate hearing from them. And am saying "Hello" to everyone there at home.

So far I have enjoyed everything since coming here and the boys are really a swell group.

As there isn't anything else to say will close but will be looking forward to hearing from you.

P. S.—The "News" is surely one thing to look forward to.

The following article sent by Robert Johnson to his mother, is not intended to reflect on the ability or the patrioism of any member of he armed forces but is passed on to our readers for the laughter it will bring:

I fought and I fought and I fought—but I had to go anyway. I was called in Class A. The next time I want to be in Class B (Be here as they go and be here when they get back.) I remember when I registered. I went up to a desk and the man in charge was my milkman. He said "What's your name?" I said, "Oh, you know my name." "What's your name?" he barked. So I told him "August Childs." He said "Are you an alien?" I said, "No, I feel fine." He asked me where I was born and I said at Pittsburgh. Then he said, "When did you first see the light of day?" I said, "When we moved to Philadelphia." He asked me how old I was so I told him. "Twenty-three the first day of September." He said, "The first day of September you'll be in China and that will be the last of AUGUST."

Then I went to camp and I guess they thought I wouldn't live long. The first fellow I saw wrote on my card "Flying Corps." I went a little further and some fellow said "Look what the wind's blowing in." I said, "wind nothing," the draft's doing it." On the second morning they put these clothes on me, What an outfit! As soon as you're in it you think you could fight anybody. They have two sizes, too small and too large. The pants were so tight I couldn't sit down. The shoes were so big I turned around three times, and they didn't move. What a raincoat they gave me! It strained the rain. I passed an officer all dressed up with a funny belt and all that stuff. He said, calling after, "Didn't you notice my uniform when you passed?" I said, "Yes, what are you kicking about—look what they gave me."

One morning when it was five degrees below, they called us out for an underwear inspection. Talk about scenery—red flannels, B. V. D's, and all kinds. The union suit I had on would fit Tony Galent. That Lieut. lined us up and told me to stand up. I said, "I am, Sir, but this underwear makes you think I'm sitting down." He got so mad he put me out digging ditches. A little while later he passed me and said, "Don't throw that dirt up here." I said, "Where am I supposed to throw it?" He said "Dig another hole and put it there."

Three days later we sailed for Australia. Marching down the pier, I had the worst luck. I had a sergeant who stuttered and it took him so long to say "Halt" that twenty-seven of us marched overboard. They pulled us out and lined us up on the pier. The Captain came by and said, "Fall in" and I said, "I have been in, Sir." I was on the boat twelve days; seasick for twelve days. Nothing going down, everything coming up. Leaned over the railing all the time. In the middle of one of my best leans the Captain rushed up and said, "What company are you in?" I said, "I'm all by myself." He asked me if the Brigadier was up yet. I said, "If I swallowed it, it's up." Talk about your dumb people, I said to one fellow, "I guess we dropped the anchor." He replied, "I knew they'd lose it, i't been hanging out ever since we left New York."

Well, we landed and were immediately sent to the trenches. After three nights there the cannons started to roar and the shells started to pop. I was shaking with patriotism. I tried to hide behind a tree but there wasn't enough trees for the officers. The Captain came over and said, "We go over the top at five o'clock." I said, "Captain, I'd like to have a word with you." He said, "Well, what is it?" I said, "I'd like to have a furlough." He said, "Haven't you any red blood in you?" I said, "Yes, but I don't want to see it." Five o'clock and we went over the top and 10,000 Japs came at us. The very way they looked at me, you'd think I had started the war. The Captain yelled, "Fire at Will." But I didn't know anyone by the name of Will. I guess the fellow behind me thought I was Will because he fired his gun and shot me in the excitement.

Respectfully,
Cpl. Robert L. Johnson, B-Btry.

Stonewall Jackson's Great-Grandson Cited for Gallantry in Air Combat

Major Thomas Jonathan Jackson Christian, Jr., great-grandson of General Stonewall Jackson, the distinguished Confederate leader, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in aerial action in the Solomon Islands' fighting, according to a report received from Major General Millard F. Harmon, commander of the United States Army in the South Pacific area. Major Christian received the honor with Major Thomas M. Hubbard, of Fort Worth, Texas, at the advanced base in New Caledonia. With other Army flyers and in cooperation with Navy and Marine Corps airmen, Majors Christian and Hubbard saw extensive action over the Solomons in defense of Henderson Field on Gaudalcanal Island where they repeatedly fought off Japanese planes. Major Christian is the son of Brigadier General Thomas J. J. Christian.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

In the year of 1943 there is going to be a material increase in tuberculosis under wartime conditions, it is believed. Consequently such an expansion of this work done by heads of associations who endeavor to control tuberculosis calls for all of us in this community to join in the thirty-sixth annual Chrismas Seal campaign. Many have already mailed their holiday greeting cards and purchased the seals as the usual accompaniment. There is still a chance for us to purchase seals in booths of department stores, postoffices, banks or movies perhaps. The mortality rate for tuberculosis is on the decrease in our country, we know, but lack of good health can produce a condition which would find us again striving for a foot-hold in control. It isn't too late to buy your Chrismas Seals!

ALWAYS SAVING!

How we are learning to make something out of our discards! We have found that kitchen waste fats are valuable for ammunition manufacture, so we save fats. We collected rubber all around the house and offices and barns, to supply this vital necessity for our national defense. We gathered scrap metal for the building of ships, tanks and airplanes. Now women are turning in worn-out silk or nylon hose to be converted into powder bags. Scrap silk is needed for the fleet's guns and since nylon and silk burn without leaving shreds or scraps after charging, it leaves the guns clean. So salvaged stockings is another item to add to our list. The new manufacture of hose is almost 90 per cent rayon and 10 per cent cotton, so the discarded silk and nylon hose will be that which is worn out today or which have had their yesterdays and now repose in the family ragbag.

COFFEE TEARS

Tears in your coffee cups won't give you any more than your alloted share which means about one cup of java a person, each day. If you are a two-cupper at breakfast and maybe used to a cup at suppertime, consider yourself caught short! Perhaps you have persuaded someone in the family who doesn't care much for coffee to take tea instead. You might institute a system of barter with your friends by exchanging a coupon for sugar for one of coffee. Maybe gasoline might mean less to you than coffee, so this might mean a trade. Arrange a meeting of the neighborhood and list the names of those who don't care much for butter but who have to eat meat to enjoy a meal. There is a fellow who wants cream in his coffee and another who doesn't take sugar. Fix them up. The government isn't out anything since you are only exchanging coupon for coupon, maybe with wife and mother, sister or brother. With this system of trading you will gain praise from friends for your thoughtfulness and you may find a coffee coupon for your efforts.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Some folks aren't sending cards this year as formerly, others insist that this is one year necessary to pass on the good cheer as never before. But there will still be thousands of them going into the mail all over the country to carry the holiday greeting. As the first Christmas card was etched and issued in 1842 in England, the practice has continued for these hundred years and will go on for hundreds more. Cards are mailed by the billions and each home in St. Joe and Spencerville will receive its share, which is that the average citizen last year received 12 of these cards. Thru the Middle Ages into the late nineteenth century the cards were of a more sentimental nature. It was necessary that you sign the cards yourself to give the personal touch. From the card signed by Mary Queen of Scots saying: "To you and yours on land or isthmus, We're wishing you a Merry Christmas," to those today that bear a simple line of the season's felicitations, the verses have been wide and varied. The twentieth century started printing names on cards to make the task easier. Cards began to be turned out on a production basis, folks buying in wholesale lots, the same card for all individuals. Not much loss of time with this latter method. They have made it easy with hundreds of choices in books, packages in dozen lots of all sorts and sizes, boxed cards for every taste. Seems that the biggest job you have is not to forget to send cards to those you forgot last year but who remembered you!

SOUP'S ON

The hardship imposed upon man by reducing his meat supply and telling him that there is worse to come, doesn't strike as hard the fellow who cherishes his steaming bowl of soup after his Winter's day of toil. To state there wouldn't be enough meat and bones for this dish would lower the morale of many a true-blue American soup lover, however. By saying soup we don't mean those little bouillion cups which simply introduce the rest of the meal, but we mean the soup which is the main dish, the big meal itself, the piping hot bowl with is supplement of crisp saltines. A plain cracker can strike a mighty sour note to a soup meal, we can tell you! Winter seems to be the only time of year when all kinds of soup are seasonable. The air that is tangey and cool seems to add to the flavoring of the soup. There are folks in St. Joe who insist that nothing is better than bean soup cooked with a ham bone and the necessary onion. Others exalt in the vegetable soup that "is made the right way," while the intricacies of pepper pot or clam chowder have their backers from Cape Cod and Pennsylvania. Chicken noodle soup from a can never would compare with the real home made noodles and broth brewed in local kitchens and placed in steaming bowls before our place at table. We first sip to see if the soup is too hot to enjoy thoroughly and then probably inquire if they have made enough for us to have seconds. However, if one bowl is sufficient and your cook is far-sighted, there will surely be enough left over for reheating. And anyone who likes his soup can tell you that often it is better the second day than the first one. So hail to soup and the piping hot bowl! May the steam that rises in layers assail the nostrils with all the delicious aroma that only Winter's soup can impart.

YE OLD TIME STORE

When one speaks of the good old days he may be right in his yearning for certain pleasures foregone, of times of used-to-be when life might have been more simply sweet. In regard to one subject he cannot deny that although the old fashioned store was picturesque, it still couldn't be traded for today's modern food versions. A hundred years ago we can go back as typical of 'good old days' and find ourselves before groceries had electricity and refrigeration, before stainless steel, glass cases, spotless walls and clean floors. The accounts were kept in what they carelessly indexed as 'the customer's book,' and the molasses came in barrels. They spoke then of various products in tubs, boxes, barrels and firkins as today we think in terms of sanitary containers with contents listed, tested and sealed. Mackerel was in salted strips and castile soap came in huge sized bars. Codfish was piled on the counter in square bars covered with salt, pickled side pork could be forked from a barrel at the end of the counter, and sardines were piled in huge piles of small 5 cent cans, and last but not least the cracker barrel, filled with fresh, snappy crackers was near by the cheese case and you could use your head and ask the grocery keeper, "Is that cheese mild or is it strong," which was a keen way of asking for a sample. Those were the days when the stove was in the center of the room and the meeting place of the townsmen and the box of sawdust wasn't too far off front. We consider all of it somewhat in the light of a stage setting for an up-to-date movie, but when it comes to buying food stuffs we prize our today's method of grocery keeping. We find greater variety, healthier foods with more nourishment and more enjoyment stressed in our eating. We have many advantages of improvement which we take for granted now that were undreamed of one hundred years ago, and in respect to this idea of grocery stores, we, none of us, want to go backwards.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The United Nations, it is estimated, now are producing twice as much combat armament as the Axis, and by the end of next year it is expected that the United States, alone, will produce almost as great a volume of fighting weapons as all the rest of the world combined. In order to attain that vast output of war goods, civilian goods and services must be cut to a bare minimum. Not more than 75 billions worth of goods and services will be available, in 1943, to all the people of this country.

But at the same time our total national income has steadily been rising, until it has reached a level of about 115 billions a year, even with taxes taken out. Which means that for every $1.15 that we have to spend, there will be only 75 cents worth of goods or services to spend it on.

Part of our 40 billion surplus buying power will be drained off by additional taxes, while voluntary restrictions in buying and voluntary savings also will help check the rise in living costs caused by competition to buy scarce goods. If, however, we want to make our stocks of scarce goods go as far as possible—and we do—if we want to make sure they are evenly distributed, then we must rely on rationing. We must rely on both the coupon rationing with which we are now familiar, and the new system of "point" rationing which will start after the first of the year.

The present coupon "unit system" is well adapted to rationing such products as sugar and coffee, which can be divided up on a simple per capita basis, but it cannot well be used for rationing diversified foodstuffs, since tastes vary quite as much as do supplies, and not all persons want the same items in their daily diet. By giving a higher point value to scarce commodities and lower points to those that are plentiful, the consumer having a total number of points to "spend" for a particular group of products during a given ration period is free to "pay out" more of his points for scarce items, or to consume larger amounts of low-point, abundant foods that may be substituted for the scarce ones.

More efficient use of our present labor force is being developed through the work of labor-management committees in 1,700 war plants — by means of programs for training and upgrading workers and a multitude of time-saving operations. A labor-management group, representing the railroads, is working on a plan for temporarily shifting labor from one road to another to meet shortages, and another plan calls for organizing a mobile corps of experienced farm workers, aided by local volunteers, to meet peak-season labor demands.

Traffic on the country's rural roads in this first month of nation-wide mileage rationing is expected to be 35 to 40 per cent less than a year ago... Traveling salesmen engaged full time in the sale of products essential to the war program may receive up to 65 per cent of their last year's gasoline consumption, or a mileage of 8,600 miles a year, whichever is less.... More coal and wood-burning stoves are being made available for those who want to change over from fuel oil heating equipment.... There'll be no wartime regulations imposed on Christmas trees, and war workers are advised to make Christmas Day a holiday, is possible, since there have been no other full holidays in war production since the fight for freedom began.

See the Christmas Cards at News office.

The hot dog is typical of America in more ways than one.

A basket of hot dogs on the arm of an ambitious boy can grow into a lunch stand—or a string of restaurants.

That's the way America works. Highbrows call it "free enterprise." The freedom to use your own energy and ingenuity. Everybody benefits by it. It gave America the world's best standard of living.

That's the way the electric companies grew, too. A few men with vision built the first lines. Other folks with faith invested their savings. Better service, at lower prices, created jobs—and carried the comforts of electricity to more and more people.

Today, the average American home gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did 10 to 15 years ago. Today, also, America has far more power for war production than any other nation in the world. . . . Those are the results of practical American business management under public regulation.

WINTER FEEDING KEEPS BIRDS FLYING!

An Ideal Feeding Station

Indiana's army of conservationists, reinforced by school children and drivers of trucks operating in rural areas, is determined to keep the birds flying during the Winter months by seeing that both wildlife and birds have ample food, Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Department of Conservation, said today.

The collection of screenings, grain and other food to be used in the emergency feeding of birds and wildlife has become a major Winter activity of Hoosier Conservationists and is one of the factors which has brought a continual increase in the number of both game and song birds throughout the state. This activity has attracted nation-wide attention and has been the subject of illustrated articles in various publications.

Emergency feeding of birds is important during periods of low temperatures when snow or ice blankets the ground and the normal food sources are not accessible. It is also important at times during the late Winter months when food sources have been exhausted. By providing food for the birds conservationists enable the birds to keep strong and healthy, to escape from predators, and to survive the rigors of Winter weather.

This is a conservation activity in which every Hoosier can participate although the participation may be limited to feeding such birds as are found in the cities during the Winter months. Supplies of food turned over to conservation clubs in rural areas will be appreciated and this is done by a number of 'city' conservationists as their contribution to maintaining the game bird population of the state.

Betsy

The little girl tugged gently at her mother's sleeve.

"Now, Mother?" she asked. "Now can't we write my letter?"

"Why, of course, Betsy," Mrs. Carson grinned. "Are you going to write it or am I?"

"Well," Betsy said. "Maybe you'd better kind of say it to me. Only I'd love to write it."

"All right, then, Miss Carson, take a letter," her mother said, walking slowly up and down the room. "Ready? 'Dear Mr. Morgenthau: The way I save money for War Stamp buying is to steer all the small household jobs toward my daughter, who is eight years old. She is so keen about buying War Stamps that I know all the money I might have paid to someone else for doing the jobs will go toward Victory when paid to her.'

"Now make a list, Betsy. 'Windows washed, 60 cents. Apples picked from under the tree, 25 cents. Emptied trash cans, 4 cents. Sold string beans from the garden, 15 cents. Sold strips of spoiled film to children for sungazing, at one cent a yard, 20 cents. Total, $1.24. Yours helpfully, I hope,'—and then I'll sign it at the bottom."

Betsy was puffing like a grampus from her labors. The tall, painstaking letters tottered bravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely Mrs. Carson took the pen to sign.

"Mother, would it be the proper etiquette if I signed it too?"

"Perfectly proper, I think," Mrs. Carson said without a smile, and handed the pen back to Betsy.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation vs.
John R. Leighty; Agnes I. Leighty; Indiana & Michigan Electric Company; The Sherwin Williams Company, a corporation; Ben Levy

No. 5897

In the DeKalb Circuit Court
State of Indiana.

By virtue of an Order of Sale to me directed and delivered by the Clerk of said Court, in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Court House Door, in said County, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock P. M., of the Twenty-Third (23rd) day of January, 1943, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described premises, viz:

The northwest quarter of section fifteen (15,) township thirty-three (33) north, range fourteen (14) east, excepting therefrom 55 acres off of the east side thereof, 55 rods wide east and west by 160 rods long north and south. Containing after said exception 105 acres.

Also a tract of land containing 7½ acres in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 15, township 33 north, range 14 east, described as follows: Commencing at the northwest corner of the north 60 acres; thence south 60 rods; thence east 20 rods; thence north 60 rods; thence west 20 rods to the place of beginning.

Containing in all 112½ acres more or less, but subject to all legal highways.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgement, interest thereon and costs, I will at the same time, and in the manner aforesaid, offer for sale the fee simple of the above described premises. Taken as the property of the defendants to satisfy said order of sale.

ARTUS COYLE,
Sheriff DeKalb County.
C. E. McClintock, Atty. 50t3.

A very delightful meeting of the Home Economics Club was held at the home of Mrs. Zona Abel. At the noon hour dinner was served to about 25 members and guests, after which the meeting was opened by singing several Christmas songs by the quartet Mesdames Jennie Walter, Ruth Baker, Metta Sharp and Berniece Wilder, after which the retiring president, Mrs. Gladys DePew took charge. The minutes were read and approved and the roll called. Mrs. Sharp then read the story of the writing and music of "Silent Night" which was the song of the month. Miss Mary Lenore Moore then installed the new officers: President, Mrs. Ruth Baker; vice president, Mrs. Ruth Henderson; secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Dwyer; treasurer, Mrs. Zona Abel; correspondent, Mrs. Jennie Walter. The guests were Mrs. Needing, Mrs. Jr. Chaney and daughter, Miss Mary Lenore Moore, Miss Margaret Chaney, Mrs. Theron Foltz, Rev. Lee Sharp and Master Bob Wilder.

The condition of Miss Wanda Steffy and Robert Hafner, who were injured in an automobile accident recently, is improving at this writing.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet on Friday in an all day meeting at the Methodist Parsonage, with dinner at the noon hour. The committee in charge is Mesdames Pauline Baumgartner, Martha Foltz, Jane Robinson, Margaret Wasson and Olive Furnish. There will be an election of officers in the afternoon in charge of Rev. Sharp.

The Young Ladies Social Club was most pleasantly entertained on Friday evening. The home was beautifully decorated in keep with the Christmas season. After the ladies arrived the host and hostess served waffles and sausage followed by the games which all enjoyed. Those lucky for the evening were Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Mrs. Alein Neher and Mrs. Ruby Krafft.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVII (57 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 24, 1942 NUMBER 51

THE CHRISTMAS STAR SHINES BRIGHT

TO each and all of you we say "Merry Christmas." We say it—yes—in the very same spirit that we have said it in the past, knowing that the full enjoyment of Christmas is an affair of the heart and of the spirit. Pausing for a moment in the twilight of 1942 we look forward with our friends hopefully to the future.

The fellow who goes through life trying to love everybody is very apt to wind up hating everybody in the struggle.

A Spencerville man says the national economic situation might not be as bad if we would have more Scotchmen in public office.

The wealthy businessman who died and when his will was probated he had suggested his wife spend her declining years in Florida because of the climate, lived in Canada, which explains it.

Geographically we are so confused that it is hard to figure if there is still a neutral country in Europe.

With many pay checks larger this year there have probably been more wives buying their husbands two ties for Christmas that he won't wear.

NOT SO EASY

The fellow who sold his house in the city to move to the country usually started in right away to raise chickens for some pin money and too, supply his own table with fresh eggs every day. Later he found out he was wrong right from the beginning. Then there was the city-dweller who daydreamed of a turkey farm and the big money to be made from them. Maybe he figured this wasn't as difficult as raising chickens or as impairing to his purse. But he found turkey raising was a big undertaking. When you see a mammoth bird strutting around with tail wide-spread and gobbling to high heaven he may look sturdy and hardy and raising him would be a cinch. However the young gobbler is very sickly and needs protection from drafts and care that he doesn't get his feet wet. By the time you have raised the large bird you have earned him. Give this a thought when you eat your Christmas turkey.

GETTING READY

Laugh over youngsters of St. Joe who dress for Sunday School with more energy, who wash their hands and clean their ears with more forethought, more easily remembering to say 'please' and 'thank you.' The American boy knows when it's time for Christmas and starts a few weeks before to manifest a spirit of friendly cooperation with his elders in the warming-up process. Since time long past youth has found contentment more prevalent at this season of the year, since it becomes necessary in many homes for certain small faults to be corrected before rotund Santa can slide down the proverbial chimney. Maybe this is the preamble to the holiday every place since children are the same the world over, but whatever their method to make good points more prominent at Christmas, youth still 'brushes up.'

BUILDING FIRES

It used to take skill to keep home fires burning and back in grandm's day they could poke a sorry looking bed of coals into an antimated scene of crackling activity with a few knowing stirs in the cook stove grates. Housewives had a knack of building and kindling fires which heated the rooms as well as cooked the meals. Recall the dull coals that seemed lifeless and inert, past hope of recovery, and the cook would jab and shake with her poker and up popped a blaze followed by flames curling smoke into the pipe with a cheerful gusto. Today children learn the way to build fires at picnics and camps with weiner and steak roasts as the incentive. They will hike miles for firewood and relish the outing. But in the old days when you were told to build a fire or get one started in the kitchen, it was not an adventure in out-door roughing it, but a routine chore that was under the heading of home work, remember?

KINGLY RULES

His Majesty King George has compressed his personal code into six simple rules, which hang in his "workshop" in Buckingham Palace. They are:

1. Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game.
2. Teach me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, admiring the one and despising the other.
3. Teach me neither to proffer nor to receive cheap praise.
4. If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like a well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence.
5. Teach me to win, if I may; if I may not, teach me to be a good loser.
6. Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor to cry over spilt milk.

THE CHRISTMAS LAW

When we were young with life sweet and divinely simple since we lived in that childish world believing and respecting that symbol of a youthful Christmas, the benevolent Santa Claus, we were early taught that with the true Christmas spirit must go love and peace. As tots by a dear one's knee we learned the story of the Christ Child born in a manger, to bring a message to a sorry world of the blessings of brotherhood. When small we were taught this code of living, "Peace on Earth", and trusted that wise men were seeing to it that others less wise were living up to this code for our protection.

It was a principle taught from the time a baby lay in a stable manger through today when we have wandered down roads labeled by despair, destruction and degradation. But the power of love in these years has been replaced too often by the love of power. There are those who jeer at a meek man inheriting the earth, at loving ones enemies, deriding the thought that ever in his world we could come to a perfect understanding of good will and peace with foreign brothers. They mock by pointing to what we have at hand and ask how we see anything enlightening in the present holiday.

It is good that Christmas is with us again to reassure those who need its message that there is still the story of Bethlehem and the star, the renewal of faith in performing tasks of every day living, with hope. Since this is the season of love, it is a season of happiness. If we might truly follow the real meaning and significance of the Christmas story we might understand a deeper meaning to our daily life, as well as having a guide for universal fellowship to promote principles for better living among the people of the world. This yuletide spirit is not confined to our own St. Joe, it is not without its believers in every country. There is no line drawn between race and creed when it comes to celebrating the birthday of the Holy Child. Slaughter and burn, the Christmas spirit will not be crushed to earth but lives forever in the human heart.

It may be that the laws laid down by Him are harder to follow in our weakness than the man-made laws. His laws ask for humbleness and take courage to perform. His laws are universal too for His laws as His spirit encompasseth the world. We would falter were we guided by a star to the manger today, to a babe on a straw bed midst haloes and candles, shepherds and camels. We would approach the Prince of Peace in chastened spirit for our failure to make men see that the true law of all laws, the law that over-rides power through force, greatness through strength of will, the overthrow of false prophets and mean men with love. His law is real, humble and irresistable, the weapon which conquers nations and peoples, the law that sounds the note of "good-will among men." Deny it and try to disprove it, but how else on earth will we receive the peace?

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Extension Schools Stress War-Time Production Needs

"Fit the farm to war production needs" is the theme of the extension farm schools to be held in Indiana's 92 counties during the Winter and Spring months. These schools will be conducted by 27 agricultural extension specialists of Purdue University in cooperation with the county extension agents.

The program has been set up to follow a pattern that would allow farmers attending schools, as well as extension specialists taking part, to conserve time, gasoline, and tires.

In most cases, representatives of two departments will appear on the same program and at two or more places in the various counties on the same dates. This will enable farmers to obtain the most recent information from two or more specialists by attending one meeting.

The following schools have been scheduled for DeKalb County according to an announcement made by county agent, C. E. Baker.

January 22, Dairy, with T. E. Wallace, Purdue Specialist. Garden, with W. B. Ward, Purdue Specialist.

Janary 29, Muck Crops, Roscoe Fraser, Purdue Specialist.

February 10, Agricultural Economics, with R. H. Bauman, Purdue Specialist. Hogs, John Schwab, Purdue Specialist.

February 19, Farm Machinery, with S. A. Anderson, Purdue Specialist. Farm Buildings, with Charles Reed, Purdue Specialist.

February 26, Franklin Township Farmers Institute, state speakers are: Mrs. L. G. Vannice of Danville, Ind., and Otis Crane of Marion, Indiana.

NOTE FROM A FORMER ST. JOE BOY

A letter from Roy Like at Wyandotte, Mich., states that a 6 pound and 11 ounce son arrived in his home on December 14th, and that the youngster has been named Robert LeRoy. The letter continues by saying: "This letter is for the purpose of wishing you and all my old friends and acquaintances a most Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Not knowing the addresses I would like to take this opportuniy to ask you for the names and addresses of my school chums now in the service.

"To anyone else whom I went to school with my address is 2310 Second Street, Wyandote, Michigan."

As the little boy said: "Ignorance is when you don't know something and somebody finds it out."

If Christmas is just like any other day to you, it is not the fault of the day. If you are not happy, regardless of any personal discomfort, at Christmas time with its message of "God with us," it is a warning that there is something wrong in your life which makes you hide from the face of God. Whether the snow stays or melts away, you can have a "White Christmas" this year by "coming clean" of past sins as you kneel before Christ on his Holy Day.

PREPARING FOR NEW 1942 PLATES

All motor vehicle licenses go on sale January 2, 1943. By order of the Federal Government, no new license plates will be issued for 1943. Instead motorists will retain their 1942 license plates and will be issued a small metal tab to be attached to the top of the REAR 1942 PLATE. The dead line for purchasing 1943 licenses is March 1, but the public is urged by Mrs. Mary Campbell local Auto License Branch Manager to purchase licenses early to avoid the last minute rush.

Because of gas rationing this year, it is compulsory that all motor vehicles carry the proper registration card, therefore, motorists are cautioned to make sure they sign the correct application for the car they are driving. Applications will not be released by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Indianapolis until the last of December.

Operator's (Drivers) licenses go on sale January 2, 1943, and the dead line is March 1, the same as motor vehicle licenses. However, Chauffers and Public Passenger Chauffer licenses go on sale Dec. 21, and the dead line is Dec. 31. The applications for all driving licenses have been changed this year. More detailed information is required and the name must be printed on the top of the application.

An Act of the 1941 General Assembly makes it compulsory to have all Poll and Personal property taxes paid, which were due the preceding year, therefore, taxes due and payable in 1942 must be paid before 1943 licenses will be issued. All 1943 applications carry an affidavit where by the applicant, under oath, states the status of his taxes. This applies to women who own personal property, also to corporations and firms.

In order, therefore, to avoid confusion and delay in securing 1943 licenses of all kinds, take your Poll and Personal Property tax receipts and your 1942 registration card, to your nearest Auto License Branch, when you apply for next year's license. The registration card is needed because your 1942 license number must be placed on your 1943 application before a 1943 tab will be issued.

The Federal Government is also requesting that the occupation of all Passenger car owners be shown on the license application. You will be asked this question by Mrs. Campbell as the request was received too late to have the question printed on the application.

A new address has been received for Charles Sharp which is: o-c Sharp, Charles L. 14th S. Group C, Miljean Hotel, Miami Beach, Florida.

Virgil Laux is now in North Carolina, his address is: Pvt. Virgil A. Laux, 48th T. C. Sq., 313th T. C. Gp., Maxon, North Carolina, Army Air Base.

Stanley Hale Lake, 20 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Lake of St. Joe, has enlisted in the Marine Corps at state recruiting headquarters at Indianapolis, according to an announcement made by Capt. Ralph E. Boulton, officer in charge of Marine recruiting in Indiana. A farm worker prior to his enlistment, Lake is now in training at the San Diego (Cali.) Marine Base.

NOTED EVANGELIST PASSED AWAY

E. Howard Cadle, nationally known evangelist and pastor of the tabernacle at Indianapolis, which bears his name, died Sunday after an illness of ten weeks. He was 58 years of age. Cadle was a colorful figure in Indianapolis life. His tabernacle is one of the largest auditoriums in the city and his religious radio broadcasts were said to have attracted one of the largest audiences in the nation. His tabernacle, covering a quarter of a city block at the edge of the downtown district, was built by Cadle in memory of his mother.

WINTER FEEDING KEEPS BIRDS FLYING!

L 92 U231

IT would be fine if we personally could meet and greet each one of you this thought-provoking Christmas of 1942. The fact that we cannot does not keep us from saying to you here that we wish you a very Merry Christmas.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Victory Stationery at News.

School was dismissed Tuesday due to the icy condition of the roads.

Beware of the ice and don't take unnecessary chances as it may result in some injury due to a fall.

Walter W. Zonker, Jr., is home from Ft. Sill, Okla., on a few days furlough. He is looking his best.

Mrs. Gunsenhouser, who has been staying with Mrs. Flora Gee, was called to Waterloo Sunday to care for her daughter.

A Christmas program will be given Thursday evening at the Lutheran Church and the public is invited to attend. The rendition will be by verse choir and singing choir under the direction of Leslie Wilbern.

Dinner size napkins at News.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook and daughter, Helen Marie, were Friday guests in the Foster Gee home.

Mrs. Neva Hursh is home from Michigan to spend the holiday week with her father, M. H. Andress.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham received a message of the death of their daughter, Mrs. Porter Breitagam of Vanlue, Ohio, funeral services Sunday afternoon. Owing to Mr. Buckingham's failing health they were unable to make the trip.

Mrs. Peggy Hatch, daughter, Vivienne and son, of Auburn, were Sunday afternoon callers in the Mrs. Jane Randall home. They spent the morning in the Lutheran Sunday School and church service and then took dinner at the Akins tea room.

The school vacation will start with Christmas and extend to January fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyatt of Auburn, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Wilson Sunday.

Ray Wasson of west of Spencerville, is in a Ft. Wayne hospital due to injuries received a few days ago to his right arm, while working in the G. E. Plant. We are unable to give detailed information.

Mrs. J. P. Buckingham received the announcement of a baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hathaway at a Cleveland, Ohio, hospital, recently. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hathaway of Butler, are in Cleveland with their son and family.

James Dove, 86, father of Mrs. Floyd Higgins, of Jackson township, was brought to the Gablick old peoples home Monday, and will remain here for care. He had been staying with a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Armstrong in Auburn. Mr. Dove is able to be about the home.

Orva Engle is in the Garrett hospital with a broken left leg above the knee, caused by a fall on the ice a week ago when he left his home in Garrett to go up town. He lay on the walk for fifteen minutes before being found. B. E. Widney called on him Monday and found him in good spirits.

Through the courtesy of Golda Draggoo, now Mrs. Carl Lochner, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Mary Bartlett of 2133 Cass Street, will receive The News for 1943. Mrs. Lochner is living with her aunt as her husband is in the service and the two will enjoy reading about St. Joe.

Apple balls make an unusual garnish. Cook one-inch apple balls until tender in a sugar syrup colored red or green. Use them for touching up salads, desserts or garnishing meats or vegetable dishes. For the holiday season's table you might color some green and some red, alternate them when you decorate later, for your table.

The reason dictated letters sound more impressive is that when a man is dictating he feels free to use impressive words that he doesn't know how to spell.

Candles are hard to get in some areas. Treat yours carefully. Keep them straight and clean. Dip the end of each candle in boiling water until it is soft and then quickly fit into the candle holder so it will fit and not crack the wax at the base by wedging into the holder.

Grace and Ray Houk of near Spencerville were in town Monday and on calling at The News office presented us with three large tulpahocking apples growing from a tree on their farm which has a record of 102 years. The tree bore 14 bushel last fall and the largest one weighed 1½ pounds. The News appreciates being remembered in this way by these friends.

Icy roads and Thursday's storm kept stock at home to a large extent last week but everything in the offering sold at consignors prices except day old calves which continue to be hard to sell at any price. Unsorted lambs $13.20 to $14.50. Slaughter ewes, $5.25. Breeding ewes, $11.50. Hogs 200 to 275, $13.95. Roughs, $13.00 to $13.50. Boars, $9.35. There were no select veals on sale but good to fair calves sold from $15.00 to $15.75 with light, thin calves from $8.00 to $12.00.

The employes of the Akins Tea Room enjoyed a very delightful Christmas party at the tea room on Friday evening. Mrs. Akins, assisted by Mrs. Moser, served a three course dinner. Santa Claus and a large bowl of fruit made the beautiful table decoration. The favors were red boots filled with mixed nuts. Anna Hursey passed out the exchange presents. Everyone received just what they wanted Santa to bring them. Those present were Ada Zimmerman, Anna Hursey, Alice Gee, Alta Moser, Pluma Hamilton, Margaret Wisler and two children and the hostess, Mrs. Akins.

MORTUARY

HOWARD W. KRISE STRICKEN SUDDENLY

The death of Howard W. Krise, a well known farmer and livestock buyer, at his home near Concord Friday night at 11 o'clock, came as a great shock to his relatives and friends.

Mr. Krise had worked as usual Friday and took a load of livestock to Fort Wayne. He retired shortly before 11 o'clock and died within a few minutes after an attack of coughing. Acute coronary thrombosis was the cause of death.

Mr. Krise was born Oct. 16, 1873, and was 69 years of age. He was born in Concord township, DeKalb County. He and Mary Morr were married on May 7, 1899, and one son was born to this union, Pvt. Paul D. Krise, who for the past five months has been stationed with the 103d Guard Squadron, Smyrna Air Base, at Smyrna, Tenn.

Survivors in addition to the widow and one son include one brother, Charles Krise, a former Auburn postmaster who lives east of Auburn in Wilmington township, and one sister, Mrs. Gertrude Metcalf of Auburn.

Funeral services were held at the late home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. L. B. Sharp, pastor of the Concord Methodist Church, officiated. Burial was in the K. of P. cemetery at St. Joe.

DIBERT

Mrs. C. A. Woodcox received word last Wednesday night, that her brother, Walter Dibert, 62 of Napa, California, died from an automobile accident. He was driving to work at the ship yards during a heavy fog and a head on collision with his car, resulted in his death. The driver of the other car was uninjured and the passenger with Mr. Dibert was injured just slightly. Mr. Dibert visited here in the home of his sister and family two years ago.

JORDON

Pastor Frank Stevenson conducted short funeral services at the Kinsey funeral home Saturday afternoon for James, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jordon of 3 miles west of Spencerville. Interment was made in White City Cemetery.

WATSON

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church in Spencerville Sunday afternoon at 2:30 for George W. Watson, age 73, who died Friday afternoon at his home three miles west of Spencerville. Rev. L. B. Sharp, pastor of the Spencerville Church, officiated and burial made in White City Cemetery at Spencerville. Mr. Watson died from a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been ill since February, 1938. Surviving Mr. Watson, a farmer who had lived practically his entire life in Jackson township are the widow, Alice; one daughter, three grandchildren and a great grandchild.

SOULE

Mrs. Ben Soule died Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock following several weeks serious illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Miller, who lives southeast of Spencerville, at whose home Mrs. Soule was moved only a week ago from the Souders hospital in Auburn, where she had undergone an operation several weeks previous.

The body was brought to the Kinsey funeral home and prepared for burial and then returned to the Miller home on Wednesday. The funeral to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Miller home and burial in Riverside Cemetery at St. Joe.

Besides the husband and daughter, she leaves one sister, Mrs. Cora Maxwell and several grandchildren. A brother, Wm. Oberholtzer died last June at his country home near Butler.

GREEN

Herman Green who conducted a livery barn in Auburn for many years and also acted as express agent, passed away at the DeKalb county infirmary Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A stroke of paralysis was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Green had been a patient at the county home since June 21, 1939, and had been confined to his bed all the time. He was unable to use his legs. Mr. Green seemed to be in his usual state of health until some time Saturday night he suffered a stroke of paralysis. Sunday morning he was unable to talk and he failed rapidly until the end Monday afternoon.

The deceased was injured in an automobile accident a number of years ago when the automobile he was driving was struck by a B. & O. train at his farm home crossing near the Phillip Carper farm home. His home was located near the tracks and while crossing the car was struck by a train.

WOMEN AT WAR

Margaret

Margaret turned off the humming vacuum cleaner, and straightened the slipcovers of the armchair and the daybed that she had pushed up to go over the rug. Then she stood quite still in the doorway and looked at the small bedroom with its southern exposure. It was as neat and impersonal as a pin. It might never have been lived in. The door stood open on the clean, bare closet. There was not a pennant, not a team picture, not even so much as an old Arithmetic book left to show whose room it had once been.

Margaret stared at the walls, the furniture, and deeply, slowly, she realized that no matter what lodgers with their own trinkets and pictures might occupy it, she would always see it the old way. It was the old way that she saw it now. A pair of hard-worn gray pants lay on the floor where they had been dropped. Three baseball bats were stacked with a fishing rod in the corner. A battered red cap with a letter on it lay on the bed. And through the bed, as though it were transparent, Margaret saw another bed, smaller, and with high slatted sides.

She put the vacuum cleaner away and went down to her desk in the sitting-room. She took the fifteen dollars rent that the new lodger had paid that morning in advance for the room, and added to it, from her purse, three dollars and seventy-five cents more. Then she drew out a sheet of paper and began to write on it, slowly, gravely.

"To buy a bond to help train a young man to replace Don, Jr.—killed on June 6th in the Battle of Midway."

WICOFF—LEFFEL

Miss Lucille Leffel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Leffel, of North Manchester, and Dale C. Wicoff of Spencerville, were married at the Peabody Memorial Chapel in North Manchester at 3:00 o'clock on Christmas Day.

The candle lighe ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Parker of Bourbon, in the presence of the immediate family and friends.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a dress of white satin, fashioned with tight bodice and full skirt falling into a court train. She wore a finger tip veil and carried a white Bible covered with gardenias. Her maid of honor, Miss Virginia Leffel, wore rust taffeta and brown velvet and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses. Hubert Leffel was best man and Gordon Leffel, usher. Mrs. C. B. Frame presided at the organ, playing before and during the ceremony.

Mrs. Wicoff a former teacher in the St. Joe Schools, graduated from Central high school at North Manchester and Manchester College. She teaches in Bourbon high school.

Mr. Wicoff, a graduate of Purdue University, is vocational agriculture instructor in the S. Joe and Spencerville schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reidenbach and Miss Frances of St. Joe and Mr. and Mrs James Reed and daughter, Adair of Spencerville, were among the guests.

AUTOS MUST CARRY RATIONING STICKERS

The DeKalb County office of OPA reports that automobile drivers who do not have stickers of any kind displayed on their cars are trying to buy gasoline.

It is pointed out that government regulations require the display of a sticker. In cases where the owner of a car holds a B or C card, it is not necessary to display the A sticker, but if the owner has only an A sticker it must be pasted on to the windshield. If a sticker is not displayed, the gasoline rationing certificate may be revoked.

It was also reported to the board that the lower section of some C stickers have been cut off. This is also against the rules. If a sticker has been mutilated, a new one should be obtained at once from the rationing office in the court house.

CLOSING ORDER

Beginning today, Thursday, December 31, the following places of business will close every evening at 8 o'clock, except Saturday:

Yep! I'm back at work agin. I figger on buyin' lots of War Bonds to help our boys. Don't forget—we're all supposed to be signed up for 10% by New Year's!

A Christmas family dinner was enjoyed at the S. W. Armstrong home, the event also celebrated Delvin's birthday.

Wm. Strouse and family spent from Thursday until Sunday at Quincy, Mich., guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sellon and daughter, Myrtle. They drove to Camden Sunday and remained over night with Ted Strouse and family.

MORTUARY

CHANDLER

Sylvester Chandler, age 61, of Hobart, Indiana, died on Thursday, December 24, after a short illness. Mr. Chandler worked for years as a machinist in the North Shop of the American Tin Mills, Gary. The many floral pieces received from friends and neighbors and the many who offered their assistanc, tells the story of a man well liked by his fellowmen.

Mr. Chandler married Eva Ridgway, a former St. Joe girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and daughter, Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway, and Mrs. Grover Curie of Kendallville, Ind., attended the funeral held at Hobrt, Ind., Sunday, December 27th.

Mrs. Chandler has been poorly for several years and it was a great shock for her to bear. Mrs. Curie remained in Hobart a few days to aid and comfort her sister in her hour of sorrow.

SQUIRES

Dr. James W. Squires of Ft. Wayne, a former well known resident of DeKalb County, died at a Ft. Wayne hospital Saturday morning at 2 o'clock at the age of 87 years. Senility was the cause of death.

Dr. Squires was born in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, the son of Nathan and Ann Squires. He taught school in Jackson and Fairfield townships in DeKalb County until he entered medical school at the University of Detroit. After graduation in 1880 he started practicing at Churubusco and continued for a period of thirty years after which he opened an office in Fort Wayne.

Four sons survive, Lloyd L. of Lake Charles, La., Morton of Columbia City, Hort H. of 3 miles north-west of St. Joe, and Mahlon of Ft. Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Robert Means of Fort Wayne; three brothers, Newton Squires Auburn, Fillmore of Willard, Ohio and Vincent of Jackson township; and one sister, Mrs. Belle Dancer of Elkhart. There are also six grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Walter funeral home at Spencerville. Rev. L. B. Sharp, pastor of the Methodist Church at Spencerville, officiated and burial was made in the Eel River Cemetery near Churubusco.

SOULE

Mirtha June Oberholtzer Soule was born in Cedar township, Allen County, Indiana, May 27, 1876 and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Miller, near Spencerville, Dec. 22, 1942, at the age of 66 years, 6 months and 25 days, bringing to an end the suffering of nearly four months of her fatal sickness.

On August 12, 1894 she was united in marriage with Ben Soule who remains after her. For the past thirteen years they have lived at Saint Joe, Indiana where she leaves many neighbors and friends.

She leaves near relatives besides her husband, her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Miller and two grandsons, Leland and Gerald Miller, near Spencerville, and a sister, Mrs. Cora Maxwell Saint Joe, Indiana.

Realizing that there was no possibility of recovery from her sickness, the family bade her one last farewell as she escaped the body of clay in which she would have had only increasing pain.

Funeral services were held from the Miller home on Thursday afternoon t 2 o'clock. Rev. day afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor of the Lutheran Church conducting the services. Burial in Riverside Cemetery at St. Joe.

CARD OF THANKS

Through the columns of The News, we wish to express to our many friends and neighbors, our most sincere thanks for their many kind acts and sympathy expressed in the sudden passing of our husband and father, Howard Krise. Also our thanks to the minister and for the many beautiful floral tributes.—Mrs. Mary Krise, Pvt. Paul Krise.

The LIONS CLUB

Lions Club held last meeting of 1942 at Akins Tea Room on Monday evening. Ten members responded to roll call. The small attendance was due to Christmas vacations. Greetings from a former member, DuWayne Kinsey, were read by Lion Pres. Leighty.

Announcement was made of the marriage of our good secretary Lion Wicoff to Miss Lucille Leffel of North Manchester. Miss Leffel was former teacher in the St. Joe High School. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wicoff.

Lion Clyde Hart was the speaker of the evening. Lion Hart recently served on the Federal Grand Jury and his talk was very interesting. He told the members of the many cases that came before the Jury, but the most interesting was the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co. The Jury returned an indictment against this company.

Several new names were presented to the Board of Directors for membership. Committee reports were made and prospects for 1943 promised plenty of activity.

TO CRACK DOWN ON AUTO DRUNKS

Indiana state police are prepared to crack down relentlessly on drivers who imbibe too much cheer this New Year's Eve, according to Don F. Stiver, state police superintendent, who has ordered trooper personnel of the department's 11 post areas to be on the lookout for drunken drivers as the new year arrives.

"If you are going to drink this New Year's, don't drive," Mr. Stiver warned car owners. "Our country cannot afford the loss of a single life, automobile or tire in a traffic accident caused by a driver who celebrates to excess."

The pressure of war has resulted in a greatly increased percentage of the persons using intoxicants, statistics compiled by state police show. Drunken driving arrests are up 53 per cent over a year ago, records reveal and there has been no apparent let down in the number of drivers who drink.

Non-drinking motorists, who may have temporarily lost the "touch of the wheel" due to restricted driving were cautioned to drive carefully over the New Year's holiday.

The state police superintendent asserted that the war against intoxicated motorists operates on a continuous basis, and that the "crackdown" order is not effective for the holiday season only.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our neighbors, friends and relatives for their kindness and assistance during the illness and death of our beloved Husband and Faher. INDIANA PLAYS VITAL ROLE IN NATION'S TANK-BUILDING PROGRAM

The U. S. Army's recent shift from the riveted M3 to the welded M4 combat tank was accompanied by a production boost felt in industrial plants throughout Indiana.

Changeover to the new type at cars. Original of the map hangs in the Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago.

The M4, blocked for shipment (below), is now on its long journey to take a vital, perhaps decisive, part in some far-off battle.

the huge, sprawling factory of Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Company in the Calumet district where the fast, deadly machines take final form brought a scheduled increase in output of 300 per cent and increased the value of sub-contracts for parts let to other Indiana manufacturers substantially.

Above is map which shows the arsenal as focal point in an almost nation-wide network of more than 1,000 plants which produce M4 parts. In peacetime, Pullman-Standard developed and built modern streamlined trains and freight

One reason for faster production is a line of giant jigs, which rotate the heavy armor-plate hulls upside-down and end-over-end for fast and easy "down hand" welding—an achievement of Pullman-Standard production engineers.

A NEW YEAR

This is an auspicious occasion, the beginning of a brand new, untouched year. The usual boisterous and rowdy celebration might not be quite so loud as conditions ushering in the year are not normal. We still remember the sorrow which hung over the arrival of '42, the pall of Pearl Harbor. That has not been forgotten tho partially avenged during the past year. A nation at war doesn't care as much for hilarity and gaity that comes easier when hearts are light and spirits carefree. We are more sober and solemn today for in this past year homes in this community have offered much to make 1942 a memorable date. There will be social gatherings with laughter and cries of "Happy New Year" from all over the world, for the show goes on! But this year is the beginning of another year of war and thousands of our boys are fighting at the time the bells ring out the old and in the new. They are performing their duty in far off camps and at near by posts. Noise and shouts will be heard today but there is a different spirit that is there too. Whereas we used to decide to reduce our waist line this next year, to cut out so much smoking, doing without this or cutting down on that, we are not making our our new resolutions of such a personal order. We have ONE resolution, or should have one, and that is to win this war and do all on our part possible to accomplish this aim. We should make a resolution that covers all humanity, that will strengthen and benefit all mankind. We should resolve to devote our time, energy and thought to bringing an end to aggression and tyranny and to help for a victorious peace.

BACK TO 'LONGIES'

Perhaps our News readers don't know that, according to heating and ventilating engineers, long underwear counteracts a 10-to-15-degree drop in a room's temperature. They did know that long underwear keeps the legs from becoming useless when the room temperature is low or when winds blow unmercifully hard on the street and country lanes. The trend in fashion for a long time, has been away from the 'longies' and ignore the cold blasts! With reduced heat this Winter the nation is flaunting its flannels as protection against colds. The new school of thought asks why the flannels were popularly red in color. The latest styles in this line coming usually in the white. Well, why were they red? It surely wasn't to save laundering so frequently. Recall the underwear waving and tossing on the line with arms and legs of red gesticulating in the wind? Maybe they came in red because it made them look warm along with feather ticks and soap stones.

KEEPING FED

There was a forecasting of privation for us in 1943 in the loss of farm labor. Lack of farm produce was a shadow to come. A new note gives us heart in the system of defering thousands of agricultural workers on farms in order to produce the next year food supply. The agricultural department designates farming essential and non-essential war produce and local draft boards can act accordingly. Watermelons, hops, popcorn, eggplant, cucumbers, head lettuce, squash, okra, pimentoes, artichokes, cantaloupes, garlic, and so on, are among the non-essentials. There are those who will contend this list includes some items that help to build up the country's morale—popcorn and melons for instance! We know the necessary farming as milk, certain cottons, meats, potatoes, soybeans, grains and on down the line. The national markets might not be as empty as forewarned.

FOR A BETTER YEAR

We do well at the beginning of this year to reflect upon our spiritual outlook for the months ahead. We should take stock of ourselves. We can find solace in the fact that all trouble is eased through prayer and in earnest communion as to the required strength of mind necessary to carry on for a better future. It is befitting to recall the lines spoken by George VI in one of his Christmas Day broadcasts several years ago: "I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown.' And he replied, 'Go into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than a light and safer than a known way'." And may this brighten our days to come with its reflected trust and its key to a safer journey for '43.

LEST YOU FORGET

The death of a man named Joe Gunson didn't mean anything to you and perhaps Bob Bescher who also died recently struck no chord in your memory either. But these two are names in baseball history and play a role there. Joe Gunson invented the catcher's mitt. Before 1888 catchers used a glove with only reinforced fingertips and consequently there were many broken fingers unless a kind pitcher would slow down on his balls! Before the invention of the mitt the catcher kept his position so far back of the plate he almost wasn't in the game. Now with the mitt he is in the limelight and becomes a field director of the game, usually. Bob Bescher, with the Cincinnati Reds in 1911, set a National League record by stealing 80 bases. This still holds. Some fans have no praise for stealing bases but those who study the game for all it has in it, say that base-stealing is one of the prettiest of the plays. So a salute to these two names of a game that is all American.

THEY LIKE IT

Back when cuddling and coddling babies was part of raising them, there was a fostering of mother love upon tots that was supposed to spoil them but was satisfactory in the reward received through delighted gurgles and goo-goos. Rocking and picking them up, walking with them hugged close bouncing them on the knee, has all been frowned upon in later years of 'enlightment' as ways of spoiling the child. Maybe because there have been so many books written on how to raise children that not to follow at least one of them would make the parent appear uneducated. It was old-fashioned, this business of cuddling. Newer methods used child psychology. Well, have book babies shown the other kind up so much? A book baby can't enjoy sucking the thumb, shouldn't get dirty with smeary, messy playing, early learns to care for itself and very young acquires manners and social airs. What they have missed! But maybe they are finding out this isn't the right way either. Modern nursery schools offer courses in real mothering, chances for tots to get soiled with paints and clays, permits small tempers to have an outlet, will say 'alright, go ahead' instead of the continual 'stop.' Evidently some of the procedures of the old days weren't so far off, after all. We have never felt that cuddling a child would kill him with germs, but that not cuddling him is apt to bring about a child that is not very affecionate or demonstrative. The cuddler and the cuddled both derive pleasure from the process.

LOOK Lady

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

Time was when it was nobody's business but our own if we spent the night fighting a poorly made bed. It was a free country and if we wanted to spend half the night pulling the sheet off our feet and the other half trying to cover them up again—well, it was our feet, our sheet and our jangled nerves.

We still have a free country and we want desperately to keep it that way. That's why, today, it's everybody's business whether or not we spend the night fighting a poorly made bed. For research shows that ill-fitting bedding robs us of restorative sleep and robs us of textiles—both vitally imperative if our victory plans are to be successful.

Short sheets affect our health because they are an irritation, preventing the peaceful relaxation essential to restorative sleep. Without restorative sleep, there is no period wherein the body can repair the effects of daily wear.

Short sheets affect our fabric conservation plans adversely because they wear out faster than properly fitting sheets, according to the American Institute of Laundering. Not only do these experts know that short sheets wear out faster, but they know why. And, they'd like for us to know, too, for this is the time to conserve every bit of fabric we can. Here's how the Laundry Institute explains the whole business of "frictional wear" which is what gets our sheets when they are too small for the bed.

When Johnny and Bobby begin a tug of war with one of our bath towels, their actions are so exaggerated our concern for the safety of the towel becomes acute instantly. We know that, unless stopped at once, they'll soon have the towel in shreds.

Tillie's nightly tug of war with short sheets tears down her morale and tears up the sheets, both mighty important things to avoid these days when health and fabric conservation are "musts" for a successful war effort.

But what most of us fail to realize is that, over a period of time, less forceful but more continuous yanking and pulling, twisting and crushing, can, and does, have the same effect on all fabrics.

The constant pulling and tugging given to ill-fitting bedding adds up to an appalling total of excessive tension, or strain. Over a period of time, this actually approximates the quick shredding of a towel under a vigorous tug of war!

So, right now, before you lose any more sleep, or sheets, check yours and make sure all sheets are large enough to tuck in securely at the foot and still leave enough to cover the shoulders.

Besides proving a wonderful health and fabric preserver at this time, sheets long enough to cover feet and shoulders at the same time keep quilts cleaner longer.

WHEN ANDREW "OLD HICKORY" Jackson, seventh President of the United States, went on his war forays he took his cedar chest along. Today's soldier leaves his cedar chest with the girl he left behind so she can safeguard his letters and her trousseau until his return. Preserved for posterity, Jackson's cedar chest is a featured show piece at his home, The Hermitage, near Nashville, Tennessee, while modern soldiers' cedar chests stand quietly in thousands of sweethearts' homes over the land.

PLANNING AND EXECUTION of household duties are streamlined to a minimum of effort and waste for wives of defense workers living in trailer-homes. In fact, the average modern trailer-home contains more modern labor saving equipment than the average home anchored to one spot. These wives have some mighty toothsome "main dish" recipes, too. For instance PIGS and PEAS. To make: drain liquid from canned peas, add diced cheese, a pinch of salt and pepper and let simmer until liquid is about ⅓ its original amount. While simmering, brown little pig sausages. Grease casserole with some of the sausage fat, alternate layers of peas and sausages, dot top with cheese and a little grated onion if you like it, pour liquid over and bake slowly from twenty to thirty minutes!

Irene

When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days.

She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young man in a corporal's uniform—as good-looking a man as Irene was pretty. On the blotter pad lay the telegram that had come that morning just as she was leaving for work.

With those long, well-shaped fingers she reached for a sheet of paper. She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau", but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A.E.F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring."

Slowly she began to sign her name. "Irene ——"

(Letter from an actual communication in the files of the Treasury Department.)

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JAN. 7, 1943 NUMBER 1

From Boys IN THE U.S.Army

Dec. 27, '42.
Maxton, N. C.

Dear Fred:

I received my first St. Joe News at Maxton today so thought I'd drop a line. I wish in this way to thank all the swell folks who have sent me Christmas Greetings or letters especially the ones I haven't answered. I have sent five pieces of mail each day for the past two weeks and at present have twenty-five unanswered, letters of cards.

The weather is fine here except a little rain and a freeze three or four times a week.

We sure had a swell Christmas dinner, turkey with all the trimmings, plus candy, cigarettes, cigars and more candy. The mess hall was decorated very nice, several of the officers and enlisted men's wives ate with us, all of our officers eat in the mess hall with us. I started on a week's guard duty December 23rd for my second time in the Army. I am looking to get moved again any day now, this squadron is way over its quota of men.

There are several of us boys here who graduated from Keesler A. M. November 5th haven't worked on a plane since.

I'm always glad to hear from the folks back home.

Yours,
Pvt. Virgil A. Laux, 48th T. C. Sq., 313th T. C. Gp., Army Air Base, Maxton, N. C.

L. J. Draggoo and O. B. Draggoo of Auburn, spent the holiday week in North Carolina with James, who will receive his diploma from the Seymour Johnson Air Base as aviation mechanic January 8th. They found James fine and liking his work. He sends his best to everyone back home.

Dec. 27, 1942.

Dear Home Folks:

I'm not quite so busy as usual so will try to write to all of you at one time, thanking you all for your many cards and letters. I haven't as yet been fortunate enough to attend church services in this camp. The reason being we are training seven days a week. Trying to squeeze 13 weeks of training into six weeks as you can see really keeps us busy. We get up at about 5:30 and go to bed at 9:30. From 6:30 A. M. until usually 9:00 P. M. we are drilling and having classes. It is all very interesting to me and I like it swell.

Maybe I shouldn't say this but Sunny California isn't what it is supposed to be. As far as I am concerned they can give it back to the natives. Rain—Cold—Hot day after day. No happy medium. I prefer Indiana with her six inches of snow and zero weather to this climate.

I wish to thank you all again for the many cards and letters and would like to answer each one individually but time doesn' permit. It does a fellow lots of good to know the folks back home are thinking about him.

We had a swell Christmas dinner this year. Turkey, baked ham, and everything you could ever think of along with pie, cake, ice cream, candy, nuts. We have one of the best bakers in our company, in fact, he can bake cakes, hot rolls, pies, cookies and donuts that would make lots of you folks at home wish you were out here if you could taste them. I won't say he has my mother beat because as far as I am concerned she is tops, but he certainly knows his dough.

I hope you all had a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I am waiting for the time when I will be back home to help you all celebrate the holidays. I must close now.

One of your Soldier Boys,
Charles H. Washler.

Camp Phillips, Kansas.
Jan. 3, 1943

Dear Fred:

I received my copy of The News today and it was very welcome.

Almost everyone here is a little homesick. Things are strange, the boys themselves are strangers to one another yet and an entirely different environment, make mail from home and a paper from home especially welcome.

How are things working out with the Conservation Club? The other day we were out on a march and I saw a couple of Kansas jackrabbits. They looked like small deer in comparison with Indiana cotton-tails.

Tell the St. Joe folks I'd enjoy letters from them and will answer all of them.

Looking forward to next week's copy of The News,

I remain your friend,
Max P. Dressel, 35536644, Co. C. 319th Engr. Bn., O. P. O. No. 94, Camp Phillips, Kansas.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Miss Mary Duffy was surprised Monday evening at her home by a small group of children who remembered this was her birthday.

Games were played. Later the guests were served cake, ice cream and wafers.

Those attending besides the guest of honor, were Elizabeth Smith, Helen Carey, Virginia Wilbern, Pat Fluke, Cordelia Fluke, Charles Freeburn and Eugene Gee.

The guests departed for their homes after thanking the teacher for a wonderful time and wishing Miss Duffy many more happy birthdays.

A Guest.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mrs. Beatrice Miller, of near Ney, O., was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iona Woodcox, Saturday.

Lela Northrup began working at the New Haven plant Monday. Leon Kees is also a new employee there.

Everett Sharp of Spencerville, was the first person to be granted a new auto license in Auburn Saturday at the license bureau.

The Happy Hustlers class of the Christian Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kees Friday, January 8. Every member is urged to be present.

David Conner, 84, father of Albert Conner of west of St. Joe, died last week at the home of a son, David at Churubusco.

For the benefit of News readers there will be found in each issue for the next ten weeks an article dealing with the Federal Income Tax, and we are anxious that people read these articles consistantly, as they will aid them in filing their returns, which are to be made by March 15th.

The Yokums say—

Holy Smokes! We gotter git some cash someware's so we kin put 10% into War Bonds. Everybody's got ter do that by New Y'ar's.

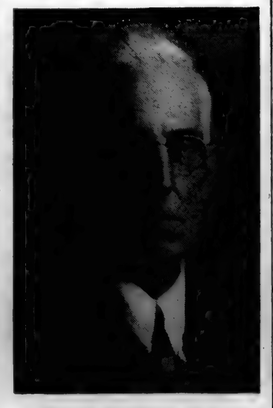
Indiana's conservationists will take pot shots at the Axis instead of crows this Winter, saving gasoline, tires and ammunition as a part of their war contribution. The annual crow control contest, sponsored by the Division of Fish and Game as a means of preventing an increase of these predadatory birds and protecting the more desirable species of game and song birds, has been suspended for 1943. The contest plan of enlisting conservationists in a drive against crows during the Winter months was inaugurated in 1934 and a similar event had been held each succeeding year with awards to the clubs accounting for the greatest number of crows.

L. W. YEISER CHOSEN TO HEAD COMMISSIONERS

Reorganization of the DeKalb County board of commissioners Monday aftrnoon resulted in the election of Lloyd W. Yeiser of Concord township as president, with Oscar Fulk of Smithfield township as vice president, and Frank Hilkey of Jackson township as secretary.

Mr. Hilkey started a new term, while Mr. Yeiser and Mr. Fulk have two years to serve on terms that started a year ago.

The annual report of Wayne T. VanAuken, county highway supervisor, was received by the board.It shows that the department started the year 1942 with a balance in cash of $6,281.65; that receipts from gasoline tax amounted to $120,336.02 and that receipts from other sources totalled $5,495.14. The grand total was $132,112.81.



LLOYD W. YEISER

Expenditures follow: personal services, $44,863.04; operating expense, $28,063.37; materials, $30,163.38; insurance and current expense, $12,232.95; and reconstruction, $6,315.17; leaving a balance on hand of $11,441.83. Mr. Van Auken explained also that there is about $5,000 worth of materials on hand.

It is anticipated that receipts will be reduced probably 40 per cent in 1943. The work of the department will likely be restricted to maintenance of the county's roads.

CENSORSHIP

On battle fronts every day men risk their lives to discover the location and strength of the military units of the enemy. Yet at home, too many of us are presenting the enemy with information of the same military value, the Office of Censorship says in a statement.

This is the information which newspapers and individuals are asked not to tell the enemy:

DO NOT TELL the names of ships upon which sailors serve.

DO NOT TELL the troop units in which soldiers serve overseas.

There is no objection to revealing that Pvt. John Jones is in Australia or that Seaman Tom Brown saw action in the Atlantic, but there is military information which endangers the lives of American fighting men in stating that Pvt. John Jones, "Company C, 600th Infantry," is in Australia, or Seaman Tom Brown, "Aboard the U. S. S. Wisconsin," is in the Atlantic.

The Office of Censorship says: "We ask editors not to publish these troop identifications, and we ask parents and relatives not to reveal them. Don't give the enemy anything that may lengthen the war!"

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness during the illness and the death of our wife and mother, to the minister and singers and all others who assisted in the burial services. — Ben Soule, Kenneth Miller, wife and sons.

War-time travel restrictions during 1942 resulted in a decrease of 30.4 per cent in attendance at the Indiana state parks and marked the first time since 1936 when park attendance has been less than a million persons. Attendance at the state parks during 1942, including Dec. 6, totalled 793,903 individuals who paid the ten-cent service fee. In the same period in 1941 attendance at the parks had been 1,284,855. For 1935 park attendance was 770,040 and for 1936, 907,734. Beginning with 1937, park attendance had been more than one million persons per year.

FALL ON ICE CAUSES SPINE INJURY

Miss Mary Duffy is in the Sanders Hospital at Auburn, where she is being treated for spine injury caused by a fall on the ice Monday evening as she was going for her mail. Miss Duffy is one of the local teachers and had just returned from her home where she spent her vacation. Should she continue to get along without serious trouble, she will be away for a week at least.

Others who fell on the ice Monday were Delora Curie and Erby Messimer but without injury. A number of automobiles became unmanagable but no injuries to persons resulted. A car turned over near Newville Tuesday, driven by one of the Inlows, but without injury.

Because of the condition of the country roads, no school has been held this week, and unless a change should be made that would lessen the danger of school bus driving, the school will remain closed.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri Tonship Farm Bureau met January 5th at 8:00 P. M. at the St.J oe Gym for their first meeting of the new year. Meeting was called to order by Brooks Trenary. All sang "Oh Susanna" and "Three Blind Mice" led by Mrs. Claude Laub. We were then led in prayer by Albert Yoder. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved and this followed with the yearly financial report.

County agent, C. E. Baker, then gave a talk on "The Outlook for 1943," informing us this would be a favorble year as far as farmers income is concerned. Also advised to expand in production as much as possible. Albert Yodert then gave a talk informing us on Federal Income and Gross Income Tax.

Frank Laub sang "Living for Jesus" followed with a number by a quartet composed of Claude Laub, C. E. Baker, Brooks Trenary and Albert Yoder singing "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

A vest contest was then held which proved much fun for all. This brought the meeting to a close and a lunch of popcorn and apples was served.

CLYDE RECTENWALL HEADS TRUSTEE GROUP

The new board of township trustees of DeKalb County held its first meeting in the office of Carl Stallman, county superintendent of schools, in the court house Monday.

Clyde Rectenwall of Spencer township is the new president of the group, with Walter Mutzfeld of Wilmington township as vice president and Joseph Gerig of Jackson township as secretary-treasurer. The out-going officers were: president, Fern A. Morr, Grant township; vice president, Ora E. Rowe, Fairfield township, and secretary-treasurer, Jay W. DeWitt, Richland township.

The trustees discussed the order of the Office of Defense Transportation to reduce school bus mileage by Feb. 1. It is proposed that busses be re-routed and part of the present service be eliminated. There are to be no side trips of a mile and a half or less and no pupils living within two miles of a school are to be called for unless they live along the regular route. There is to be cooperation between drivers of busses for high school and grade schools so that duplicating trips may be eliminated to the extent possible. Busses are to be left at the school houses while school is in session. The number of busses involved in DeKalb County is about 55.

Mr. Stallman was appointed a committee to arrange a meeting of trustees and bus drivers with an ODT representativt in order that the new ruling may be further explained.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

WHAT IS INCOME TAX?

The federal income tax is, as the name implies a tax levied upon incomes, and it is payable in relation to the amount of income. Income, for federal income tax purposes, means in general any compensation for one's services, whether the compensation be in money or in goods or other services; it includes also the net value received for the product of one's labor, as farm produce in the case of a farmer; income from investments; profits from business operations; and other gains from sales and exchanges of goods and property. Certain limited categories of income are, however, tax exempt, and to the extent of such exemption are excluded in computing the tax.

Because of exemptions from the tax given to persons having less than certain stated amounts of income, as well as because of various deductions and credits allowable, only a small proportion of the number of persons receiving income have until recently been subject to the tax. Thus, of the estimated 55 million persons in this country who received income in one form or another during the calendar year 1941, only some 26 million persons were required to file Federal income tax returns for that year, while of these same 26 million, more than 9 million were not taxable due to credits and deductions allowable.

As a result of the lowering of exemptions, many more persons are now subject to the Federal income tax than before, and for the calendar year 1942 it is estimated that more than 35 million persons will file Federal income tax returns. To the large number of persons now subject to the Federal income tax, who have never reported income before for Federal tax purposes, an understanding of the law and applicable regulations is of prime importance.

An income tax return is a declaration on the part of the taxpayer of his total taxable income for the year, together with the various deductions, exemptions, and credits to which he is entitled. It is in reliance upon voluntary disclosure, and the integrity of taxpayers generally, that the cost of administration of the income tax can be kept at a minimum. Though the return is a voluntary statement, any person who willfully makes a return which he does not believe to be true and correct in every material matter is subject to the penalties provided by law.

The first requirement of the law is the filing of an appropriate return. For individuals generally, this must be done by March 15 following the end of the calendar year. The return must be filed with the appropriate Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the person making the return.

Under the present law every single person, and every married person not living with husband or wife, having a total income (earnings, together with other income) of $500 or more, and married persons living with husband or wife throughout the taxable year, who have an aggregate income (total earnings of both husband and wife, together with other income) of $1200 or more, regardless of the amount of net income, must file a return.

CALLING WOLF!

The loss of man-power in fields of effort, in all branches of work that helped maintain this country, has been grieved over and tried to replace. One shortage has been called to our attention which previously escaped our notice and perhaps that of most the News readers. During previous years fur trappers were busy trimming down the packs of timber wolves who roamed in pretty free style over Northern country. This winter, due to the shortage of trappers, our troops stationed along the now International Highway to Alaska, are having to fight these beasts, mean and large are they as they run in their packs of six to ten, killing horses and cattle and driving moose, caribou, elk and deer from that section. This battle with the timber wolves calls for action on the part of our boys who plan to put a stop to the Japs. They can handle the timber wolves on the side!

FORTY ODD

It was not so long ago that there echoed the "Sorry, but we are not using men over forty," though the applicant had been well educated, was personable and no much past the forty mark. Yes it was, and still is perhaps, felt by some employers that a man over forty is slowing down, that he will not adapt himself so readily, learn new-fangled tactics as quickly and not take orders so willingly as the younger men. The dire need of more men in all fields has perhaps helped to dispel this illusion to a great extent, but we should not need a war to teach us that often a man is just beginning to find himself by forty. His possibilities are developed as he has aged. Notice the judgment exercised by a man of forty-five and one of twenty-five. You may be an old man in the field of baseball when you are in your late thirties, but usually other positions find you better equipped through time with added wisdom and increased experience. Later years find the individual more resourceful and more apt to stand strain because of a factor known as patience. Youth's hands may be stronger but that does not mean they are wiser. Youth must await its turn and age must not be put into the discard because it is no longer fresh. There are many names put before us in this international picture right now, names that speak of force and intelligence and in this list you find many are your so-called 'older' men. Few here in St. Joe who do not see why Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes on his eightieth birthday felt there is always more to learn. He put it this way: "—at seventy you have much to learn. I, at eighty, find new vistas opening around me in every direction." Nature may waste much but an intelligent man will not let a boundary line of age keep him from developing.

HOARDING AGAIN

Coffee rationing with us, meat about to be, clothing foreold for the near future, dairy produtcs a probability, conditions point to more printing of books and stamps and distribution shortages. But how else can we secure food stuffs for instance, when supplies are bought up in many cases by the hoarder? When a stamp permits one to a pound of coffee and there are numerous stamps in the family, though each is entitled to a pound it isn't necessary to cash in on all of them at the same time. If everyone in the country did so the coffee supply would be used up and some people would again have to do without. Because there is a shortage of butter there are housewives who buy in as much of a hoarder's supply as they can possibly keep in their refrigerator, because they want to play safe. To go into stores and invest in clothes you don't need, to go into shops and buy up gadgets for your kitchen which you'll never use but that you want to get before they disappear from shelves, are ways of hoarding along with the fellow who stored sugar in hugh amounts or piled cans of goods sky high in the basement. We all know that when we hoard we are actually helping the Axis to a victory. They can stop them at Stalingrad, defeat Rommel, hold the Solomons, but right here in St. Joe we can stage a front that is as bad as waving a swastika. Making a shortage of commodities intentionally is the idea! Buying War Bonds with one hand and hoarding food and clothing with the other isn't striking a balance.

Miss Pauline Roth, well known to many St. Joe folks, was the secretary at the paper company.

American flyers with the RAF are raining demolition bombs on Nazi cities today. These instruments of destruction so important in razing Nazi war plants, interrupting railroad transportation, and other war objectives, range now unto several tons.

The 500-pound demolition Bomb is one of the lighter ones. Bands are attached to facilitate handling and the fins are not attached until the Bomb reaches the airfield, because bending would injure accuracy. They cost up to $500. Your purchase of War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan will help provide Bombs for our airmen. Let's "Top that Ten Percent."

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The Office of War Information has compiled the following calendar of dates to be remembered by Hoosiers during January:

January 1—Date on which employers start withholding five per cent Victory Tax on amount of employee salaries in excess of $624 a year.

January 3—Last day for use of Stamp No. 27 in purchasing one pound of coffee.

January 4—Stamp No. 28 good for one pound of coffee until February 7.

January 15—Final day to register for War Rationing Book No. 1.

January 15—Final day for inspection of truck tires.

January 19—The second fuel oil ration period expires on this date but No. 3 coupons are now usable through amended regulations until February 20.

January 21—Gasoline No. 3 coupons in A Book worth four gallons each, good through this date.

January 22—Coupon No. 4 in gasoline "A" books worth four gallons each until March 21.

January 31—Stamp No. 10 good for three pounds of sugar through this date.

January 31—Tires must be inspected by this date.

Beginning in February, a great many staple foods and food products will be rationed, including canned fruits and vegetables, canned juices and soups, and dried and frozen fruits and vegetables. Vast quantities of these processed foods, which are specially adapted to shipment abroad, must go to the armed forces and to our lend-lease allies. The balance available to civilians will be distributed by means of War Ration Book Two according to the new "point" system. Scarcer products will have a higher point value than the more abundant, and point values may change as the supply of certain products increases or lessens, but the total number of coupon points for each ration period will be the same for every civilian everywhere—even for the soldier's wife who buys her food at army stations.

When point rationing starts, all household stocks of items coming under the ration plan must be reported. Hoarders will be penalized by having to deduct coupon points for excessive supplies they have managed to accumulate. But unless all citizens are equally patriotic, hoarders and food speculators may cause acute local shortages before the plan goes into effect.

Dairy products, which have risen steadily in price, have been brought under uniform price curbs, except at retail, for the first time. The order, affecting butter, cheddar cheese, evaporated and bulk powdered skim milk, fixes prices at the processod and wholesaler levels. Five kinds of citrus fruits and cane syrup are also under price control, and shelled peanuts, salted peanuts, and peanut butter have been placed under temporary 60-day price ceilings.

The country's baking industry will be affected by a new order that limits the number of varieties of bread sold during a given week, provides for the enrichment of all white bread, halts the sale of packaged sliced bread and offers other economics designed to prevent a rise in the price of bread to consumers.

But in spite of all measures to keep down the cost of living, a comprehensive survey of nearly 900 lines of goods indicates a price index at the highest level for the past 16 years. It is evident, therefore, that we must continue the battle against inflation unrelentingly during the coming year.

WAR BONDS

The tradition of American cavalry threads back to Indian warfare days and although modern armies are largely motorized today, the cavalry still plays an important role. Sturdy, well trained horses and excellent equipment and trappings are necessary.

When men are in the saddle for hours, their saddles, saddle rolls and other equipment must be made to stand the wear. Complete with carbine and helmets, the equipment for the cavalryman runs into hundreds of dollars. You can help provide this with your War Bond purchases. If you have not done so, join the Payroll Savings Plan and put ten percent of your income into War Bonds. U. S. Treasury Department

PERHAPS the three dictators will not pay the penalty for their crimes by hanging but surely the electric companies have braided a noose of electric wire — made in U. S. A. with electric power generated under American business management.

In all the world, no other country compares with America's war production — no other has the electric power — in fact, America has more power than Germany, Japan and Italy combined—and five times as much as we had ourselves during the last war!

They will really hang themselves, those dictators just as America will save itself by permitting free men to apply experience and training to industries such as ours.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JAN. 21, 1943 NUMBER 3

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

Another Coburntown boy has been transferred to a new squadron with the following address: Pvt. George T. Hart, 623 T. S. S.—T—1609, Amarillo Field, Texas.

Charles Washler of Coburntown has been moved from Camp Roberts, California and his new address is: Pvt. Chas. H. Washler, Hq. Co., 82 Chem. Bn., Fort Bliss, Texas. A. S. N. 35341787.

James Draggoo has written his new address to his parents and he wants to hear from all the folks. His present address is: Pvt. James Draggoo, 17 T. S. S. (SP) A. A. F., Barracks 231, Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Burley have received word that their son, Dr. Robert Burley, has been advanced from the rank of Captain to Major in the U. S. Army. Major Burley is in the Medical Division at Camp Rucker, Alabama. He has been in service since March 1, 1941.

January 9, 1943.

Hello Fred:

Tonite in the mail I received a little parcel, upon opening it to the front page I seen Vol LXVIII (58 years,) a little lower I noticed a little flag flying there and it said "From Boys in the U. S. Army, then some letters from boys stationed here and there in the U. S., reading those letters makes a guy know that more than one of his buddies are hearing Revielle, eating army chow and going to bed at Taps.

I also noticed a picture on the front page, a familiar face that I have seen there before, Mr. Yeiser. When I turned the page I read some local news, some maxims and the weekly schedule for the Huber Theatre, a place I remember quite well, the reel usually breaks when the best part of the show is on but that is what makes it the Huber.

The boys in our hutment have been reading this paper, boys from Brooklyn, California, Hawaii, even one guy from Puerto Rico, so there is really more people read a little paper than the average person thinks. Its my Saturday nite paper and the news in it is of great interest, also here is a hello to Virgil Laux in North Carolina, Charles Washler and Max in Kansas and to any other of you guys sitting on your bunk reading the many items of interest.

Tomorrow is Sunday so we sleep for awhile. Be good, fellows, lots of luck, and thanks to you Fred for the paper, and I'm waiting now for next Saturday nite and another edition of the home town paper, The St. Joe News.

Respectfully.

Dear Fred:

I have a little spare time, right now, so thought I would drop you a line. Since last week I have changed stations again. I left Florida last Wednesday and now am up at Madison, Wisconsin.

Am going to go to Radio Operators School, starting some time next week. Will go to school here for 14 weeks. You can forward my copy of The News here.

Well, I believe this will be all for now.

Your friend,
Pvt. Lewis Walter, 100th T. S. S., Bks. 1629, A. A. F. T. S., Truax Field, Madison, Wis.

Pvt. James E. Draggoo, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo, of St. Joe, was graduated this week from the Aviation Mechanics' course at this branch of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

At Seymour Johnson Field he studied airplane maintenance and repair. From this school and others of the Technical Training Command comes an unending stream of soldier-mechanics to "keep 'em flying." Most graduates proceed to tactical units of the Air Forces on fighting fronts throughout the world. A few are retained to instruct future students.

Private Draggoo was graduated from St. Joe High School. He was inducted at Toledo, Ohio, on July 10, 1942. Before entering the service he was employed in construction work.

Fred:

Another change in Charles' address. He left Camp Polk last Saturday for Ft. Knox, Ky. He has a P. F. C. now. He is studying to be a radio operator. He was the only one that passed to go to Ft. Knox. He likes it better as he is nearer home. His address is P. F. C. Charles W. Coburn, A. S. N. 35344492, 19th Co. T. G., A. F. S., Fort Knox, Ky., U. S. Army.

Thanks, Mrs. Clay Coburn.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Paul Keller is the last boy from St. Joe to enter the armed service having left on January 13th for Camp Perry, Ohio.

Our little friends at Butler, Forest and Susann Hamman, report to The News, that they are ill at their home with the mumps.

Miss Mary Duffy, who fell on the ice a couple of weeks ago, was returned home from Sanders Hospital, and is again taking her place as teacher in the high school.

The ordnance plant at New Haven is picking up all the availble help in this community. Mrs. Arthur Roberts and Mrs. Dessa Bailey are new employees this week.

Mrs. Inez Chapman left St. Joe last Friday for Ann Arbor, Mich., where she has employment in the dining room at the state college. She had been employed at the Bowser store for the past year, and her large number of friends here regretted having her leave.

Mrs. Blanche M. South of Auburn DeKalb County Chairman of the Women's division of the salvage program, cooperating with the general salvage program, has appointed Mrs. Lora Leighty as chairman of St. Joe and Spencerville. It will be appreciated if each housewife will watch the papers for all information regarding the following salvage programs: 1. Tin Can; 2. Silk and Nylon Hosiery. 3. Kitchen Waste Fats.

A home nursing class has been organized at St. Joe, and their first lesson was given last week. The class had an attendance of 17 and there is a possible 21 ladies wanting to take the course. The class will meet with Mrs. Edith Cole on Tuesday evening of next week and the ladies are asked to meet at News office at 7:00, where transportation will be arranged. Mrs. Erthenia Quance, County Red Cross nurse, of Auburn, is directing the work.

Monday night brought one of the worst snow storms of the season and several inches of snow fell. Roads were drifted badly, so that many who drive miles to work were compelled to remain home on Tuesday. The rural carrier was stalled in a snow bank so that the filling station had to send its truck and shovels out to free the car, before delivery could be resumed. School was dismissed at noon Tuesday to allow the bus drivers time to get their scholars home before dark.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that James Harper Leighty has filed his petition in the DeKalb Circuit Court to have the time and place of his birth determined. Said petition is set for hearing January 30, 1943.

Dairy School Friday at St. Joe

The Dairy School to be held January 22 will be conducted by E. T. Wallace, Purdue Dairy Extension Specialist. There will be two half day sessions in the county according to County Agent, C. E. Baker.

The morning session will be held at the St. Joe High School starting at 10:00 and run till noon.

The afternoon session will be held in the Assembly Room of the Court House at 1:00 P. M.

Indiana dairy farmers have been asked to increase the production of milk this next year. The goal for Indiana is 3,640,000 pounds of milk during 1943. DeKalb County farmers are urged to attend this Dairy Program at either St. Joe or Auburn on Friday, January 22.

SAVE ALL FOOD CANS

The Tin Can Collection Program is well under way. Each house wife is asked to do her share in this very important project.

Tin is an important metal in war industries, and the principal sources of it are cut off by war. Tin is used for bushings for airplane motors, machine-gun mounts, etc. Tin is an important part of Babbitt metal which is used for all sorts of machines.

Tin has never been salvaged before to any great extent, therefore, patriotic volunteer duty is necessary. Cooperate with your local salvage chairman, Mrs. Lora Leighty and thus make salvage of tin cans a big success in DeKalb County.

Our quota monthly, is one ton of fully "prepared" tin cans per 1,000 population which means DeKalb County with 24,756 population will have to salvage 24 tons of tin cans. One ton comprises 9,000 average-sized cans.

The Chairman of your community lists the following five steps in preparing tin cans:

1. WASH cans thoroughly after emptying contents. Remove paper labels.

2. OPEN Cans, bottoms as well as tops. Tuck in tops and bottoms.

3. FLATTEN cans by stepping on them. Leave enough space between sides to see through them. Do not hammer.

4. KEEP your "prepared" tin cans in a suitable container, separate from trash.

5. Take them to the following grocery stores where they will be collected and taken to Fort Wayne for shipment.

St. Joe, Bowser's Grocery, Wade's Grocery, west end.

Spencerville, Bowser's Grocery, Baker's Grocery.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. J. P. Buckingham, January 13.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern and the Collect read by Mrs. Harvey Hull.

Venezuela was the country and also a general history of South America was given by Mrs. Wilbern. Panama, "Land of Butterflies," as the Indians called it, was the topic of Mrs. Wm. Staman's lesson.

After a business session and the adding of one new member to our club, the meeting was adjourned to meet with Miss Helen Carey January 27. The hostess served vegetable salad, saltines, candy and tea.

RURAL WAR PRODUCTION TRAINING COURSES ABOUT TO START

Further and continued cooperation of the local high schools in the war effort, is evidenced by the announcing of two War Production Training Courses which will begin the first week of February.

Various phases of pork production will be offered at the St. Joe High School Building beginning Thursday night, Feb. 4, 1943, at 8:00 o'clock, C. W. T. for ten consecutive weeks.

Problems in increasing mutton and wool production will be offered at the Spencerville High School beginning Wednesday night, Feb. 3 at 8:00, C. W. T. and continuing for ten consecutive weeks.

These courses are similar to the Adult Evening Classes that have been taught the past three years. The classes will meet only once a week and on the same night each week. Any farmer interested in attending either school should plan to attend the first meeting as we are starting off the first night with a lesson on the subject.

MILK PRICE ADVANCE

Effective, Friday, January 22, the price of milk from the City Side Dairy will be 12 cents per quart.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

PERSONAL EXEMPTION

Every individual is allowed a credit against his net income which varies with his domestic status, that is, whether he is (a) a single person, (b) a married person living with husband or wife, or (c) a head of family. This credit is known as personal exemption, and is shown on line 21 of the return Form 1040. The amount of the personal exemption also varies depending upon the period during which the taxpayer occupied the particular exemption status.

The personal exemption for a single person is $500 for the year; for a married person living with husband or wife, $1200; and for a "head of family," $1200. (Personal exemption as head of a family has no effect on liability to file a return.) For Federal income tax purposes, widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, as well as persons who have never been married, are classed as single persons.

A head of family is defined as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for those dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation." A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, may, therefore, enjoy a head of family exemption under certain conditions.

Taxpayers using a Simplified Return (which is permitted if the gross income for the year is $3000 or less and derived solely from earnings from employment and/or from dividends, interest and annuities) obtain personal exemption based on their status as of July 1 of the year. Thus, a taxpayer married and living with husband or wife on July 1 is entitled to $1200 personal exemption on Form 1040A; if he were a widower on July 1, his exemption would be $500, irrespective of the date on which he became a widower. The amount of the exemption is not deductible from the income but is reflected in the amount of tax shown in the table on the reverse side of the form.

Taxpayers using return form 1040 obtain personal exemption proportionate with the number of months during which the particular status is held. Thus, for a person who married on July 1, who was not a head of family prior to his marriage) the personal exemption would be $850 ($250 for the six months as a single man, plus, $600 for the six months as a married man.) In this example it is assumed that the wife has no income.

Married persons may, however, file joint returns, even though one has no income, and by filing a joint return a couple married during the year may obtain an exemption amounting to the exemption to which they would be entitled for the period of married status, plus the amount of their individual exemptions prior to their marriage. In the example given the total exemption in a joint return would be $1100 ($250 for each spouse for six months plus $600 for six months married status.)

If a husband and wife living together both have income and file separate returns on Form 1040, the personal exemption applicable to a married person may be taken in the return of either or divided between them in any way as they may agree, but the total personal exemption taken in the two separate returns may not exceed $1200.

The county general fund is to receive $58,508, a reduction from $71,988; county welfare fund $88,030, approximately the same as in 1942; and three mile road bond fund, $1,958, a reduction from $4,242.

Less Poor Relief in 1943

A feature of the abstract is the item of township poor tax, which is reduced from $28,321 to $9,291. No taxes for this purpose will be collected from Auburn, Butler town, Corunna, St. Joe and the following townships: Butler, Concord, Fairfield, Franklin, Spencer, Jackson, Newville. Stafford, Union, Wilmington and Richland. Assessments against the other units follow:

Altona -$246; Ashley $69; Garrett $3,598; Waterloo $633; Grant $953; Keyser $24,027; Smithfield $532; Troy $855.

Other funds are set up as follows: Township tax $16,227; tuition tax $117,784; special school tax $152,861; school building bonds tax $23,088; library tax $10,472; vocational tax (Garrett only) $2,570; general funds of cities and towns $44,993; street fund tax (Auburn only) $3,054; sinking fund (Butler) $1,168; park tax (Auburn) $509; sewer tax (Auburn) $3,563.

The valuation of lands and lots in the county assessed in 1942 is $8,291,370, improvements $8,924,510, personal property $6,176,170. Mortgage exemptions approved total $1,524,650 and soldiers' exemptions $60,740. Total cash value of taxables is $29,253,870, an increase of $1,566,360. Polls number 4,098, 4,098, an increase of 3.

IRON HORSE GOES TO WAR

The coal-burning locomotive has gone to war. A hero unsung—just a great iron horse doing its job day in and day out towards winning the greatest war of all time.

The railroads of this country are using more than 10 million tons of coal each month to move the freight and passengers, the great majority of which is war materials and supplies and the movement of troops.

No industry ever undertook a more herculean job than that now being done by our railroads, and bituminous coal has made possible its accomplishment.

The trend towards Diesel and oil-burning locomotives has definitely reversed— the old reliable coal burner is seeing us through. Some of these iron horses are streamlined, some are of conventional type; many have not been used for some time, but they were all ready and the coal industry was ready with the kind and grade of coal needed to do the job. As of October 1, this year, there were 24,807 freight locomotives on Class 1 railroads, of which 51 were Diesels and 353 electric. Some few of the steam locomotives use oil, but that number is diminishing. Over 97 per cent of the tractive effort is in the steam locomotives.

The picture is equally favorable to steam engines when passenger service is looked into —458 electric and Diesels out of 6,932 units devoted to passenger serivce.

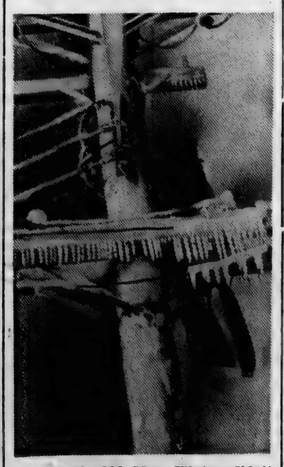
Including all the oil-burning engines in the West—the use of fuel oil in locomotives amounts to only about one-sixth of the total fuel consumed by American railroads.

The Government-approved schedule of locomotive construction for the next several months shows the steam engine out in the lead. For example, 250 steam locomotives are scheduled for production in the first eight months of 1943, compared with 36 road Diesels during the same period. Production of switching Diesels during the first six months of 1943 is scheduled at 100 units.

Now is the time to do some intensive study of the relative merits of the modern coal-burning locomotive versus other types, and the industry's research departments, in cooperation with certain railroads and builders of locomotives, have plans under way to develop to the utmost the coal burning locomotive.

The coal-burning locomotive of today is just as much an improvement over 1920's model as the present airplane is an improvement over those in use during the last war.

When Winter Comes



Although Old Man Winter didn't make his official 1942 debut until December 22, cold weather refused to wait for the meteorologist's "go signal." Here a lineman battles snow and ice to make sure that power is uninterrupted. The "Winter Solstice" doesn't mean half as much to this chilly gentleman as the thermometer's reading.

Joseph C. Grew Warns

Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW

United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Report From Tokio."

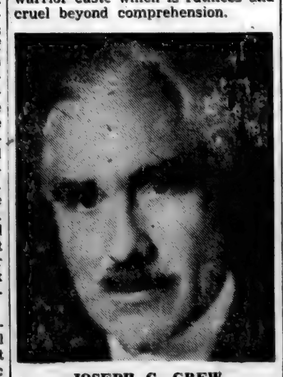
(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp albums.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In describing one of the big air battles over Guadalcanal a recent newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Lunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up next went to the rescue of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue boat reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, aimed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked him out with a boat hook and pulled him aboard the American craft a prisoner.

Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly demonstrate that war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot end in compromise.

For ten years I lived in Japan. The truth as I know it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.

The Japanese are pawns of a senseless but mighty militarism—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.



JOSEPH C. GREW
Says It's Fight to Finish

From the flood of eye witness accounts of atrocity and bestiality one fact shines clear. We must utterly crush that machine and caste and system. If, however, we Americans think that collectively and individually we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, we shall unquestionably run the risk of a stalemate with Japan. I do not have the slightest doubt of our eventual victory. But I do not wish to see the period of our blood, sweat and tears indefinitely and unnecessarily prolonged. We must not fail to realize that we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot be broken even by successive defeats and untold economic hardship, a people who gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation. We must also remember that Japan did not start this war without carefully laid military plans for victory over the United States and a peace dictated by their war lords at the White House.

This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It is a war in which half measures of any kind mean incredible waste of material, energy and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album is symbolic of a half effort. There are, I am told, roughly 100 million partially complete War Stamp albums now in circulation. These uncompleted Stamp albums are, in a measure, like a 100 million threats to a speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed in for a Bond, you the owner have helped some soldier or sailor take a forward step on the uphill road to total victory. U. S. Treasury Department

EVERY CHICK RAISED IS A
Slap at the Axis!

America's strongest weapon is her ability to out-produce any country in the world. That goes for chicks as well as tanks, and each one is an important cog in our united war effort. So this year, let's "Slap the Axis" again by starting more chicks, better chicks, and raising a bigger percentage to maturity.

28% MORE POULTRY, 18% MORE EGGS That's what Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has asked for in 1943. It must be done, and it can be done with quality-bred chicks and lots of them. Place your chick order today. Early orders will contribute greatly to our production, your profits and the war effort.

Rationing Dates and Regulations

The Office of War Information announces that rationing regulations and dates as they apply to Indiana are as follows:

FUEL OIL

Second period coupons are good for ten gallons per unit until January 26 in Zone B (northern Indiana counties including Marion) and January 25 in Zone C (southern Indiana counties.)

Third period coupons, now valid at 11 gallons per unit, are good until February 27 in Zone B and February 23 in Zone C.

Fourth period coupons will become good on February 7 in Zone B and February 8 in Zone C.

Coupons for cooking, lighting, industrial, commercial and farming have expiration dates written on the sheets by the local boards which issued them. All coupon sheets and also all unused coupons must be returned to the board after expiration of validity.

GASOLINE

"A" Book—There are 32 coupons in this book—four pages with eight coupons to a page. Currently they have a value of four gallons each. Coupons No. 3 expire January 21. The "A" book provides 90 miles of personal driving—computed at 15 miles per gallon—and 150 miles of occupational driving per month.

"B" Book—Issued for occupational driving only, it permits up to a maximum of 470 miles a month. Of this, 150 miles is taken from the "A" book occupational allowance. The "B" book contains 16 coupons each having a value of four gallons each with an expiration date from three months to one year indicated on the book. The coupons can be used at any time during the stated period.

"C" Book—Rationing regulations list the group eligible to receive "C" Book. Current books expire March 1. They contain sufficient coupons to provide mileage alloted from the period December 1, 1942 to March 1, 1943. Each coupon has a value of four gallons. "A" and "B" or "A" and "C" books are used in conjunction.

"T" Book—These are issued to truck owners holding a certificate of war necessity obtained through the Office of Defense Transportation. Each coupon has a value of five gallons.

"D" Book—Issued to motorcycles. They have a value of 1½ gallons each.

"E" or "R" Books—Issued to non-highway users. Each coupon in an "E" book has a value of one gallon. Each coupon in an "R" book has a value of five gallons.

TIRES

Every one who complies with the gasoline ration order is eligible for tires within the limits of the local War Price and Rationing Board quota. "C" book holders and commercial vehicles come first. "B" books have preference over "A" books. Holders of "B" and "C" cards must have their tires inspected by February 28. After that "B" holders must have their tires inspected every four months, and "C" card holders every three months. "A" card holders must have their tires inspected by March 31 and every six months thereafter.

COFFEE

Until February 7, 1943 No. 28 coupon from each war ration book issued to an individual over 15 years of age at that time of registration is good for one pound of coffee. A consumer who arranged to eat 14 or more meals per week in the same establishment must surrender his rationing book to that establishment.

Coffee for church groups, fraternal and other organizations comes under regulations as follows: The meal service must be open to non-members. The organization must be recognized as permanent in the community. Meals must be for the purpose of raising revenue. Meals must be consistent with the character and purpose of the organization.

SUGAR

Until January 31, 1943 the No. 10 coupon is good for three pounds of sugar. A consumer who arranged to eat 14 or more meals per week in the same establishment must surrender his rationing book to that establishment.

Institutional users of sugar must keep record of the uses of the 25 commodities listed on the report form received at the time of registration for coffee. This record must be retained in their files until January 31, 1943.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mrs. Hazel Folk of Fort Wayne, arrived Sunday at the Geo. Wilson home, where she will remain indefinitely. Her son just left for the Army.

Concord township has made quite a remarkable response to the sale of the little Christmas Seal, and for fear that some have overlooked reporting, we have been asked to kindly call their attention to this, as full report is soon to be made public and every cent wants to be accounted for.

See those "Mystery Pal" cards at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Parlee Snyder of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday in their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. James Newell, all of Fort Wayne were recent callers in the J. E. Foltz home.

Forty-seven active cases of tuberculosis have been revealed among employees of the schools of Indiana, by the recent testing required by the law passed by the 1941 state legislature, making it mandatory that all teachers, custodians and bus drivers be examined at least once every year for tuberculosis. Of these active tuberculosis cases, 21 were teachers; 15 were custodians; and 11 were school bus drivers.

Capt. Rodney Fleming 67, of Fort Wayne, dean of game wardens of Indiana, and well known to St. Joe and Spencerville sportsmen, was buried Monday of this week at Fort Wayne. He was ill but two weeks. He became warden at 23 and served for nearly 44 years as such in Indiana. He was the second man appointed to this job in Indiana, and the oldest in point of service. Mr. Fleming was born at Toledo, Ohio, and came to Indiana at the age of 12 years.

Mrs. Minnie Passon is reported being among those injured during the icy time, when she was returning home from a call at her neighbor's, she fell near her home and broke the large bone in her right wrist. She called Roy Koch and he secured Wilbur Yeiser and they took Mrs. Passon and her daughter immediately to Fort Wayne where her other children live and soon she had the injury taken care of. She is home and feels quite good over the accident.

Emergency feeding of birds and other wildlife is in progress in some parts of the state where snow and ice has blanketed natural food sources. Weather conditions over most of the state have not made emergency feeding necessary but conservation officers and club members are ready to distribute screenings, grain and other food whenever it becomes necessary due to weather or a shortage of food materials. With the state-wide organization of a thousand conservation clubs forming the basis for this emergency feeding of birds and wildlife, Indiana has been a leading state in this phase of wildlife conservation for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Likes entertained with a dinner on Sunday in honor of Mr. Likes' brother Pfc. Alvin Likes who was home on a furlough. The following guests were present Lamont J. Likes of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seigman, sons, Dick and Bobby and daughters, Lila Jean and Marjorie, and Dale Wortz of Defiance, O., Mrs. Sherman Zimmerman, son Jerry, and daughter, Phyllis of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Mable Likes and daughter, Joan, of Butler, the honored guest Pfc. Likes and the host and hostess and family. Alvin has been stationed in the Howard Field Canal Zone for about 15 months, but returned to Dale Marby Field, Tallahasse, Fla., about five weeks ago. He has been visiting his brother, Cecil Likes and family returning to Florida last Saturday.

"Sherman said it!"

"WAR is hell!" It's a tough racket all the way down the line—from the men who are throwing bullets at the Axis to the last K. P. The newspaper headlines carry the story of combat, but there's little enough glory and beaucoup hard work for the millions behind the lines who must maintain the Army in the field.

In industry, too, there are millions of unsung heroes. Many of our employees have joined the armed forces—those left behind are working like beavers to fill the gaps in the ranks.

In spite of shortages in materials and manpower, this Company has been able to provide adequate electric service for industry and commerce and the home. Before Pearl Harbor—before "lend-lease"—we planned the construction program that made this possible. It's just another example of American business management that has provided this country with more electric power than all the Axis nations combined—five times as much as we had in the last war.

Climaxing a solid year of Holiday Celebrations was a New Year surprise party for Dad's birthday, held in the J. M. Hibler home, Defiance, O. There was a carry-in mid-night lunch and dinner for the following day. The table was appropriately covered with gold metalic paper. The centerpiece was red tapers with fir branches.

The ceiling lights of the basement recreation room, where the crowd made their entrance, were stealthily exchanged for photo high powered bulbs. Attracted by the noise, Dad was drawn to the group who, immediately started turning Dad's own secretly loaded camera, catching for permanent record, his pleased surprise. By noon the next day "Mom" had the confetti cleaned up and was settled in the living room with Dad, while the children prepared dinner.

Steak, French fries, frozen carrots and peas, vanilla ice cream, frozen strawberries and a huge chocolate baker's cake decorated in yellow, saying "Happy Birthday to Dad," was served. An armload of gifts completed the day.

Those present were Mr. C. J. Hibler and Miss Mabel Morfott of Toledo, O., Miss B. Hibler, McLare, O., Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hibler, Jonquil and John. Miss Jill returned home New Year's night having spent the week in Defiance.

South American Colors Smart

The South American way having captured the fancy of North American women, full skirts, big tropical prints and daring Peruvian and Brazilian peasant colors—tomato red, strong yellows and dark bluish greens—add pepper and spice to the Summer fashion diet of washables. A little sugar, too, if American Institute of Laundering recommendations for washing are followed!

Based on their tested recipes for washing colors and fabrics safely, the Laundry Institute recommends that tomato red never be washed with any other color except red, and strong yellows with no other colors except yellows. Dark bluish green, however, may be washed with dark browns, dark blues, purples, or dark greens without marring true color tones. And, because most of these colors are found in linen-like rayons, water definitely on the coolish side, no more than 70 degrees Fahrenheit, should be used for washing.

From Boys IN THE U.S. Army

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lake of Coburntown have received word from their son, who was recently inducted and gives his address as: Pvt. Stanley H. Lake, Plat. No. 1252, N. S. N. C. B., San Diego, California.

Word from Frank Curie says he is getting along fine and that he likes Army life quite well. Is very busy taking tests, etc. He is quartered in a very nice hotel and friends may reach him by writing to: Pvt. Frank Curie, Jr., U. S. Army Flight 294, 1129th Tech. Sqd. (SP) Basic Training Ctr., No. 9, Miami Beach, Florida.

For the benefit of friends we give this change of address: Sgt. T. Walter W. Zonker, Jr., 170 F. A. Bn. Serv. Btry., Santa Barbara, California.

Another address of a former Coburntown boy, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Worden now of Hicksville: Pvt. Robert E. Worden, A. S. N. 35343747, W 3rd Bat. Hdq. 329th Inf., Camp Atterbury, Indiana, A. P. O. 83.

Max Markle of Spencerville, passed his final examination and left yesterday for his basic training in the army at Camp Perry, Ohio.

A new address for Virgil Laux of Spencerville, who is now at: Pfc. Virgil A. Laux, 65th T. C. Sq., 403rd T. C. Gp., Army Air Base, Alliance, Neb.

John Harter and Calvin Mansfield of Newville, went to Toledo, Jan. 26 for medical examination as to fitness, for their induction into the army.

Marcel Pugsley of St. Joe, Max Markle and Jack W. Grover of Spencerville, and D. O. Wasson and Richard Davis of Newville township, left Wednesday for Camp Perry, Ohio, where they will begin their military training.

L. A. Schendel, B. & O. agent, who moved here recently from Ohio, reports that they have given their third son to the armed forces, and that Harry C., who was sent recently from Napoleon, O., to Camp Perry expected to be dispatched to the communications department or the Peritroopers, but they have not heard since his leaving. LeRoy A. is overseas and is Sergeant in Coast Artillery, and Melvin L. is a Lieutenant and is located at Tucson, Arizona.

Fort Benning, Ga. — James Richard Maxwell of St. Joe, Ind., was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States Saturday upon successful completion of the Officer Candidate Course at The Infantry School at Fort Benning. Lt. Maxwell is the son of Roy E. Maxwell of R. R. 1, St. Joe, Indiana.

The new lieutenant was inducted into the army on June 12, 1942 and served with the 313 Inf,, 79 Div., before going to Officer Candidate School three months ago. He held the rank of CPL. before being commissioned. The new officer is a graduate of Concord Township High School in St. Joe, Indiana.

At The Infantry School, world's largest institution of its kind, the local officer took a three months course to fit him for his new responsibilities. The course covers the technique of handling all the varied modern infantry weapons and the tactics of leading small infantry units to combat. It also includes study of many varied subjects which future officers must know along the lines of administration, military law, etc.

The men who attend the Officer Candidate Schools are the best privates, corporals and sergeants from the entire army, selected by their superiors for outstanding intelligence and qualities of leadership. During the course even the mildly incapable are weeded out, so that the men who graduate with commissions are America's finest soldiers, fully qualified to be the leaders in our new army.

James arrived Sunday evening to spend a 10-day furlough with his father and sister.

GOOD HALTH IN 1943

Christmas Seals are bullets for trained workers fighting for you on the home front.

10,000 out of every million men who have passed physical examinations by their local draft boards and have been declared physically fit, have been rejected at induction centers because X-ray inspection of their chests revealed they had tuberculosis.

The army and navy are doing a commendable job of keeping tuberculosis out of our armed forces. Help your tuberculosis association to keep it out of your home.

You are not asked to shoulder arms but you can help in home defense by buying your share of Christmas Seals.

St. Joe and Concord township have made a splendid record this year, but there are still a few who have not responded to the Seals sent out before Christmas. Will you please make remittance for Seals used at that time, which will be greatly appreciated by the county association and the local chairman.

AIR RAIDS OVER AMERICA

Henry J. Taylor

There are high military authorities in America who are convinced Nazi bombers will attack our seaboard. They look for them first over Washington and New York.

Large sections of the public may not believe it will happen, but when you take a count among important air authorities, you often get the answer, "They'll come over. Any time. Make no mistake about that."

And I found a general feeling that when the Nazis do come, there may be loud cries of "Pearl Harbor." As one who has seen Nazi planes operate over Russian cities, over London, in the Mediterranean, Egypt and the Middle East, I know this could be very unfair to the Army, and to the top officers involved.

"There is no way to stop a scattered raid," specialists in air defense agree. They made no bones about this anti-aircraft batteries and interceptor fields from Florida to New England.

"It is impossible to have enough anti-aircraft batteries and inteceptor planes to keep off every Nazi attack. All America's fighting production would have to be retained at home where the Nazis would like to have us keep it, in order to do this. And, even then, bombs would fall."

I had been with many of these same authorities during training periods in England and in action elsewhere. I have just been to their interceptor fields here. Seeing them back in the United States, assigned to our air defense, I asked them how we could expect to do what is not done any place in the world, namely, develop a shut out against enemy attack. "We can't. And the Nazis, of course, know this."

It is any one's guess why the Nazis would come. They cannot attack in force and they cannot maintain sustained raids. But they could try to set up a hue and cry among us with their bombs, to pin down here more of our fighting materials than are really needed. That would be the chief military importance of such a mission, providing they could get our public excited. Their idea would be to keep us over-burdened with air defense, at far more cost to us than to themselves.

Further, they could please the Japs in retaliation for our raids on Tokio, and as far as the German people are concerned, Herr Gobbels could not have a better dish to serve than headlines of "Washington Burning, White House on Fire, New York in Flames." This would be his description of the first whisp of smoke, no matter how small. As the bombing increased over Germany it would be worth a lot to Hitler to print it.

Reichmarshal Goering knows how to get planes here. A squadron can hop from Germany to the barren stretches of Laborador and come down from there without any trouble. Or miscellaneous planes can be catapulted at sea. The Germans experimented with this in American waters, used the catapult ships Friesland off our shores before the war began. Their new sea raiding cruisers carry planes, and of course they can sneak out aircraft carriers.

The answer in Army circles is simple, "Of course they can do it. Why not?"

Our air defense officers are good, their interceptors are good, their anti-aircraft is good. They are fully prepared, and entirely able to repulse any concerted attack, make it more expensive than it could possibly be worth for the Nazis that would give Herr Goebbles his headlines. But they can't stop any hysteria that cries "Pearl Harbor" if the Nazis hit the Capitol or the White House or blast the Brooklyn Bridge.

Trained Army Weathermen Ignore Old Gus Groundhog

Forecasters Rely Mainly on Science, Not Shadowy Superstition.

Whether old Gus Groundhog sees his shadow on February 2 is a matter of complete unconcern to a group of men vitally interested in everything pertaining to weather—the United States air forces.

Gus has been thoroughly discredited as a weather prophet. But the airmen of the army and navy never have depended on such unreliable factors as shadows, aching corns and rheumatism for meteorological information. Rather they look to fully trained scientists for their advance dope.

The painstaking work of the Enid, Okla., army flying school is typical. There are no holidays or vacations on the calendar of the air force weathermen. They are keeping 48 hours ahead of Mother Nature's whims 24 hours a day.

Here's their job, in brief:

They provide an accurate and complete description of the weather the pilot will encounter on his proposed flight.

They provide assistance to the pilot in planning his flight, or recommend change of flight plan if it seems advisable.

They recommend to the clearing authority that the pilot not be cleared for a flight when in the opinion of the forecaster weather conditions will cause the flight to be dangerous.

They recommend an alternate route when necessary, giving their reasons for the change.

Finally, they carefully distinguish between instrument and contact clearances.

A contact clearance is granted a pilot when the ceiling is above 1,000 feet and visibility is above three miles, enabling the pilot to see the ground at all times. A weather clearance is marked "instrument" when the ceiling is less than 1,000 feet and visibility is limited. If instrument conditions are anticipated within 100 miles on either side of the proposed route, the instrument clearance is issued.

The personnel of the EAFS weather office is divided into two groups, the observers and the forecasters. The observers record sky conditions, temperatures, dew point, wind direction, and wind speed, while the forecasters plot the information on maps and graphs.

Two weather observers at the Enid army flying school prepare to release a captive balloon to determine wind direction and speed aloft. Readings are taken every minute up to an altitude of 20,000 feet.

At 10:30 o'clock each morning, the observers send up a captive balloon to determine wind direction and speed aloft. Readings are taken by radio signal every minute up to an altitude of 20,000 feet.

Other data are obtained from the microbarograph, a barometer which gives a continuous reading on a cylindrical graph. Affected by air pressure, the barometer indicates bad weather when it falls, and satisfactory conditions when it rises.

A wind recorder in the office gives a constant graph reading on wind speed and direction. The instruments which determine this are located on top of post operations building.

Hour after hour, three teletypewriter machines clack away their mysterious-looking messages of symbols and abbreviations, understood only by the weather expert.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club held their regular meeting at the Akins Tea Room, Monday evening, with a very good attendance. President F. B. Leighty presided and following the bountiful dinner, he read a communication from the Lions National President, urging the members to a greater service. O. E. Ginther was the new member for this meeting.

Lion Ralph Sechler, head of the Military Affairs Committee, introduced Lion Herman Brown of Auburn, who complimented the club for taking over the distribution of the new war rationing books for Spencer, Concord and Newville townships.

Mr. Brown explained the new book and the reasons for rationing. The main one being that of more equal distribution after our soldiers and allies have been supplied. Book No. 2 or the pomt rationing book, is rather complicated but ample explanations will be made through the press of the country before they go into effect. To get Book No. 2, the applicant must present book No. 1. John Zimmerman of Auburn, was present and answered many questions in regard to the rationing. Mr. Zimmerman was the original head of rationing in DeKalb County and has kept apace with the program and the ruling and changes as they come along. The Lions will set up a headquarters at Spencerville and at St. Joe. The time will be about March first.

The Spencerville committee is composed of Franklin Robinson, Everett Paschen and Maurice Hollabaugh, and St. Joe will be represented by Ralph Sechler, Derwood Ridgway and Frank Bowman. The first named at both places will be the chairman.

The February 22 meeting will be open to the ladies, Washington's birthday will be celebrated.

Lion Robinson brought up the March of Dimes campaign and a response of dimes resulted raising $2.00 for the fight on infantile paralysis.

Dr. Earl Frisbie of Butler, was present and showed two reels of technicolor pictures he had taken on vacation trips. The first was on a trip north through Michigan to the Upper Peninsula and there shipped by boat to Canada. The second reel was a trip South to Florida. The men all enjoyed the pictures and the comments by Mr. Frisbie as the pictures were shown. This is a hobby of Dr. Frisbie's and he gets a great deal of satisfaction in showing the pictures to groups.

OUR WOODS

Did you know that the crate for one fighter plane requires as much lumber as for building a five room house? Consider the wood which must be used for shipping machinery, food, munitions to the fighting fronts that which stays home to be used in the construction of camps, of warships and transports. Added together you can see what a drain is put upon the forests of the country and you will wonder! We do not want to be robbed of our woodlands, the pride of peacetime, which nature gives us in abundance if we in turn treat the trees with consideration. May those who cut for lumber look to the future, planting anew and choosing most carefully. It takes years for nature to give us a forest, man can with fire and axe erase one in a short time. Tomorrow they realize the abuse and waste and tomorrow is too late.

AN ANNIVERSARY

We come again to February first which is the anniversary of the all high branch of our government, the Supreme Court. It was formed 153 years ago and commanding respect and power ever since. The Court struggled for its education and its present place in the affairs of state and has suffered opposition and the resulting criticism since its decisions vitally affect the people and their habitations. We realize that the Supreme Court members do not and can not make the laws, but most of our News readers realize that they can change them, declare them invalid and interpret the laws according to their personal beliefs, though their interpretation is supposed to be based on the Constitution. With this amount of power in their hands we do well to have strong and dependable men sitting on the Supreme Court bench. It is an honorable institution and we wish a Happy Birthday from our hearts.

It Takes Both, War Bonds and Taxes, to Win—Victory Tax Special Direct Levy Asked to Help Meet Heavy War Costs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Approximately 50,000,000 American workers began to make an added contribution to the War cost this month in the form of a 5% Victory tax.

For many millions of Americans the Victory tax and the 1943 income tax are the first direct levies to be made by the Government to meet the staggering War costs. And it will take both . . . taxes and War bonds . . . to provide the supplies and materials to win the War and the peace afterwards.

The Treasury Department estimates that the Victory tax will raise approximately $2,000,000,000. Every person receiving more than $12 per week must pay the Victory tax upon that part of his income over and above the $12. For example, a married man with a salary of $50 per week, with two dependents, would make only a net payment of $1.06 per week after allowance for post-war credit.

The Government has made every effort to make the impact of the new tax as light as possible. The law, in effect, provides that in the case of married persons whose sole income is from wages or salary, 40 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $1,000) plus 2 percent for each dependent (up to a maximum of $100) may be used as a credit against whatever Federal income taxes the individual may owe at the end of the year—provided he has purchased certain War Bonds, or paid old debts or paid life insurance premiums equal to the amount of this credit. In the case of single persons this credit will be 25 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $500). Should the Victory tax credit exceed the individual's Federal income tax, the unused portion of the credit may be refundable to the taxpayer.

Even with the Victory tax, the 1943 income tax, and all other taxes paid by individuals, the average American will have more money with which to buy War Bonds than he has ever had before. Here are the statistics which explain that statement:

In 1940 the total income payments made to the American people amounted to about 76 billion dollars. In that same year the total personal taxes paid, Federal, State and local, were roughly 2.5 billion dollars, leaving 73.5 billion dollars of disposable income. During 1943 total income payments are expected to rise to 125 billion dollars and total personal taxes under existing revenue legislation will be 15 billion dollars—leaving 110 billion dollars of income at our disposal as against only 73.5 billion dollars in 1940.

In 1943 Mr. Average American will still be carrying a much lighter tax load than his Canadian or English brothers-in-arms. In Great Britain total national and local taxes paid by individuals at present amount to 31 percent of the national income. In Canada, total individual taxes amount to 25 percent of the national income. In the United States, total personal taxes, Federal, state and local, will amount in 1943 to 18 percent of national income. Our English allies invest an additional 10 percent of national income in War savings. Our Canadian allies invest an additional 11 percent of national income in War savings. We Americans, to match the record of our Canadian neighbors, would have to invest this year 20 percent of our national income in War savings. To match the English record we would have to invest 23 percent of national income in War savings.

" 'Rubber wastrels' stand a good chance of getting into difficulties with their rationing boards," Don F. "Rubber Administrator Jeffers has repeatedly pointed out the urgency of rubber conservation for the war effort, and the state police will cooperate by arresting or reporting those drivers wasting rubber," asserted Mr. Stiver.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

CREDIT FOR DEPENDENTS

A taxpayer is entitled to a credit for each person other than husband or wife, whether related to him or not, and whether living with him or not, who during the taxable year was dependent upon and received his chief support from the taxpayer, provided the dependent was either (a) under 18 years of age, or (b) incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The credit for dependents is based upon ACTUAL FINANCIAL DEPENDENCY and not mere legal dependency. It is not necessary that the dependent be related to the taxpayer, but the taxpayer must have provided more than one-half of the support, or there is no dependency.

The term "mentally or physically defective" includes not only those who are mentally afflicted and physically crippled, but also persons who, by reason of old age or impaired health, are incapable of self-support. The state of mental or physical defect need not be of a permanent nature, but if it existed for only a portion of the year, then the credit for dependent can be claimed only for that portion of the year during which the dependent was supported by the taxpayer.

A person may not acquire a credit for dependent by reason of support of a person qualifying as a dependent if, as a result of such support, he acquires a head of family exemption, but may acquire a credit for dependent by reason of additional persons qualifying as dependents, whom he supports. Thus, if a person claims head of a family exemption on account of support of an aged mother or father, incapable of self-support or a child, he would not be entitled to a credit for such dependent; but if he supported more than one such person he could claim credit for such additional persons provided they were under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support.

Credit for dependents may not be divided between two persons filing separate returns, but must be taken by the one contributing the chief support. A credit for dependents may be claimed by a father who provides the support for his children living with his divorced wife, if the support is provided as a result of a court decree or as the result of an agreement between husband and wife.

The credit for dependent, allowable to a taxpayer filing on Form 1040, is $350, and is proportionate with the number of months of dependency. Thus, for a child born on July 1, the credit allowable would be $175 (for six months,) and if a child became 18 years of age on July 1 the credit allowable would be $175. One-half a month or less is not counted as a month; more than one-half a month is counted as a month in calculating the credit.

A credit of $385 for each dependent on July 1 of the year is allowable to a taxpayer using Simplified Form 1040A.

Life holds so many surprises that it's interesting to live to see what tomorrow will bring.

We are finally becoming able slowly to distinguish between a luxury and a necessity, which is a hopeful sign.

You can worry about a food shortage if you want to, but we are certain to produce as big a crop of fanatics next year as normally.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

As the United Nations get on with this total war, every move at the fronts reflects some effort or sacrifices at home. And every improvement in the supply line means a chance to transfer a little more of our abundant material strength to points where it will help fight our battles.

A new railway, of vital importance to the United Nations, has been built for 120 miles across the scorching deserts of Iraq. It was built entirely by the Indiana army with Indian surveyors, railroad engineers and labor, but it will carry British and American Lend-Lease war weapons and supplies to the Russians rolling back the Nazis in a powerful Winter offensive.

This is a good example of mutual aid among the United Nations, and of the wide variety of world routes taken by Lend-Lease supplies to reach their destinations. Although the greater part of reciprocal aid given by our allies under Lend-Lease agreements has been in services performed and military facilities and supplies provided for our forces abroad—naval, land and air—the greatest benefit of all has been the fight which our allies are waging against our enemies.

For the benefit of our armed forces and the Lend-Lease countries, millions of tons of food—the bulk of it for American troops—must be shipped within the coming year to North Africa, England, the Middle East, Russia, Alaska and other battle fronts of the United Nations. To all these places not much can be sent in the way of fresh fruits, vegetables, fresh meats and other fresh foods. Instead, the fighting foods must be sent—especially canned, dehydrated and dried—in the processed forms that American ingenuity has devised.

In spite of the urgent need to save rubber everywhere, and to save gasoline in the Eastern states so that more fuel oil can be transported, war workers still are not making efficient use of their autos. Most of the large war plants would have to close down if their workers had to walk to work or use public conveyances, and yet one of the simplest forms of mileage saving—group riding—still is not practiced to the extent that it should be.

The ban on pleasure driving has increased the traffic burdens of other transportation facilities. Motor bus traffic between cities increased 50 per cent in 1942 over 1941 and is still growing in volume, while the bus lines are said to be approaching capacity operations and face uncertainties with respect to gas, to tire and parts prospects, and to skilled labor. it must be emphasized, therefore, that unnecessary travel of any kind—local or long distance — definitely handicaps the wartime operation of our entire transportation system.

Smaller business enterprises and plants are coming more and more into the war production. Over a billion dollars worth of Army contracts have been placed during the last two months with concerns employing from five to 500 persons.

Sugar stamp No. 11 becomes valid February 1 and will be good for three pounds of sugar until March 15.

The ration banking program, whereby the nation's banks will handle ration coupons after they pass out of trade channels, will go into effect this month.

ALL-OUT SUPPORT FOR FIGHTING MEN

CUSTOMERS of this company in rural areas have responded patriotically to our request that they read their own meters. The cheerful compliance and intelligent response of people busy with their usual activities and added war duties evidences their willingness to make sacrifices for victory.

And this cooperation which may seem small individually is in the mass a vital help in the conservation program because manpower and time—equipment, gasoline and rubber are thus conserved and made available where they are most needed to support fighting men.

ATTENTION LADIES

The National Collection of Hosiery is well under way. Silk and Nylon hosiery are required to supply needed stocks of these materials for war production. The public is asked to donate all worn and discarded, WASHED women's and misses silk and nylon hosiery.

Silk and nylon are critically needed for the production of powder bags and other war materials. Collections must be continuous for the duration.

As women, you will be particularly interested in the four educational points in this program:

1. Be sure that all salvage hose are washed.
2. No garments other than silk or nylon hose are needed.
3. Neither the donor nor the retailer receives any financial remuneration for the hose collectd. It is a direct "home-to-the-fighting-front" gift.
4. Take them to any women's and misses hosiery counter in retail stores in any of the towns in DeKalb County or to St. Joe News office, where they will be collected and mailed to a government agency.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Mavis of Auburn, were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Evans of near Hicksville, O., spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz spent over the week end near Leipsic, O., with her parents. Mrs. Foltz remained for the week with her parents who are both failing in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pugsley of Butler, were supper guests in the Lester Pugsley home Tuesday. Marion Jennings also called to see Marcel before leaving for the army.

M. E. Storer, Walter Stewart, Robert Sechler and Leslie Wilbern have completed the Air Raid Warden Class at Butler. The training has been conducted over a period of 15 weeks with a three hour session each Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson of north of town have been quite poorly for the past three weeks, and Bert Jackson has just returned after spending two weeks with them, looking after their chores. They are improved. Ford Jackson stays nights with them.

The local War Price and Rationing Board have permission from the Regional Office of O. P. A. to start the issuing of new rationing books to the rural community on Feb. 1, 1943. The rural members will be notified by card the day and hour that they are to appear before the local board. They will be urged to bring all their books with them and to appear before the local board on the DAY and HOUR mentioned on the card each one receives. The local board is taking this action to get the farmers rations in their hands before the busy season opens. The local board can not stress too forcibly the importance of appearing at the hour and date set and if that is impossible do not try to come in before March 1st., as the board is notifying as many as they can take each day. The local board will appreciate the cooperation of the public. They are endeavoring to give good service and this is a tremendous task.

Walter Moore, enjoyed a one day furlough on Wednesday. They returned to camp at Chanute Field, Ill., on Thursday. Brothers and sisters, relatives and friends gathered at the Moore home on Wednesday evening for supper and a visit with the boys.

Pvt. Lloyd E. Putt of Indi, California, left here Monday after spending a 15-day furlough with his family at the Ray Arberbright home.

A new address we are glad to print is: Sgt. Louis Bleeks, Headquarters 334th Bomb Gp. Greenville Army Air Base, Greenville, South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harter have three sons in Uncle Sam's service. Robert is overseas, Gene is in Arkansas and John leaves soon for military training.

Having received his honorable discharge from the U. S. Army, Corp. Dean Kees arrived home Friday from Camp Davis, N. C. Dean enlisted in September, 1942 in the Officers Training Unit and was sent from Camp Perry to Fort Wallace, Texas, where he was under intensive training for three months. He was then transferred to Camp Davis N. C., and would have graduated in 8 weeks and would have been Second Lieutenant. The scarcity of dairy products, and him being needed to take care of the fine dairy herd at home, was the cause of his release. Dean came home via Washington and called on his cousin, Jene Myers. He met Carl Goodwin and went to see Charles Thornton, but did not find him at home. Dean looks fine and said they rushed them through so fast and kept them so busy, they had no time to get homesick. He said the boys would rather get letters than any thing else and urges every body to write often to the boys in camp. At the same time Dean's parents were notified of his release. His sister, Betty's husband, Dick Deluceny, was called for examination, and will go to Toledo on February 3rd.

Four of our 18-year old boys including Harold Yeiser, Marion Harris, Glen Freeburn and Franklin Sechler were called before the examining board at Auburn Tuesday evening for blood tests, preparatory to their entrance into the armed services.

Mrs. Glen Wineland returned Sunday evening from a week's visit with her cousin, Mrs. Glen Hall and husband at Osborn, Ohio.

Mrs. George Walter and Mrs. Vera Rosenberry spent a few days last week at Madison, Wis., with Louis Walter, who is in the armed service.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyatt of Auburn, accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Kagey, were Saturday dinner guests in the Geo. B. Wilson home, helping Mr. Wilson celebrate his 87th birthday.

Because of the scarcity of teachers in Indiana, the U. S. Employment service urges every available person who holds or can qualify for a license, to make application for a teaching position.

Indiana draft boards Saturday were advised by selective service officials to place all men over 38 years of age in class 4-H and those over 45 in class 4-A, two classes not now subject to military service.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Gibford, Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Baker and three daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Reinhart, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr and sons. Mrs. Walter Reinhart and little son, were Tuesday visitors of Mrs. Morr.

The war department relaxed requirements for the discharge of men over 38 by dropping the rule that a trained replacement must be available before an older soldier can be returned to civilian life. Hereafter the older men who meet the other discharge requirements will be released from military duty unless such an action will seriously affect the efficiency of the organization to which they are assigned.

Weldon J. Shafer, of north of St. Joe, was appointed Saturday in the DeKalb Circuit Court as guardian of Esther Van Lear and filed $1,700 bond, with Dorothy and Russel M. Daily and John B. Knight as sureties. Since the death of her husband she has been living alone in the country, and because of her condition it became necessary to have a guardian appointed to look after her welfare. Only recently she placed a note in her mail box and upon investigation it was found that she had left the home, the fire was out and a lighted lamp sat close to the bed on a chair. She was later found at the Frank May home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires attended the funeral of James Buchanan of Corunna last Friday. He was the only uncle of Mr. Squires.

Mrs. Neva Jennings will go to South Bend Friday, where she and her grandson, Jerry Gaff, will celebrate their birthdays together.

Miss Nelda Kees has secured employment at the Broadway plant of the G. E. in Fort Wayne, beginning work Monday. She spent the week end in the Lysher home and called on her friend, Gladys Stewart, Saturday evening.

The Misses Maxine Woodcox and Dorothy Stewart visited Mr. and Mrs. Dick Deluceny at the George Kees home. Other dinner guests were Mrs. Nan Lysher, son, Edgar, Bonnie Kees, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kees and Mr. and Mrs. Deluceny.

The annual ladies night meeting of the Wittenberg Brotherhood will be held in the Waterloo Evangelical Church next Wednesday evening, Feb. 10. The speaker of the evening will be Judge D. Burns Douglass of Ft. Wayne. Judge Douglass is an able speaker and he will talk on a timely subject that will be of interest to men and women.

Miss Mary Duffy surrendered her teaching contract Friday, and left for her home at Rushville, Ind. Miss Duffy fell on the ice here after returning from her holiday vacation injuring her spine and she has not been so well since. Changes in the teaching force has resulted and Mrs. Mary Wilbern is teaching English and Art, Miss Lenore Vandiver, Music and Carl Smith of Hicksville, is coaching basket ball in the evenings.

The local Conservation Club decided Thursday evening to again raise pheasants for release this Spring and the committee in charge is Frank Leighty, Lyle MacMaken, John Coburn and Robert Sechler. Mrs. George Tustison will again raise the baby chicks. Walter Stewart is now president with Robert Sechler as vice president. The club has a balance in treasury of $145.-08 with a very substantial investment in war bonds. A membership drive will be inaugurated soon and possibly a fox drive.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau met in the St. Joe Gym Feb. 2 for their regular monthly meeting which was called to order by Brooks Trenary. Mrs. Claude Laub, S. & E. leader, then took charge, and all sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic." This was followed with devotionals by Rev. Sharp of Spencerville, using as his text, Matt. 24th chapter and closed with prayer.

Mrs. Leonard Jarrett then gave a very interesting educational talk on "How to raise baby chicks." This was followed with a solo by Frank Laub, singing "The Army Air Corps" accompanied at the piano by Marcella Rediger. This number was much enjoyed by all. A penny march was then conducted to help in buying garden seeds for the Allies, $1.22.

County Agent C. E. Baker then gave a talk on farm helps namely "Dairy Farming." A trio composed of Mrs. Claude Laub, Mrs. Metta Sharp and Mrs. Walter Baker sang "The American Farm Bureau" and "We're on the Victory Side," with Marcella Rediger at the piano. Mrs. Horace Meek then gave a reading, "Bits of Advice from the Life of Lincoln."

The meeting was turned over to Brooks Trenary. Secretary's report was read and accepted and was followed with roll call. A motion was made by Fred Hart and seconded by Chas. Cook to take funds out of treasury to defray refreshment expense. This was followed with a lunch of hot dogs and coffee.

CHANGES IN COURT THEATRE SCHEDULE

A letter from H. E. Hart asks for the announcement of a few changes made in the picture theatre schedule announced last week. Mr. Hart says:

"My program announces that "My Sister Eileen" starring Rosiland Russell and Brian Aherne will play the Court Sunday - Monday, Feb. 7-8, however this has been changed, we are playing "Hitler's Children" based on Gregor Zeimer's book, "Education for Death" which is now running in the Auburn Star. "My Sister Eileen" will play Thursday and Friday, Feb. 18-19th. "Hitler's Children" will play Feb. 7-8-9-10, making it necessary to set out "I Married A Witch" now booked for February 9-10.

"Another change made necessary by setting in "Hitler's Children" is the feature booked for Feb. 21-22. My program shows Fred Astaire and Rita Hayworth in "You Were Never Lovelier" in place of this we are playing Bud Abbott and Lou Costello in "Who Done It."

"We do not make a practice of making program changes after the program has been printed, however our program carries the mention that it is subject to change, therefore we do make a change now and then."

THREE PEOPLE FELL BREAKING BONES

Franklin Shuff fell from trapeze at the school Thursday afternoon and broke his right arm, during the course of physical training. He carries his arm in a cast.

John R. Leighty fell on the ice Friday afternoon at his farm and fractured his left arm. He was attended by Dr. Hull and he now carries his arm in splints.

Dr. C. R. Priec is in the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne where he is being treated for injuries received Friday night, when he fell down stairs at his home. He was able to get to his door and call for help. Ed Leighty hearing his call, came to his assistance and secured help. Mark Williams came in for the night and Mrs. Inez Hadsell was called to take charge. He was suffering with his hip and foot.

FAREWELL PARTY

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Argerbright gave them a farewell party on Tuesday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warstler and son, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jennings, Dale Walter, wife and three children, Mr. George Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warstler and daughter, Mrs. George Walter, Jr., and two children, Nancy Monroe, and Russell Waler.

A pot luck supper was enjoyed and all departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Argerbright and family good luck in their new home in Allen County, which is known as the Petric farm, 5 miles north-east of Ft. Wayne. A Guest.

BUYER MEETS SELLER IN OUR AD COLUMNS

THE TIN CAN HAS BECOME A SOLDIER

This is the strangest war that has ever come to America but it has produced nothing stranger than the paradox which has overtaken the humble tin can. For many years we Americans have been accustomed to thinking the tin can as the epitome of cheapness. The reason for this has been visible on the outskirts of every city in the land. We have used, thrown away, and wasted seventeen billion tin cans every year. These have litterd our dump heaps in all stages of dilapidation and decay. It is natural that we should think of nothing of less consequence than the humble tin can.

Now, through a series of circumstances 10,000 miles away, something has happened which has changed the tin cans from a disreputable tramp into a hero of the war. This is partly because of the tin coat which he wears. Actually, the tin can is not tin nearly as much as it is steel. By weight only 1.25 per cent of the average tin can now-a-days is tin. The rest is pure steel plate.

After Pearl Harbor, Japanese troops poured into all of the areas from which we derived nine-tenths of our tin supply. These areas are now heavily fortified. We are compelled therefore, to turn to another source of tin in order to supplement our supplies and keep our war production machinery operating—a source of which never before has been succesfully salvaged—namely the humble tin can.

Tin is absolutely essential in the bearings and bushings for cannon mounts and for airplane motors, for cannisters of gas masks, for electrical machinery, for communication equipment, and most of all for containers transporting concentrated food to our troops in all parts of the world. It is imperative that we have tin in order that our armies and navies can continue to fight. Our vast war program is more desperately in need of tin today than any other metal. It is number one on the critical list. The old tin can, formerly a hobo, is now a soldier fighting on the very front line.

The public participation, involves the cooperation of all housewives in DeKalb County, in preparing and saving tin cans and making them ready for shipment. Tin cans can not be picked up unless they are properly prepared, as they will not be accepted in Ft. Wayne, where they are shipped to the detinning factory. To salvage tin cans, the detinning plant insists they must be carefully cleaned, opened at both ends, and labels removed. In order to economize on shipping space, we ask also that the cans be compressed or flattened by being stepped on firmly before being stored. NO TIN MUST BE DESTROYED ANY MORE. We need every one. Housewives living in rural districts and in towns where they have no collections system are asked to please take their tin cans to the stores listed below:

St. Joe—Bowser's Grocery, Wade's Grocery.

Spencerville, Bowser's Grocery and Baker's Grocery.

Anyone wishing to take them to Auburn may dispose of them upstairs of the city garage, just in back of the City Hall on East 9th Street.

L. D. SISSON DIES AT ST. JOE CONVALESCENT HOME

Lorenzo D. Sisson, age 80, passed away at the Gablick convalescent home in St. Joe at 2:30 Monday afternoon. He was the father of Jay Sisson of Auburn and Mrs. Wm. Essig of seven miles west of St. Joe.

Mr. Sisson has been an invalid for the past four years following a stroke of apoplexy. His condition became serious about 10 days ago and he passed away Monday. He had lived most of the time since the stroke at the Essig home.

The deceased was a life long resident of Barberton, O., until he was stricken. He was formerly foreman of a factory in that city. He was a member of the Woodmen and Eagles lodges at Barberton.

Surviving relatives in addition to the children mentioned above include two sons, Ralph Sisson, address unknown, and Leland L. Sisson of Barberton; one brother, George of Greenwich, O., and one sister, Mrs. Anna Franks of Ashland, O., and eight grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Gerig funeral home in Auburn for preparation.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Miss Helen Carey January 27. The meeting was called to order by the president and the Collect was read by Mrs. Frank Stevenson.

Miss Mary Duffy gave as her part of the lesson the history of Central America, and Mrs. Agnes Monroe told of the building of the Nicaragua Canal, the Pan American Highway, and the gifts from the Pan American countries to the world as bananas, coffee, rubber, etc.

After a short business session, the meeting was adjourned with the hostess serving vegetable salad, sandwiches and coffee. The next meeting will be the Musical Evening at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, February 10th.

In spite of predictions, we haven't noticed anyone around St. Joe stooping over in the street to pick up a horse shoe.

The case of the woman killing her husband because he fussed about her spending $3 for a Christmas turkey, may cause some debates.

A Spencerville man says that with the present rate of war marriages it will become a case of marry in haste, repeat at leisure.

You can get used to anything they say, but neglect to tell you that one gets used to having a lot quicker than to having to go without.

A News subscriber wants to know why most men are insulted is someone asks who is the head of the house when his daughter answers the doorbell.

Forgetting is simply a case of tying a rope around your neck or a string around your finger.

A St. Joe man was overheard to remark that we have returned to the age of the revival of hominy.

With all sorts of folks making up the world, there will be no shortage in personalities.

THEY NEED NURSES

During the Civil War there was need of nurses to tend the wants of the soldiers as there always is in every war. It took the battle of a brave woman named Clara Barton to gain permission to aid the men and get necessary equipment to serve the wounded. Nurses every place are carrying on this service today in each field, in all corners of the fighting arena. The Army and Navy induct nurses, the Red Cross offers splendid courses in Home Nursing and Volunteer Nurses Aides work to help in this effort. But more nurses are needed and the call goes out for those who have followed this profession to support the cause. Nurses everywhere are honoring their order by many acts of bravery. Nurses are nobly working on the home front handicapped by a shortage of relief. So those who could help, who are fitted, will surely hear the plea.

MORE BOOKS

Who in St. Joe doesn't enjoy reading and what greater pleasure is man permitted than to live another life midst surroundings he never hopes to see, midst adventures he never hopes to realize, with names of heros and heroines he can never hope to know? Such is the life in the realm of reading. The nation is asked again to collect books for the enjoyment of soldiers, sailors, marines and merchant seamen. We might think of the long hours the boys at stations everywhere, on land and sea, spend in idleness, where for a short while they might be reading one of your special favorites which in the past gave you such pleasure. They are seeking millions of books, all kinds, and we know that the people around here will give this their support.

And One Loves a Marine—The Valentine Proves It!

Cupid has a quiver full of extra special Valentine cards for service men. "The gal he left behind" should have little trouble expressing her romantic sentiments in any mood—serious, frivolous or humorous. Pictured above is Robert Newmyer, PFC, United States marines, of Greensburg, Pa., stationed somewhere on the East coast, reading a Valentine card he received from his best girl. Soldiers and sailors received special attention—with cards specifically designed to express the tenderest sentiments.

SCARCITY IN FOODS

The record food production for 1942 is listed by our President as one of the major Allied victories of the year. The importance of food is pronounced now, its need felt in the Army and Navy, in our Lend-Lease countries, occupied countries and for our civilians at home. Americans have been able to enjoy food since most varieties were available at usually a reasonable cost. We ate fancy dishes and relished choice tidbits but now we foresee eating plainer and simpler foods with a reduction in quantity. We do not fear any actual hunger for there will be storage of vital foods in case of shortages due to weather conditions preventing production. Other countries are expressing their gratitude to the American farmer for they depend upon us to keep them fit to fight. Fortunately there aren't many who selfishly feel that we should have what we WANT to eat in this country and take care of the others outside with what is left! Few are the people in this neighborhood who are not willing to cut down, to reduce their normal buying in order to save others from privation. There was a time when women felt the need to go forth and lay in food for a week in advance. We know there is waste in buying a half pound of butter or sugar so a wise shopper managed better. Today she must buy in small quantities in order not to deprive others of daily food. Housewives have found the need of ingenuity in cooking since they can't resort to the can opener as often. There were many foods spurned because opening a can was quicker. Fifty years ago the average American had only one can of food in a year. Twenty-five years ago he stepped it up to 17.5 cans. In 1941 he jumped to 100 cans and where would he have gone this year if the war hadn't silenced the can opener to a great degree? Local housewives will meet this emergency with their usual wisdom and prepare the tasty meals in the way they can carry on as always, with fortitude, resourcefulness and wisdom. You won't find any citizens around here losing weight because they are underfed.

ALWAYS THE TAX

We hear so much of taxes, of pay-as-you-go, of the Victory tax, the indirect tax on articles of consumption and so on, with the pangs of paying out striking at the vitals of the entire country. But in order to wage a war of such magnitude, we know we must be heavily taxed. We can look at England and see that she has more than doubled her income taxes since 1940 and they weren't low at that time! The average English family pays taxes on incomes and excises of $10 a week. England has been paying half her war costs by taxation as she fights. We are planning similar action perhaps, but not of half. We are told that at the beginning of the war there was the usual desire to make money, to profit as usual. But after the bombing of London the attitude here changed and England's business saw it was to be a fight for the insuring of liberty. She got down to business and profiteering died down to become almost unrecognizable, we are told. We are all smarter since the first World War. We will work to maintain economic order, to keep down inflation and steady the boat with all of us keeping our seats and using our heads. If it takes taxation to bring this war to an end, we will try to meet it.

USING MAPS

After the war we will travel by air to different countries for short vacations and whereas it was the habit to 'see Europe' we will be more worldly minded and think in terms of Africa, Australia and South America. It means that we are going to be better acquainted with geography and, for that matter, we are right now more able to tell you where Dakar, Buna or Guadalcanal is located than we could have a year ago, learning to study a map and become acquainted with such places as Bizerte and Stalingrad, with Tunis and Bataan familiar places. The reason more of us follow maps today than during the first World War is because the fighting today is not being done on known soil. Watch a local youngster construct a plane and hear him speak of the Solomons and Midway when he might not be sure of the name of the county in which he lives. The world is not going to be such a large place, geographically, after this is over.

ABOUT THE WEATHER

There isn't anything unusual about the weather in St. Joe. It always runs true to form by arriving and with it bringing many changes that affect us in a pro and con sort of way. Whatever it does to our sense of comfort you can always depend upon it getting here! We will grumble about the Winter's hardship next Summer, speaking of those pneumonia days, of blizzards and blasts, slush and sleet. But what can you expect of Winter? We will forget to mention those days when the cold winds turned warmer, when time looked ripe for seed catalogs, when farmers roved the fields and we took walks to make the most of a Spring day in the midst of Winter time. And such days do come, sandwiched between snows. We must not say that Winter offers no variety.

HOG SCHOOL PROGRAM PLANNED

An all day hog school has been scheduled for DeKalb County on Wednesday, February 10, according to County Agent, C. E. Baker. This school will be held in the assembly room of the court house starting promptly at 10:00 o'clock and will be dismissed at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be three specialists on the program that day, namely: John Schwab, Purdue Hog Specialist; R. H. Bauman, Purdue Agricultural Economist; and, Dr. C. R. Donham, who is the Chief Veterinarian at Purdue.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

WHO MUST FILE A RETURN

Every single person must file a Federal income tax return whose gross income for the year from all sources was $500 or more; that is as much as $9.62 per week. Widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, are classed as single persons.

Every married person, living with husband or wife thru out the year, must file a return if his or her gross income, together with any income of the spouse, was as much as $1200 for the year; that is, as much as $23.08 per week. If husband and wife both have income, they must both make a return. Such return may be made separately, or, if they are both citiens or residents, they may make a joint return. A joint return may be made by husband and wife even though one has no income, and a joint return is advisable in the case of persons, one of whom has no income, who marry during the year, since the personal exemption attributable to each spouse during the period of pre-marital status is allowable in a joint return.

A joint return must be signed by both husband and wife and verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife on Form 1040, the joint personal exemption allowable ($1200 where the married status has existed throughout the year) may be taken by either, or divided between them in any proportion agreed upon. If separate returns are filed one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which belongs to him (or her.)

No person is exempt from filing a return if his income is equal to or greater than the amount specified above for his classification. Neither the President of the United States, nor the Vice President, nor Federal Judges, nor Members of Congress, are exempt from filing returns.

Moreover, all income from whatever source, unless specifically excluded by statute, must be reported in the return. The types of income specifically exempt are listed in the instructions accompanying the return form.

A person whose gross income does not exceed $3000, and consists wholly of salary, wages, dividends, interest, or annuities, may make a Simplified Return on Form 1040A, in which the tax due may be readily ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

A husband and wife living together on July 1 of the taxable year may file separate Simplified Returns if the gross income of each is from the prescribed scources and does not exceed $3000, or they may file a single joint return on that form if their combined income is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3000. A taxpayer may not, however, file a Simplified Return if the other spouse files a return on Form 1040.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

State OPA officials advise Hoosier motorists with A and B mileage rationing books that the new reclaimed rubber tires must be given proper attention in order to obtain maximum mileage. High speed is extremely damaging to this type of tire. OPA officials say that from 12,000 to 14,000 miles of service can be obtained from these tires if instructions of the manufacturer are followed. Instructions state that the tires should be properly inflated at all times and that speed be curtailed to a maximum of 40 miles per hour. Under present gasoline allotments, these tires, with proper care, should last for two years.

Prosecution of Indiana filling station operators who fail to abide by rationing regulations is in the offing if conditions do not improve. Filling station operators have been instructed that they must follow these steps in the merchandising of gasoline:

1. Station attendants should ask for rationing books.
2. Identify book with model—make of car—sticker and license number.
3. See that license number or identification on back of the coupon is correct.
4. In case of "A" book, see that the coupons being offered are within their valid period.
5. In case of "B" or "C" book, see that date on face of book has not expired.
6. Tear out coupons from the book—detached coupons cannot be accepted.

Holders of B and C cards should be prepared to comply with all regulations when they apply for renewals this month. The deadline is February 28th. Applicants must present the form certifying that tires have been inspected, they must show their 1943 automobile license registration card, and they must present their A and B or A and C coupon books.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimates that the stock of wheat in Indiana in interior mills, elevators and warehouses on Jan. 1, 1943 amounted to 2,880,000 bushels. This compares with 4,670,000 bushels on January 1, 1943.

The problem of getting enough agricultural workers to assure the increased food production goals for 1943 will be partly solved by keeping as many of them as possible on the farms through deferment from selective service. The policy of deferring farm workers engaged in raising essential war crops as been extended by adding to the list of essential crops such products as tobacco and short staple cotton, vegetable seeds, honey, ducks, geese, goats, a detailed list of fruits, and most lumber and wood products.

The form in which foods will reach the civilian consumer this year has been partly determined by canning restrictions. Last year the total pack of canned soups, for example was about 25 million cases, but this year it will be reduced about one-fourth, and altho soup canners may use almost unlimited numbers of metal cans for packing seasonal soups, such as asparagus, pea, spinach, and tomato, they can pack only three-fourths of their 1942 production of the nonessential soups — chicken, vegetable, clam or fish chowder and the like. Homemade soup stocks—a familiar item in American kitchens a generation ago—will return to favor, and with them, many other soups made from market—fresh meats and vegetables.

Another aid to farmers is increase of 30 per cent in farm machine production, authorized by the WPB.... Price ceilings have been set on seven new coffee substitutes and compounds, some of which may appear on retail shelves in the near future.

Fourth Axis Partner

MAKES SNEAK ATTACK

TWO A. M.... on the U. S. Coast. Not a sound from enemy wings—no gunfire from the sea—but look! Fire—in that vital factory and its stockpile of war material! Another score for the Axis' fourth partner!

One reason it hasn't happened oftener is that Capital Stock fire insurance companies are waging ceaseless war in our defense ... with an arson squad that covers America—an army of hundreds of engineers helping industry and government guard plants and materials—individually prepared blueprints to aid authorities in safeguarding practically every city and town—and many other safeguards that help keep fires from happening!

Let us protect your possessions with this kind of double-duty insurance that is making your home approximately twice as safe as homes were 30 years ago—guarding your job—and protecting our war effort, our way of life.

FRED B. LEIGHTY, Agent

Come in and let us Talk Over YOUR INSURANCE NEEDS. We represent the Old Line Stock Company Insurance, the most sound and secure protection available for Insured.

Uncle Willie Mullins says—

One of my biggest investments is War Bonds. I figger on putting at least 10% of all my earnings into War Bonds from New Year's on!

RAISE MORE BEEF
BUY MORE BONDS

Meat is an essential food to a fighting man. The more we raise, the better our boys are fed. Back our boys by raising more beef. You can make a greater profit by correct feeding and invest that extra profit in War Bonds—that's Our Part.

SAVE YOUR WASTE FATS TO MAKE EXPLOSIVES

The kitchen waste fats program started July 6, 1942. Like the war bond campaign, the tin can, and the silk and nylon hosiery, the drive to save fats and greases will continue for the duration of the war.

The United Nations face a shortage of 45,000,000 of glycerine, needed to make explosives to fire shells. Kitchen fats are a rich source of glycerine, two pounds of fat are enough to fire five anticraft explosives. If every housewife saves only four ounces of waste fats a week, it will produce 2,500,000 pounds of gunpowder.

Listed are the four main points to follow in this program:

1. Save all your waste fats. Save pan drippings from ham, beef, lamb and poultry. Save broiler drippings from steaks, veal and bacon. Save deep fats, whether lard or vegetable shortenings, from fried potatoes, fish, doughnuts, etc.

2. Pour into clean, wide mouth cans. Strain your fats as you pour them so that all foreign matter is removed.

3. Keep in refrigerator or cool dark place until you have collected at least one pound.

4. Take to your meat dealer, who will pay you four cents a pound.

Here is an opportunity for every housewife who asks, "What can I do to help?" For this is work no other person can do.

U. S. E. S. TO PROVIDE LOCAL FARM LABOR

Farmers in DeKalb County who need year round farm hands for either dairy or general farms can now be assured of assistance in obtaining such workers, according to H. E. Stoner, manager of the War Manpower Commission's Employment Service office in Ft. Wayne.

"Through a cooperative arrangement recently put in effect by the United States Employment Service, the Farm Security Administration, and Rural War Production training, workers will be recruited, trained, and placed on farms indicating their need for such workers," Mr. Stoner explained. "If workers are not available in the district where the farm hand will be employed, workers will be recruited from the small farming units and from less productive areas in other parts of the state. The plan includes the keeping in production of land vacated by transferred workers by making it available to other operators in the immediate neighborhood whose farm units are such that they can handle additional acreage.

Mr. Stoner emphasized that these transfers were entirely voluntary on the part of both the farmer and the farm hand. The USES now has on hand a number of vacancies in all different types of farm employment, and expects to have many others as a result of the recent "M Day" program. Farmers who have placed orders for help with the USES will be serviced from local workers wherever possible. If there are no hands available, however, the transfer plan will be explained to the farmer. If he desires to participate in the plan, the farmer will deposit $10.00 as "Earnest money" for the F. S. A. This sum will indicate that the farmer is in earnest in his desire to secure necessary workers; and will be used to help defray expenses of transferring workers to his farm.

"It is very evident that the small sum of $10.00 will not move a farm family from southern to northern Indiana," Mr. Stoner continued. "Actually, the Farm Security Administration has been allotted funds to pay moving expenses of the farmer and his family to the new job. If both the farmer and the prospective farm hand are satisfied with salary, living conditions, and working hours, then the government will arrange to transport the worker and his family to the job. It should be emphasized, however, that the plan is a voluntary one, and both the farmer and the hand may refuse to accept it either is dissatisfied. If the USES and the FSA fail to secure necessary workers, the farmer's 'earnest money' is returned.

"The plan is an attempt to bring the worker and the employer together with a minimum of cost to both. It is based on the knowledge that there are year round farm jobs available, and there are workers available who want them. Since it frequently happens that the job and the worker are located in different parts of the state, the government is establishing the transfer plan to bring the two together. And since many workers are good farm hands but have not had previous experience with the modern farm machinery found on many of the larger farms, the government is strengthening its program by training . . without cost to either the worker or the employed . . those hands who require special training.

"Time is necessary for recruiting workers, training them and transporting them to the farmer," Mr. Stoner concluded. "For this reason any farmer interested in obtaining help should contact the nearest US ES office or Farm Security Administration Representative at once."

STOP THESE VILLAINS!

THE American Farmer today carries on and produces against tremendous odds—although sons and farm help are going to war, materials and implements are increasingly hard to get when made of critical materials, and the need for more and more rationing and restrictions looms, yet our country's need for farm produce was never greater. Government pleads for food production to surpass the already remarkable showing so far in these Wartimes.

Foresighted American business management supplies the United States with more electric power than all of the Axis countries combined and with five times as much as we had in America during World War I. Electric appliances and equipment are time and labor-saving in every branch of farming.

Utilize Electrical helps more than ever for greater productivity.

The LIONS CLUB

Darrell Murphy, teacher in the Spencerville school, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, of Newville township, provided the entertainment at the Lions Club dinner Monday night, and sixteen men were present.

Mr. Murphy entertained the Lions with impersonations of prominent people and characters appearing on the radio programs, such as President Roosevelt, Fred Allen, Portland, and Tissy Lish. His script is original and he was considered by the group as a very fine entertainer.

The Lions will have charge of issuing Ration book No. 2 for residents of Spencer, Newville and Concord Townships, of which more is said elsewhere in the paper.

The next meeting will be held at Spencerville school house on Feb. 22, honoring George Washington. This will be ladies night. The committee is: Lions Ridgway, Stemen, Rectenwall and Wicoff.

97 MILES A DAY SAVED BY BUSSES

Report was made Saturday by Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, that school bus mileage in DeKalb County has been reduced 97 miles in compliance with a request of the Office of Defense Transportation to save rubber.

The total bus mileage in the county was about 1,200, so that the reduction is 8 per cent. Spencer township leads with a cut of 20 miles. The figures for other townships as reported by the trustees follow: Butler, 8; Concord, 12; Fairfield, 5; Franklin, 3; Jackson, 10; Keyser, 12; Newville, 4; Richland, 3; Stafford, 6; Union, 4; Wilmington, 10; and Grant, Smithfield and Troy, none.

It is probable that further reductions will be made when the new four-year contracts for hauling the school children are entered into this Spring, effective when school reopens next September.

GIVEN CERTIFICATE

D. B. Ridgway was one of 72 men certified last Saturday and Sunday, to serve as bomb reconnoissance agents, when he completed the course at Fort Wayne. F. L. Tombow, John Nugen and Ora Lyons make up the four men from DeKalb County capable to serve in this capacity. The final training was given by Howard M. Bixby, First Lieut. Ord. Dept. Bomb Disposal Officer, Training Division, 5 Service Command.

GEE

Laney Gee, last of a family of eight children, and the fifth son of Harmon and Elizabeth Flint Gee, was born Sept. 25, 1862 on the old homestead in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. He departed this life at his home in St. Joe on Feb. 7, 1943 at the age of 80 years, 4 months, and 13 days.

He attended the Coburn's Corners Church of Christ. His education was attained at the Cheesetown grade school and the St. Joe Normal school. He was a brick mason and plasterer by trade, although much of his life was spent as a farmer.

On Dec. 1, 1897 he was united in marriage with Minnie Viola Swartz, youngest daughter of George and Elizabeth Hollipeter Swartz. To this union was born one daughter, Mildred Lois, wife of Leonard B. Jarrett.

He showed much interest in fraternal organizations being a member of the local I. O. O. F. and the Butler I. O. O. F. Encampment, and the S. Joe K. of P. of which he was a lifetime Honorary member, for over fifty years. He was also a member of the W. O. W. at Blytheville, Ark., for over thirty years.

With the exception of nine years in Blytheville, Arkansas, he spent his entire life in DeKalb County, where he has a host of friends and was recognized as a loving and kind husband, father and grandfather and a loyal neighbor and friend.

He leaves to mourn his departure the widow, the daughter, and five grandchildren, Harold, Carlton, and Joan Curie and Janet and Robert Jarrett, all of whom reside with their parents on the old homestead. Also numerous relatives and friends.

The funeral was held at the Kinsey funeral home, St. Joe, at 2 P. M., Wednesday, Feb. 10, 1943, with Rev. Erby Messiner officiating and assisted by Rev. J. N. Scholes. Interment in the K. of P. Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted in any way during our recent bereavement.—Mrs. Laney Gee, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jarrett and Family.

RHODES

Franklin E. Rhodes, a well known resident of Spencerville, passed away at 4 o'clock Monday morning at his home following an illness from a complication of diseases. Although in poor health for several years, he was bedfast only three days.

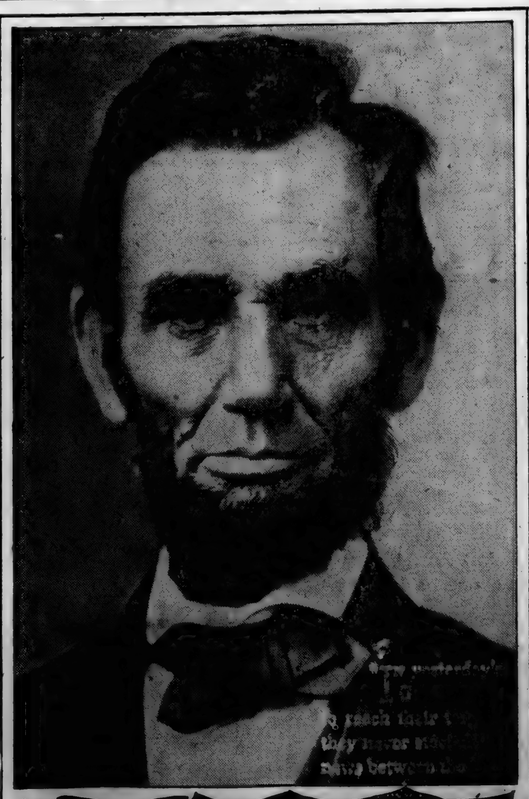
Mr. Rhodes had been president of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank at Spencerville since the institution was organized. He also served as trustee of Spencer township from 1931 to 1939. He was 75 years of age, having been born on January 12, 1868.

The deceased was a member of the Spencerville Evangelical Lutheran Church and was a leader in all civic undertakings at Spencerville. For many years he lived on a farm between St. Joe and Spencerville but moved to Spencerville 20 years ago. He taught school in Concord township for fourteen terms.

Survivors include the widow, Amanda, one son, Mirwood, who resides on the farm and one garnddaughter, Lorraine Rhodes.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the home and 2 o'clock at the Lutheran Church. Rev. Frank Stevenson, officiated and interment was made in White City Cemetery at Spencerville.

To a Mother Bereaved by War



I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Letter to Mrs. Bixby, whose five sons were reported killed in battle (Nov. 21, 1864)

RATION BOOK NO. 2 ISSUED THIS MONTH

Distribution of rationing book No. 2, to be used in the purchase of canned fruits and vegetables will be made, according to present plans, to citizens of DeKalb County during the week of Feb. 22 to 27 inclusive.

The rationing board of DeKalb County has appointed eight special boards to make this distribution for the convenience of the public, as follows:

Auburn boards to serve Auburn city and Union and Jackson townships. Persons in Jackson township may, if more convenient, apply to board at Spencerville or St. Joe.

Garrett board to serve Garrett city and all of Keyser and Butler townships.

Ashley board to serve Ashley town and north half of Smithfield and north half of Fairfield townships.

Butler board to serve Butler town and all of Wilmington, Franklin, Stafford and Troy townships.

Corunna board to serve Corunna town and all of Richland and the south half of Fairfield townships.

Spencerville board to serve Spencerville town and all of Spencer and convenient parts of Jackson townships.

St. Joe board to serve St. Joe and all of Concord and Newville townships.

Waterloo board to serve Waterloo town and all of Grant and the south half of Smithfield townships.

The exact days and hours and locations where each board will be in session for the distribution of book No. 2 will be announced.

When the application is made for book No. 2, one member only of a family should apply for books for all the members of the family.

The person who applies must take all of the book No. 1 (usually mentioned as sugar book) held by the members of the family as book No. 2 will be issued only to persons whose book No. 1 is presented. The person applying must also take a written memoranda, to be made on or can be attached to a "Consumers Declaration" blank, stating the actual number of cans or bottles of size 8 ounce or larger content of fruit, fruit juices, vegetables, vegetable juices, chili sauce, catsup, soups and baby foods. This report must include all of the foods, in the cans of size stated, which are owned by or in possession of the family or of individuals on Feb. 21, 1943. Report must also include number of pounds of coffee on hand Nov. 28, 1942. Home canned foods are not to be included in this report. Any misstatement or omission of facts in the consumer's declaration of foods, as is required of all applicants, makes the applicant subject to severe punishment.

An exemption of five cans will be made for each member of a family for all cans in excess of this exemption, one 8 point stamp will be removed from the book issued.

Each book holder will have an allotment of 48 points for the period of one month's time. In cases where stamps are removed because of excess holdings, not more than 24 points (3 cans) will be removed from any one period so that the holder will still have 24 points, (one-half of the allowance) in all periods which he can use.

The regulations require that all books No. 1 which were issued to persons who have since died or entered the armed services of the United States must be turnd in for cancellation and persons still holding such books should return them to the rationing office in Auburn or to the board to which they report for book No. 2. No book No. 2 will be issued in the name of such persons.

Any person who does not now hold a book No. 1 should make special application for one to the board in Auburn immediately. The time set for the securing of such books is past but arrangements are made to issue them to persons entitled to them by special application.

The county board states that the rationing of foods to all persons is necessary in order that the men in the army and navy may be properly supplied. No one will object to that and the complete cooperation of every citizen is a patriotic privilege as well as a steren duty.

—APPRCIATIVE WORDS—

Fort Wayne, Ind.
Feb. 3, 1943.

My Dear Friends:

This is a gloomy day. A good day to write letters. The week you took your vacation, I sure missed the paper. Enclosed is $1 for same. We think you have a good paper. It is like getting a letter from home. I wish you all good luck for 1943.

As ever your friend,
Addie Patterson.

Dear Fred:

Receiving The News regularly. It sure is good to hear about the doings of the folks down there, although I must confess many names are unfamiliar.

Last Friday we received word that my uncle, Dan Bodiker, had passed away at Angola, Indiana. He farmed for a number of years a few miles south of Butler and had friends around Newville.

Keep the old community spirit going, Fred, by the vigor and spirit of The News.

'Till a Happy Victory,
Roy Like.

South Bend, Ind. 2-8- '43

Dear Friends:

The ice having mostly melted away I am going to the city, so will mail the money for The News. I am slow again after promising myself I would not be. If the going there has been anything like it has here, you could understand people staying at home.

Everyone is busy these trying war days. I do Red Cross work, and go whenever I can. This takes a lot of time also. Our First Methodist Church, of which Mr. Milner and myself are members, does quite an extensive Red Cross service. I am one of the instructors and I do enjoy the work. A nice way to get better acquainted with our members, too. We have a large church, 1200 members, so could not learn to know all of them.

Thanks for waiting for the money. I would miss The News so much. That is the only way I hear of the old friends and acquaintances at St. Joe. Best wishes to both of you. Come to see us when you are in South Bend. Respectfully,

Mrs. Geo. Milner, 1715 Dale Ave.

Note:—Mrs. Milner will be remembered here as Winifred Bills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bills, and residents of St. Joe and Concord township for many years.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mr. and Mrs. John Doll of near Spencerville, called on Mrs. Josie Shilling Friday after noon.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Concord Church, met with Mrs. O. V. Squires on last Thursday. There were 22 ladies, 6 children, and six men present for the bountiful pot luck dinner.

Word regarding the condition of Dr. C. R. Price, who is in the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, Tuesday evening was to the effect that the physician was unable to operate on his hip due to his weakened condition. His hip was broken when he fell down stairs some over a week ago, at his home. Little hope of his recovery is held by relatives.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

WHEN, WHERE, AND HOW TAXES ARE TO BE PAID

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1942 may be paid in full at the time for the filing of the return on or before March 15, 1943. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 15, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1943. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribd for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Md.

In the payment of taxes a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

SEW AND SAVE

As a rule we 'go in' for things, sprouting fads and following fancies for periodic spells until something comes along to take its place. It isn't that we are foot-loose and fancy free in sticking to things, but just that the fanfare and advertising dies down. The spirit is usually still willing! Just because you go in for a spell of knitting doesn't mean that you are ever going to entirely lay aside those needles. You just won't click with as much fervor. Folks who played Chinese checkers with every spare moment, havn't thrown away their marbles. Backgammon and Mah Jong, cross word puzzles, tatting and crocheting the hobby of collecting, all still give pleasure though they may have suffered a relapse as fads. We are told that it has become a fad now to make your own clothes. There have always been those who sew and like it, others who sew because it's economically necessary and dislike it. But today, with priorities, rationing and taxes it looks as though more folks are going to dust the sewiny machine. This might seem far out of line with checkers, rummy, knitting, since sewing to many people constitues LABOR. But with simple patterns, lovely materials, free instructions in the construction, they tell us that sewing can be fun. During the week of Feb. 20 to 27, American women will observe National Sew and Save Week and St. Joe women will echo "we knew it all the time."

LET'S GARDEN

There will be flowers in St. Joe yards. There will, no doubt, be more space given to vegetables and fruits, however, than has been the case around here for many years. To plant for victory, in England people who haven't enough space to garden, rent ground for a small fee and get their produce. They are vitally interested in their home-grown food for otherwise in that country there would be a greater shortage than there is already. Here we might well follow their lead in planning right now to have some section of ground around to offer us such crops as the space allows. We need to know intelligent planting in order to rotate crops to assure a steady flow of vegetables. We must know the proper food to give plants in order to produce a healthy supply. Let's read up and all of us have a hearty vegetable garden plot to economize and conserve.

FEED BIRDS

In all sections where the hand of Winter has laid heavily, there will be found some kind of birds who have foregone the southern climes and remained here. It is difficult, when snow covers the ground, for those birds to find enough food for themselves and their young. It is the duty of us here in this section to give scraps from our tables to these feathered friends, to provide a feeding station for them. Don't forget that though you are doing this purely from your kindness of heart, you can remember that it is the birds who help man in his struggle against the insects. If the bugs were all allowed to multiply without the assistance of the birds to keep them in check, you would find a sorry state of affairs. Bugs feed on vegetation, vegetation feeds man, which means that by feeding your birds your action takes care of yourself and family.

SEVERAL B AND C BOOKS WILL EXPIRE AT END OF THIS MONTH

Several B and C books held by car operators in DeKalb County will expire on March 1 and some shortly thereafter. These must be watched carefully and it must be definitely understood by both the holders of these books as well as the filling station operators that coupons in these books are worthless after the expiration date as shown on the face of the books, the DeKalb County OPA states.

Many holders of B and C books have not had their tires inspected and this must be done before Feb. 28 and also before new gas ration books can be granted an applicant.

Employes of defense plants will be interviewed for their next gasoline issue by the transportation committees in their plants before they can be granted new books they must have their tire inspection sheets showing that their tires have been inspected and this sheet must also show their speedometer reading at the time of inspection.

When called for review the applicant must realize that the miles he must show on his application are solely occupational miles and no allowance is made for any non-occupational driving as this is covered in the basic A book on the basis of 90 miles per month. No applicant is to have more than 90 miles non-occupational driving per month regardless of what type of book he holds and if it is found that he does have more than this it will be necessary for the board to take action on his application.

It has been reported several times in the past few days that several car drivers in the county are still displaying their C stickers with the lower section cut off. The law states that this sticker must be displayed in full and anyone who has cut off this lower half should apply to the board at once for a new sticker.

SAYLOR FARM SOLD

The Saylor farm north of town has been sold to Wayne Fogle of near Antwerp. Mrs. Fogle will be remembered as Mrs. Cam Scott, who lived on the Henry Shroyer farm.

NOT THE WAY

Laws, fines and prison sentences will not of themselves bring about equitable distribution of scarce commodities. This fact is once again being demonstrated since the announcement of plans to ration canned, dried, and frozen foods.

Originally, rationing of these items was scheduled to start in February. Complexity of the problems, however, has delayed action. In the meantime the public could wreck all official planning and bring the country to the brink of disaster merely by going out and indulging in a buying spree. The people have the cash, more than ever before. Nothing stops them but their consciences and a willingness to cooperate, plus the efforts of thousands of merchants who have voluntarily rationed supplies which they know to be short.

It should be recalled that when the first efforts were made to put a ceiling on prices, a large share of the credit for the success of those efforts was given to the nation's chain store systems. If the chains had not wholeheartedly backed early price fixing attempts, prices would be far higher at the present moment.

It is difficult to see why, in view of the record, so many public officials persist in following an antagonistic attitude not only toward merchants, but toward consumers. They constantly hold out the prospect of fines and jail for infringement of ever-changing rules so complex and numerous that no ordinary human could hope to obey them all. Not long ago, four thousand merchants were threatened with punishment for violations of rules too complicated to understand.

It is high time that more stress was given to cooperation in the American manner in solving civilian supply problems. This cooperation will be granted lavishly by the public in return for sane governmental policies which recognize the essential character of producers and distributors of necessities and the fundamental fair-mindedness of Mr. and Mrs. America, whose sons and daughters are fighting this war.

The average citizen does not like to be threatened. It smacks too much of the Gestapo. Just so long as the bureaucrats continue to follow such methods, just so long will the home front supply problem remain critical.

EVERY CHICK RAISED IS A
Slap at the Axis!
America's strongest weapon is her ability to out-produce any country in the world. That goes for chicks as well as tanks, and each one is an important cog in our united war effort. So this year, let's "Slap the Axis" again by starting more chicks, better chicks, and raising a bigger percentage to maturity.
28% MORE POULTRY, 13% MORE EGGS That's what Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has asked for in 1943. It must be done, and it can be done with quality-bred chicks and lots of them. Place your chick order today. Early orders will contribute greatly to our production, your profits and the war effort.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

The War Production Board has prepared plans and has set quotas for a Spring scrap drive designed to supplement the rapidly diminishing stock piles of scrap materials at the steel mills. A quota of 542,000 tons has been established for Indiana for the first six months of 1943. Of this quota, 73,000 tons is to be collected from farms and homes throughout the state. This quota represents an average of about 793 tons per county.

The Indiana Salvage Committee has obtained the cooperation of the Agricultural Extension Service at Purdue University, guaranteeing the support of county agents and neighborhood groups throughout the state. County representatives of the AAA will also support the program. In addition it is hoped that the schools, Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, Rural Electrification Administration, implement salesmen and dealers, county highway officials, home economics clubs and other interested individuals and organizations will support the local county salvage chairman in each county.

The Spring Clean-Up Scrap campaign has been announced for the period from March 1 to 6 inclusive. A schedule of county meetings has been arranged beginning February 8 to discuss details for this campaign in each Indiana county.

A plan for stabilizing the cost of living and at the same time encouraging farmers to produce sufficient quantities of certain foods for military and civilian needs is being tried out with the four major canning crops—tomatoes, peas, sweet corn and snap beans. Under the new program growers of these crops will be assured a larger return than they received in 1942, but the difference in costs will be absorbed by the Government through purchase of the output of certified processors of canners at prices allowing fixed minimum returns to growers.

The Government will then resell a portion of the pack to these canners at a discount for civilian use, so that the higher prices will not be passed on to the consumer. Thus, farmers will receive more for the four major crops, but the housewife will pay no more for canned products than she paid last year.

Although very little butter is shipped out of this country except for our men overseas, there has been a heavy drain on butter stocks, resulting in widespread local shortages. Butter production last year totaled more than two billion pounds, but men in the armed services on the average eat much more butter than civilians ordinarily consume, and an ample reserve must be maintained in order to assure their supplies. In addition, with civilian war incomes up, more people have been consuming more evaporated milk, ice cream and dairy products—all made from fluid milk—thus cutting into butter manufacture. In 1943 we'll get less butter than usual—an average of about a quarter of a pound per week per person — but we'll know that our fighters are getting the butter fats they need to carry on to unconditional victory.

All men of draft age working in 29 occupations classified as non-deferrable, and in 36 types of businesses or services similarly classified will be liable for military service on April 1 unless they are engaged in an essential wartime occupation on that date.

The wartime needs for glycerine are many and urgent—distilled for medical supplies, and as an element in the manufacture of explosives. Since waste kitchen fats contain 10 per cent glycerine, every ounce of fats and greases should be saved in the home.

Even Valentine Cards Reflect Wartime Spirit

The war, which has left its imprint on almost everything in our daily life, has not missed leaving its mark on the Valentine and greeting cards for 1943.

Greeting cards for the coming year haven't overlooked a single phase of wartime living—it's the language of the headlines that puts the sentiment across in the new cards.

In "dim-out" terminology it's "All Clear for a Happy Birthday," or "No Blackout on My Valentine Wishes."

"Priorities" and "rationing," the "tax problem" and "conservation," as well as "for the duration," have all been made to "rhyme" with "best wishes" on greeting cards for all the momentous occasions from birthdays and births to wartime marriages and hurry-up-and-get-well-quick messages.

One birthday card that includes practically all of our necessary adjustments to the war reads:

They can ration tea and sugar
They can limit things we use

They can take the cuffs off trousers
And the rubber heels off shoes

They can ration tubes for toothpaste
Gas and Oil for Autos, too . . .

As long as they don't limit
The Joys I wish for You!

And a timely version of the old favorite, "Roses are Red" sentiment reads:

Roses are Red
Violets are Blue
Sugar is precious
And so are you!

Lincoln Memorial Rites to be held Commemorative Building Friday.

Interior of Abraham Lincoln Hall

Indiana's annual Lincoln Memorial services at the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, mother of the Great Emacipator, will be held this year in the nearly-completed Commemorative Building which is a part of the development of this Hoosier shrine.

The memorial program, being sponsored by the Department of Conservation with the cooperation of the Indiana Lincoln Union, will feature an address by Governor Henry F. Schricker and a talk by Col. Richard Lieber, chairman of the executive board of the Lincoln Union. Music will be provided by the Dale Public School and the students of the Lincoln City School will attend.

Following the program at the Commemorative Building, the audience will march to the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln where the memorial wreaths will be placed by the various participating groups and organizations. The program will begin at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Department of Conservation.

The Commemorative Building, now nearing completion, is the finishing touch on the memorial development which was started by Governor Ed Jackson with the formation of the Indiana Lincoln Union in 1926 to acquire the land and plan the Lincoln shrine around the grave and the site of the cabin in which Lincoln lived for fourteen years. Work was started late in 1940 and will be completed during the coming Summer when landscaping and sculpturing is finished. No date has been fixed as yet for the dedication.

In the erection of the building native stone and timber has been used entirely. Indiana limestone and St. Meinrad sandstone have been combined with poplar, wild cherry, oak and walnut to create a beautiful, lasting structure fully in keeping with the surroundings and the impressiveness of the memorial area.

The memorial program Feb. 12 will mark the first time that the building has been opened for public inspection and it is anticipated that interested visitors from all parts of the state will take advantage of the opportunity to see the building and the sculptured panels which are an outstanding feature of the structure.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Squires were recent guests of Ada Berry and Mary Betz.

Mrs. Margaret Wisler and daughter, Darlene, is spending a few days with her husband at Peru, who is employed at the Army Air Base.

Lieutenant Wm. Squires and Mrs. Squires arrived at the M. E. Storer home Monday evening from Miami, Florida, where he was given six weeks of special training, and they are returning to Detroit to take up his duties.

Wm. Strouse has purchased a 110 acre farm one mile from Quincy, Mich., with a 10 acre lake front. He plans the erection of four cottages on the site for Summer renting. He will continue to reside in St. Joe and conduct his wholesale business of canned goods and pickle products.

Mrs. Ray Argerbrigt of 2 miles north of St. Joe, fell Monday injuring her ankle, so that she is compelled to use crutches to get about. The Argerbrights are preparing to move near Fort Wayne soon and this will retard the preparations as they have much to do in getting moved.

Louise Sechler began taking a Nurse's Aid training course at the Garrett Hospital Monday of this week. The course requires five weeks and a half of five days a week. A number of ladies are taking the course under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Quance, County Red Cross Nurse, and when completed they will be able to release registered nurses for special war work.

ATTENTION OF RATION BOOK HOLDERS

Important information for all book holders of Ration Book No 1 (commonly referred to as "Sugar" book) from whose books the Coupons No's 17, 18, and 19 were removed at the time the book was issued to them.

Revised Regulations now state that all holders of Book No. 1 are entitled to and should have the Coupons 17, 18, and 19 to use for other purposes and accordingly all holders of such books should have their books exchanged for correct ones by presenting them to the Rationing Board at Auburn, personally, or they may mail the books which they have, with a letter stating their present correct Post Office address, to which the correct books should be returned, and a new, correct, book will be mailed to them in exchange for the book they returned.

This should be attended to without delay as a correct book will be needed when application is made for the Ration Book No. 2 the latter part of this month.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Since machinery on DeKalb County farms is vital to the nations war efforts to whip the Axis powers, County Agricultural Agent C. E. Baker called upon all farmers of the county to attend the farm machinery school, which will be held on February 23 from 10:00 to 3:00 at the court house assembly room in Auburn, under the joint auspices of the agricultural engineering department of Purdue University.

IN THE U.S.A. WE HAVE A NOT-SO-SECRET WEAPON THAT WILL HELP DESTROY THE AXIS!

FOR years the Schicklgruber has threatened to wipe out the foes of dictatorships with a "secret" weapon. While he boasted, American business men with the characteristic initiative and energy of free men have added to our already large reserves of electricity, so that today we have more power than all the Axis nations combined.

This has been done without sacrificing service while at the same time electric rates have decreased substantially.

America is truly the land of opportunity—opportunity to free enterprise that made this country powerful in peace—the opportunity in war to prove that free men are better producers than the slaves of a dictator.

ST. JOE NEWS

VOL. LVIII (58 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, FEB. 18, 1943 NUMBER 7

A new address of a recent draftee from this community is that of: Pvt. Argal Likens, Co. C. 534 Eng. Amph. B. N. Boat P., Fort Devens, Mass. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Likens of 3 miles west of St. Joe.

Melvin I. M. Howey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Howey, of 3 miles north of St. Joe, at Road 8, was among the group of DeKalb County men inducted into the army last Wednesday.

Eighty-two classificati o ns were announced Saturday by the selective service board, and m e n from this community classified were: Loren D. Inlow, 2-A, for civilian activity; Harold Jay Kagey, 2-B, for war work; Leland E. Miller, Spencerville, Francis B. Sible, Paul E. Kitchen, Robert B. Laub, 2-C, farm work; Dr. Clayton B. Hathaway, 3-A, for dependents.

Franklin R. Wiers and Wm. G. Harter, of Newville, were among the group of 21 men leaving for Camp Perry, Ohio, this week.

Marcel Pugsley was inducted into the army at Camp Perry, Ohio, Jan. 27, and was sent from there to Camp Hood, Texas. This is a camp of 40,000. Marcel especially likes the weather; he says he runs around in shirt sleeves, and is really getting a sun tan. His address is: Pvt. Marcel Pugsley 35543123, Co. A 131st B. N. Camp Hood, Texas.

Corp. Robert Hollabaugh, enjoyed a ten day furlough here and is leaving Thursday and expects to be moved upon his return to camp. His present address is: Corp. Robert C. H. Hollabaugh, Btl. 18 F. A., Fort Sill, Okla.

Another draftee's address is given readers of The News as follows: Pvt. Max. L. Markle 35543112, Co. G., 13th Q. M. T. R., Bldg.—T—933, Camp Lee, Virginia.

Max reports there are between 40,000 and 60,000 soldiers at this camp. It is the largest quarter master camp in the world. Max is fine and says Spring must be around the corner as they are already buying garden seeds in Virginia.

Private Ellsworth Morr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morr, h a s been transferred from Camp Chaffee, Ark., to the Artillery School at Fort Sill, Okla. His present address is: Battery "B" 93 A. (F. A.) Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

A slight change has been made in the address of: Pvt. Paul Gerig 16085669, 21st Repair Squad, A. D. G., A. P. O. 635 New York City. He is overseas, in the best of health and working every day.

The News will keep another soldier boy informed as to what is going on at home: Pvt. Gaylord R. Rediger, Battery D., 204th C. A. B. N. (AA) Camp Edwards, Mass. Gaylord is one of the recent recruits from DeKalb County and resided on the County Line.

Kenneth Miller, wife and son, Marion Saylor and Ben Soule, drove to Camp Perry, Ohio, Sunday, to see Gerald Miller, who was inducted into the service last week. While there they saw the St. Joe boys, Maurice Hurni and Pete Storer.

Overseas, Dec. 24, '42.

Dear Anna:

How does this find everyone, fine I hope. I am well and getting along just fine. This is the night before Christmas and it is raining, it doesn't seem much like Christmas at all, but I guess it doesn't seem much like it to any one. We are going to have turkey for our Christmas dinner, and I don't know what else. I suppose you have been looking for a letter from me, but it just seems like I can't get in the mood for writing. I haven't received a letter for so long that I hardly would know what one would look like. We have been getting very little mail so don't worry when I do not write as often as you think I should. I will close for this time and tell every one I said Hello and Be Good. Closing with love,

Pvt. Woodrow W. Boggess, Co. M. 168 Reg., A. P. O. 34, New York, City.

Woodrow will be remembered as having lived in the Curtis Hursey home, when they resided on their farm south of Concord.

A change of address we are glad to make is that of: Pvt. Richard M. Davis, Battery D—10 Bttn. Bld. T 1325, Fort Eustis, Virignia.

Argentia, Nfld.
Jan. 31, 1943.

Dear Mother and Sister:

Another week has passed by without any mail. That brings it to the total of almost three weeks without any. I sure hope it isn't long until we hear from the outside. The boys here feel like lynching us because of this mail situation. I suppose when it does come through I will have several letters from you and all the rest of them. If it wasn't for the recreation facilities here the boys would go nuts. Next to their important mail the recreation hall is second best. Most of the boys live just for their mail it seems.

The boys in the P. O. have been having it pretty easy the past few weeks. During the day we work on the outgoing mail and when night comes we have been going to the movies or bowling. We have a new officer in charge of P. O. now. Things are running as smooth as clock work. He is trying to arrange it so the P. O. is a separate division from communications, so we can let two men at a time go on leave. I sure hope he puts it over.

Maybe I will get home sooner than I expect. Probably won't get over a week and a half or two weeks to be with you folks but at least it will be something. I sure hope our load of parcels comes in soon and I receive yours. I need those items very bad now. We received 2 carloads of parcels and second class on the base last week. Am looking forward to receiving your package when the next shipment arrives. How are the St. Joe Tigers making out this last half?

I received a copy of the St. Joe News and was reading the letters from the boys back home. Well, all of us will be back home before long to settle down for good.

We have so much air mail that is coming and is late, that if we get it all in at once we will have around thirty bags of nothing but air mail. We'll be so darn busy for awhile that we will have to stay open 24 hours a day. Just as long as we get some mail, I don't care how hard I have to work.

Well, news is scarce this time so I will close for now hoping some mail comes in for me soon. Tell all the folks I say "hello." Hope you are receiving my letters alright. Bye for now.

Your loving Son and Brother,
Burl, Jr.

Card of Thanks

LOCAL RATION BOARDS GIVES OUT INFORMATION

Issuing of Ration Book No. 2 for St. Joe and Concord and Newville Townships, will start on Tuesday, February 23, and will continue thru Friday, February 26. The hours will be from 6:00 to 9:00 P. M. The work will be done in the St. Joe Town Hall.

Only one person from a family is to come and they are to bring with them all of the No. 1 Books of the family with a "Consumer Declaration" properly filled out. These consumer declarations are to be found in the Auburn and St. Joe papers and can be cut out and filled out and ready when you come to get your No. 2 Book.

If you cannot come to get the books for yourself and family then fill out the Consumer Declaration and give it, along with your No. 1 Books, to a neighbor who can then get your new books for you.

There are 1500 books to be issued in the four nights given for this purpore so the more completely you make out your report before coming to the distributing center the faster the books can be handled. If you do not think you can properly fill out the Declaration there will be someone to help you when you come to get your book.

The Spencerville board, with Franklin Robinson as chairman, will hold forth at the school house, beginning Feb. 23 to 26 inclusive, and at hours from 6:30 to 9:30.

Has Eight Grandsons In Army

Clifford R. Billow and family spent Sunday at Ney, Ohio, with his father, John Billow, Sr., helping him to celebrate his 82nd birthday. There were 38 relatives present. Mr. Billow has eight grandsons in the service of Uncle Sam.

Asks Farm to Be Sold

Wilbur Beree, by Attorney W. D. Stump, has sued Cloy Peree and others in the DeKalb Circuit Court for partition of 106 acres of land in Newville township. The court is asked to appoint a commissioner to sell the farm and distribute the proceeds among the owners.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS !

Mr. and Mrs. Iona Woodcox are spending 2 weeks in the Harold Miller home n e a r Montpelier, and doing some carpenter work.

J. N. Baldwin, of east of Spencerville, has sold his farm to John Cook who now lives on the Joe Foltz farm east of the Dills bridge. He will be moving in a few weeks.

Victory Stationery at News

Mrs. Robert Sechler began working at the G. E. in Fort Wayne last Saturday.

Walter Stewart started to work at Studebaker's plant in Fort Wayne on Tuesday of last week. He had been employed here by the county highway department.

Leonard Jarrett's brooder house caught on fire last Wednesday. They had just received 200 baby chicks. The fire was discovered before much damage was done.

Henry Benner has been off work for the past two weeks with the flu. Clarence Cook of Butler, who works for Mr. Benner on the Wabash section, is also off work with the shingles.

Mrs. Flora Gee has recovered from pneumonia so that she could be moved from the Hicksville hospital on last Saturday. She is in a convalescent home in Butler to be near her daughter, Mrs. Lucile Provines.

Mrs. O. E. Ginther and daughter, Virginia, of Muskegon, Mich., were week end guests here in the Ginther home, and through her attorney, H. C. Springer, filed divorce proceedings. The couple had been married for 36 years, being married on May 4, 1907.

The Junior Class of the St. Joe High School will present the 3-act comedy "Abigail Goes Haywire," on Friday night, February 19. The play will start at 8:00 and there will be a 15 minute musical prelude. It promises to be an evening of much merriment, so join the crowd as it moves to the Community Gym on Friday night. 7t1.

CONSUMER DECLARATION!

Editor's Note:—The Office of Price Administration has asked the newspapers of the United States to assist in the launching of the processed foods rationing program by publishing the following Official "Consumers Declaration" form which must be submitted by each family group at the time they apply for the War Ration Book No. 2 which will be issued the week of Feb. 22. GEORGE WASHINGTON

When we are stuck for some national cure for a national ailment, so often we resort to some bit of wisdom offered by heroes of days gone by, who prescribed certain laws and procedures for the people of his day. Much of that wisdom then will stand the test of time, yet circumstances alter so much in politics that the general trend changes from year to year. So we can's say that our President should act as Lincoln or Washington, because certain truths that held in 1798 or 1861 wouldn't hold water in exactly the same manner in 1943. But we can follow every day in every year the spirit of such national heroes. Washington had the quality of patience and the fondness for hard work. He was an Indian fighter, a surveyor, a soldier, and an executive. He had to obtain his education through his own efforts, lacking college training. Though as a leader of a revolutionary movement, still Washington was moderate in his thought for founding this new nation. He believed in developing and progressing as a nation, in a conservative style, with stress laid upon devotion to one's country. He brought out of chaos an army untrained and brought into being through military genius a country free for rich development. Using wisdom and restraint Washington continued to mold and shape this new land and if it was worth the fighting for in the 1700's, this beloved country of the patriot George

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

INCOME OF FARMERS

Farmers, which include livestock raisers, fruit and truck growers, poultry raisers, and operators of plantations and ranchs, are liable for Federal income tax returns provided their income is sufficient to require the filing of returns. Primarily, due to the reduction in the credit for personal exemption, many farmers will be liable for returns and to the tax for the first time for the year 1942.

Farmers may maintain their records and file their returns of income on either the cash receipts and disbursements basis or on the accrual basis of accounting. A consistent method must, however, be employed. If a cash basis is used, Form 1040F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses," is required to be filled out and filed in conjunction with Form 1040. Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of farmers who report income on the accrual basis. A farmer who reports income on the cash receipts and disbursements basis (in which no inventories to determine profits are used) must include in gross income for the taxable year (1) the amount of cash or the value of merchandise or other property received during the taxable year from the sale of livestock or produce which were raised, regardless of when raised; (2) the profits from the sale of any livestock or other items which were purchased; and (3) gross income from all other sources.

Under the accrual basis in which inventories are used to determine the profits, farmers' gross profits are ascertained by adding to the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the end of the year the amount received from the sale of livestock and produce, and miscellaneous receipts of income during the year, and deducting from this sum the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the beginning of the year and the cost of livestock and produce purchased during the year. All livestock, whether purchased or raised, must be included in inventory at their proper valuation. Livestock acquired for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes and not for sale, may be included in the inventory instead of being treated as capital assets subject to depreciation, provided such practice is consistently followed.

If farm produce is exchanged for merchandise, groceries, or the like, the market value of the articles received in exchange is to be included in gross income. The value of farm products which are produced by a farmer and consumed by his family does not constitute taxable income. Rents received in crop shares are to be returned as income as of the year in which the crop shares are reduced to money or the equivalent of money. Proceeds of insurance, such as hail and fire insurance on growing crops are required to be included in gross income.

Amounts received as loans from the Commodity Credit Corporation may, at the option of the taxpayer, be considered as income and included in gross income for the taxable year in which received. The election once made is binding for all subsequent years unless the Commissioner approves a change to a different method of accounting. Amounts received under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, the Price Adjustment Act of 1938, section 303 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the Sugar Act of 1937 constitute taxable income to the recipients for Federal income tax purposes.

Driving to a restaurant to eat wouldn't be classified as a pleasure if the restaurant had a juke box.

It might have reached the point if the government hadn't intervened, where some folks would have enlisted just to get three square meals a day.

HOME RULE AT STAKE

In election after election where the people have had an opportunity to express themselves on the issue of socialized electric power, the verdict has been against public ownership. In spite of this the issue has been kept alive. A determined political minority has vowed to socialize the electric industry. To achieve that end, it has resorted to hypocritical use of public funds and questionable political maneuvering. In many sections of the nation public power has been established on a large scale by these methods. Not until recently were such high sounding phrases as "navigation," "flood control," "reclamation," etc., admitted to be mere protective screens to hide from the courts of the people the real intent of the power socialists.

A survey has now been conducted in the Pacific Northwest by an independent agency, to obtain the views of the residents of Oregon and Washington on the question of whether to bring Northwest electric power under Federal control as was proposed in the Bone-Smith Columbia Power Administration Bill. The survey was termed "painstakingly accurate" by the head of Stanford University's Department of Journalism. As might be expected, it showed that Oregon and Washington voters are more than 4 to 1 against such a proposal during the war, and nearly 2 to 1 against it at any time. By a vote of more than 11 to 1, they made it extremely clear that they want the public ownership question decided by a vote of local communities, not by Federal bureaucrats three thousand miles away.

Northwest power socialization advocates plan to force public power upon taxpayers without bringing the issue before the electorate, through Initiative 12 under consideration by the Washington state legislature. This "baby" Bone Bill provides for the destruction of private utilities by state authority rather than Federal. The result would be the same. Taxpaying, stringently regulated private enterprise would pass out of existence. In its place would be tax-subsidized, unregulated political power "czars" or "authorities," and an army of political appointees. All of which is contrary to American tradition, and all of which the people have indicated that they do not want.

FARM NEEDS

The furloughing of farm boys, who are now serving in the army, during planting and harvesting time, paying them farm and army salaries, seems a pretty good suggestion. European countries have been doing it for some time. The plan of bringing in women and children is alright as long as the work is not too heavy, but those around St. Joe who know anything about it say that farm work is physical labor and also calls for knowledge and skill in the care of crops and stock. There are many folks offering advice on ways to meet this problem but of one thing we feel sure. To turn out enough food in quantity required by the government, farmers must have the tools with which to work. Only 23 per cent of production of new farm machinery for 1943 as that of 1940, and the world to feed. All the extra hands can be slowed down in production if mechanical implements and farming needs aren't obtainable. This is an important obstacle that is taking a lot of figuring.

EARLY RISING

We understand that folks are having a hard time buying alarm clocks. It reminds us that that there are probably more alarm clocks going 'bong' each morning, than ever before in our nation's history. It follows that more folks are seeing the breaking of daylight thru dark night skies, than usually though to people who have seen this feat of nature for many years it perhaps doesn't offer much. But somehow those clearing skies, the glory of moon and stars giving way to light and morning's freshness, the peep of sunshine, is a thrill just the same! Getting up and dressing by artificial light at say six o'clock, isn't anything to put you into a mood of jollity. But after it becomes routine you get over the blind staggers and look up at those lighting skies and take your chance with the other early risers on guessing what kind of a day it's going to be.

NO EXCUSE FOR WASTE

Senator Byrd of Virginia, has long and courageously opposed governmental waste. The problem has become many times greater as the war has progressed. Government spending has grown beyond the comprehension of man. It has grown so great, many of us are inclined to dismiss the whole subject with a shrug. And yet as Senator Byrd and others who put interest in their country above all else, know, government spending that leads to uncontrolled waste can ruin the strongest nation just as completely as can military defeat.

A nation may survive spending. It cannot survive unchecked waste.

Billions of dollars are being wasted. No one can deny that. They are being wasted in excessive wages, in cost-plus contracts for war work, in political mismanagement and in a thousand other ways. The excuse is often made that this is a big country, that waste is inevitable. But that is not a valid excuse. There is no excuse for continuous waste.

The demoralizing influence of governmental waste undermines the fighting spirit of worker and employer. It will inevitably slow the voluntary sale of government bonds because men and women instinctively mistrust a waster even when that waster is their own government. These are fundamental reasons why Congress must halt the waste of public money. It is not so much the amount of money that it wasted during any given period that will hurt, it is knowingly permitting the waste. In these days of hundred-billion-dollar budgets, a single billion may not seem like much. But a wasted billion which is part of a trend toward more wasted billions, is a danger signal that cannot be ignored if we value our self respect, our freedom and our financial integrity.

Senator Byrd has revealed the waste. The voters and Congress must apply the remedy.

RETIRING OLD CARS

There is a side issue of benefit in the auto restriction according to a News reader, who mentions that many of the old dilapidated automobiles are disappearing from the road for always. There was a problem presented by the old-model cars in many stages of decreptitude which, for the common good, should have been refused licenses. They were a public hazard and often accidents could be traced to defects due to age of these badly worn autos riding along the highways. It was found that often the owners were not financially able to meet obligations to injured parties. This was wrong. There are laws providing for adequate brakes, tire inspection, lighting efficiency and so on, but more physically unfit automobiles were still getting by than laws for safety should permit. Many will agree with the reader's opinion.

CHIEF OF STAFF—General George C. Marshall, highest ranking American officer attending the Casablanca conference.

Bright Green Umbrellas

One doesn't think much about umbrellas unless one is caught out in the rain and the umbrella is home in the closet. But in glancing over a page in the Old Farmer's Almanac this item under the date of January 22, caught our eye: "men carried bright green umbrellas, 1810." We have never gone in much for the umbrellas and paid little attention to them until Neville Chamberlain came along and made us 'umbrella conscious,' but this short notice gave us pause for thought. What a sight! But no funnier, perhaps, than men of today wearing pastel colored slacks, bright shirts, rainbow hues in underwear and sleeping garments.

Depositories of Public Funds

The proposals of all the banks of the county to act as depositories of county funds for the next year were approved Monday by the county commissioners in special session in Auburn. In accordance with the law, the deposits will be made in proportion to the resources of the respective banks as follows:

Auburn State Bank, 35.9 per cent; City National Bank of Auburn, 25 per cent; Garrett State Bank, 19 per cent; Knisely National Bank of Butler, 10.4 per cent; Citizens State Bank of Waterloo, 5.9 per cent; Farmers and Merchants Bank of Spencerville, 3.8 per cent.

The Auburn State Bank was designated as depository of the funds of the DeKalb Circuit Court.

Approximately 73,000 tons of scrap metal will be sought on Hoosier farms during the next six months. The drive is now getting under way. Indiana's total scrap metal salvage goal for the period is 542,000 tons.

Under the shoe rationing plan, three pairs of shoes will be made available during the next 12 or 13 months to every man, woman, and child in the country. Stamp 17 in War Ration Book One is good for one pair of shoes until June 15, and stamps may be transferred from one member of a family to another. Anyone who needs shoes but has no stamp 17 in his own book or in the family books may apply to his local rationing board for a shoe certificate. The stamp must not be presented loose but must be torn out in the presence of the person making the sale.

In the last six months of 1942 one out of every ten pairs of shoes manufactured in the United States went to men in the military forces. Every soldier who landed in North Africa, for example, was outfitted with three pairs of shoes and the convoys carried additional reserve supplies. A pair of shoes doesn't last a soldier as long as a civilian—they must be used on the harsh mountain trails of New Guinea and Tunisia, in muck and water of South Pacific Islands, on the burning sands of North Africa, or in the snow and ice of Alaska and the Aleutians.

The application for War Ration Book two must be accompanied by a "consumer declaration," stating the amount of canned foods—except home-canned foods—on hand February 21, and the amount of coffee held as of November 28, when coffee rationing began. The declaration of home stocks doesn't mean necessarily that the applicant is suspected of hoarding foods, for many families are in the habit of carrying stocks of canned goods. But the deduction of coupons for each can in excess of five cans per person, if the cans hold more than eight ounces each, will make sure that no one has a "head start" in the rationing program.

Groups of farmers interested in the production, transportation, marketing or processing of a particular commodity in a given area may, with the approval of the Office of Defense Transportation, organize for better transportation, of the commodity without danger of coming under the antitrust laws.

Last year America's farmers were saved about a billion dollars through price control of cost-of-living items, and around $2,300,000,000 in operating and maintenance expenses from what such expenses would have been under the impact of uncontrolled price rises like those in the last war. The total of this type of savings represented an average saving per farm of $541.

RED CROSS DRIVE QUOTAS ARE SET

Stanley Patrick of Auburn, county chairman for the Red Cross roll call and war relief campaign, announced Wednesday that he had completed the organization for the annual drive in DeKalb County.

The chairmen are as follows in the community:

St. Joe—W. L. Hurni.

Spencerville — Mrs. B. O. Shook.

Rural—Lester Boger, of Auburn, in charge.

The quotas are as follows for the towns:

Auburn	$7000
Garrett	$4500
Butler	$1000
Waterloo	$ 800
Ashley	$ 250
St. Joe	$ 200
Spencerville	$ 200
Corunna	$ 100

Townships

Richland	$600
Fairfield	$600
Jackson	$600
Smithfield	$550
Butler	$500
Wilmington	$500
Franklin	$500
Keyser	$300
Grant	$300
Union	$250
Spencer	$250
Concord	$250
Stafford	$250
Newville	$250
Troy	$250

The American Red Cross renders a budgetary accounting to all who gave so generously to its $65,000,000 WAR FUND of 1941-42.

One Half for Armed Forces

Our Army and Navy—the men who must do the fighting.

With them wherever they go. Right now, in approximately 1000 camps, posts and stations. In this country, in Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Newfoundland, Iceland, Alaska, Ireland and Australia—(where next?)

Buildings, equipment, trained personnel to provide a "heart" for a tough and hard-boiled fighting force. To give understanding help in every personal or family problem, to bring relief from burdensome worries, to keep the morale that wins all wars.

And for the wounded and sick, a service that brings courage and cheer to hospital wards. Operation of recreation buildinga for convalescents. Care that brings them back to usefulness. Blood for transfusions from the growing army of blood donors. "Gray Ladies" who understand the human needs.

Selection, organizing and training of all of those who volunteer for Red Cross service at the front. enrollment of 50,000 nurses as a reserve supply for Army and Navy hospitals as the need increases.

Ten Per Cent Going For Civilian Emergencies

Bomb, flood, fire, tornado—in Honolulu, the Philippines, everywhere in America, your dollars have met disaster heads up, face on. Thanks to you and this 10 per cent of your gift, shelter, clothing, medical care were ther on time—whatever the need, however short the warning.

One Quarter for Preparedness

Your Red Cross will be ready to do its part, if plans and organization and civilian training and stockpiles are the measure of our preparedness.

Even the millions that are invested in this may not be enough, another year of war will bring new needs.

But for months ahead your War Fund has made sure that if and when and wherever the enemy strikes, we will be ready, with man power and woman power, with food, and shelter and transportation, with organization and with trained skill.

Volunteer services? Yes, largely. But your dollars are behind that volunteer to guarantee effectiveness.

Is twenty-five cents out of each dollar too much—to be prepared?

Balance for Chapter Use

You and your neighbors who are the Army of the Red Cross. Some twenty-nine million of you adults and juniors banded together in every community, ready for any call for money or for service. Doing your bit out of your busy lives. Keeping your sector of the war ready for anything. Making the Red Cross a factor in community service. You are the foundation of it all and the link that workers at the front must have with the folks at home. You are the producers from whose workrooms flow the tons of material, bandages, clothing and supplies.

You use that fifteen cents out of each dollar that you give and spend it for the needs that you know best.

'NEIGH! NEIGH!' CRIES A DINER AS HORSE MEAT BALKS HIM

By Morton L. Linder

Just like I say, for a solid meal-time treat there's absolutely nothing that can touch a well-broiled filly mignon sauted in a couple of ponies of brandy.

Or, for that troublesome Friday meal, nothing fills the bill so well as fresh fried percheron with colt-slaw.

And, to answer the common query of what's cookin' with something truly different and sure to make the mouth water, it's hard to beat a steaming dish of boiled fetlocks and cabbage.

For the mane course some day—and this guaranteed to make a gourmet's eyes roll in delightful anticipation — you might try a little fricassee of croup and withers. This is a real blue-plater special, especially if garnished with horse chestnuts and served with a side dish of horse-radish. Or, of you prefer, a dish of dapplesauce.

Of course, it must be served hot, not colt.

What, No Cow-Mane?

And you can't forget that you have to start off with some kind of appetizer—say, something in the line of horse d'oeuvres.

All of which leads up to the other day when I barged into the house, put my galoshes back into the safe, emptied the day's take in cigar butts into a box, and shouted to the little woman:

"When do we eat, I'm so hungry I could eat a horse."

The L. W.—still wearing her acetylene helmet that got stuck on her head at the plant last week—looks at me kind of funny. I figure right then that there's a hitch somewhere.

Everything goes alright until she puts the big, thick steak in front of me. A beautiful looking steak, such as I haven't seen in a long while. I look at it with bright, bulging eyes and a hungry smile. I'm about to ask her where she was able to find a gorgeous piece of meat like this when I spot that funny look again.

A Strain on the Feedbag

"All right," I say, firmly. "Quit horsing around and tell * * *" I no sooner say it than I stop quick. The little woman looks at me for an instant, nods her helmeted head and says: "Yes, it is."

I look at the plate in front of me, quiet my emetic nerve, and then mutter: "Well, this sure is a horse on me."

The more I look at the plate —now shoved away to the other side of the table—the more I think that maybe it wouldn't be so bad after all. Say, it's only another animal; it's meat. I eat cows, don't I. Why not a horse?

I pull back the plate, douse the steak in salt, pepper, ketchup, mustard and a few other condiments and then gingerly cut off a little edge. Looks like any other steak. I'm about to insert the fork in my mouth when I think of that little pony on which I took a picture when I was a little boy. What if * * *

I drop the fork, push the plate away again and for some unknown reason a slight thread of a song suns through my brain ("The old gray mare, she ain't what she chews to be * * *")

New Approach Attempted

Once more I try. After all, a horse is a clean animal. Eat lots of good hay and oats. Cleaner than a sheep or pig or even a cow. Sure, after all, this is war; there are some things we just have to do. There. It's in my mouth. I'm chewing. Ummm. Tastes darn good, too.

Then, suddenly, I wonder what color horse it might have been. Maybe one of those pretty dappled grays? Or a chestnut brown with unusual white face markings? Or maybe even a horse of another color.

That does it. War or no war: A cannibal, never. I pick up the piece of meat, wrap it carefully, put on my boots and saddlely take it outside. There I shovel away the snow, chop through the hard ground, lay the package down tenderly and cover it over.

As I trudge slowly back to the house, I hear another strain this time as if played by harps:

"Put on your old gray bonnet with the blue ribbons on it and we'll hitch old Dobbin to the tray . . ."

How To Prepare Roast

If you sprinkle the pork roast with brown sugar during the last half hour of baking you will find a new and desirable flavor. Try adding a bit of dry mustard to the bread crumbs when you are preparing breaded cutlets, which gives them an appealing flavor. Season your pot roast with tomato juice instead of the usual water as the liquid, baste frequently and receive the family's compliments.

HELP STOP RUMORS

The County Rationing Board has received special instructions to give the people information about rationing plans and specially to stop rumors as to rationing of wearing apparel.

These are the facts as stated to the nation by Administrator Prentis M. Brown, and Donald M. Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board.

"There is no shortage of clothing and there is no need for rationing."

"The War Production Board has not directed the Office of of Price Administration to undertake the rationing of clothing."

"The Office of Price Administration has set up no machinery for rationing clothing."

You see plenty of new clothes in the stores—you'll see many more next year, too. The needs for our armed forces comes first. They're being filled, and we still have several hundred million more pounds of wool than we had when the Japs struck Pearl Harbor. Convoys returning from Autralia continue to bring us more and clothes in the stores—you'll sea more wool.

Three slogans for Patriotic Shoppers—

Buy clothes only when you need them.

Take care of the clothes you have.

Speak the truth—stop ration rumors.

Kingship? Not For Washington Despite Offers

First President Offered Rule By Discontented Army Officers.

Few Americans know that our country today might be a monarchy but for an act of nobility performed by George Washington on May 22, 1782. The officers of the Revolutionary army had implored Washington to assume royal power, place himself at their head, and rule the country as a king. On May 22, more than a century and a half ago, General Washington refused this invitation in patriotic terms so strong that the idea was dropped.

This incident, which constitutes one of the critical moments in the destiny of America, occurred while General Washington and the Continental army were encamped at Newburgh, on the Hudson. The surrender of Cornwallis had virtually ended the Revolution, but nominally hostilities were still in effect, and Washington was determined to hold the army together against any surprise renewal of the war. As usual his soldiers were poorly clothed and fed, and congress was deeply in arrears in their pay. By then the war had dragged on for seven long years. The struggle had cost many of Washington's officers the loss of their personal fortunes, and the entire enlisted force faced a future of want on being released to civil life.

Discontent High.

Discontent rose to dangerous intensity in all ranks. At length, Col. Lewis Nicola, a respected character on friendly terms with the commander in chief, spoke for the officers as a body when he addressed to Washington a veiled proposal that he take over the government of the country, with the army behind him, and rule it as a king.

The late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, in his biography of Washington, states that on this occasion Washington was as truly tempted as Caesar, with an offer to make himself king or emperor. The stroke, moreover, would have been easy of accomplishment. The colonies were all beggared by the war. Their governments were slack and weak. The Revolutionary army was the one cohesive, national power in the land. To a man the soldiers worshiped Washington, and with their aid he could have taken over control of the nation. As near as that, at this stage of America's history, was the country to becoming a monarchy.

Not a Temptation.

And yet it was a great distance away. To George Washington the temptation of kingship was no temptation at all. On the contrary he put it aside with far greater and more sincere indignation than did Caesar wave aside the laurel crown. In a letter whose every word should be implanted in the mind of every school child in America, he declined Nicola's offer and rebuked the man who made it. Writing on May 22, 1782, he said:

"Sir—With a mixture of great surprise and astonishment, I have read with attention the sentiments you have submitted to my perusal. Be assured, Sir, no occurrence in the course of the war has given me more painful sensations, than your information of there being such ideas existing in the army, as you have expressed, and I must view with abhorrence and reprehend with severity . . .

"I am at a loss to conceive what part of my conduct could have given encouragement to an address, which to me seems big with the greatest mischiefs that can befall my Country. If I am not deceived in the knowledge of myself, you could not have found a person to whom your schemes are more disagreeable . . . Let me conjure you, then, if you have any regard for your Country, concern for yourself or posterity, or respect for me, to banish these thoughts from your mind, and never communicate, as from yourself or anyone else, a sentiment of the like nature."

—APPRCIATIVE WORDS—

South Bend, Ind. 2-8- '43

Dear Friends:

The ice having mostly melted away I am going to the city, so will mail the money for The News. I am slow again after promising myself I would not be. If the going there has been anything like it has here, you could understand people staying at home.

Everyone is busy these trying war days. I do Red Cross work, and go whenever I can. This takes a lot of time also. Our First Methodist Church, of which Mr. Milner and myself are members, does quite an extensive Red Cross service. I am one of the instructors and I do enjoy the work. A nice way to get better acquainted with our members, too. We have a large church, 1200 members, so could not learn to know all of them.

Thanks for waiting for the money. I would miss The News so much. That is the only way I hear of the old friends and acquaintances at St. Joe. Best wishes to both of you. Come to see us when you are in South Bend. Respectfully,

Mrs. Geo. Milner, 1715 Dale Ave.

Note:—Mrs. Milner will be remembered here as Winifred Bills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bills, and residents of St. Joe and Concord township for many years.

THE EARLY ROBBIN

The Robin red breast has put in its appearance, and the first to report was John Crothers on Tuesday. At the Curt Watt Corners, 2 miles west of town, the bird greeted Mr. Crothers with a song, or in other words, inquired as to whether he had a letter from its parents in Tennessee. John smiled and passed on, and said to himself, it won't be long until the whole tribe will be here.

A SIGN OF SPRING

Mr. and Mrs. Thad Brown, of Road 8, report seeing a flock of 10 wild geese making their flight north on February 11th.

George Goodall Dies

The body of George W. Goodall, owner of the Goodall Lumber Co., Auburn, was taken to New Carlisle, Ohio, for burial Friday following funeral services held at the late home. Services at 9:30 A. M. were conducted by Rev. H. F. Craven. Graveside services were held at the cemetery at New Carlisle. Mr. Goodall was well known here and was the owner of the Swineford-Curie farm north of St. Joe.

Daughter to Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hart, 806 Ironwood Drive, South Bend, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Eleanor Jean, of Dayton, O., to Lieut. James William Anderson, also of Dayton, Lieut. Anderson is the son of Mrs. Robert MacDonald of Detroit, Mich., and James G. Anderson, of Calumet, Ill. The wedding will take place in South Bend on April 17.

YOUNGSTERS GIVE HITLER A PUNCH IN THE NOSE

Victory begins on the Home Front

YOU boys and girls take charge of processing the tin cans in your home—save fats and turn them in to the butcher.

Best of all, take over some of Mother's work so that she can do her share of war work. Electrical appliances make it easy and we will do our best to back you up with plenty of juice to run them.

Man power shortage, rubber scarcity, gas rationing and all the other restrictions necessary in Wartime naturally "cramp our style," but the cheerful cooperation of our customers of all ages inspires every effort possible, and, with your help we will carry on. One thing the Axis can't take away from us — we have more power in the U.S.A. than in all the Axis countries combined! And five times as much as we had ourselves in World War I.

Take good care of your Electric appliances—let them help you for Victory.

Dear Fred:

Just a few lines to let you know that I have been transferred to Billings General Hospital. I haven't received the last two copies of The News, possibly because of the transfer here.

Here is the latest dope on my leg as Capt. Ross, medical officer, told me. The leg is draining yet and may for sometime. After it has healed they will leave me lay for six months to make sure all osteitis infection of the bone, is cleared up, then they will operate doing a bone graft. This means five months in bed. After that six months on a steel brace. Total about 20 more months in the hospital, with luck.

At present about two inches of bone has sluffed out of the large bone in the leg.

We have patients here shipped in from all battle areas. From points in Europe and the Islands. Even some few from Pearl Harbor attack.

Will be looking for The News at my new address.

Very sincerely yours,

P. F. C. Merle Epler, Billings General Hospital, T—1202—U. S. Army, Ft. Benj. Harrison, Indiana.

MUSICAL EVENING

Musical evening of the Ladies Literary Club was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser, Feb. 10. The meeting was opened with the singing of "God Bless America."

The following numbers: "Magnetta," "Troubador," "Moonbeams" and "Magnetta," were played by an ensemble led by Mr. Leslie Wilbern, including Ellis Lee Bragg, first cornet; Allen Haller, second cornet; Helen Carey, first clarinet; Patricia Carpenter, second clarinet; Janice Bragg, trombone; Leslie Wilbern, alto saxophone; tenor saxophone, Mary Louise Woodcox; baritone saxophone, Rosemary Yeiser; piano, Mrs. Fred B. Leighty.

A paper on the dances and music of South America was read by Mrs. Leslie Wilbern. After several songs by the club a sextette was composed of the following ladies: Lora Leighty, Edith Cole, Winifred Hart, Cora Curie, Parlia Hull and Catherine Haller, sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," with the rest of the club filling in.

A musical contest was conducted by Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser. After a short business session, the meeting was adjourned to meet Wednesday, Feb. 24 with Mrs. Lela Northrup.

The hostess served home made ice cream, vanilla wafers and coffee.

Mrs. Glen Abel of Peru, Mrs. L. W. Yeiser and Mrs. Clyde Hart were guests.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS

Victory Stationery at News

For Sale: 75 galvanized sap pails. Leighty Orchard 8t1.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schrader of north of Concord, at the Souder Hospital Sunday, a daughter.

Harold DeLong, of near Butler, has been hired out to Merritt Sechler for farm work and has moved into the tenant home.

Flowers are blooming and the red nose of the rhubarb plant, is found in the Mrs. J. P. Buckingham garden. A sure sign of early Spring. We hope.

Mrs. Ottis Wilbern, of Fairmount, Ind., died Sunday morning shortly after eating her breakfast caused by a heart attack. She had been failing for several months, failing rapidly since last October. She passed away before her son, Leslie Wilbern and family, of this place, could get there. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

NOW ON 95% WAR CONTRACTS

Information released today by the Auburn Rubber Corporation (Auburn) shows this local firm is now engaged approximately 95% in war work. The total volume of production has also increased much in the past few months, and to every indication will continue in sizeable volume for the duration.

The products now made by Auburn Rubber are well diversified both as to the number of different items and as to the war branches served. Production is done for the Quartermaster Corps, Ordnance, Air Corps, and the Navy, as well as subcontract work from other firms.

Mr. D. M. Sellew General Manager of Auburn Rubber Corp., states that many of the items currently made for war work are types readily saleable in peacetime and that when war hostilities cease there should be no period of plant conversion and no period of shut-down after the war.

The Auburn Rubber Corporation has operated in Auburn since 1910. The firm has been the largest producer of cement-applied shoe soles in the country and also the largest manufacturer of solid rubber toys. Rubber products known as mechanical molded goods have been made in volume during the past many years.

War production in the local plant is principally of the mechanically molded class although sizeable continuous production is made of shoe repair soles, principally for Army use.

Synthetic rubber is now replacing natural rubber in many products throughout the country. The Auburn corporation is processing sizeable quantities of synthetics. Synthetic rubber requires more hours to process on the mills than does natural rubber and this means large capacity can be obtained with less poundage being put through the plant. This indicates steady work in the local factory for years to come to help handle the country's synthetic rubber production.

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club met at the Spencerville school house, Monday evening, and with their ladies, enjoyed bounteous refreshments and celbrated Washington's birthday. George's hatchet served as placement cards and the national colors were in evidence on the candle lighted L-shaped table.

After a few well chosen remarks by Pres. F. B. Leighty the chairman of the rationing boards explained the registration and the issuing of the No. 2 books which is now in progress. The Lions have charge of the work at St. Joe and Spencerville. Lion Ralph Sechler is at the head of the St. Joe board and Lion Robinson heads the Spencerville board.

The program committee took over, Lion Ridgway presiding. The music portion failed on account of the death of Lion Wilbern's mother.

Lion Ralph Sechler, who doesn't look a bit like Lincoln, gave a paper on our Civil War president, whose birthday anniversary is also celebrated this month. Several of the stories for which Lincoln was famous, were given, much to the entertainment of those present.

Lion Clyde Hart was called upon and he staged a true or false contest between five Lions and five Lionesses. At the end of the questioning five Lions and four Lionesses remained standing.

Lion Wicoff gave the sidelights on Washington's activities as a surveyor, a soldier, a farmer, a statesman, and above all, a gentleman.

DEDICATION SERVICE

An impressive ceremony was held at the Coburn Corners Church when the American, Christian, and Service Flags were dedicated Sunday evening. The program was as follows:

Song, "Stand Up for Jesus," followed with prayer. The congregation remained standing while the American and Christian Flags were carried in by John Crothers and Merwin Place. Song, "America, The Beautiful." Responsive reading by all.

Beautiful Flag by the choir. Reading by Bernice Wilder. The Service Flag was presented by Elder J. N. Scholes. Candles were then lighted to represent each boy in service.

Those in service from here are: Jesse Hart, Henry Hart, James Maxwell, Paul Koch, George DeLong, Loren Laub, Charles Washler, Paul Crothers, George Hart, Walter Hart, Gaylord Rediger, Roy Laub, and William Chapman.

The song, "Army Air Corps" sung by Frankie Laub dedicated to his two brothers and brother-in-law who are in the Air Corps.

The "Church's One Foundation" was sung by the congregation. Sermon on "The Church and State" was given by the minister. The services closed by the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and benediction.

FISHING LICENSE LAW SAME AS IN 1942

No change has been made in the state law requiring all anglers eighteen years of age and over to have a fishing license to fish in Indiana waters, Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game, pointed out today. The only exception is the resident land-owner and tenant of farmland and members of their family living with them, and then only on the land which they own or on which they are a tenant.

The Junior play Friday night was attended by a good crowd. The cast was well chosen and they proved to be real entertainers. At times the scenes were so comical that the players paused to laugh with the audience.

A SALVAGE PROGRAM FOR 1943

"War industries and mills can find use for every type of waste materials which the homes and farms of Indiana can produce in 1943," the DeKalb County Salvage committee announced today. "Critically needed materials are steel, silk and nylon hosiery, kitchen fats, and tin. Because it is a valuable source of both tin and steel, the tin can is the most sought after piece of salvage in Indiana today and every kitchen in the state can be a producer of tin, steel and glycerine from waste fats."

TIN CANS—Every kitchen in Indiana has the chance of making a contribution to the winning of the war by saving and preparing tin cans. Cans must be rinsed,labels removed ends cut out and mashed firmly to be acceptable. Every household can goes directly to the official Detinning Plants to produce two essential war materials—tin and steel. Proper preparation by the housewife is most important. Indiana is one of sixeen states in which every houswife is asked to prepare tin cans. The goal is 2000 tons of tin cans a month.

KITCHEN FATS— Every Hoosier kitchen and housewife also has the opportunity of making an important war contribution by straining and saving waste kitchen greases. These will bring 4 cents per pound at the grocery and meat markets.

DISCARDED HOSIERY — Gun powder bags and other materials are made from discarded silk and nylon hosiery, which the housewife can deposite at the hosiery counters of the department stores or at St. Joe News office.

Mrs. Lora Leighty your local chairman askes that each housewife aid in this important program, so the county may meet the quotas expected of us.

Tin cans may be deposited at the following Groceries:

St. Joe—Bowser's and Geo. and Helen Wade's Groceries.

Spencerville—Bowser's and Baker's Groceries.

RENEW CENTERLINE ON STATE HIGHWAY

Centerline marking to designate proper traffic lanes on state highways, is being renewed on approximately 12 hundred miles of roads as a part of the State Highway Commission's maintenance and safety program.

Indiana was one of the first states to adopt centerline marking as a standard part of the maintenance program. This marking is regarded as one of the major contributions to increased motoring safety and has become a general practice in most states.

Special equipment is used in applying the four-inch stripe of bituminous material which separates traffic lanes, the work being done when temperatures are below 50 degrees and when the pavement is dry.

Fine stone chips are spread on the line to increase its visibility on bituminous surfaced roads where the black line used on concrete pavement would be difficult to see.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Meat rationing will not effect custom canning in any way, and is considered same as home canning. If you have thought of having home killed meat canned this Winter, the St. Joe Custom Canning Kitchen is ready to take care of your needs any week day but Saturday. 8t1.

Alton Chaney moved into the Lela Northrup property near the cemetery last Sunday. He is employed at the elevator.

Corral Platter and family will move from Coburntown neighborhood by March 1st, to their newly acquired farm of 180 acres located a mile south and 3 miles east of Roanoke. They with Mrs. Anna Baker were owners of the former Ross Abel farm of 95 acres located in Spencer and Newville townships.

Weekly Digest Federal Income Tax Questions!

EXPENSES OF FARMERS

A farmer who operates a farm for profit is entitled to deduct from gross income as necessary expenses all amounts expended (other than those constituting capital expenditures) in the carrying on of the buisness of farming. The cost of feeding and raising livestock may be treated as an expense deduction insofar as such costs represent actual outlay, but not including the value of farm produce grown upon the farm or the labor of the taxpayer. Also deductible is the cost of seed, minor repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling of the farmer,) and small tools used up in the course of a short period.

The cost of fuel and oil used for farm work, as well as repair and maintenance of farm machinery, is deductible as a business expense; but the cost of farm machinery, equipment, and farm buildings represents a capital investment and is not an allowable deduction. The cost, however, may be recovered by depreciation allowance. In the case of a farmer, the farm dwelling is not depreciable, except such part as may be used directly in farming operations. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile if used wholly in connection with the taxpayer's farm operations, as well as depreciation thereon, may be deducted, but if an automobile is used partly for business and partly for pleasure or the convenience of the taxpayer or his family, the cost of operation may be apportioned according to the extent of the use for purposes of business and for pleasure or convenience, and the portion attributable to business will be deductible as a necessary business expense.

The cost of hired laborers and hired machines on a farm and the part of the board which is purchased for hired laborers are deductible. The value of products furnished by the farm and used in the board of hired laborers is not a deductible expense. Rations purchased and furnished to laborers or sharecroppers are deductible as a part of the labor expense. Amounts paid to persons engaged in household work to the extent that their services are used in boarding and otherwise caring for farm laborers are deductible, but amounts paid for services of such employees engaged in caring for the farmer's own household are not a deductible expense.

Amounts expended in the development of farms, orchards, and ranches prior to the time when the productive state is reached may be regarded as investments of capital. The cost of planting trees, as well as the amounts expended by a farmer in the restoration of soil fertility preparatory to actual production of crops and the cost of liming soil to increase productiveness over a period of years are capital expenditures; but the cost of commercial fertilizers, the benefit of which is of short duration and which have to be used every year or so, even after a farm reaches the productive state, is deductible as an expense.

Amounts expended in purchasing work, breeding, or dairy animals are regarded as investments of capital and may be depreciated unless such animals are included in inventory.

To many our politicians, government is composed of two words—craft and graft.

The reason Mussolini gives out a statement every so often, is so that we will be reminded that he is still the dictator.

We can count definitely on a short crop of luxuries for this coming year.

"With present shortages," sighed Ray Reasoner, "it is to be expected we should cry over spilled milk."

Beavers work building conservation dams and don't get time and a half for overtime either.

A fellow who says he is twice as wealthy as he is, finds it hard being half as poor as he claims to be.

An open mind keeps a man usually out of trouble and an open mouth generally gets him into it.

A News reader says he wasn't surprised to learn that the Japanese have banned our music recordings, for even they might not like juke boxes any more than we do.

The fellow who formerly would give you his shirt, probably won't have a shirt when taxes get through with him.

A Spencerville man says he still expects to do some fishing this Summer even if taxes don't leave him enough money for live bait.

Just because a fellow has gone to war to get away from his wife doesn't guarantee that he won't run into her in a uniform.

All of those people who have said, "there ought to be a law," must have had their wishes gratified from the number of restraints.

Thomas Edison said that the horse must go! And that is one of the modes of transportation that is still going.

BLOOD AGAIN

We are not too busy to overlook humane appeals for certain attentions to our servicemen. Women have carried on faithfully their Red Cross activities, making cookies and sandwiches for service centers, collecting books for the boys and so on for many more thoughtful deeds. The sponsoring of letter writing is an important item, too. But one of the most necessary services is suffering in some sections for lack of attention. With increased activities on the fighting front there is an increased list of casualties, so arises an obligation we must meet if possible, to donate a pint of blood to help save lives of our soldiers and sailors. All you need to do, if in good health, is give up a half hour of your time and a pint of your blood, to save the life that is fighting to save your liberty.

GROWING OLD

It has been the habit to speak of America as a young country, as just getting its balance and growth, of its "coming of age." Perhaps we are still young in looking to the future, of believing that there is a reward for such faith. Here in St. Joe folks have stuck to such a belief down through the ages. But after engaging in this global warfare we will reach man's estate, line ourselves up with the sages and settle down to being seasoned and learned through aging. Since America was discovered in 1482 it makes us slightly younger than the other nations but we might remember that our government is older than the Italian Fascist state or the "Third Reich" of Germany. As far as government is concerned we hold a prize in ours, which is one of the oldest, continuous governments in the world. Who says young!

DON'T OVERWORK THEM

As we well know the scarcity of doctors and nurses is felt keenly all over, the demand for them is being so great by the armed forces. It has cut into the regular hospital life and home medical attention and put a heavy strain on those in the profession who are remaining to care for the home front. We have suggested that our home folks help by safeguarding its health thru extra precautions in order to save calling the doctor who is already too busy. We are told that a post-war world will need this service in the reconstruction period abroad. We are asked to forego the luxury service of private nurses when not necessary, hospital rests, calling a doctor when one is able to go to his office. Who has not expected the doctor to come to the home as promptly as called and called him for things we might easily and safely do for ourselves? We can take up loss of time by talking on the phone and putting in the call when those employed are least likely to be in his office for consultation. All of these items will be of service and will help to prevent placing too much of a load on those physicians who remain in our community.

BLACK MARKET RACKET

Who would not hail any steps successful in curbing the black market in meats that thrives in this country! What was small business at first has spread and grown into a flourishing practice. This black market in meat hits the consumer by the high price, closes up slaughter houses and so far law hasn't curtailed it. The situation is serious and a menace to public health since there is illegal slaughtering under unsanitary conditions with meat being distributed and sold that is uninspected and contaminated. This market in meats is just one of many such rackets going on in the food business, practiced by wholesaler and retailer in many places. When it comes to butter, milk, poultry, canned goods, the consumer can find some substitute and refuse to meet the black market price. But the buyer in many cases pays the high price in the meat racket. We ask why it isn't controlled and how it ever got started in the first place. Black markets grow during a shortage before formal rationing puts a stop to the practice. Rationing means a lack of customers, the black market dies. To curb it the public will soon be put on a point system and this we hope will give us all a share of meat at a considerate cost. The point rationing sounds involved to some News readers and not understandable at the present and there may be some difficulty in getting it to working successfully at first. But its faults will be dealt with and with it we hope to see the end of the black market racket in our country.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

A quota of about 793 tons per county in Indiana has been set for the farm scrap metal drive during the week, March 1 to 6. Officials of the State Salvage Committee want discarded farm machinery—steel and iron—rather than pots and pans. Farmers are urged to act immediately in cooperating with the drive before they become too busy with their vitally imporant food production schedule for 1943.

Any person who did not register for War Ration Book One before January 15, 1943 may obtain this book from his local War Price and Ration Board on and after February 22 provided he has filed the necessary application forms and that these have been examined and approved in accordance with instructions issued by the OPA. Ration Book One is now used for buying sugar, coffee and shoes; and during the week of February 22, it will also be needed to obtain War Ration Book Two.

Because a new-age group has developed since War Ration Book One was originally issued last May, OPA has changed from 15 years to 14 years the age restriction on the use of Book One for the purchase of coffee under rationing. As revised, the regulations now permit the use of "coffee stamps" by any person whose age is stated in the book as 14 years or older. The change became effective February 20.

The consumer declaration form, which has been printed by most Indiana newspapers, should be used by applicants registering for War Ration Book Two to show their excess stocks of processed foods and coffee. An extremely limited supply of the regular printed forms are available. Clip the form from your newspaper and fill it out before going to the registration site.

Acting to remove a serious threat to continuance of the essential supply of farm equipment and automotive repair services, the OPA has authorized upward adjustments of maximum charges which may be made for these services by small operators. The action, briefly, will enable farmers to readily obtain repair service for their equipment and at the same time offers inducements to "cross-road" or small town garages to continue in operation.

Household fat salvage, by which the War Production Board hopes to make up the deficit in glycerine production for explosives, is not intended to cut down the use of fats in cooking. The butcher is more familiar with the principles of the fat salvage campaign than most people and can explain them to his customers. The government wants only such fats as are left over after the housewife has used all she can. Consequently there is no point to a housewife's turning in fats for salvage if this necessitates her buying others, for that would only result in cutting down our national supply of this vital food source.

Rationing is one of our chief weapons in the battle against the effects of inflation. Fair disribution of what we have prey from bidding up the price by fighting each other for the limited supply and buying it all up at the expense of people with less money. Point rationing of canned fruits and vegetables and related foods begins March 1. Sales of these were for the rationing. This will give fortherationing. This will give grocers time to build up inventories, mark stocks and get familiar with the program.

The Office of War Information, Indianapolis, has availoble without charge 2 timely pamphlets: "Negroes and the War," and "Tale of a City," which describes the tragic plight of the city of Warsaw, Poland.

ON THE AIR

WOODPILE WOLF

By Fred Emery

Somewhere in these United States there must be a kindling old couple who wood like to know the whereabouts of their chip.

At any rate, their offshoot is desperately pining for them. He is the well-known radio star, Charlie Mc Carthy, whose heart was splintered when he discovered that he had been left on Edgar Bergen's doorstep (along with the firewood) years ago and is only a foundling.

Charlie McCarthy

On a recent program, Charlie asked Bergen for his birth certificate (the FBI demands it) in order that he might work in an aircraft plant. Bergen was forced to admit he had none. Now the hunt is on.

The little fellow is lumbering around town ringing door bells, advertising in agony columns and examining municipal records to prove that the sap runs blue in his veins.

Charlie, who was rejected by his draft board because he had a wooden leg, is extremely eager to work in a defense plant. It seems he is an expert on plywood.

Friends of McCarthy have asked that anyone with a clue to the McCarthy family tree, communicate such information to NBC. Charlie is reportedly beaten to a pulp. He threatens, if his search fails, to go out and get plastic.

YOUNG MOTHER DIES IN AUBURN HOSPITAL

A heart ailment proved fatal to Mrs. Kathaleen Cook, aged 28, at the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital in Auburn Friday night at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Cook had been in poor health for some time and became a patient at the hospital three weeks ago.

The deceased had been a resident of Auburn for a number of years until about a year ago when the family moved to the Shearer trailer camp on Road 427 between Auburn and Fort Wayne.

Kathaleen passed away and was laid to rest on the same day her great grandfather, Harmon Gee was fourty-four years ago.

Her early life and until her marriage was spent in St. Joe where she had a host of friends. On May 27, 1933 she was united in marriage to Walter M. Cook who survives.

The deceased was born at St. Joe on May 15, 1914, and was married to Walter M. Cook, who survives. Two children, one a son, 7, and a daughter, 3, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Gee of St. Joe, and three brothers, Walter of near Hicksville, Gerald at Madison, Ind., and Eugene at home, survive. Mrs. Cook was a member of the Christian Church.

The body was taken to the Gerig funeral home for preparation and was removed Saturday afternoon to the home of the parents at St. Joe.

Funeral services were held at the Christian Church at St. Joe on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Elder Nice, of Butler, offiiating, assisted by Erby Messimer of St. Joe. Burial was made in the K. of P. Cemetery at St. Joe.

Gerig of Auburn, had charge of the funeral.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to our relatives, neighbors and friends who in any way so kindly assisted during the illness and death of our loved one, Kathaleen Cook.—Walter Cook and Family, Foster Gee and Family.

Miss Mary Duffy spent the week end here the guest of Miss Helen Carey and Miss Elizabeth Smith, teachers in the local school.

CLASSIFICATION OF MEN

When the DeKalb County Selective Service Board held a meeting Saturday in its offices in Auburn, it began to examine questionnaires of married men without children.

Further work of this kind will be done at meetings to be held within the next week, as calls for men for military service beginning in April must be filled from this group. The number now in class 1-A is adequate to meet the March quota.

Of 38 registrants classified Saturday, only two are in 1-A as available for military service. Ten are in 2-A, deferred for civilian activity; 6 in 2-B, deferred for war work; 3 in 2-C, deferred for farm work; 10 in 3-B, deferred for dependents and as war workers; 2 in 4-F, found unavailable after examination; and 5 in 4-H, deferred because of the age limit of 38.

Men effected by the deferments in this locality are:

Harold Laux, Spencerville.
Herman L. Collins, St. Joe.
Dallas Zimmerman, Spencerville.
George Argerbright, St. Joe.
Willard D. Kees, Garrett.
LaVerne Pflaumer, Spencerville.

A correction in the address of: Pvt. D. O. Glen Wasson, Co. C., 147th Eng. Combat Regt., U. S. A., Camp Swift, Texas.

Glen Freeburn left Tuesday for Camp Perry, O., where he entered the armed forces.

Petty Officer James W. Hamilton and wife, Edna, returned to Kansas City, Sunday, after having spent a fifteen day furlough in the homes of Pluma Hamilton and Mrs. Margaret Wisler. James is located at Naval Air Base at Olatha, Kansas, near Kansas City. Their time here was planned to be present on his mother's birthday, who was presented with several gifts from her children and grandchildren, among them a beautiful orchid.

Pvt. Stanley H. Lake, A. E. S. 23 A. B. G. 2, U. S. N. A. S., San, Diego, Cal, writes as follows:

Dear Folks:

Well here is a feather you can put in your cap, your son is an expert with his rifle, will receive an expert medal. Red made marksman, getting 270 points. We sure had a nice day to shoot. Shot 12 rounds slow fire, divided up into three positions, sitting, kneeling and standing. That was on the 200 yard line, also from the 200 yard line we shot 16 rounds kneeling rapid fire which means 16 shots in 60 seconds. The rifle only holds 8 shots at a clip and in that 60 seconds you have to load up and get into position again. Don't ever say the Marines aren't fast. Then from the 300 yard line we shot 16 rounds prone in 65 seconds. Then from the 500 yard line we shot 8 rounds slow fire. Sure have a wonderful rifle, I pity the Japs that get in front of my sights.

Feb. 3.

Dear Folks:

Well, finally found a little time to write a few lines. Sure have been busy since coming back from the range. Yesterday we received some more clothes, I have three pairs of khaki trouses and two more shirts, some socks and underclothes. Received my medal Saturday. It's a silver laurel wreath with two rifles inside fastened with a silver bar saying expert rifleman. How is everybody, O. K. I hope. I don't have much time to write. Tell all the folks hello for me. How is Spencerville coming along with their basket ball team? Our platoon breaks up Saturday, don't know where we are going to but will be glad to be on the move.

Feb. 9

Dear Folks:

Well how is the weather there by now? It was pretty cold here yesterday for San Diego, rained most of the day, but it's very nice today. We saw a stage show this afternoon, called "The Camel Caravan. It wasn't so bad. We moved last Saturday, to about five miles from the main base. It's called "Camp Kid." Very pretty out here. I'm in aviation now but don't know what part yet. Don't think I'll get any pilot training yet, may get to be a clerk, because of my typing. Went to get my mail after the show and had to stand in line and before I could get to the window it closed. Made me pretty mad. Well, think I will go to the post exchange and see if I can get a couple of valentines. I'll try and write again tomorrow and tell you what I received.

Love, Stan.

Symbolic of the role the Red Cross is again playing, the 1943 Red Cross War fund poster depicts the organization as a mother ministering to the needs of the men of the United States armed forces and the victims of war throughout the world. The poster is an appeal to all men and women for contributions to the War Fund. Lawrence Wilbur, noted illustrator, designed the poster. Helen Mueller is the model.

NUTRITION CLASSES IN DEKALB COUNTY

"Nutrition classes to be conducted by the County Civilian Defense Nutrition Committee will solve the housewife's problems in the face of our national food program." This statement was made by Mrs. Eva Hamilton, of Waterloo, county chairman of the nutrition committee, in announcing the formation of new classes starting next week to meet the increasing need for nutrition education.

Stating that nutrition courses are constantly adapted to the changing food picture, Mrs. Hamilton said that women who take advantage of this instruction will know how to plan meals from foods that are still in abundance. Thus they will know how to use to better advantage the point system of food rationing which went into effect Monday of this week.

"We are teaching women accustomed to a wide choice of commodities to adjust food habits, and to provide their families with three square meals a day while learning to do without some things they like."

Courses include the planning of menus and cooking demonstrations, the preparation of unrationed cuts of meat with which many people are unfamiliar. Greater use of cereals, of which there is an abundant supply, is also discussed.

Urging the cooperation of the community in joining in a well planned nutrition program for the duration of the war, Mrs. Hamilton said: "Food is a weapon in all wars. We must learn how to use this weapon, because we can't afford to waste it."

To join a nutrition class, call Mrs. Doris Yeiser, 17-J, who is local chairman, for complete information. The class will start here Thursday, March 11, and will be in session in the Home Economics class room at the school house. Miss Helen Carey will be the instructor. The classes will start at 7:30. As a housewife, you owe it to your family to take advantage of this course of instruction. It's free to all ladies.

ASSESSORS GET INSTRUCTIONS FOR CANVASS

Trustee, D. B. Ridgway, says we are all set to go, and he was on his tour of the township in assessing the property. Monday supplies were issued by County Assessor, Miser.

The work of listing personal property will be completed in May. Real estate may be reassessed if the owners file applications, which are to be acted upon by the state tax board following hearing. There will be no general reappraisement of real estate.

Mr. Miser is asking the public to co-operate with the local assessors more fully this year because of war conditions. Due to gasoline rationing, it is hoped that property owners will be ready to wait upon the assessors on their first calls. If the head of the houshold is apt to be away, he may leave his list and estimates of true cash values with his wife or other person who would be available.

Another point to remember is that it is necessary to state the year in which the family car was made.

CULTURE CLUB

The annual "Guest Night" of the Culture Club was held last Wednesday night at Akins Tea Room when they entertained their husbands.

The decorations were of patriotic colors, "red, white and blue."

Preceding the three course dinner, Mr. Erby Messimen expressed thanks. Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, president of the club, then gave the welcome, after which she turned the meeting over to the toast mistress, Mrs. Lorraine Messimer, who presided during the remainder of the evening. Mr. Willard Hurni then gave the response.

After the first course, Mrs. Hamilton introduced her guest Petty James Hamilton and wife. James made a few remarks which were enjoyed.

Immediately following the second course Mrs. Sam Armstrong conducted a contest, in which the men gave the recipe for the various kinds of food named on the paper she gave each. James Hamilton was given the prize for the most unusual recipe.

Mrs. Helen Schondelmayer led the group in a few songs after which Mr. Forrest Gerig, of Auburn, climaxed the program of the evening by showing pictures of Lake James, Alaska, and Africa.

Members of the club and their guests present were: Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, Petty James Hamilton and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Zuber, Mr. and Mrs. Reign Schondelmayer, Mr. and Mrs. Erby Messimer, Mrs. Edna Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenkins, Mrs. Troas Carpenter, and Mr. Forrest Gerig, of Auburn

STRAY DOGS TO BE PLACED IN POUND

News that will be welcomed by most St. Joe residents, resulted from the meeting of the Town Board on Monday night, when they announced that all dogs found running at large will be taken into custody after Monday, March 8, and if in the custody of the Marshal, the animal can be redeemed by paying a fee of $1.00 plus 50c per day for the care of the animal while in his charge. Dogs will be kept for seven days, and if not called for at that time same will be disposed of.

Persons having dogs and they really care for them, better take this warning seriously.

1994 RATION BOOKS AT ST. JOE-SPENCERVILLE

A complete audit of the county has not been made by the county board, but local figures reveal that Spencerville board issued 804 of the No. 2 Ration Books in the four evenings and St. Joe, 1190.

Other towns were reported as follows: Auburn, 7510; Garrett, 5610; Butler, 3533; Waterloo, 2072; Corunna, 1203, and Ashley, 1077.

It is estimated that there are approximately 2,500 persons in DeKalb County who are eligible to have books No. 2 who did not make application during the past week. The board says it is to be regretted that all did not apply during the time alloted as all individuals will find it desirable to have this book.

No further issue of book No. 2 will be made until after March 15. Announcement will be made through the papers before that date as to when and where applications may be made.

The blue stamps in book No. 2 are for use in the purchase of fruits and vegetables, processed foods, and the red stamps will be for use in the purchase of meat products, the rationing of which is expected at an early date.

RURAL CUSTOMERS

The Walter Baker huckster truck will start out next week on its regular weekly schedule to serve the farm families in its usual custom. Be on the look out for "the store at your door."

War Stamp Sales Over Half Billion Dollars, Album Drive Opens

U. S. Treasury photo

Appealing Margaret C. Russell of the War Savings Staff tacks up this new Treasury poster which will be seen from coast to coast. It pictures retailers' slogan, "SAY YES." A drive is underway for Americans to buy additional War Stamps to fill albums and convert them into War Bonds.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's retailers from the tiniest hamlets to the mighty cities are acting as a spearhead in a great Treasury Department campaign to sell the additional War Savings Stamps needed to fill more than 100,000,000 albums now in the hands of the American people.

According to a report released by the Treasury Department today, sales of War Savings Stamps totaled $559,777,000 for the period from May 1, 1941, through November, 1942.

Stamp sales have risen from less than three million dollars per month when they were first introduced to the public to an average of more than fifty million dollars per month at the present time.

The Treasury's slogan, "A half-filled album is like a half-equipped soldier," has been adopted officially by retailers for the campaign.

The importance of the drive is seen in the fact that a War Bond potential of nearly two billion dollars hangs in the balance.

Every War Stamp album, converted into a People's Bond, for which the purchaser pays $18.75 and which matures to $25.00 value when held for 10 years, adds its force to the war effort.

The Treasury Department is counting upon the country's school children to play a powerful role in the success of the SAY YES drive. The volume of stamp and bond sales is at the rate of $200,000,000 for the current school year.

TRANSFUSION—Thousands of American soldiers wounded in battle on the world's fighting fronts today are alive because they received transfusions of Red Cross blood plasma. Made possible through the donations of thousands of patriotic men and women, the Red Cross blood plasma project ranks as the world's largest medical undertaking.

A News reader asks if anyone has heard whether Hitler is still planning to stick to the same man he had picked out to rule Britain?

They say a fool and his money are soon parted, which proves us all mighty foolish and continuing to be so for some time.

A News Farmer Friend says no truer words were said than Tolstoy's, "When you begin giving to the people, they stop producing."

LENT

Lent is a period observed by Christians in preparation for the great church festival of the year, Easter. It is when those conscientious ones devote time to special prayer and fasting and as a season of self-denial. Lent has been so observed since the early church was founded and universally dates from the ninth century. Tho in various churches it is not observed in the same way, perhaps this year Lent will give to all humanity refreshment from doubt and sorrow which is about us. For six weeks preceding Easter, which is the accepted period of Lent, we might come closer in understanding and thought in St. Joe.

IDES OF MARCH

When the Ides of March reach us, days lengthen and for three months we will have more of light and less darkness. Days and nights come of equal length which is welcome after long evenings. The Ides started back at the time of Caesar and pertain to his assassination. It was the first month on the old Roman calendar which to us stands more for life than death. March promises warmth from nature with breezes a bit balmy perhaps, birds singing and early blooms pushing through. All about is activity and the barren ground becomes full of beauty as nature opens her palm to show what she has been holding in store for us for these months.

NFLATION

It is rumored that inflation has been stalking us and is liable to break into a dog-trot any minute. Legislation must keep prices in hand or we'll land on our heads. Court inflation with higher salaries to compete with higher prices and the consumer is caught. Where the war's higher salaries have not affected the income, that will snow under this class. People will be paying taxes this year who never have done so before since their new income level warrants taxation. Up goes prices, up goes wages and up we all go—in smoke. Congress can 'let her go' and the consumer will rue the day when common sense, forced to the wall, is over-come by forces greater than all the organized consumers. We should know better since we have seen inflation before.

STILL WE HESITATE

Reverses to our army is enough to remind us that all is not a matter of steadily gaining ground, routing the enemy daily though we have been apt to become too victorious with Russian pushes, the success of the British Eighth Army netting results and of seeing Japs lose territory gains. Germany is still fighting hard in North Africa and we don't want another Pearl Harbor to make us remember it! Too many smugly say "we'll win in the end" and let the war carry on as it will. Though we have speeded up production with the 48-hour week we still think of more wages for more work, bringing up overtime pay, still labor halts or slows down production, citizens still graft in food, folks still hoard. Still go the calls for blood donors, Red Cross production workers, nurses aides. Still they plead to buy War Bonds, still they forget to take care of the farmer's situation of labor and material shortage while they stress need of more food for consumption. Maybe we can overlook most of this by saying that as individuals none of us in St. Joe can help a great deal, our hands are tied since we are such 'little people.' But it is the 'little people' like us who make up the majority in the United States since we are of the largest party, the great middle class. On us rests the responsibility of much of the country's worries and if we help cure the headache we will be among those to receive the reward.

GETTING READY

There may be frost on the sill but inside they may be making garden! In fact, some mighty fine gardening has already been under way in many St. Joe and Spencerville living rooms. The actual labor of spading, hoeing, planting, hasn't started perhaps, but the anticipation of breaking the ground is under way. This is the initial work of studying seed catalogs, ordering, lining up what goes where, how much and how often, how to treat the soil for this and that. Maybe you've painted the handles of the tools, cleaned the land when it looked dried out, burned leaves and branches, made a compost pile for mulching, uncovered certain early blooms. There are those who have bought dusting insecticides for use pretty soon. The housewife dreamily eyes The housewife dreamily eyes prospcts since this year she must work extra hard in that department. There is discussion of ground fertilizers, gathering stakes for certain vegetables though some folks feel that the pole plants take up too much space, but by planting a few at a time and replacing plant when vine is gone, you can keep the ground working all of the season. There will be months of hard work ahead but those who garden derive satisfaction from it, more than they can tell you. Look at the shelves of canned supplies raised by them and you can understand the pride and contentment as compensation for the labor.

RED CROSS DRIVE STARTS

The annual membership campaign of the American Red Cross opened Monday with the object of raising a much larger sum of money than usual to carry on its important work that is immeasurably increased during wartime.

The campaign in St. Joe is in charge of Willard Hurni, and Mrs. Dr. Shook has charge in Spencerville.

The Red Cross fulfils its mission of saving lives in countless ways. Its organization is always ready to send help to areas where disaster strikes, such as floods and tornadoes. It also carries on the blood donor program which makes precious blood plasma available for fighting men when they are wounded. Its staff directs the training of civilian defense volunteers so that they may be able to meet emergencies. It aids the army and navy in recruiting graduate nurses for duty with the armed forces and it enrolls and trains nurses' aides and home nursing students to assure efficient nursing service on the home front.

In spite of much volunteer work, all these projects cost money, and the money has to come from the public. Knowing the necessity of the work which the Red Cross does, all will contribute whatever is within their means. The Red Cross should have no trouble meeting its quota, for Americans recognize the tremendous need of the nation and its people for the good that is rendered by this organization.

HOOSIER HOME FRONT

INTERESTING HOME FRONT NEWS IN INDIANA

Large quantities of bootleg meat—meat that is not inspected or graded—is being purchased by Indiana consumers at prices higher than OPA ceilings. In seeking to curtail these bootleg operations, the OPA has already closed thirty slaughter houses in the Indianapolis OPA area and is making a county-by-county investigation in cooperation with the State Board of Health. As more and more of these illicit slaughtre houses are closed the supply of meat is bound to become scarcer. Consumers must brace themselves for this fact. But in the long run they will be much better off. The way consumers can help now is to drastically cut down on their consumption of meat.

The Spring scrap drive among Hoosier farmers is underway this week. Some few counties in the state will hold their drives later in the month. Indiana must produce nearly 100,000 tons of scrap metal this Spring from farms alone. This means about 1,000 pounds per farm. The fact that there may now be a pile or two of scrap in your county should not influence this drive. These piles of scrap are "ear marked" by the Government and will be moved as soon as possible. In times of plenty we should provide for a "rainy day."

A limited group of "play" shoes and certain other types not ordinarily worn on the street which are already in the hands of shoe stores and wholesalers or in the process of manufacture have been released from ration control. The OPA has also revised its definition of "infants shoes" to place in the non-rationed classification all baby shoes up to the size of No. 4, whether made with hard or soft soles. Originally, only soft-soled infant shoes were "ration-free." Sizes above No. 4 now will be subject to rationing whether the soles are soft or hard.

Indiana OPA officials were high in their praise of the state's newspapers in helping to get the new point-rationing system under way smoothly and speedily. The OPA stated: "The newspapers have saved the Government a tremendous sum of money which would have been expended in printing a sufficient supply of registration form for every registrant in addition to the distribution of costs." Virtually all Indiana newspapers printed a copy of the consumer declaration form—the form on which applicants listed their excess supplies of rationed food.

On the farm production front the Department of Agriculture, in a roll call to be held from March 1 to 20, will call on all rural women to pledge every family to produce as much of the home food supply as possible. A good part of our 30 million farm people, especially in "one-crop" areas, either raise only a small part of their own garden supply, or do not raise a sufficient variety of fresh vegetables to meet a well balanced diet.

Every year forest fires destroy valuable timber covering millions of acres, and now we need that lumber more than ever for war construction, ships, planes and other military uses. In preparing land for Spring plowing and in clearing up debris in the Spring, the greatest care must be taken to prevent the start of a fire, for a small one may become a great and destructive forest fire.

We'll have to watch and guard the life of all the auto tires we now have. While recapping for the time being is not restricted, the synthetic rubber production program is going at a slower pace because of more urgent war construction. That means that tires will be replaced by those made of reclaimed rubber, which have a shorter life on the road.

The United States is digging into its reserve stocks of glycerine, and that means waste kitchen fats and greases will have to make up the difference. Millions of pounds of household fats are needed for war glycerine manufacture.

DeKalb County made another splendid record in the purchase of "E" war bonds during the month of February. While the quota was $66,305 DeKalb County residents purchased a total of $116,606.75, exceeding the quota by 76 per cent.

A total net weight of 6,960 pounds of prepared tin cans were delivered to Fort Wayne, Wednesday, Feb. 24, from DeKalb County. The cans were reported in fine shape, and the housewives deserve credit or their efforts. In Dec. 1,754 pounds of waste fats were shipped from DeKalb County, and in January 1,802 pounds. Discarded hosiery, 280 pounds or 11,200 hose.

Funeral services were held at the Phelph funeral home in Butler Sunday afternoon for George W. Greist, age 79, a former trustee of Wilmington township. He passed away Friday at the state hospital at Richmond, Ind. There are no immediate surviving relatives. Rev. W. D. Nice, pastor of the Butler Church of Christ, of which he was a member, officiated at the funeral and burial was made at Hicksville, Ohio.

A free clinic will be held by the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association in the City Hall, Auburn, on Wednesday, March 10 from 10:00 to 12:00 and from 1:30 to 4:00. A doctor from Irene Byron Sanatorium will be in charge and the clinic is free to the public.

Shrubs, except flowering quince, early forsythia and other early flowering shrubs, may be pruned in March. These other flowering shrubs bloom on last year's growth so should not be pruned until after flowering. If they have broken or diseased branches they may be removed now, of course. When fruit trees fail to leaf or seem injured at leafing time, give them a moderate pruning. Be sure it isn't a heavy pruning. Otherwise the trees might die.

Eligible claimants living in DeKalb County received $642 in unemployment compensation during January, compared with $583 in December, and $8,132 in January, 1942, Dwight K. Sadgebury, Fort Wayne area claims manager of the Indiana Employment Security Division, says. Payments for the month of January, 1943, were distributed within the county as follows: $132 to Auburn; $261 to Butler; $143 to Garrett; $106 to Waterloo residents.

A number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hadley Sunday evening, to bid them farewell before they move to their new home, which will be Thursday (today) providing the weather permits. The Hadley family has made many friends in this community who will miss them very much, and who wish them all kinds of success at their new location 7 miles north of Fort Wayne on the Deibold Road. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Royce Gibford, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Draggoo, Arthur Johnson, Mrs. George Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. JUST WHISTLE

Yeas ago some folks said: "Whistling girls and crowing hens would always come to a bad end." Others said: "A whistling man is one's best bet, he's never shirked a duty yet." In late years the whistle seems to have disappeared. Occasionally one hears some one whistling; therefore it's not a lost art. Why has this gift of nature been discarded by so many? Why is the cheapest musical instrument known being ignored?

Just pucker up your lips and blow. That's the whistle. It doesn't cost a cent. No instrument need be bought, no teacher need be paid. It's nature's gift to every one. If its value is to be determined, then, when everything seems to be going against you, whistle. When pain and suffering assails you, whistle. When you're fed up on what you hear, see and learn, whistle. When living costs go sky high, whistle. When landlords greed keeps pase with a racing steed, whistle. When you're tired and feel all in, whistle. When you buy, when you pay, whistle. Whistle all your cares away.

One's whistle is a wonderful possession. It can portray happiness, eliminate human ills, lessen pain and entertain. During these days when the rumblings of discontent are so plainly heard, when we know the other fellow is wrong, when things are too complicated to understand let's whistle the destructive thoughts away; let's whistle constructive thoughts into being. Everybody whistle. Whistle old songs, new songs. Whistle sounds that are not songs. Diversified activities precede victory.

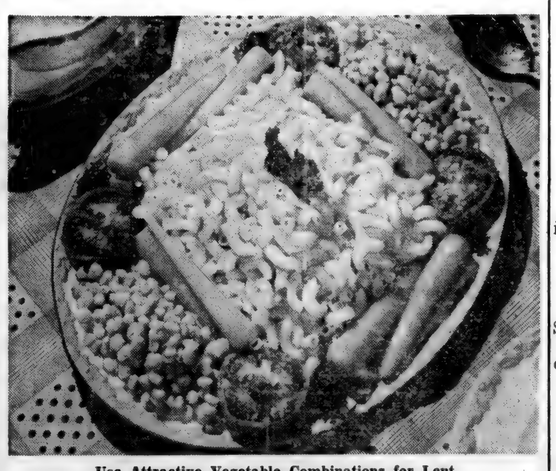
Lenten Menus in Wartime



Use Attractive Vegetable Combinations for Lent

Your ingenuity meets a real test with the arrival of Lent, especially during wartime, for your meal's mainstay—meat—takes a vacation. But no smart homemaker will despair, for it's amazing what can be done with a bag of rice, a package of macaroni, and a few good vegetable combinations. Add to that list some kinds of fish and cheese, and Lenten tables really take on fine proportions.

It's important to keep yourself nutrition-minded during this season, as you don't want to cheat your family of any important proteins. You see, they build the body, and repair it as needed. One protein food a day is essential and that means cheese or fish worked into the menu.

Those platters should be kept attractive, too! Nothing sells a meal like its good appearance. Work out clever geometrical designs with several different types of vegetables and see how much easier it is to sell them to the family.

Select vegetables with a view to color, texture and flavor, and have a pattern in mind when making up a platter with them. Try some of the following combinations:

Buttered elbow macaroni with whole baby carrots, whole kernel corn, broiled tomato slices with cheese sauce.

Buttered spaghetti with buttered lima beans, baby beets, tomato sauce.

Buttered egg noodles with asparagus tips, parsleyed carrots with cheese or tomato sauce.

NOTICE to Meat, Poultry and Dairy Farms:

IF YOU NEED ELECTRIC SERVICE
SEE YOUR COUNTY WAR BOARD

Government Requirements for Electric extensions to the above types of farms have been eased

TO PRODUCE FOR VICTORY

THE War Production Board has recently announced a more liberal policy with respect to the extension of electric lines to certain farms that produce meat, poultry and dairy products.

If a farmer has a sufficient number of farm animals and can obtain certain specified electrical equipment, the use of which will result in a substantial increase in farm production or saving in farm labor, he may apply for an electric line extension to operate the equipment.

We understand that the decision as to whether or not the farming operation qualifies rests with the County War Board of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Should the County War Board determine that the farmer has the equipment and the necessary number of animals to qualify, it will provide the farmer with a certificate to be presented by him to the electric company when he applies for service. Upon receipt of this certificate, the electric company must determine if the extension conforms to certain other governmental requirements as to the length of the electric line, availability, and weight of materials before it may proceed with the construction in accordance with its rural extension plan.

Farmers who produce meat, poultry or dairy products and who desire information concerning government requirements as to electric line extensions so as to enable them to operate electric farm production equipment are urged to ask their local County War Board for this information.
